Salome's Stars

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) You still might have to deal with some lingering confusion that marked a recent workplace situation. But for the most part, you should now be well on your way to your next project.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) A new commitment might demand more time than you'd expected to have to give it. But rely on that special Bovine gift for patience, and stick with it. You'll be glad you did.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) You're earning the admiration of a lot of people who like the way you handle yourself when your views are on the line. Even one or two of your detractors are being won over.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) Taking your responsibilities seriously is what you do. But ease up on the pressure gauge and make time for much needed R & R. Start by making this weekend a "just for fun" time zone.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) Some recently uncovered information might make a change of plans inevitable. If so, deal with it as quickly as possible, and then find out what went wrong and why. What you learn might surprise you.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) Aspects favor moving carefully and deliberately when making any significant changes. Could be there are more facts you need to know, which you might overlook if you rush things.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) A problem neighbor might be looking to goad you into an action you don't want to take. Ask someone you both respect if he or she would act as an impartial arbitrator for both of you.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) A recent workplace accomplishment hasn't been overlooked by those who watch these things. Meanwhile, start making travel plans for that much-too-long-deferred trip with someone special.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) Those money matters continue to move in your favor. Now would be a good time to start putting some money back into the house, both for esthetic as well as economic reasons.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) A changing workplace environment can create job pressures. But, once again, follow the example of your birth sign and take things a step at a time, like the sure-footed Goat you are.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) Cheer up. You could soon have the funds you need for your worthy project. Your generous gifts of time and effort are well known, and someone might decide it's time to join with you.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) Your inner scam-catcher is right on target, and you're absolutely right to reject that "too-good-to-be-true" offer. Meanwhile, something positive should be making its way to you.

BORN THIS WEEK: You are generous, and also sympathetic to people who find they need the help of others.

HERE IS A PLEASANT LITTLE GAME that will give you a message every day. It's a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner and check one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Lions Club Run/Walk For Sight Saturday At Pageant

The eighth annual Quincy Lions Club Run/Walk for Sight will be held Saturday at Pageant Field.

Registration will begin at 9 a.m. with the children's 1K Run/Walk starting at 10:30 a.m. The 5K Run/Walk will begin at 11 a.m. Registration fee is $5 for children and $20 for adults ($17 for pre-registration).

Participants may pre-register on-line at www.quincylions.com or call 617-328-1384 to request a registration form.

All proceeds from the Run/Walk will be used to fund eye research and support the Quincy Lions Club's community service activities.

The Lions Club Eyemobile will be on hand to provide free vision, hearing and blood pressure screenings to attendees.

Following the race, a barbecue buffet luncheon will be provided courtesy of Outback Steakhouse, while free massages will be provided by Brown Chiropractic Centers, PC.

The event will also feature a disc jockey, medals for race winners, T-shirts for all registrants and prize raffles. Prizes include two tickets to an upcoming Red Sox game and a getaway for two at the Boston Quincy Marriott.

In addition, the Quincy Lions Club will raffle off a trip for two to Ireland, including round-trip airfare, six nights' accommodations, full breakfast each morning and a rental car with unlimited mileage.

City, State Agree On QSD Land

enjoyed for years," said Phelan.

Thus far, about 40 property owners have been affected by the sewer work along Quincy Shore Drive.

"I'm thrilled that both parties have come to this agreement," said Ward 6 Councillor Alicia Gardner. "The residents have been very patient in waiting for a solution - they have been inconvenienced for quite a long time."

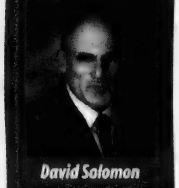
Those property owners who wish to maintain the land will be responsible for grass cutting, snow removal, shrubbery pruning and other maintenance, according to the agreement. Minor structures such as decorative stone walls and fences can be reconstructed.

Plantings, fences and other improvements will be limited to four feet in height, however. Virginia's Early Learning Center on Quincy Shore Drive will be able to erect a six-foot fence around the premises for safety reasons, according to the agreement.

The mayor's office this week is expected to send a letter and accompanying permit application to affected property owners. Applications will be submitted to the city's Park and Forestry Department and DCR for review. Owners should receive a response within 21 days of submission, according to the mayor's office.

The application asks residents to provide a brief description and sketch of the work to be performed on the land. DCR reserves the right to disallow work on a parcel of land.

For example, the city or state will not grant a permit to a property owner whose work may interfere with or impact the structural integrity or function of a sewer line or any other utility in the area.



Permits may be revoked, with or without cause, at any time by the city or state, according to the agreement.

Phelan praised Sen. Michael Morrissey, Rep. Bruce Ayers, Gardner and Ward 5 Councillor Doug Gutro for working on behalf of constituents. Phelan also thanked DCR officials for their part in arriving at a solution.

"This agreement will allow residents who live along Quincy Shore Drive to ensure that these slivers of state land that lie between their property and the sidewalk can be maintained as if it were their own," said Gutro. "Because of the width and shape of the state land in front of each home, there frankly was little public benefit to the property, and allowing each property owner to maintain it in a consistent manner with their own property is probably in the best interest of the area for appearance and consistency."

Originally, DCR stated that the land in front of the properties would be maintained by the state agency and that any encroachments would be permanently displaced.

But DCR reversed itself last summer after discussing the matter with city and state elected officials. Both sides have been trying to come to an agreement ever since.

A President Visits The 'City Of Presidents'

FORMER PRESIDENT BILL Clinton met briefly with Mayor William Phelan (center) and Ward 3 Councillor Kevin Coughlin during his visit to Quincy last week. Coughlin presented Clinton with a City of Presidents tie and tie tack.

Quincy Sun Photos/Robert Bosworth

FORMER PRESIDENT BILL Clinton made his first visit to Quincy last week to support a North Quincy-based, non-profit organization, Cradles To Crayons. After his visit to Quincy, Clinton attended a fundraiser in Boston to help raise more than $1 million for the organization, which caters to low-income families in Massachusetts.

Clinton Has Tie(s) To Quincy

By WILLIAM TRAYNOR

If you happen to see former President Bill Clinton sporting a City of Presidents tie, you can thank Ward 3 Councillor Kevin Coughlin for the wardrobe upgrade.

Coughlin presented Clinton with the tie and a City of Quincy lapel pin during the former president's first-ever visit to the city last week. Clinton was in the area to lend his support to Cradles to Crayons, a North-Quincy based, non-profit organization that caters to low-income families in Massachusetts.

Coughlin, who sits on the organization's fundraising committee, presented Clinton with a City of Presidents tie along with a Quincy lapel pin. Clinton briefly met with Coughlin and Mayor William Phelan during his visit to the organization's warehouse on Myrtle St.

Related Story, Other Photos Page 19

The Ward 3 Councillor said he wanted to give the former president something unique from Quincy. Earlier in the day, he bought the tie at Abigail's Crossing on Hancock St., and picked up a lapel pin at the city council office.

"He (Clinton) told me that he collects ties and lapel pins from all over the world," said Coughlin. "And he was going to add these to his collection."

Coughlin said he was surprised to hear that the former president has a strong affinity for one of Quincy's most prolific figures, a former president himself, John Adams.

While governor of Arkansas, Clinton discovered important state documents that had not been preserved for posterity, said Coughlin. Among those documents was a land deed signed by John Adams.

Clinton preserved and framed the document and it has been with him ever since, said Coughlin.

"He (Clinton) told me that for the eight years he was president, the land deed document with Adams' signature hung in the oval office," said Coughlin, whose son, Matthew, volunteers at Cradles to Crayons. "He said he has a particular affection for John Adams and John Quincy Adams."

The same document now adorns a wall in Clinton's personal office in Harlem, New York, according to Coughlin.

"That's a pretty neat connection to Quincy," he said.

Phelan Signs Measure

Council Has Final Say Over Mooring Fees

Mayor William Phelan has signed into law a measure which gives the city council final say over mooring fees.

City Clerk Joseph Shea said Phelan signed the measure this week, effectively giving the council more control over the implementation of a mooring fee.

Currently, Quincy does not charge boaters a fee to moor their vessels in city waters.

A few weeks ago, the council voted 8-0 in favor of giving itself the ability to approve such a fee.

Ward 2 Councillor Dan Raymondi introduced the measure after Harbormaster Andrew Ayer proposed mooring fees to pay for a mooring program.

Ayer introduced the fees in response to a ruling by the Inspector General's office, which said the city is not properly controlling moorings within its waters.

Ayer said the costs associated with a mooring program will approach $100,000 annually. A vast majority of boaters who moor their vessels in Quincy do not live in the city, he said.

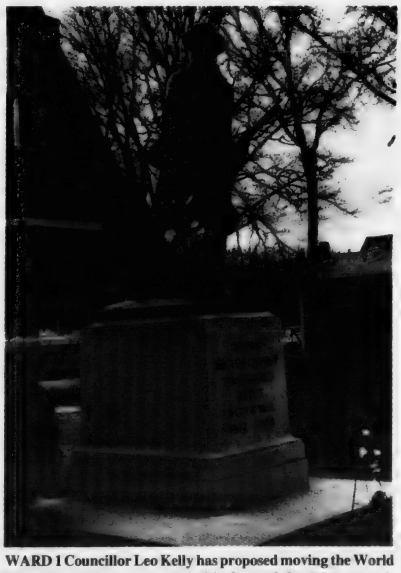
City Council Backs $3.2M Open Space Purchases

By WILLIAM TRAYNOR

The city council Monday night unanimously approved the Phelan administration's proposal to purchase $3.2 million in property and save it as open space.

On a 9-0 vote, the council signed off on a $2.2 million agreement that allows the city to buy an 11-acre lot of land that is essentially what's left of property known as Lot 23 in Marina Bay. The council also approved a $1 million purchase of the former Bayswater Boatyard in Houghs Neck.



It is the largest open space acquisition in the city's history.

Phelan praised the city council vote and said both parcels will be "great additions to our open space inventory."

Funds from both land deals come from a $10 million financing package paid

223 Senior Housing Units

Squantum Gardens Construction May Start This Summer

By WILLIAM TRAYNOR

Construction of 223 affordable, senior housing units at the former Naval Air Base in Squantum could begin as early as this summer, according to developers, who cleared an important regulatory hurdle last week.

Squantum Gardens developers last week received unanimous approval from the city's zoning board of appeals to build two, four-story apartment buildings on East Squantum St. The only remaining barrier facing developers is an extension of an existing permit granted in 2003 by the conservation commission.

The commission is expected to meet this week and review plans for the long-delayed project. If approved by the commission, developers would have to wait for the appeal process to expire before moving ahead. From there, developers would need the necessary building permits to begin the $30 million project.

Approval was virtually in hand two years ago but the plan never moved ahead because of financial questions surrounding the project.

Two weeks ago, however, the non-profit Elder Housing Corp. Inc. signed a $2.8 million land deal to buy out the federal government's stake in the property, which had been the project's biggest roadblock. Elder Housing received the property in 2001, but the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) reserved the right to take back the property if the non-profit did not follow through with its plan.

HUD placed several restrictions on the deed to the property, which caused major problems for financing the Squantum Gardens project. But those roadblocks have been virtually removed, according to those associated with the project.

"We are poised and ready to go," said Helen Murphy, executive director of Elder Housing Corp. Inc. "There is a tremendous need for affordable, senior housing in Quincy."

This summer, officials hope to begin an 18-month construction period on the one-and two-bedroom apartments. Those interested in applying for an apartment will have to wait until the summer of 2006, said Murphy.

If all goes according to plan, construction is expected to be completed by early 2007, she said.

Rents will be based on the gross income of individuals and couples as set forth under HUD guidelines.

Income levels for qualifying applicants would be capped at approximately $34,740 for individuals and $39,720 for couples, according to developers.

Utilities are expected to be included in the rent, said Murphy.

Ward 6 Councillor Alicia Gardner said many senior citizens seeking elder housing have expressed great interest in the project.

"It will be great to see this project move forward," said Gardner. "The existing structure has been quite an eyesore in the community. There is very little elder housing in this part of the city so seniors are eager to apply."

Gardner also said she would like further clarification regarding income guidelines and rents charged.

"I want to make sure this remains affordable housing for the seniors in Quincy," she said.

The federal government has been looking to get rid of the property since 1997, when the South Weymouth Naval Air Station closed. Navy personnel from the station lived at Squantum Gardens for many years.

State Throws Cold Water On Options 1 And 2

Phelan Wants In-Depth Review Of QHS Ruling

By WILLIAM TRAYNOR

Mayor William Phelan said Tuesday, "It's going to take some time" before his administration and architects thoroughly review a newly-released ruling by the state School Building Authority (SBA) which appears to close the door on two possible options for a new Quincy High School.

On Tuesday, Phelan said his administration will review the letter and analyze its implications for Quincy moving forward.

"The letter itself has to be given quite a bit of thought," he said. "It's going to take some time."

The city's architectural firm should review the SBA ruling to ensure "all pitfalls are clearly identified," he said.

Phelan also said he wants to review how other school building projects are being dealt with by SBA.

And Phelan said the city needs time to analyze the letter "and do some research regarding the law."

Phelan has said in the past that he would not pursue legal action against the state.

But he admitted that the administration has been at odds with SBA over the high school project, saying at one point, "We've been struggling with them."

In the end, however, a decision on the city's next step has to be made by "the community as a whole, and not by one particular individual, the mayor in this case." He urged all elected officials to "stand up and be counted" when all options are put on the table.

At Monday night's city council meeting, City Solicitor Monica Conyngham said her office is reviewing the "very long and quite detailed" letter issued to Phelan from Katherine Craven, SBA executive director. The letter, released last week, throws cold water on two possible options for a new high school, and directs the city to build the school along Southern Artery, from Coddington St. to Russell Park.

Ward 2 Councillor Dan Raymondi pressed the Phelan administration for a response to the letter, but Conyngham said: "We need to analyze this closely from several different perspectives."

Raymondi's questions came only hours after the mayor shut off public discussion about Craven's letter at

State Approves MacRitchie As QHA Executive Director

Long-time city hall lawyer Joseph "Jay" MacRitchie has taken over the reins at the troubled Quincy Housing Authority (QHA) after state regulators signed off on the appointment last week.

MacRitchie began his tenure as QHA's executive director on Monday, about two months after QHA's board of commissioners, on a split 3-2 vote, appointed him to head the agency. MacRitchie's appointment required the approval of the state Department of Housing and Community Development.

JAY MacRITCHIE

The state's approval ends speculation of whether it would withhold funding for MacRitchie's six-figure contract. Regulators had previously warned about his hiring and threatened to withhold funding if QHA appointed a new executive director without any housing experience.

A city hall lawyer since the 1980s, MacRitchie was strongly favored for the position by Mayor William Phelan and other local elected officials.

QHA has been plagued with financial problems as well as high vacancy rates.

The authority's battle with the city's retirement board over pension payments is being fought in court.

Emergency Preparedness Drill Saturday

Mayor William Phelan advises residents that the City of Quincy will participate in Operation Atlas, an emergency preparedness drill, on Saturday, that will involve a commercial airliner being trailed by two F-15 fighter jets.

Phelan urged residents not to be alarmed if they notice the planes overhead on Saturday.

The drill is being performed by the City of Boston, the Federal Aviation Administration and MassPort. Quincy and surrounding communities will be participating in supporting roles.

Wreath Laying Ceremony To Mark VE Day Saturday

In observance of the ending of World War II in Europe 60 years ago, the Quincy Veterans' Council will conduct a wreath laying ceremony this Saturday at 10 a.m. at Mount Wollaston Cemetery at the corner of Sea St. and Southern Artery.

The ceremony will take place at the Veterans' section of the World War II Memorial.

Coffee and donuts will be served at the George F. Bryan Post #613 VFW, 24 Broad St., immediately following the ceremony.

In the case of inclement weather, the ceremony will be held in the VFW Hall on Broad St.

THE HISTORY CHANNEL

• On May 6, 1937, the airship Hindenburg, the largest dirigible ever built and the pride of Nazi Germany, bursts into flames upon touching its mooring mast in Lakehurst, N.J., killing 36 passengers and crewmembers.

• On May 3, 1947, Japan's postwar constitution goes into effect. The progressive constitution granted universal suffrage, stripped Emperor Hirohito of all but symbolic power, stipulated a bill of rights, abolished peerage and outlawed Japan's right to make war. The document was largely the work of Supreme Allied Commander Douglas MacArthur and his occupation staff,

• On May 4, 1959, the winners of the first Grammy Awards are announced. Henry Mancini won the Best Album award for "The Music From Peter Gunn"; Perry Como was voted Best Male Vocalist, and Ella Fitzgerald Best Female Vocalist. "Volare," by Domenico Modugno, won Best Record.

• On May 7, 1966, "Monday, Monday," by the Mommas and the Papas, hits the top of the charts. It was the first No. 1 hit by a musical quartet featuring fully balanced co-ed vocals.

• On May 8, 1984, the Soviet Union announces a boycott of the 1984 Summer Olympic Games in Los Angeles. Although the Soviets cited security concerns, the boycott was more likely the result of strained Cold War relations due to America's generous aid to Muslim rebels fighting in Afghanistan — and payback for the U.S. boycott of the 1980 Olympics in Moscow.

• On May 5, 1990, Jesse Tafero is executed in Florida after his electric chair malfunctions three times, causing flames to leap from his head. Tafero's death sparked a new debate on humane methods of execution, and several states ceased use of the electric chair and adopted lethal injection as their means of capital punishment.

Could This Be Another 1940?

Could this be another election year like 1940?

That was the year there weren't enough candidates for any office to hold a preliminary election.

And, also the year that Thomas Burgin became the first mayor in the city's history to run unopposed for re-election.

BURGIN

This year's political front has been pretty quiet so far. No challengers have stepped to the plate yet to take on incumbents.

And two open seats — one councillor at-large and one school committee — haven't generated the candidacy interest that was expected. So far, anyway.

But that could soon change as nomination papers became available at the City Election Department Monday.

First customers were Mayor William Phelan whose papers for a third term campaign were picked up by an aide and School Committee Vice Chairman Michael McFarland, running for the open city councillor at-large seat.

PHELAN

McFARLAND

Candidates can obtain the papers anytime between now and the July 25 filing deadline.

The open councillor at-large seat is the one that Frank McCauley is leaving as he closes out a 32-year political career.

And, at the moment McFarland is the only contender for the seat, staking out his claim with an official announcement several months ago after McCauley said he would not seek another term.

The feeling is that McFarland, by jumping in early, has discouraged other potential candidates including one or two ward councillors from getting in.

Ordinarily an open at-large seat is a tempting opportunity to "move up." Which in turn would open a ward seat or two.

But it is doubtful any of the six ward councillors will make a move toward the McCauley seat.

Three — Kevin Coughlin, Doug Gutro and Alicia Gardner — have already announced they will seek re-election.

And Leo Kelly, Jay Davis and Dan Raymondi don't appear interested in changing seats. Raymondi, still considered a potential mayoral candidate, already has city-wide recognition so running at-large is not crucial for him.

Two names that have been mentioned as potential council at-large candidates won't be on the ballot this year.

Theresa Lord-Piatelli and Steve Harold have both decided to sit out this election.

PIATELLI

HAROLD

Lord-Piatelli, who lost a bid for school committee in her first run two years ago, had been mulling a return to the political scene.

But she feels she just hasn't enough time to wage an effective campaign for either councillor at-large or the school committee.

"Too much on my plate," she says, referring to her career as a practicing attorney and as chairman of the Quincy College Board of Governors.

Harold says he won't be running because he feels he should have a longer residency before running for a Quincy office.

Harold, a cousin of the later Paul Harold, lost a bid last year for Norfolk County commissioner against veteran incumbent John Gillis.

A resident of Milton for 22 years, Harold has lived in Quincy only two years and feels he should "deepen" his Quincy roots before running for a Quincy office.

But he will be politically active. He plans to support and campaign for Mayor Phelan's re-election. And he's hosting a fundraiser reception for Boston Mayor Tom Menino at his Unquity Rd. home Thursday, May 12, at 6 p.m. He is a member of Menino's finance committee.

So far there hasn't been much interest in the school committee seat McFarland is leaving to run for councillor at-large. No official candidate at this writing.

Normally, two open seats — one for councillor at-large and one for school committee — would have livened things up by now.

An indicator that this could be another 1940?

That year marked the first time a preliminary election wasn't held when one was supposed to have been.

Back then there was a city election each year with mayor, councillor at-large and school committee on even years and ward councillor and school committee on odd years.

There were no preliminary elections for the first three decades Quincy was a city. They didn't come into being until a referendum vote in 1926.

There have been partial preliminary elections for one or two offices down through the years since.

But never since 1940, a complete preliminary election washout.

Incidentally, in addition to Burgin getting the first mayoral free ride that year there was another interesting tidbit.

DELLA CHIESA

A candidate by the name of Amelio Della Chiesa, running for city councillor at-large, finished fifth and next to last in a six field final election race.

Who would have thought back hen that he would come back to be one of the most powerful and popular political figures, serving 12 years as mayor — eight under Plan A and four under Plan E.

Will Election Year 2005 be anything like 1940?

Letter Carriers To Collect Food Donations May 14

The National Association of Letter Carriers will sponsor their annual food drive to help stock local food pantries and the Great Boston Food Bank Saturday, May 14.

Residents of Quincy are urged to leave nonperishable food by their mail boxes on that day to be collected by the letter carriers as they make their rounds.

As in the past two years, the city of Quincy is again providing a building for the local food pantries and shelters to use to sort and package the donated food.

Volunteers are needed to sort and box the food from 1 to 7 p.m. at the Quincy Park and Recreation Department building, One Merrymount Parkway.

Drivers are also needed to pick up and transport food from the Quincy Center, Wollaston and North Quincy Post Offices to the recreation department for sorting.

The Letter Carriers and the United Way have partnered in the nationwide effort since 1994. Last year they collected 70.9 million pounds of food across the country.

"If fundamental human needs such as food, clothing, shelter and safety are not being met, individuals and families have no chance of reaching their full potential," said Milton J. Little Jr., president and CEO of United Way.

"United Way supports the local letter carriers in this effort to help families not only to get by, but to get ahead."

The drive is also sponsored by the U. S. Postal Service, AFL-CIO, America's Second Harvest, Campbell Soup Company, Valpack and the Great Boston Food Bank.

Scenes From Yesterday

THIS IS A 1920 POSTCARD showing East Squantum Street in North Quincy. The view is from the corner of Newbury Avenue looking northeast. On the immediate right is a right-of-way to what is now the city owned ball field behind the Atlantic Middle School. At the time of this picture it was private property. The second house from the right was the parsonage of the Sacred Heart Church that was then located a short distance away on the corner of Hunt and Hancock Street. In the distance on the right side of the street the X marks the location of what was Patrick Connelly's variety store on the corner of Clark Street. The building is no longer extant. The first two houses on the right and the one visible on the left are also gone. Each has been replaced with an apartment building. To contact Tom Galvin, e-mail tmgalvin@verizon.net.

Children Set More Fires Than All Arsonists Combined

Although it screams from front page headlines, and fills the nightly news broadcasts, the arson problem in our country doesn't seem to register with most people as a cause for concern.

Yet, more than half a million fires are deliberately set in America each year; and arson is the second leading cause of residential fire deaths in the country, killing more than 500 people and causing more than $900 million in property damage.

Who are the criminals responsible for this smoldering trial of destruction?

The answer might surprise Quincy sun readers. In more than half of all arson cases, the hands that strike the match or flick the lighter are usually too small for handcuffs. Children set more fires than all other types of arsonists combined.

For the last decade, the FBI has been reporting that the crime of arson has the highest rate of juvenile involvement of all other crimes, and that 55 percent of all arson arrests in the United States are for children under the age of 18. The prevalence and persistence of this problem is the reason it is also the theme for this year's Arson Awareness Week, May 1-7.

While our state has not been spared its share of the destruction, we are unique in how we have marshaled our response. Through the efforts of two statewide organizations — The Coalition for Kids in Danger and the Massachusetts Chapter IAAI — our state stands at the vanguard of juvenile firesetter intervention.

Children who start fires in Massachusetts unleash a chain reaction of coordinated services linking public safety and social service professionals who form a human safety net around the child. The Massachusetts Model, cited in the most recent US Fire Administration report on arson, emphasizes searching for the stressors that so often stoke these fires.

To fully appreciate our state's innovative approach to a problem that few people know — and fewer understand — some background information is essential. Juvenile firesetting is a complex problem that is best understood as a continuum of issues, behaviors, risks and needs. Children as young as 3, and up to 17 years old, from every conceivable type of family, with an unlimited potential array of co-morbid diagnoses, risk factors and motivations, can engage in this behavior. The behavior can range from match play to outright conflagrations, and can impinge on the jurisdiction of police, fire, juvenile justice, school, housing, social services and mental health officials and agencies.

Of all the lessons the Coalition and IAAI have learned from their work with nearly 2,000 Bay State kids in the last few years, the most compelling is that this is a preventable crime. Consider this one fact: 90 percent of the time the kids don't have to look any further than their coffee table to turn an impulse into ashes. We — parents, relatives, and in particular adults who smoke — are just making this too easy for our kids. Our complacency is giving kids access to matches and license to burn.

This is where an event like Arson Awareness Week can be pivotal. The goal of the national effort is to encourage people to educate themselves about juvenile arson so they can play a role in prevention. For most families, this starts with controlling access to ignition devices like matches and lighters. The Coalition and the IAAI have joined forces to provide information as well as a life line for everyone in the commonwealth who cares about the safety of our children.

As a fire official who coordinates a Coalition site in Quincy, I urge people to visit these two websites: www.kidsandfire.net and www.maiaai.com. They will find the latest information on this problem and an array of resources that can help them understand and combat it. If they suspect that their child or a child they know has a problem with fire they can search for the nearest program on the Coalition's website.

One small effort from each caring adult can make the difference between the safe resolution of a problem or a tragic headline on the front page of The Quincy Sun. I urge all your readers to make that difference today.

Gossard School Supt. At $6,500

This Week
61 Years Ago

Dr. A. Paul Gossard, 47, a native of Ohio and superintendent of schools in Bloomington, Ill., was the choice of the school committee to succeed Supt. James N. Muir who is retiring.

Salary for the position was $6,500, plus $600 in expenses.

"I came to Quincy about six weeks ago," said Dr. Gossard, "and I was delighted to find that the community was not too citified. I was afraid it might be one of those suburbs too closely built."

Dr. Gossard was a surprise nominee for the job since the favored candidates were Charles R. Thibabeau, superintendent in Weymouth, and James S. Collins, headmaster of North Quincy High School.

MEDAL FOR OJALA

Sgt. Russell E. Ojala of 198 Center St., South Quincy, was awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross (DFC) for heroism as a waist gunner on a B-17 over occupied France on Oct. 21, 1942.

With a companion gunner incapacitated, Ojala moved from side to side in the plane manning the guns that repelled a German fighter attack, shooting down one Focke Wolfe 190.

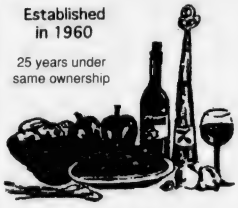
GARDENERS. Jo Costello (left) and Leah Smith divide perennial daffodils as members of the Wollaston Garden Club endeavor to restore the colonial gardens at the Josiah Quincy House.

Wollaston Garden Club Starts Restoring Historic Gardens

The Wollaston Garden Club has joined forces with the Society for Preservation of New England Antiquities (SPNEA) to spruce up the gardens at the Josiah Quincy House, a National Historic Landmark in Wollaston.

Work began Saturday, April 30, with 15 members of the club toiling for four and a half hours clearing the existing "musical note" garden. Plant material from the garden will be used for civic beautification projects.

The Garden Club also will be involved in planting a new garden on the site, colonial era in style using late 19th century plant materials. Horticultural research on colonial gardens will begin in a few months.



GARDEN HELPERS. Sonja Paulo and her daughter, Ariana, pitch in the help as members of the Wollaston Garden Club put their talents to work sprucing up the historic Josiah Quincy House.

Club member Rebecca Dinsmore, who has done garden work at the Dorothy Quincy House, contacted SPNEA with a proposal to work on the gardens after noting that their condition had deteriorated.

Christopher Patzke, SPNEA's curator of landscapes , said he believes it is the first time that his group has worked with a local garden club on one of its properties.

Garden Club President Marina Kelly said she is thrilled with the opportunity for local gardeners to participate in restoring and reviving a long-neglected historic property.

BY MARIE D'OLIMPIO

Gnocchi For Two

Most people think when they hear of one of the most delicious pastas- gnocchi that they are so hard to make, but they are really quite simple.

Years ago, most of us used potatoes and had to boil them and then rice them, And sometimes the potatoes would contain more water and then we had to add more flour which made the gnocchi hard to chew. My brother Phil used to call them "sinkers."

But for the past many years, I use instant mashed potatoes and they are fool proof. Today's recipe is for two— when do I ever cook for just two? When none of those little darlings are around. I made them last night and the following recipe shows how easy they are to make.

Gnocchi For Two

1 cup instant potato flakes
1 cup flour
1/2 egg

Just these three ingredients, however, you may need a bit more flour if the dough is too sticky to handle, but just a little. First beat an egg and set aside.

I made the instant mashed by adding a cup of flakes to a cup of water. I did not add milk or butter.

When potatoes are done, and they are cooled, on a floured surface, add the flour and the egg and mix until blended. The dough should almost be perfect, but if it isn't just add a little flour until it can be handled without sticking to your fingers.

After the dough is the way you want it, cut in small slices, and roll, in your hand until it is about 1/2 inch thick strip. Cut in inch pieces and then with two fingers, place them in the center of each piece, so there is a small air hole in the center which makes the gnocchi tender when cooked. Place each one on a floured surface.

When the water is boiling, add salt and cook gnocchi. After they all rise to the top and ;the water comes to a boil once again, they are done.

I always serve them with a tomato sauce. However some restaurants serve them with a white sauce which are also delicious. But I am a tomato freak so I like them with that kind of sauce.

Three Quincy Police Officers Receive Law Day Honors For Fire Rescues

Three Quincy police officers, who rescued one man and tried valiantly to save another, were to be among those honored at Law Day ceremonies yesterday (Wednesday) at Quincy District Court.

Officers John McGowan, Paul Brown and Roger White were among 17 policemen from six Norfolk County communities scheduled to be honored with Robert P. Dana Distinguished Service Awards for Law Enforcement.

The annual Law Day address was to be delivered by Deval Patrick of Milton, former assistant attorney general with the U. S. Department of Justice.

The three Quincy officers were cited for their actions at a fire on Clive Street in North Quincy Dec. 15, 2004, that claimed one life.

McGowan, who was off-duty at the time, lives nearby and arrived at the fire as three men were being led out and learned that two more people, one possibly trapped, were thought to be upstairs.

McGowan entered the house, located one of them and led him to safety while Brown and White sought the third person but were forced to turn back due to heavy black smoke and intense heat.

All three officers entered to burning house without regard for their own safety.

Others receiving Dana Awards were:

Officers Raymond Blake and Donal Curtin of Braintree for their rescue of a man and a boy from their burning home Feb. 26 in spite of suffering smoke inhalation.

CENTER
QUINCY MEDICAL
The Boston Medical Center Alliance For Quality

Our nurses demonstrate their dedication, compassion, and professionalism every single day. So, during National Nurses Week, we want to show how much we appreciate them. We hope that you will join us in thanking the entire Quincy Medical Center (QMC) nursing staff.

Nurses play an essential role in every step of high quality patient care, and QMC nurses work hard every day to advance our clinical practice. In addition to being exceptional caregivers, they are highly trained in what they do, including specializing in many key fields. Our nurses' team efforts are evident every day in our high patient satisfaction scores and impressive marks from accrediting agencies, as well as in the calls and letters we receive regularly from grateful South Shore patients and families.

If you would like to show your appreciation for our nurses, you can send a supportive e-mail message to nurses@quincymc.org. Or you can contribute to the QMC Nurses' Appreciation Fund by calling our Development Office at 617-376-5495. Either way, you can be sure they will treasure your support.

You'll love their big hearts, but you'll treasure their immense talents.

A-Bomb Aide Crouthamel To Get Honorary ENC Degree

Dr. Carl Crouthamel, the Eastern Nazarene College graduate who is one of the last surviving scientists who were involved in development of the atom bomb 60 years ago, will receive an honorary doctor of science degree from his alma mater Saturday, May 14.

"What we're doing by honoring Dr. Crouthamel is recognizing his extraordinary achievements and contributions to 20th century science," said Richard Stephens, academic dean at ENC.

Shortly after his graduation from the college in Wollaston in 1942, Crouthamel went to work with the top secret Manhattan Project as an assistant to physicist Enrico Fermi in the construction of the atomic bomb that ended World War II.

"Fermi is one of the most important scientists of the 20th century and arguably the most important of many great geniuses who worked on the Manhattan Project," said Dr. Karl Giberson, a physics professor at ENC.

"The fact that Crouthamel got the position as his assistant speaks not only to his scientific abilities, but also is a testimony to the education he got at ENC."

Crouthamel, who Stephens says was aboard the B-29 Enola Gay when the bomb was dropped on Hiroshima Aug. 6, 1945, also donated $460,000 to the renovation of Shrader Hall, the science building at his alma mater.

Scholarship Evening May 24

Quincy Retired Teachers Spring Luncheon Meeting May 11

The Quincy Retired Teachers Association will hold its annual Spring Luncheon Meeting Wednesday, May 11, at the Neighborhood Club in Quincy.

A social hour at 11 a.m. will precede a short business meeting and luncheon at 12:45 p.m. Arthur Foster, president of QRTA, will preside at the business meeting.

The luncheon offers an opportunity to welcome recent retirees into membership and to celebrate QRTA's continuing commitment to the education of the young people of Quincy. A Quincy public schools' children's chorus will provide entertainment.

This year 51 QRTA scholarship recipients will be honored at a special Scholarship Evening from 7 to 9 p.m. Tuesday, May 24, at the Sawyer Center, Beechwood Knoll Elementary School. With the awards this year, the Quincy Retired Teachers Association will have given over $1 million to graduates of the two Quincy high schools.

FIRE SAFETY

by Captain Tom Lyons
Fire Prevention Bureau
Quincy Fire Department

Do Not Store Gasoline Or Propane In Your House

Twelve years ago when I was a lieutenant in fire suppression, I responded to a reported fire alarm investigation. It was approximately 12:30 a.m. There was no indication of a fire until we approached the building. There I observed fire pushing out of a third floor window.

The investigation quickly turned into an offensive attack and we soon had an attack line charged and in play. There, a firefighter and I knelt at the entrance to a lodging home bedroom, nozzle in hand, untenable conditions, with no visibility. The fire was extinguished quickly. We no sooner did so and the firefighter's warning bell sounded indicating that his air supply was low. I signaled for him to leave and he did.

It was just after he left when I heard a high shrilling whistle noise within that room. It indicated to me that something in the room was under pressure from the heat of the fire and was releasing that pressure. There was still no visibility as the smoke from the fire and steam from the heated hose line water filled the room. Thinking the worse, knowing that other firefighters would soon follow the hose line into the building, I had to make a quick decision as to whether the pressure release posed an additional hazard to me and the others who would soon surround me. I took appropriate action.

The pressure release as I later found out came from a partially filled tea kettle, placed upon a table top, which had become so hot from the fire within the room that the water boiled and the kettle whistled. I still smile when I think of it, while realizing that it could have turned out differently if the pressure release came from some substance considerably more hazardous than water.

The point of the story is this: When a firefighter enters a structure fire he never knows for certain what is being stored within that building or room. For instance, it is common sense to me not to store gasoline or a propane cylinder in the basement of a habitable building. It might not be common sense to another where some might do so for winter storage. Code restricts storage of these two highly flammable substances within a building used for habitation.

Gasoline is so volatile, released vapors can be ignited by a remote ignition source some distance away with explosive force. A propane cylinder, an inherently safe container with a high volume of flammable gas under pressure, has the potential to explode if impinged upon by fire. As a spill or pressure release within a confined space, they pose quite a potential hazard to a homeowner; as storage, they pose quite a hazard to responding firefighters.

I feel the need to educate homeowners to these potential hazards while being proactive, minimizing the hazard faced by firefighters as well. Experience with tragic fire, my dislike of it and the consequential importance of that ounce of prevention, drive me forward in the pursuit to eliminate its occurrence.

It is unlikely that there will be a fire in your home, particularly if you take an occasional few minutes to actively prevent it, but you never know. Meanwhile, please be mindful and avoid storing gasoline and propane within your own home and basement.

Three Age Categories For Contestants

Kilroy Essay Contest Deadline Set For Friday

There's still time to enter the "What 'Kilroy Was Here' Means to Me" Essay Contest.

The contest deadline has been extended one week; all essays must be either postmarked or emailed no later than Friday.

Co-sponsored by Discover Quincy, The Quincy Sun and the USS Salem, the essay contest has three age categories: children grades 4-7, grades 8-12 and an adult division. Prizes will be awarded in each age category, with first-place winners receiving a $100 U.S. Savings Bond and an overnight stay at the Quincy Marriott with dinner at Kilroy's Pub. Second-place winners in each age category will receive a $50 U.S. Savings Bond.

The essay contest is just the first in a series of events and promotions designed to raise awareness of "Kilroy Was Here' and Quincy's role in launching the popular World War II catch-phrase.

Other events and promotions include:

• A Kilroy photo contest: Special "Kilroy Was Here" flyers were distributed in a recent edition of The Quincy Sun. The hope is that residents will take the flyer with them when they travel for business or pleasure, and take a photo of the flyer in famous locations.

"Sixty years ago, 'Kilroy Was Here' traveled the globe," said Jennifer Logue, executive director of Discover Quincy. "We hope local residents will help us take Kilroy around the world in 2005."

Photos submitted to the contest will be included in an upcoming Kilroy exhibit at the USS Salem, posted online and published in The Quincy Sun. Prizes will also be awarded for Most Exotic Location, Most Remote Destination and more.

• Ship-Naming Campaign: The Kilroy committee is launching a campaign to ask the Secretary of the Navy to name a ship the USS Kilroy Was Here.

"The 60th anniversary of the end of World War II would be an appropriate time to recognize the tremendous morale boost 'Kilroy Was Here' provided to the Allied war effort," said Logue, who noted the USS Salem has printed pre-addressed postcards requesting the name that residents can mail to Navy Secretary Gordon England.

• Postage Stamp Campaign: Postcards have also been printed urging the U.S. Postmaster General to issue a "Kilroy Was Here" stamp as part of its World War II series.

• USS Salem Anniversary Celebration: Kilroy will be featured at a special May 15 celebration marking both the anniversary of the Salem's commissioning as well as the 10th anniversary of the ship's opening as a museum. In addition to exhibits of Kilroy memorabilia, there will be children's games, a Kilroy scavenger hunt and Kilroy merchandise for sale. Attendees at the event can also pick up copies of the Kilroy photo contest flyer as well as postcards for the ship-naming and postage-stamp campaign

Kilroy Contest Details

Discover Quincy, the USS Salem and The Quincy Sun want to know what "Kilroy Was Here" means to you. Simply write an essay addressing the theme: "What 'Kilroy Was Here' Means to Me" and mail it to:

"Kilroy Was Here" Essay Contest, c/o the USS Salem, 739 Washington St., Quincy, MA 02169. Or email your essay to: kilroy@uss-salem.org.

Be sure to include your name, age (or grade, if student), address and phone number on the cover page of your essay or in your email.

Who can enter: Contest has three age divisions: Students in grades 4-7, grades 8-12 and an adult division. You do not need to be a Quincy resident to participate.

Prizes: First and second prize will be awarded in each category.

First prize: $100 U.S. Savings Bond and an overnight stay at the Quincy Marriott with dinner at Kilroy's Pub.

Second prize: $50 U.S. Savings Bond.

Contest winners will be announced and prizes awarded at the USS Salem's anniversary celebration Sunday, May 15.

Contest Deadline: Entries must be postmarked and email entries must be received by Friday, May 6.

Veterans CARES Process To Be Explained May 13

The CARES process will be explained to veterans and they will have a opportunity to comment on it at an all-day meeting Friday, May 13, starting at 9 a.m. at the Veterans Administration (VA) Medical Center in Bedford.

CARES stands for Capital Asset Realignment to Enhance Services, a decision made by the Secretary of Veterans Affairs in May, 2004, aimed at enhancing health care to veterans.

The VA recently appointed a local advisory panel to assist in gathering information on the VA Boston Health Care System and the Bedford VA Medical Center as part of the next phase of the CARES process.

The public meeting of the panel May 13 will identify and evaluate options for the delivery and location of services for providing care to veterans now treated at VA hospitals in Jamaica Plain, West Roxbury, Brockton and Bedford.

The public is encouraged to: Boston Study, VA CARES Studies, P.O. Box 1427, Washington Grove, MD 20880-1427.

For more information on the CARES process, call Henry Bradley, Quincy Veterans Services, at 617-376-1192.

American Legion Funeral Accessories At Dennis Sweeney Funeral Home

Dennis Sweeney Funeral Home, 74 Elm St., through its exclusive partnership with Batesville Casket Company, announces that the American Legion emblem is now available to be used to personalize funeral accessories.

This is the first time that the emblem has been authorized for use, according to the funeral home.

Dennis M. Sweeney and Joseph M. Reardon, the firm's funeral directors, have been offering personalization options since Batesville first introduced the concept several years ago. These options, which are provided at no additional cost to the family, have included custom engraving, personalized casket lid panels, decorative casket corners and urn medallions.

"We are thrilled to offer the American Legion emblem," said Sweeney. "It will help make the funeral experience more personal and meaningful for many families and it will help support the wonderful work of the American Legion."

Batesville will make a donation to the American Legion each time a family chooses to use the organization's emblem to personalize funeral products. These funds will go directly toward American Legion programs serving the needs of veterans, military families and children.

"This partnership is a wonderful opportunity for the American Legion and its members," said John P. "Jake" Comer, past National Commander of the organization and staff manager at the funeral home. "I believe many families will take advantage of this opportunity to celebrate the lives of our deceased members and support our programs."

for by the city's hotel/motel tax. The city will also receive a $500,000 state grant to help pay for the Marina Bay land.

The two sales deplete funds set aside for open space purchases in the $10 million bond initiative.

The purchase ends a protracted battle over what was once a 66-acre marshland at Marina Bay.

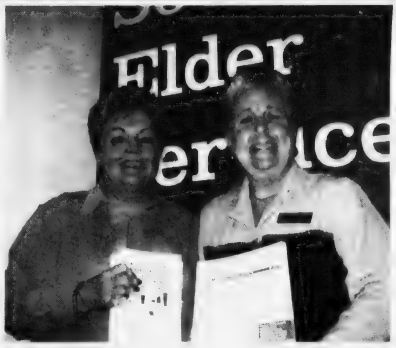
Quincy developer Peter O'Connell and his son, Thomas, claimed victory in a legal battle with the city in 1999 to build a 136-unit apartment building on a portion of the site, despite overwhelming public support to take the property.

The city's open space committee recommended earlier this year that Phelan move to purchase both parcels.

At Monday night's council meeting, councillors strongly supported Phelan's overture, and generally agreed that the city must continue its push to preserve open space and other parcels of land.

Ward 1 Councillor Leo Kelly, a member of the open space committee, led the charge to preserve the tracts of land.

"If you vote 'yes' it will be one of the best votes you will ever make for open space," he told his colleagues.



Ward 5 Councillor Doug Gutro praised the Phelan administration for its efforts in preserving open space, but said the city must do more to protect its existing resources.

"There are several ecologically valuable parcels that remain in the city," said Gutro. "The fight is still there, and we want to keep it on the front burner."

Dave Murphy, Phelan's director of operations, assured the council that the city is making a concerted effort to preserve as much green space as possible.

Ward 6 Councillor Alicia Gardner called the purchases a "huge coup for the city," and said the next challenge will be the restoration of the marshland.

In other news, the council signed off on a rezoning proposal that protects approximately 22 acres of land at the HighPoint development on Quarry St. Introduced by Ward 3 Councillor Kevin Coughlin, the initiative sets aside the land to be preserved as green space and blocks any future development on the lot.

COMMUNITY PARTNERSHIP – Lynda Chuckran (right), director of community relations, Welch Healthcare & Retirement Group and Diane Sargent, director of corporate relations, South Shore Elder Services (SSES), met recently to discuss how the two senior-focused organizations might collaborate in the future. They are holding the most recent publications from their respective organizations. South Shore Elder Services last year honored Welch Healthcare & Retirement Group President Richard Welch for his long-standing commitment to and support of SSES. Brandon Neves Completes Navy Basic Training

Navy Fireman Brandon M. Neves, son of Richard A. Neves of Quincy, recently completed U.S. Navy basic training at Recruit Training Command, Great Lakes, Ill.

During the eight-week program, Neves completed a variety of training which included classroom study and practical instruction on naval customs, first aid, firefighting, water safety and survival, and shipboard and aircraft safety. An emphasis was also placed on physical fitness.

The cap stone event of boot camp is "Battle Stations". This exercise gives recruits the skills and confidence they need to succeed in the fleet. "Battle Stations" is designed to galvanize the basic warrior attributes of sacrifice, dedication, teamwork and endurance in each recruit through the practical application of basic Navy skills and the core values of honor, courage and commitment.

Neves is a 2004 graduate of North Quincy High School.

Friendly Visitors Sought For Seniors

SPRING CAR CARE

Auto Checkup Eases Summer Driving Worries

A quick and easy automotive checkup can help prepare a vehicle for the stress of summer's high temperatures and increase reliability on long road trips, according to AAA Southern New England.

"The cold temperatures may be far behind us, but the summer heat can be just as hard on automobiles as the fiercest winter weather," said John Paul, AAA's Car Doctor. "A few minutes spent checking your car's vital components can help you enjoy a summer of trouble-free driving."

To help prevent dangerous and inconvenient tire failure, examine tires for uneven or excessive treat wear. Make sure all tires, including the spare, are inflated properly.

With the engine off, look for worn or cracked belts and damaged, blistered or soft hoses. Inspect antifreeze/coolant level and condition, making certain the proper 50/50 mixture of water and coolant is present.

Check motor oil level and condition. If driving under extreme conditions - such as very hot temperatures or towing a heavy trailer - switch to a motor oil with higher viscosity. Check the owner's manual for specific oil recommendations.

If you are not comfortable performing this inspection yourself, a qualified auto service facility, such as those recognized by AAA's Approved Auto Repair Program, can conduct a thorough examination.

Because even properly maintained vehicles can break down, AAA urges motorists to equip their vehicle with an emergency kit containing at least the following items: flashlight with extra batteries, warning devices such as flares or reflective triangles, jumper cables, and a first aid kit. A mobile phone provides an easy way to summon emergency assistance.

AAA Offers Safety Tips For Summer Breakdowns

Because even the best maintained vehicle can develop a mechanical problem, it's critical that motorists know how to handle breakdown situations safely, advises AAA Southern New England.

The first rule when your vehicle begins to malfunction is not to panic. Signal and pull completely off the road onto the shoulder. Avoid any sudden or panic maneuvers.

Once in the side of the road, turn on your emergency flashers. Use extreme caution when exiting the vehicle. If necessary, exit from the passenger side of the vehicle to avoid the risk of being struck by traffic.

As soon as possible, set up reflective triangles, flares, or other signal devices to alert passing motorists. Place warning devices at least 100 feet from the disabled vehicle.

If waiting for assistance and the temperature permits, return to your vehicle and lock all doors and roll up windows. If someone other than a uniformed police officer stops roll down the window only enough to ask them to telephone the police, AAA or a service station.

Since surroundings and hazards vary, use your best judgment in deciding whether to stay with your vehicle or go for help.

A mobile phone or citizens band (CB) radio is a good investment that can be used to summon help in the event of a breakdown or emergency.

Tips For Motorists To Save Money At The Pump

(NU) - Forecasters say the price of gasoline likely will set records throughout this busy driving season, which certainly will shrink many a bank accounts. Is there anything a motorist can do?

According to the professionals at the nonprofit National Institute for Automotive Service Excellence (ASE), changing a few driving habits and paying attention to routine vehicle maintenance will help. They offer the following tips on how to squeeze the most out of each gallon of gas.

• Break your speeding habit. Speeding can decrease your miles per gallon by 15 percent or more. Sudden acceleration also can guzzle gas. Anticipate traffic patterns ahead and adjust your speed gradually. When feasible, use cruise control.

• Use windows and air conditioning wisely. Your mileage should improve if you keep the windows closed at highway speeds since air drag is reduced. This is true even with the air conditioning on – assuming that the system is in good working order, that is. But try to avoid using your air conditioner in heavy, stop-and-go traffic.

• Get organized. Combine your daily trips and errands and try to travel during off-peak times to avoid congested roads. Shut off your vehicle while waiting for friends and family as well.

• Clean out clutter. Removing unnecessary items from your car will cut down on weight and less weight means better gas mileage. After family vacations, make sure you remove any items that you don't need for your regular day-to-day travel, such as a rooftop cargo carrier.

• Check your tires. Underinflated tires or poorly aligned wheels waste fuel by forcing the engine to work harder. Wheels that are out of alignment, as evidenced by uneven tread wear, should be aligned by a professional.

• Follow the service schedules listed in your owner's manual. Replace filters and fluids as recommended. Take your vehicle to a repair facility to correct any engine performance problem, like rough idling and poor acceleration. Given today's high-tech engines, it's wise to have this type of work done by auto technicians who are certified by ASE to handle engine performance problems.

• Keep your engine operating efficiently. A failed oxygen sensor or misfiring spark plug can reduce gas mileage. Moreover, a well-maintained engine can prevent minor problems from becoming expensive headaches.

ASE was founded in 1972 to improve the quality of automotive service and repair through the voluntary testing and certification of automotive technicians. ASE-certified technicians wear blue-and-white ASE shoulder insignia and carry credentials listing their exact areas of certification. Their employers often display the ASE sign.

New Autos - More Safety

(NAPS) – Auto manufacturers are making more advanced safety technologies available to consumers than ever, the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration's 2005 "Buying A Safer Car" brochure shows.

For example, 75 percent of 2005 models are available with head protection side air bags, up nearly 50 percent from 2004.

More than 70 percent of 2005 models are available with chest side air bags, up 11 percent from 2004 and up a whopping 145 percent from 2003.

More than 50 percent of new models are available with Electronic Stability Control, up 11 percent from 2004 and up a stunning 629 percent over 2003.

More than 75 percent of 2005 models have innovative seat belt reminder systems as standard equipment. Implementation of this technology began with the 2004 model year.

CELL BLOCK

If you are a young driver and want to drive like one, put down the cell phone. According to new research, talking on a cell phone makes people 18-25 drive as if they were in their seventies. That is to say their reaction times are similar to those of elderly drivers. This, of course, is no knock on older drivers, who usually have the wisdom that accrues with age. As for younger drivers on cell phones, they may not realize that they are compromising their safety by talking while driving. The fact is, according to the study, motorists who talk on cell phones are more impaired than drunken drivers with blood alcohol levels exceeding 0.08.

Please pay attention to the road and avoid distractions such as cell phones when driving. Need maintenance or repairs? LEO & WALT'S SUNOCO at 258 Quincy Ave., E. Braintree (781-843-1550) is your local auto center that can handle all your automotive needs. Annual 'Cleaner, Greener' Cleanup Set For Saturday

The 16th annual Cleaner, Greener Quincy citywide cleanup day will take place Saturday from 9 a.m. to noon with volunteers teaming to spruce up the city's beaches, marshes, parks and open spaces.

Mayor William Phelan noted the impact this one-day event makes on the city's overall appearance.

"Each year, 'Cleaner, Greener' serves as the ceremonial kick-off to the city's overall beautification effort and the strong participation of residents generates a momentum that encourages everyone to continue to pitch in and our appearance is more desirable as a result."

Residents are encouraged to join a cleanup site in their neighborhood and there is still time to designate additional sites. To designate a site, contact the Park Department at 617-376-1251. The Park Department will also support the cleanup effort by providing the necessary tools including rakes, brooms, gloves and other equipment. In addition the Department of Public Works and BFI will be on hand to haul refuse and other debris collected throughout the day.

"The overwhelming support of residents truly augments our departmental efforts aimed at beautifying our parks and school grounds," said Thomas P. Koch, executive director of the Park, Forestry and Cemetery Departments. "Each year, it's so refreshing to see so many young people take part in the cleanup to care for the parks and fields they use everyday. This event offers a lesson in stewardship that can last them a lifetime."

Aviva Life Insurance, based in North Quincy, is the corporate partner for the event and presented the city with a check for $5,000. Their logo will appear on the T-shirts distributed to all volunteers. In addition, they have assembled a cleanup team of more than 50 members to participate in the cleanup activities.

"All of us at Aviva Life Insurance are honored to participate again this year as corporate sponsor for the 'Cleaner, Greener Quincy' campaign," said Aviva President Hans L. Carstensen III. "Giving back to the community in which we live and work is a special way to support the important work being done by the City of Quincy. We hope a lot of residents will take the opportunity to come out on a beautiful spring day and clean up the community, giving us the opportunity to meet more of our neighbors."

Following the cleanup, Phelan will host an appreciation cookout for all volunteers at the Richard J. Koch Park & Recreation Complex, One Merrymount Parkway, from 12:30 to 2:30 p.m. Hannaford Supermarket (formerly Victory Market) will sponsor the cookout, donating all the food, paper goods and beverages for the barbecue. In addition, employees from the North Quincy location will participate in the morning cleanup activities.

"The residential, municipal and corporate support of this event generates a great sense of community spirit and reminds us of what a special place Quincy is," Phelan said. "I extend my thanks to Aviva and Hannaford and look forward to seeing old friends, meeting new ones and sprucing up our city on Saturday."

For more information on Cleaner, Greener or to organize a site, call the Park Department at 617-376-1251.

Proposes Moving Doughboy To Merrymount Park

Highlight Hancock Statue At Adams Academy, Says Kelly

Ward 1 Councillor Leo Kelly believes the John Hancock bust statue should be featured more prominently in front of the Adams Academy, 8 Adams St.

To that end, Kelly has asked Mayor William Phelan to consider moving the World War I Doughboy statue from the front of the Adams Academy to highlight the Hancock bust. Kelly said the Doughboy statue could be moved to accompany the various war memorials in Merrymount Park.

"I just think John Hancock does not get the recognition he is due," said Kelly. "He was a great hero of the Revolutionary War, and I'm trying to bring attention to him so people make note of this great patriot who helped give us our freedom."

Kelly said it is important for the Hancock bust to be prominently featured at Adams Academy because it is the site of Hancock's birthplace.

Ed Fitzgerald, curator of the Adams Academy, expressed support for Kelly's overture.

"I think it is a good idea to make the Hancock statue more prominent and noticeable," said Fitzgerald. "In terms of what is the most effective location, I think we need to think about it more carefully. It's just a matter of how we work out the details."

THE JOHN Hancock bust statue as it appears on the front lawn of the Adams Academy, 8 Adams St. Ward 1 Councillor Leo Kelly believes the statue should be featured more prominently at the site. Quincy Sun Photo/Robert Bosworth

Fitzgerald said it is likely the Quincy Historical Commission and Massachusetts Historical Commission would want to review any plan to move the statues because the Adams Academy is designated as a National Landmark.

Ward 5 Councillor Doug Gutro, whose Ward the statue is located, called the move a "reasonable objective and a good idea," but said Kelly should consult with community groups before pressing ahead.

"There are a host of stakeholders who might have something to say about this, including veterans groups, the historical society, neighbors and others," said Gutro. "Stakeholder input should be first."

The World War I Doughboy statue was sculpted in 1924 by Quincy resident Bruce Wilder Saville.

For a period of time, the statue was located in front of the former Coddington School on Coddington St.

To Support Quincy-Based Cradles To Crayons

Clinton Visits City Of Presidents

By WILLIAM TRAYNOR

Former President Bill Clinton visited The City of Presidents last week to lend his support to a Quincy-based, non-profit organization that caters to low income families.

The former president made his first visit to Quincy to help raise funds for Cradles to Crayons, a North Quincy-based, non-profit organization that provides toys, clothing and other essentials for low-income households in Massachusetts.

Before the fundraiser, held at the Boston Convention and Exhibition Center, Clinton toured the organization's North Quincy office, which includes a large warehouse of kids' articles, such as books, strollers, car seats and blankets.

During the half-hour tour, Clinton watched volunteers sort and clean clothes and toys, assemble outfit and order packages and viewed the large warehouse of children's gifts and necessities.

Later, he mingled with volunteers and media, describing the non-profit as a national model of civic entrepreneurship.

"Poverty remains a serious issue that must be confronted at all levels," said Clinton. "Cradles to Crayons has made tremendous strides during its short existence to engage the community and help provide needy children in Massachusetts with basic necessities."

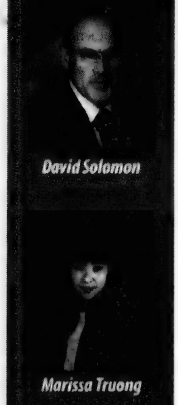
The former president met briefly with Mayor William Phelan and Ward 3 Councillor Kevin Coughlin, whose ward the organization is located. Coughlin presented Clinton with a City of Quincy necktie and lapel pin.

At the fundraising event, Clinton, Gov. Mitt Romney and more than 700 business executives and community leaders helped the three-year-old organization raise approximately $1 million. The funds will be used to expand efforts to provide gifts-in-kind to low-income households in Massachusetts, according to organizers.

The non-profit group relies on donations from corporations, civic and faith-based organizations, and a network of volunteers to assist with distribution and other services. Its warehouse accepts donations and works with hospitals, community health centers, homeless shelters, literacy programs and other service agencies to distribute these items to children throughout the state.

Cradles to Crayons was founded in the Spring of 2002 by Boston resident Lynn Margherio, a business strategy consultant and a former policy advisor to Clinton while he was president.

"No child should have to suffer through a New England winter without shoes or a coat," said Margherio. "No mother should be prevented from taking her newborn home from the hospital because she can't afford a proper car seat. No child should have to endure the embarrassment of starting school without a packpack or other basic supplies."



Clinton's wife, Hillary, visited Quincy in October of 1996 when she was First Lady. About 10,000 well-wishers packed the grounds outside the Thomas Crane Public Library to hear her speak during the 1996 presidential campaign.

MORE THAN 150 Cradles to Crayons volunteers, supporters and staff, including Shane Normile (left), 10, of Hull, and Samantha Goldthwaite, 9, of Braintree, listened to former President Bill Clinton at the agency's warehouse in North Quincy last Thursday. Standing behind them is Lynn Margherio, the organization's founder.

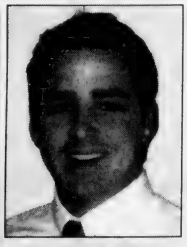
Home Warranties



(NU) - Nothing compares to the excitement of buying a home for the first time. However, purchasing a home also can be a nerve-racking experience.

Being prepared and well-informed can help you reduce stress and make the process a success.

For example, a home warranty is your best defense against unexpected and costly repairs. The home warranty offered by American Home Shield takes care of repair or replacement costs of any covered home system or appliance for a nominal trade service-call fee.

A graduate of North Quincy High School and Boston College, he is a native of Quincy and lives in Wollaston with his wife, Frances.

Conway Ranked Largest Independent Realty Firm In Massachusetts

A national magazine has again ranked Jack Conway & Co. among the top 75 real estate companies in the United States, and affirmed Conway's position as the largest privately owned realty company based in Massachusetts.

In its annual ranking, National Relocation and Real Estate Magazine placed Conway 71st in number of transactions, and 74th in sales volume. The company also was named to the magazine's Billion Dollar Club for having closed more than $1.9 billion in sales during 2004.

Chairman and CEO Jack Conway said he was proud to be recognized by the magazine's annual survey, known as the "Top 500 Power Broker Report." He said that although the company continues to grow and expand its reach in Southeastern Massachusetts, he is committed to remaining an independent, family-owned firm.

"This is a wonderful achievement by everyone on our team," Conway said. "I'm particularly proud of the fact that we have reached this level and remained an independent company."

The ratings also indicated that Jack Conway & Co. is the Bay State's largest locally owned company, and the largest independent among five New England states – Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont.

"Most of our competitors are franchised conglomerates owned by national interests," Conway explained. "It is nice to be local, independent and successful."

Hints For Homebuyers: Be Open To Making Changes In Your Closing

(NAPS) – The process of closing on your new home involves more than signing a stack of papers. Closing is a complicated process that requires a high degree of organization and coordination on the part of those involves.

Here are some tips from the experts at LandAmerica on how to avoid the five biggest mistakes homebuyers make at closing:

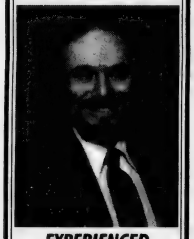
1. Don't rush things. Insist on taking your time and being comfortable with the process. Closing day is very important to you. It's also very important to the Realtor, lender and seller. After all, this is the day when they get paid for their time and effort.

They may be pushing to close because it's in their interests, not yours. But closings are like anything else – mistakes happen when things are rushed.

2. Be flexible. Be prepared to have your closing date or time changed. Purchasing a home is a very paper-intensive project. This means an occasional unforeseen delay may occur in order to get the paperwork done accurately.

3. Don't close on the last day of the month. Avoid this if at all possible. The last day of the month is by far the busiest day for Realtors, lenders and all other financial services professionals.

You can still reap the buyer benefits of closing near the end of the month by scheduling your closing a few days before the end of the month.



4. Get things resolved before closing. Be sure that any outstanding issues are resolved before you close. It can be harder to get things done after closing and you don't want to be negotiating at the closing table.

5. Get a good faith estimate of your closing costs. Be sure to get a final good faith estimate from your lender or broker two days prior to closing. You don't want to discover during closing that you need to pay an additional $2,000 to $3,000.

While the numbers may not be perfect, they could be reasonably accurate.

Opener At Renovated Mitchell/McCoy Field

Lady Presidents Prevail Over Red Raiders, 8-2

By CHRIS POISSON

SOFTBALL

The Quincy and North Quincy high school softball teams delivered an entertaining performance last Thursday night under lights in the first game at a chilly and newly renovated Mitchell/McCoy Field.

The young Red Raiders stayed close through four innings and showed promise for the future, but the powerful Presidents have too much talent and prevailed, 8-2, to snap a three-game losing skid.

"Nice win," said Quincy head coach Mike Sedar, who is 9-0 against North Quincy. "It's always a scary game. We're 4-0 in the league which is important to us. It was a fun night. This facility is unbelievable and it's not even done yet. It's going to be special when it's all finished."

"It was a good game," said North Quincy head coach Larry Keough. "Give Mike's team credit. They're a good team. I thought we played them well. This is our best game. If we played this well in our first five we'd have a better record than we do now."

Quincy (4-3 overall, 4-0 Atlantic Coast League), which hosted Falmouth Monday and Dennis-Yarmouth Wednesday, will travel to Fontbonne Academy Friday at 4 p.m. looking to avenge a loss during April vacation.

North Quincy (0-5) traveled to Marshfield Monday and Falmouth Wednesday and will host Sandwich next Monday at 4 p.m.

The Red Raiders jumped out to a 2-0 lead in the first inning against senior captain Rachel Sorensen.

Senior captain Sarah Kennedy walked and scored when freshman Catherine Feeney crushed a ball over the right fielder's head for a double. Junior Kelly Barden singled and was thrown out at second base. But Feeney scored on the play with some heads-up base running.

Sorensen settled down, retiring 18 of the final 19 hitters to pick up the win. The other hit came in the sixth inning when Kennedy jetted down the first base line to beat out a bunt for a single.

"I think Rachel was a little nervous at the start," Sedar said. "She was throwing BP. I told her in the second inning, 'Just throw the thing. Don't look for spots. Throw the ball.' And then she picked up a lot of speed. When she throws the ball real well and keeps it down low, she has a heavy ball and that's a great thing. She threw a nice game and I'm happy for her."

The Presidents hit the ball hard off senior pitcher Caitlin Dow in the first couple of innings, but had nothing to show for it as North Quincy made some great defensive plays. Freshman Rebecca Goreham played a strong game in center field with six putouts.

"We hit some shots and they made some great catches out there," Sedar said. "They played real good D. It seems like they have a real young ballclub so that's a good sign for them."

In the third, junior Leanna Lam led off with a bunt single and advanced to third on wild pitches. After freshman Marybeth Torpey walked, senior captain Alysia DiMuzio's fly ball dropped in between the shortstop and left fielder. Torpey scored the tying run on an infield error.

The Presidents grabbed a 3-2 lead in the next inning when senior Marissa Powers ripped a two-out double and scored on Lam's single up the middle.

They broke the game open in the fifth with three runs. Torpey beat out an infield single and DiMuzio reached on an error before junior Courtney Hall lined a two-run double a third of the way up the left field fence. Sophomore Brighid Kyle followed with a bloop RBI single over the first baseman's head.

Quincy closed out the scoring in the sixth. Lam and junior Kim LeBel singled and scored when Torpey hit a ball the right fielder couldn't track down.

"We made plays," Keough said. "I told them, 'You have nine people out there playing. If they hit the ball we have to make the plays. It's better than walking them and giving them stuff.' We also made a couple of mistakes. There were some balls we should've caught. Some people were trying too hard."

New Mitchell/McCoy Field Dedicated To City's Female Athletes

Mayor William Phelan opened the city's first athletic facility dedicated primarily for the use by female athletes at the Mitchell/McCoy Field last Thursday before the Quincy-North Quincy high school softball game.

"Our young female athletes deserve the same amenities that our male athletes enjoy at Adams Field," Phelan said. "Like Adams, this facility will be the finest softball field in the region and one we can be proud of as a community. Our female athletes deserve no less."

Throwing out the first pitch were Barbara Webster and Cindy Tozzi.

Webster is the former coach of the Quincy High softball team, a physical education teacher at North Quincy High, a women's lacrosse coach and was recognized for her commitment to providing recreational opportunities for young women.

Tozzi was a four-year varsity softball and basketball player at Quincy High. She also played two years of varsity field hockey and volleyball. She is a teacher and also coaches softball.

The field was reconstructed with monies from the city's hotel/motel tax. A brand new field was built that will feature new lights, raised dugouts, new seating, a scoreboard and ultimately a new rest room/concession building.

The field was built primarily with city personnel from the Park Department, saving close to $100,000 in project costs.

"I want to thank the hard-working city employees who created this beautiful field," Phelan said. "We are fortunate to have such talented and dedicated personnel working on behalf of the residents of our city.

The new Mitchell/McCoy Field will be used by Quincy Youth Softball, the high school softball programs and the Quincy Women's League.

BARBARA WEBSTER tosses a ceremonial first pitch. She is a longtime physical education teacher and coach in Quincy public schools. She is a former head softball coach at Quincy and currently coaches girls' lacrosse at North Quincy. Quincy Sun photos/Robert Noble

CINDY TOZZI walks off the field after throwing a ceremonial first pitch. A Quincy High School graduate, she was a league all-star in softball. She played four years of varsity softball and basketball and two years of varsity volleyball and field hockey. She currently teaches special education at Holbrook Junior-Senior High School and is the head softball coach at Notre Dame Academy.

Atherton Hough Runner-Up In Recreation Department Championship

Montclair Gym Wins Middle School Basketball Title

Montclair Gym defeated Atherton Hough, 44-28, to win the championship in the middle school division of the Quincy Recreation Department's recent All City Basketball Tournament.

Led by veteran recreation leader Dean Zoia, Montclair ran nine players out on the court and all saw significant minutes.

Kevin Poteau got the team off to a strong start with 13 of his team-high 21 points in the first half. Simon Yeung led the way in the second, scoring 12 of his 16 points in the frame. Raymond Fang contributed five first-half points and Andy Ng chipped in with a basket to begin the second half.

Matt Sheridan and James Burke controlled the boards on the defensive end and Bobby Page was a force on the offensive glass. Brendan Nealon pressured the ball all night with great man-to-man defense.

For Atherton Hough, coaches Michelle Hanly and Mike Tetreault had the team play high-pressure, man-to-man defense after it fell behind in the early going.

Mason Mayberry kept the score close by tossing in six of his 11 points in the second half. Anthony Raddatz chipped in with four of his seven in the first half, while Rob Kreuger and Steve McDonough had three apiece and Steve Kamb and John McDonough each had two.

Taylor Radcliffe played aggressive defense to lead the team in steals. Kevin Keefe was strong moving the ball around to lead the team in assists. Jonathan Powell and Ben Yee worked hard on the boards and tied for the team-high in rebounds.

Recreation Director Barry Welch presented trophies to Montclair and certificate of awards to Atherton Hough. The championship game, commentated by recreation supervisors Michael Curtin and TJ Bell, was taped for broadcast on QATV.

Montclair started its journey to the finals by defeating Sterling, 48-18. Sheridan led the way with 13 points, while Poteau, Fang and Yeung added eight apiece. Ng threw in seven and Kelley four.

For Sterling, coached by Amy Curtin, Kenny Nguyen paced the team with 10 points. Dakym Murray, Caleb Davis and Xavier Colin each scored two.

In the semifinal, Montclair pulled out a 42-23 win over Squantum, coached by Pat Dooley. Yeung scored 16 points, Sheridan 13, Poteau eight, Fang four and Ng two.

For Squantum, Billy Kiley scored eight of his 10 points in the second half, while Lamont Toombs had five and Nick Couture and Matt Jay four apiece.

Squantum reached the semi-finals by outlasting Atlantic, 50-46. Kiley scored a tourney-high 23 points. Toombs followed up with 11, Jay eight, Brian McLean seven and James Flaherty two. John Green and Daniel Green led the team in rebounding and Mike Morrison in assists.

For Atlantic, coached by Keith Deshler, Joe Edgerly knocked three 3-pointers in the first half and finished with 15 points. Kevin Hill, 10 first-half points, also scored 15. Tim Gillis added six, Ned Gould five and Freddy Barros two. Kyle Mckay led the team in assists and Kory Hill in rebounds.

Atherton Hough's road to the finals began with a tough defensive battle against Snug Harbor. Raddatz scored seven points, Tyler Forti and Jeff Giordani four apiece, Luck McDonough and Kreuger three apiece and Mayberry and David Westerman two each. Steve McDonough made a crucial free throw near the end of regulation.

Snug Harbor, coached by Ryan Herlihy, created havoc all night by switching defenses. Thomas Speed led the attack with eight points. Eddie Sanchez tossed in four, Chris Paul and Adrian Barbosa three each, and Mike Kneeland and John Correia two apiece. Justin Nguyen and Eddie Naumann led the team in steals and rebounds.

In the semi-finals, Atherton Hough had another nail-bitter against Point Webster, escaping with a 38-34 win. Raddatz poured in 17 points while Steve McDonough netted nine, Sullivan eight and Kreuger four. Yee led the team in assists and Forti in rebounds.

For Point Webster, Atickel Passely drained 14 points. Joe Caram scored six of his 10 in the second half, while Jack Tu added six and Greg Gaffney four. Dave Tocchio led the team in rebounds and Liam Keogh in assists.

Point Webster reached the semi-final with a 42-31 win over Merrymount. Tu scored 10, EJ Jeanlouis and Jeff Pereira eight each, Passely six, Gaffney and Karam four apiece, and Joe Cronin two.

Merrymount, coached by Corey Awed, surged in the second half. Enis Illagami scored eight of his 14 points in the first frame. Mike Stanton added six, Zach Tucker five, Jonathan Mullin four and Paul O'Rourke two. Collin McCarthy led the team in rebounds and steals.

In the first game of the tournament, Sterling earned the right to play eventual champion Montclair by defeating Bernazzani, 38-26.

Sterling pressed early on and Shy Morgan was able to come up with some easy baskets as he scored a team-high 11 points. Nguyen followed up with 10, Jordan Cardoso five, Murray and Latiana Holmes four apiece and Davis two. Ashley Santana hit an important free throw down the stretch. Xavier Colin led the team in rebounds.

Bernazzani, coached by Ted Stevenson, could not overcome the early deficit. Dan Austin had six of his team-high 10 points in the second half. Brian Donaghey added eight, while Dan Cedrone, Owen Kilcullen, Sean Carey and Dylon Duncan had two apiece. Safwan Bid led the team in assists and Elvin Nunez in rebounds.

Central Defeats Atlantic For Crown

The Central girls' varsity basketball team recently defeated Atlantic, 32-30, in overtime to win the middle school championship.

The Rams (7-1) played outstanding full-court, man-to-man defense in the second half to rally from a seven-point halftime deficit.

Alyssa Mullen scored a team-high 10 points, Siobhan Carnell added nine and Allison Foley chipped in five. Point guard Sammy Bonanni directed the offense and Colleen Tobin, Molly Clifford and Kerin Cox also played well.

Central reached the championship game by knocking off Broad Meadows, 29-10. Carnell led all scorers with 15 points.

Other members of the team include: Alyssa Beach, Nicole Reppucci, Sara Duane, Lindsey Reppucci, Nicki Mann, Jennah Valcourt, Kayla McGonagle and Maria DePietro.

North Edges Quincy, 8-7

By CHRIS POISSON

The North Quincy High School baseball team believes last Thursday night's fist-clenching 8-7 win over talented cross-town rival Quincy at Adams Field is a sign of better things to come.

The last time the Red Raiders defeated the Presidents was three years ago when the 2002 squad, under head coach Larry Taglieri, compiled a 13-7 record to reach the state tournament.

That also happens to be the last time they qualified for the postseason. After two off years, second-year head coach Rick Beach hopes this victory points North Quincy in the right direction.

"Hopefully this puts us on a winning track and the kids realize they can play with these teams," Beach said. "It's our biggest win since I've been here. We haven't beaten them since Tag left. It was huge. They're a good team and they played us tough."

North Quincy (4-4-1 overall, 2-1 ACL) hosted O'Bryant Monday and Falmouth Wednesday (4 p.m.) and will head to Sandwich next Monday at 4 p.m. It lost to Brockton, 9-0, last Monday at home but the game doesn't count towards the state tournament.

For Quincy (8-4 overall, 2-3 Atlantic Coast League), the loss isn't devastating as it most likely will get to the tourney. It rebounded Monday with a 7-5 win at Falmouth. It headed to Dennis-Yarmouth Wednesday and next Monday it will host Nauset at 4 p.m.

"It was a great ball game between the two schools," said Quincy head coach Mike Draicchio. "It was a hard fought game. I'm not disappointed because I know we're going to the tournament. We're going to get our other wins."

Down three runs, the Presidents almost pulled out another dramatic comeback in the final inning just like they did against Milton in the tournament championship over vacation break.

With one out, senior captain John Folino, sophomore John Alexander and junior John Orlando each singled to load the bases. Senior Zach Eaton drew a walk to force home a run.

After the second out, sophomore Steve Connolly drilled an RBI single to left to make it 8-7. But senior left-handed pitcher Matt Haskins (seven strikeouts) retired senior captain Steve Priscella (3-for-5) on a grounder to hold on for the win.

The Red Raiders grabbed a 3-0 lead in the first inning off senior captain Steve Sullivan. Junior Tom Power led off with a single and senior captain John Fitzgerald was hit by a pitch. Haskins lined an RBI double and senior Chris Mercurio stroked a two-run single.

They extended their lead to 5-0 in the second when sophomore Dave Guerriero (hit by pitch) and Power (walk) scored on an error.

The Presidents got on the board in the third inning. Priscella singled, moved to second on senior Ray Marchand's sacrifice and scored on Folino's single. They tied the score at 5-5 in the fourth on Priscella' RBI single and Sullivan's three-run hit with the bases loaded.

North Quincy answered with a three-run fifth frame as Quincy committed a pair of errors.

"We pretty much burnt ourselves earlier on," Draicchio said. "We made mistakes tonight which really killed us. That's something we haven't done. There were some errors, hit batters and walks."

THE QUINCY BALD Eagles hockey team recently participated in the Massachusetts Senior Winter Olympics. It will play in other tournaments in July and September. Players ages 55 and over are invited to try out Thursday mornings at 8 at Quincy Youth Arena. Kneeling, from the left: Ted Rouillard, Brian Caputo, George Peterson, Wayne Gauthier, Joe Gautreau, Bibby Lewis, Jim White, Les Veno. Standing: Neil Donovan, Bill Parsley, Ed Curran, Bill Brady, Art Boyle, Bill Brokamp, Phil Smith, Ed Carroll, Chuck Zonderman, Dick Kerr, Dave Egan, Rocky Rothwell, Paul Reynolds, Bill Petro. Missing: Ken O'Connell, Jack Buonopane, Dick Lyons, Fred Cashman, Warren Lewis, Roy Hamlin, Sean Curran, Mark Selbert, Dick McCabe, Mike Marklis, Dick Norton, John Chambers.

Quincy Bald Eagles Compete In Tourney

The Quincy Bald Eagles hockey team compiled a 1-2 record in the recent "Joe Capillo Ice Hockey Tournament" of the Massachusetts Senior Winter Olympics at Horgan Arena in Auburn.

Quincy dropped the opening game to the Rhodie Oldies, 4-2. It led 1-0 in the first period on a goal by Charlie McGrath assisted by 88-year-old forward John Chambers.

The Oldies came on strong, tying the game at 1-1 in the first and adding two goals in the second for a 3-1 advantage.

Quincy narrowed the gap to 3-2 in the final stanza with a goal by Neil Donovan assisted by Bibby Lewis. But the Rhodie Oldies struck again to close out the scoring.

Warren Lewis scored a hat trick to power the Bald Eagles to a 7-3 victory over the Central Mass. Rusty Blades.

Dave Egan scored an unassisted goal for Quincy but the Rusty Blades netted the equalizer before the end of the opening period.

In the second, Donovan scored with Lewis and Dan Hall assisting but the Rusty Blades again tied the score at 2-2. Lewis then struck for a pair of goals to give Quincy a 4-2 lead at the end of the period. Fred Cashman assisted on one of them.

Lewis completed his hat trick to open the third frame. Mike Marklis assisted. The Rusty Blades netted their third goal before Quincy sealed the game with goals by Art Boyle, assisted by McGrath, and Hall, assisted by Lewis.

Quincy fell to the Senior Moby Dicks of Boston, 3-0, in its third game. The Moby Dicks scored twice in the second period and once in the third. Quincy's Bill Parsley was outstanding in net.

The Bald Eagles are sponsored by Quincy Youth Arena and the Egg and I Restaurant on Hancock Street.

Quincy residents on the team include goalie Ken O'Connell, defensemen Ted Rouillard, Lewis and Cashman, and forwards Roy Hamlin and Boyle. The rest of the team is made up of other South Shore and Metrowest players.

Quincy competed in the recent "Grey Wolves Tournament" in the Syracuse, N.Y., area. It will participate in the Charles Shultz "Snoopy" Tournament the week of July 17 in Santa Rosa, Calif., and in the National Senior Olympic Ice Hockey Tournament in Minnesota the last week of September.

The Bald Eagles skate regularly at Quincy Youth Arena Mondays, Tuesdays and Fridays at 9 a.m. and Thursdays at 8 a.m. Players ages 55 and over are invited to try out at the Thursday morning session.

Lack of Sleep Can Slow Weight Loss

Q. I recently read that not getting enough sleep can keep you from losing weight. I have been exercising and eating right for months now, but have not seen the results I want. I have to admit that I only sleep about four hours a night. Could my sleeping habits keep me from losing weight?

A. Yes, current research has shown a relation between lack of adequate sleep and weight loss. Consistent exercise and proper nutrition are definitely the foundation of a healthy lifestyle, but it is important not to underestimate the significance of giving your body the rest it needs.

Sleep may have been previously overlooked as an important aspect of weight loss because of the focus on staying active and watching your nutrition. During sleep, your body produces the hormones needed to maintain metabolism and regulate your feeling of hunger and satiety. In addition, your body uses the time you're asleep to allow muscles, joints and bones to recover from stresses placed upon them during exercise and throughout the day.

A lack of sleep, or constant disruptions during sleep, can affect your body's natural rhythm. Sleeplessness can be caused by sickness and medications, stress and anxiety, light and noise, alcohol or caffeine and nervousness or fear.

Experts suggest a few tips to develop positive sleeping habits.

- Try to get the same amount of sleep each night. Consider increasing the hours if you find you are not able to feel well-rested.
- Eliminate as much stress as possible.
- Establish a nightly ritual that allows you to relax before going to sleep.
- Use your sleeping area just for sleeping to avoid distractions.
- Create an environment that allows you to feel comfortable. For example, a comfortable mattress, room temperature and darkness of room.
- If you find yourself tossing and turning, get up and do something relaxing until you can return to your bed and fall asleep.
- Continue to exercise and eat well.
- Maintain a schedule that allows you to complete the above tips.

If you continue to have a difficult time sleeping or maintaining consistent sleeping habits, contact your physician.

Peter Racicot, Arthur Connelly Named Co-Chairmen

QMC Golf Tournament At Quarry Hills June 28

Peter Racicot, senior Vice president of business development for Fallon Ambulance Service, and Arthur Connelly, chairman and CEO of South Shore Savings Bank, have been named co-chairmen of the 16th Annual Quincy Medical Center Golf Classic.

This year's tournament will be held on Tuesday, June 28 at Granite Links Golf Club at Quarry Hills in Milton and Quincy, which offers challenging greens and spectacular views of the Boston skyline.

The tournament will begin at 1 p.m. There will be a cocktail reception, buffet dinner as well as an auction and raffle.

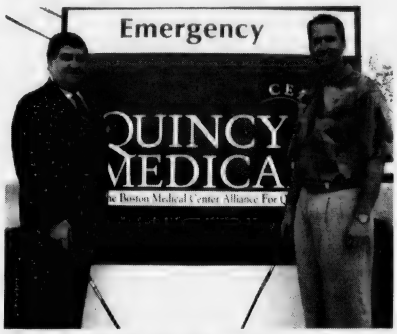
Racicot, a Weymouth resident, is also the immediate past president of the Quincy Rotary and is active in many South Shore area business and philanthropic endeavors.

He is a member of the Quincy Medical Center Foundation Board of Directors. In addition, Racicot is a member of the Board of Directors of the Quincy 2000 Collaborative and the South Shore YMCA and is active with the Massachusetts Ambulance Association.

Connelly, a Plymouth resident, is also a director of the Federal Home Loan Bank of Boston, America's Community Bankers, and Savings Bank Life Insurance. He is a Weymouth Rotarian and also actively supports numerous South Shore non-profit organizations in various capacities, including Father Bill's Place, W.O.R.K., Inc. and Road to Responsibility.

"It is vital for our community to have a top-notch hospital like Quincy Medical Center," said Racicot.

"The hospital's affiliation with Boston Medical Center offers area residents advanced care in cardiology, emergency services, diabetes, general and vascular surgery, orthopedics, psychiatry, occupational health, rehabilitation services and women's health," said Connelly.



"Support of the hospital's many essential services is critical to the health and well-being of the community," added Racicot.

The QMC Golf Classic benefits the Medical Center's state-of-the-art Simon C. Fireman Diagnostic Imaging Center. The Center was launched four years ago by a $1 million challenge grant from the Simon C. Fireman Charitable Foundation.

Over the past 15 years, the Golf Classic has raised more than $1 million and ranks as one of the leading tournaments on the South Shore.

Sponsorship opportunities are available at a variety of levels. Last year's tournament sold out well in advance of the event.

To register for the tournament, to learn more about sponsorship or to place an advertisement in the Classic Ad Book, contact Amy Klotz, Development Officer at Quincy Medical Center: 617-376-5493 or aklotz@quincymc.org.

Patient Appreciation Day At Milton Chiropractic May 19

Dr. Steven M. Windwer, president of Milton Chiropractic & Rehabilitation, Inc., will host the 15th annual Patient Appreciation Day Thursday, May 19, from 9 a.m. to noon and 3 to 6 p.m. at 111 Willard St., Suite GA, Quincy.

All proceeds will be donated to the Sydni Taylor Pecevich Fund.

Sydni is a 5-month-old South Boston baby girl fighting for her life. When she was 2 months old the slightest indentation in her eyebrows was in fact the early marking of what would eventually be described as the largest tumor ever found by Children's Hospital in a 2-month-old baby.

A CT would soon suggest a mass inside the ventricle of the right side of the brain. Sydni had emergency brain surgery at Boston Children's Hospital when she was 2 months and one day old.

Sydni was diagnosed with a rare Germ Cell Tumor called an Immature Teratoma. She has experienced many seizures. Radiation therapy is the most effective and was preferred post-op therapy but radiation is not done on children under 3 years of age. Sydni is having aggressive chemotherapy. This has put a tremendous strain on the Pecevich family. Proceeds will go directly towards Sydni's medical expenses.

Those unable to attend May 19, can send donations to the Sydni Taylor Pecevich Fund, c/o Milton Chiropractic & Rehabilitation, Inc., 111 Willard St., Quincy, MA.

Blood Pressure Screenings

Weekly blood pressure screenings for elders will be held every Monday from 10 to 11 a.m. at the Council on Aging office, 83 Saratoga St., North Quincy.

Gail Crawford, a registered nurse, will donate her time and talents to assisting senior citizens in having their blood pressure taken weekly.

Appointments can be made but walk-ins also are accepted.

For more information, call 617-376-1506.

DENTISTRY for the 21st Century

by Steven A. Brustin, D.M.D.

A SHORT HISTORY OF IMPLANTS

Dental implants have been around for centuries. Even the ancient Egyptians and Estruscans had their own crude versions. It is a relatively simple matter to drill a hole in the jaw and replace a missing tooth with a prosthetic one. It is much more difficult to find a material that is complementary with jawbone. Ivory, gold, and even children's baby teeth have all been tried. In the 1950s, a Swedish scientist accidentally discovered that bone healed tightly around the lightweight, corrosion-resistant metal titanium. In the 1970s and 1980s, oral surgeons and dentists improved results further by using low-speed drilling and "irrigating" with plenty of water. The result was less damage to bone tissue and better healing around the implant.

Most people are candidates for dental implants, regardless of age, health status, or the state of the jawbone. The amount of available bone present is the primary consideration. Like other medical sciences, the dental profession is constantly changing. We stay informed about the latest techniques and scientific advances in dentistry. We're located at 44 Greenleaf Street, where we will gladly answer any questions about new treatments and procedures. Call us at 617-479-6220 to schedule an appointment. We offer the services of anesthesiology with a fully trained and qualified anesthesiologist. Visit us on the web at www.quincydentist.com.

P.S. Titanium implants actually marry with the jawbone to create an integrated fit.

A Job Well Done

By SGT. DAN MINTON

On April 18, a citizen called to report "Breaking and Entering in Progress" at the gas station located at 305 Quincy Shore Dr. He stated that he heard glass breaking and that a white male carrying a box just fled from the bay door area. Officer Pat Folan verified that a break had occurred and that it was similar to one a week ago, where a vehicle was used to smash into the door to gain entry.

SGT. DAN MINTON

While enroute to the call, Sgt. O'Shea notified K-9 Officer Scott Smith that he was needed to track the suspect. Officer Smith, who had just finished aiding Weymouth Police in a search, responded to the scene. Sgt. O'Shea then observed a Jeep in North Quincy traveling away from the crime scene with a shattered windshield and no license plate. He notified additional units to intercept the Jeep.

Moments later, Officer Christopher McDermott, who had taken a location at the entrance ramp to the Neponset Bridge, spotted the Jeep traveling north with one occupant. As Office McDermott attempted to stop the Jeep, the suspect increased his speed and drove up the ramp to I-93 North. Officer McDermott followed at a safe speed, awaiting assistance from the State Police.

As the Jeep approached the Columbia Road off ramp, the suspect lost control, struck the right guard rail, then careened off and crashed into the opposite side guard rail. The Jeep then went south in the northbound lane for a short distance and exited I-93 onto Day Boulevard, where State Police Sgt. McCarthy was waiting. The Jeep sped off briefly, then stopped abruptly and the suspect was apprehended.

A search of the Jeep showed that there were no key in the ignition and there were numerous cartons of cigarettes inside, linking him to the break of the gas station. The defendant, a 47-year-old man from Norton, Mass., has been charged with "Breaking and Entering," "Malicious Destruction of Property," and numerous motor vehicle charges. A larceny of a motor vehicle charge is pending. The arrest of this career criminal not only takes him off the streets, but it may also link him to a similar break.

Nice work!

Did you notice . . . that was retired Quincy Police Officer Tom Hickey involved in the recovery of a stolen vehicle and puppy (held for ransom) at the 7-11 store in Quincy? His ingenuity led the Boston Police to the arrest of the suspect, who was charged with "Attempted Extortion" and "Receiving a Stolen Motor Vehicle." Nice work, Tom!

Crime Prevention Unit Offering Child Seat Installation, Inspection

The Quincy Police Department Crime Prevention Unit will offer a child seat installation and inspection program at the Quincy Wal-Mart (front parking lot away from entrance) Saturday, May 7 from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Due to the high demand as well as an estimated 30 minutes for installation per car, reservations are required. There is no scheduled rain date.

To qualify, the following standards must be met:

- Quincy residents only - Photo I.D. proof of Quincy residency.
- Quincy registration - only vehicles registered in Quincy.
- Child seat must have labeling requirements on seat.
- You must bring the child seat owner's manual.
- Check http://hsrc.unc.edu/pubinfo/childrecall1pdf.htm to see if the seat has been recalled.
- Seats that have been involved in an accident will not be examined or installed.
- Certain vehicles, such as pick up trucks with one row seating, are excluded.
- It is not recommended that you buy child car seats from yard sales or from second-hand stores.

For reservations, contact Sgt. Dan Minton, Quincy Crime Prevention Unit, 617-745-5719.

HERE IS A PLEASANT LITTLE GAME that will give you a message every day. It's a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner and check one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Salome's Stars

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) The Lamb is usually excited about taking on a new challenge. But if that's a touch of doubt you're feeling, maybe it's you telling yourself to go slow on this until you learn more about it.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Accepting new commitments when you haven't yet finished the batch on hand could be a bit rash. Better to ease up on the new ones until you get further along with your current lot.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) Reward yourself for what's sure to be a dynamic week with a getaway to someplace wonderful, hopefully with a wonderful someone. You'll return refreshed and ready for what's ahead.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) Some people might be anxious about your plans. So you need to take time to explain what you expect to do and how you expect do it. And don't forget to ask for suggestions.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) Dealing with an unfamiliar problem can be difficult. The wisest course you can take is to ask for advice from those who have been where you are and have come through it. Good luck.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) Tackle a frustrating job problem by considering possibilities you might have ignored before. This reassures colleagues you're serious about finding a solution, even if it's not totally yours.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) Your balanced approach to life proves to be helpful this week when someone you care for needs your spiritual comfort, while someone else benefits from your tough-love practicality.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) Once again, you're likely to be asked to keep a secret for someone. But do you really want to do so? Be honest with yourself and with your needs before you make any such commitment.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) Taking a more direct approach from the more diplomatic one you've used before could make a difference in finally resolving a too-long-held disagreement. Try it.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) Being asked for advice is flattering to the Sea Goat, who has a habit of saying the right thing. This time, expect someone to be especially impressed and to act on that sentiment.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) With a number of pressures easing, your project could be making a lot more progress than you expected by this time. That's great news. But don't let yourself be distracted; stay with it.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) An interesting challenge looms that could be exactly what you've been looking for. Discuss this with colleagues who could have much to contribute and who might want to join with you.

BORN THIS WEEK: Your heart is always open to offer loving concern for others. And they, in turn, reach out to complete the circle.

W. Richard Smith Memorial Concert At Covenant Church

The Covenant Congregational Church, corner of Whitwell and Granite Sts., Quincy Center, will hold a concert in memory of W. Richard Smith, former minister of music, Sunday, May 15 at 3 p.m.

The church hopes the concert will become an annual event featuring local organists.

Three former organ students will play and say a few words about Richard Smith, who was a student of Nadia Boulanger.

Participating will be Donald Reade, a 30-year associate of Mr. Smith, currently co-organist/choir director at Covenant Congregational; Jim Reedy, organist for the Congregation of St. Athanasius since 1997, who studied with Mr. Smith for 30 years; and Carol Lennon.

For more information, call (617) 479-5728.

Union Congregational

Pastor John Swanson will preach the sermon "Hail Mary, Full of Grace" at the 10 a.m. worship service Sunday at Union Congregational Church, 136 Rawson Rd.

Duty deacon will be Don Young. Carolyn Marks will greet worshippers and read the scripture.

Coffee hour will be hosted by Arthur Ferris and the Men's Group.

Revival this week will be a T.V. Land revival featuring Gospel songs set to 1960s and 1970s T.V. theme songs on Friday, May 6 at 7:30 p.m.

For more information, call the church at 617-479-6661.

The church is handicap accessible.

United Methodist

The Rev. Carol Stine will lead the 10:30 a.m. Mother's Day worship service at Quincy Community United Methodist Church, 40 Beale St., Wollaston.

Dru Madigan and William Morrissey will be ushers.

Following the service, the hospitality hour will be hosted by Joan Honig, Shirley Smith and Shirley Poore.

The New Women's Circle will sponsor the collection of canned meat and fish for the Interfaith Social Services.

Items for the May 21 yard sale can be delivered to the church stage area.

Bethany Congregational

The Rev. William C. Harding will preach the sermon "Touch of Love" Sunday at the 10 a.m. worship service at Bethany Congregational Church, Quincy Center.

Organist Tom Boyer will conduct the Chancel Choir. Scripture reader will be Mike Brundige.

There will be a children's message before they go to their classes. Childcare is available for infants and toddlers.

SCOTT DEWARE

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

TO MOTHERS . . .

Motherhood has many faces
Fashioned by the Lord above,
Filling near and distant places
With His handiwork of love.
Some are white, and some are yellow
Some are black, and some are brown,
Some are stern, and some are mellow,
Granite-hard, or soft as down.
Some are fragile, fair as laces,
Warm and gently mild as May;
Some are lined and worn with traces
Of defeat along life's way.
Some are gay with all the gladness
Of the springtime on the land;
Some are shadowed with a sadness
Only mothers understand.
But like stars above the willow
Every mother looks the same,
Bending over baby's pillow,
Softly whispering its name. . . *

In Loving Memory of DENIS P. CRONIN on his Birthday
May 5, 1928 – October 14, 2004

You can only have one father,
Patient, kind and true;
No other friend in all the world,
Will be the same to you.
When other friends forsake you,
To father you will return,
For all his loving kindness,
He asks nothing in return.
As we look upon his picture,
Sweet memories we recall
Of a face so full of sunshine,
And a smile for one and all.
Sweet Jesus take this message,
To our dear father up above;
Tell him how we miss him,
And give him all our love.

"Ar dhes De go raibh a anam"
May his soul be on God's right hand side.

Marian Manor Meeting Topic Tonight

Ward 4 Councillor Jay Davis will host a neighborhood meeting tonight (Thursday) at 7:30 p.m. at the Ward 4 Neighborhood Center, 100 Brooks Ave., for those interested in information regarding Marian Manor.

The development would include a nursing home and assisted living apartments. Amenities for the project include a chapel and dining facility.

The site is located on 8.25 acres of land adjacent to Granite Links Golf Course at Quarry Hills.

Representatives will be present to discuss plans and answer questions from residents.

For more information contact Davis at 617-834-3945.

a school building needs subcommittee meeting, of which Phelan is a member. He moved to table the matter, saying he needed more time to study the ruling.

Jo-Ann Bragg, chairwoman of the school building needs subcommittee, expressed frustration with the lack of debate, and said she would not schedule another meeting until school committee members have a clear direction. Bragg also complained that the city's architects had no alternative plans to present to the committee.

Two weeks ago, the committee asked architects to draft alternative plans in case the other options were ruled out by SBA officials.

And Craven's opinion does just that.

In her letter to Phelan, she said that the only plan that would receive 90 percent reimbursement from the state is a 2003 plan that the city mothballed long ago.

She directed the city to stay closer to the original footprint of the 2003 plan, avoiding controversial wetlands and stretching the school along Southern Artery between Russell Park and Coddington St.

In effect, Craven closes the door on a plan vehemently pushed by Phelan and backed by the school committee as the best plan for Quincy.

The new Quincy High School plan "should be developed in a manner consistent with what had been originally submitted to the DOE in August, 2003," Craven wrote to Phelan.

Several elements of Options 1 and 2 are "inconsistent" with the original application submitted by the city to DOE, she said.

For example, Craven cited enrollment projections under the new plans as evidence of scope changes. The 2003 plan called for enrollment of 1,500 students for a new high school. Options 1 and 2, however, call for an enrollment of 1,600 students.

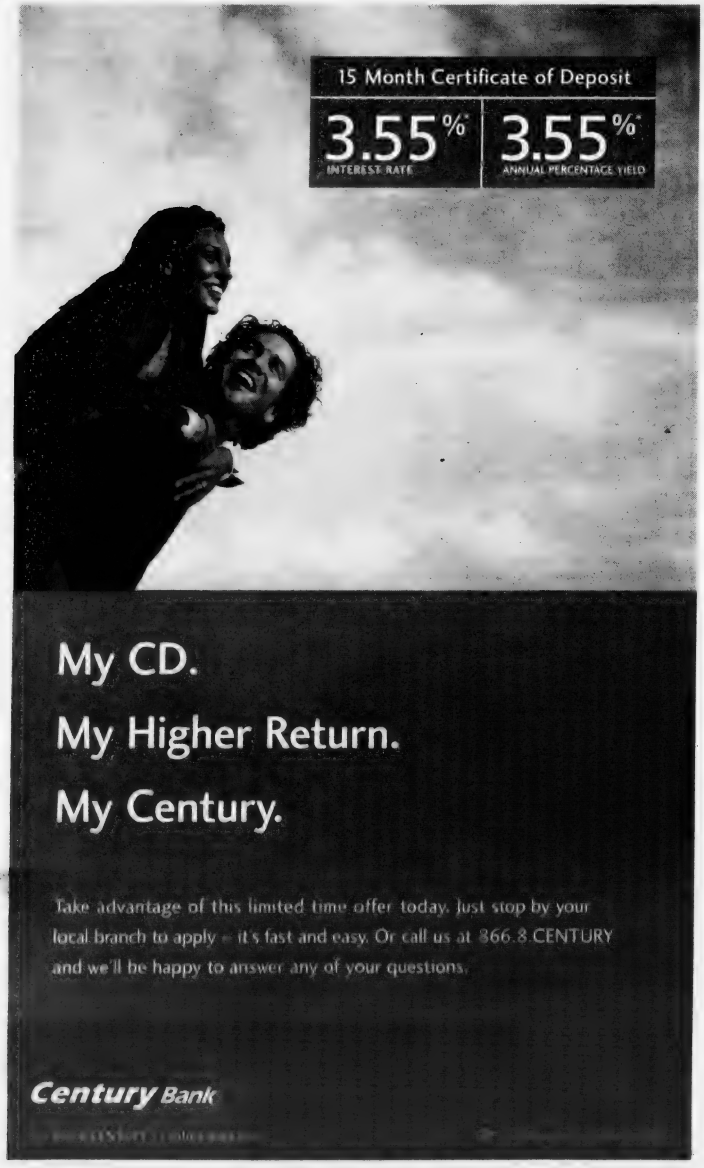
The city's original plan called for the construction of a 330,400 square foot structure. Craven said SBA would allow an additional 38,000 square foot of space to the original plan, bringing the total acceptable space to 368,000 square feet.

Options 1 and 2 are approximately 390,000 square feet, substantially larger than the city's original proposal, Craven said. The proposed size is "much larger than even the maximum allowable square footage formerly allowed by the DOE for any school with this enrollment projection," she wrote.

Both options also require that the Center for Technical Education be torn down as part of construction of a new high school, a move that would lead to "extensive phasing issues," she said. If the city sticks to its original plan of building a high school at the corner of Coddington St. and Southern Artery, the CTE would not need to be torn down, thus leading to less disruption for students, Craven said.

"Phased renovation and construction while a building is occupied not only increases the cost of a project but also often extends the time frame for this educational disruption," she said.

On Tuesday, Phelan also sought to clarify statements made Monday night by Auditor Rick Fitzpatrick regarding expenditures for the city's architect.



Raymondi questioned Fitzpatrick on the status of the city's expenditures regarding the high school project. Although the city's architects, Symmes Maini & McKee Associates of Cambridge, have been working on high school plans for months, Fitzpatrick said he had not seen or signed a contract pertaining to the work. All city contracts must pass through his office for approval, he said.

But Phelan said a contract was signed by the architect although it did not circulate through various departments of the city.

Funding for the architects has been appropriated in the high school bond issue, he said.

"By the end of the day today (Tuesday) there will be a contract signed," said Phelan.

IMAM TALAL EID thanks the crowd of some several hundred who attended a rally in his support at the Fore River Club House. Imam's resignation from the Islamic Center of New England is effective June 30. Quincy Sun photo/Noreen O'Shea

Demonstration Planned, Petition Drive Underway

Support Mounting To Keep Imam At Islamic Center

By TOM HENSHAW

Supporters of Imam Talal Eid are turning up the heat under the Board of Directors of the Islamic Center of New England in hopes of restoring him as the spiritual leader of the Quincy Point mosque.

Several hundred of them, including some non-Muslims, turned out Sunday at the Fore River Club House to honor the Imam on the eve of his June 30 resignation, which his advocates call "forced."

"We plan to put more pressure on the Board," said Salim Marhamo, spokesman for the friends of Imam Talal. "The committee is very angry. These people are stubborn. They don't want to give in."

Marhamo said his group plans to demonstrate at the mosque, 470 South St., where Imam Talal has served since 1982, and later at the second mosque in Sharon, where he has served since 1992.

The Sunday rally was also kickoff day for a petition to the Board of Directors calling for a meeting of the membership to reverse the Imam's resignation and arbitrate the issues that led up to it.

The rally was attended by Norfolk District Attorney William Keating and Ward 2 City Councillor Daniel Raymondi, who presented a citation from the City Council recognizing his "outstanding service to the community."

"There was a tremendous outpouring of love and affection for him and his family," said Raymondi. "I've known him as a friend for the past 23 years and I feel badly for what he has been going through."

"He was the best thing that ever happened to us," said one member of the mosque, close to tears.

The City Council citation called him "a pillar of strength to our community and one of Quincy's most respected spiritual leaders" who has "long been an inspiration for working to make this world a better place to live."

The petition called him "an exemplary religious leader of the Muslim community for the entire New England area. Muslims throughout New England identify with him because of the respect he has earned."

Imam Talal, 53, a native of Lebanon and a graduate of the prestigious al-Azhar University in Cairo, Egypt, came to the United States in 1982. He received a masters in theological studies from Harvard in 1993 and is due a

As Full Service Health And Neighborhood Facility

Manet Center In Bid To Buy St. Boniface

By WILLIAM TRAYNOR

The City of Quincy is working with the Manet Community Health Center to broker an agreement that would establish a full-service, multi-million dollar health and community center at the former St. Boniface Church in Germantown.

This week, city officials are expected to meet with representatives from Manet, the Quincy YMCA and the Germantown Neighborhood Center to finalize an offer to purchase the 30,000 square-foot property on Palmer and Shed Sts.

As part of the Catholic Church's consolidation, the Archdiocese of Boston closed the parish on Jan. 30 and put it up for sale.

As was first reported in the March 24 issue of The Quincy Sun, Manet Community Health Center is eyeing the first floor of the former church to set up a full service health center, with mental health, dental, prescription and other health-related services.

The Germantown Neighborhood Center, with assistance from the city and the YMCA, is looking to set up shop in the 5,000 square-foot basement of the former church. Germantown Neighborhood Center representatives have expressed the need to move out of its current cramped headquarters within the Snug Harbor School.

According to Quincy's Planning Director, Dennis Harrington, the city will be part of the community center, either as a tenant or owner. Details of a final offer from Manet are being ironed out, and an official offer is expected to be submitted next week, he said.

Ideally, the city would like to be a tenant rather than an owner, but the city's role will depend on the outcome of Manet's offer, said Harrington.

"If, for any reason, Manet is unsuccessful in their bid, we have no intention of losing that building," said Harrington. "Whatever it takes to do, we will do."

If the Archdiocese sells the property to Manet, it would be a boon for Germantown, he said.

"This would be the best

To Make Way For Renovations At Veterans Stadium

Graduation Ceremonies Moved To Adams Field

Graduation ceremonies for Quincy High School and North Quincy High School seniors will be held at Adams Field next month due to renovation work at the usual venue, Veterans Memorial Stadium.

The graduation ceremony for North Quincy High School is Monday, June 6 at Adams Field. In case of inclement weather, the ceremony will be held in the school's gymnasium. Quincy High School will hold their graduation ceremony on Tuesday, June 7 at Adams Field. Poor weather would move the date to June 8 at the same location.

Despite the venue change, city officials are confident that ceremonies will go off without a hitch.

"We have a beautiful venue at Adams Field," said Thomas Koch, director of the Park, Forestry and Cemetery Departments. "We are in touch with the school departments and assessing their needs - I think people will be quite satisfied with the results."

Currently, field bleachers accommodate approximately 1,500 spectators, but the city will add another 1,200 seats with mobile bleachers. The venue should be able to hold about 2,700 visitors, according to Koch.

Parking should not be a problem during the events, he said. Families are expected to park along Southern Artery and Merrymount Park, much like they do during the cermonies at Veterans Stadium. Graduates will be able to park at Pageant Field for the event, said

Police, Civilians Honored At Annual Ceremony

Law Day Awards Presented At Quincy District Court

By WILLIAM TRAYNOR

Seventeen area law enforcement officers, including three Quincy police officers, were honored during the annual Law Day ceremonies held last week at Quincy District Court.

Quincy police officers John McGowan, Paul Brown and Roger White, who entered a burning house on Clive St. in North Quincy on Dec. 15, 2004, to rescue those inside, received the Robert F. Dana Distinguished Service Award for Law Enforcement from William Keating, Norfolk County District Attorney.

McGowan, off-duty and first of the officers to arrive at the scene, found and led to safety one of the last two people believed to be in the house. Brown and White arrived and attempted to reach the second floor, where the last person inside - a woman who died in the fire - was, but were held back by intense heat and smoke.

Keating praised their efforts, saying the officers best exemplify the spirit of the law enforcement community.

"All three officers entered the burning house without regard for their safety," he told those in attendance.

The Dana awards are named for the 29-year-old Metropolitan police officer who was killed in the line of duty more than 20 years ago.

Police officers from other cities and towns honored with Dana awards included:

Officers Gabriel Pantazelos, Anthony Marag, Edmund Corbett and Scott Sherman from Randolph; Officer John P. Kearny from Holbrook; Officer Michael A. Cherry from Milton; Officer Lorri Landrigan and Detective John Perchard from Weymouth; and Officers Timothy Cohoon, David Clark, Michael Reynolds, Brendan McLaughlin, Raymond Blake and Donal Curtin from Braintree.

Recently retired Quincy police prosecutor Barbara C. DiNatale received the Rabbi Jacob Mann Social Justice Award. This is the second annual award given in Rabbi Mann's name and the first dispensed since his recent death.

The former police detective, Quincy's first female police officer, received the award from Clerk Magistrate Arthur Tobin, a friend of Rabbi Mann's.

"The one place he loved to be each year was Law Day at Quincy District Court," Tobin said of Mann, noting that the Rabbi attended the event for 48 years. Rabbi Mann lived by the words, "Love your fellow man, and

Sheets Library Wing Dedication May 29

A dedication ceremony naming the new wing of the Thomas Crane Public Library after former Mayor James Sheets will be held Sunday, May 29 from 2 to 4 p.m. at the library.

In March, the library's board of trustees voted to name the $18 million wing after Sheets, the six-term mayor who was instrumental in securing funding for and overseeing construction of the new addition, which was completed in 2001.

The move to dedicate the new wing in Sheets' name came from his political rival, Mayor William Phelan, who defeated Sheets by 17 votes in one of the city's biggest political upsets and the closest mayoral election in the city's history.

Despite their political differences, Phelan described Sheets as the main catalyst behind construction of the addition that was opened for the spring of 2001. The former mayor was instrumental in raising nearly $1 million, mostly through corporate donations, for furnishings and equipment for the new addition.

Sheets is the second political figure whose name will now be part of the library. In 2001, the Children's Room in the new addition was named for the late City Councillor Patricia Toland who also served as assistant city clerk.

NQHS Readies For MCAS

The MCAS test will be administered to 10th grade students at North Quincy High School during the weeks of May 16 and May 23.

Tenth grade students should report to their test centers by 7:45 a.m. on the test dates.

All other students will report to their homerooms May 17, 19, 20, 24 and 25 at 10:20 a.m. and May 18 at 9:45 a.m.

Grade 11 students will be tested May 26 at 7:45 a.m. only. Grade 9, 10 and 12 students will report to school May 26 at 9:45 a.m.

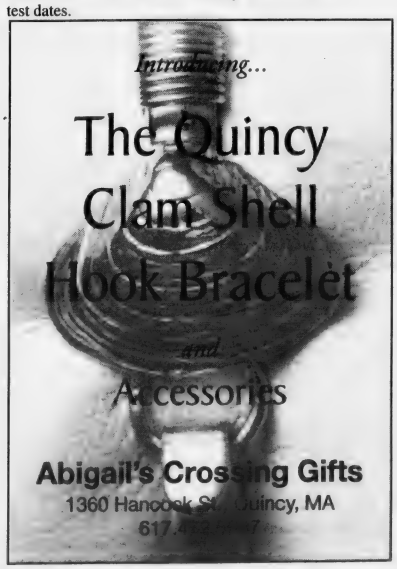
Koch.



"Overall, we expect the parking situation to be at least as good if not better than with Veterans Stadium," he said.

Koch said the field work at Veterans Stadium is quite extensive and should be completed by the fall of 2005. A new, state-of-the-art FieldTurf surface at the facility is being installed as part of the city's $10 million Natural Resources Investment initiative.

Revenues from the city's hotel/motel tax will be used to pay for the project.

Eventually, the new field surface will be used by football, soccer and lacrosse players at the high school and youth sports level.

"The major field project at the stadium is beginning," said Koch. "We would like to get the field work done in time for the start of the next school year in the fall."

Coughlin Gets Clinton 'Vote'

You might say Kevin Coughlin got a political promotion the other day when former President Bill Clinton was in town.

It happened in the Myrtle St. warehouse of the North Quincy based non-profit Cradles to Crayons organization that aides low income families in Massachusetts.

Clinton visited the warehouse before heading a fundraiser that night in Boston that raised an approximately $1 million to help the organization carry on its worthy cause.

Cradles to Crayons provides clothing, blankets, strollers, other necessities and toys to children of low income families.

While at the warehouse, Clinton got to see the many articles Cradles to Crayons does provide, and to meet some of the volunteers who work there.

Coughlin is a member of the fundraising committee of Cradles to Crayons located in his Ward 3.

CLINTON

PHELAN

He and Mayor William Phelan got the chance to meet briefly with the former president.

And you might say Coughlin came prepared.

He brought along a Quincy necktie (from Abigail's Crossing) and a Quincy lapel pin with the city's seal which he presented to Clinton.

"Thank you, Mr. Mayor," Clinton said to him.

Coughlin attempted to correct him on the title.

"No, Mr. President," he said. "I'm a city councillor. He's the mayor," pointing to Phelan standing beside them.

But Clinton wasn't fazed by the mix-up.

"Anyone from the city who presents me with a gift is the mayor," he mused.

That was good for a few smiles.

JO-ANN BRAGG hasn't made a final decision about her political career.

BRAGG

She is completing her third term (12th year) on the school committee and says, "I'm still weighing my options."

Those options, she noted here in March: seek re-election to a fourth term, run for city councillor at-large -- or retire from politics.

She says she will make a decision sometime this month.

MEANWHILE, the vacant school committee seat on this year's ballot is beginning to get some attention.

Three candidates have taken out nomination papers:

Robert Haley of Victoria Rd., former vice president of the Quincy Taxpayers Association; David Smith of Muirhead St., a teacher; and Atty. Kathryn Hobin of Weymouth St.

That's the seat School Committee Vice Chairman Michael McFarland is leaving to run for the city councillor at-large seat Frank McCauley is leaving to retire.

And at this writing McFarland is still the only candidate for the McCauley seat. It doesn't look like any of the ward councillors will make a run for it.

Kevin Coughlin, Doug Gutro, Leo Kelly and Alicia Gardner already have nomination papers for re-election to their ward seats. And Dan Raymondi and Jay Davis don't appear interested in the McCauley vacancy.

GARDNER

Gardner, incidentally, will make her formal re-election announcement at a fundraiser party tonight (Thursday) 7 to 10 p.m. at the Knights of Columbus, Hollis Ave., North Quincy. Suggested donations: $20, $50, $100.

THERE ARE STILL some Joe Finn supporters out there hoping he might reconsider and run for mayor after all. Finn had given considerable thought to running but decided not to and said so. And he has now officially closed the door on it by taking out nomination papers for re-election to councillor at-large.

Congestive Heart Failure Topic At Council On Aging June 2

The Norwell Visiting Nurse Association (VNA) will hold an educational session as part of its "Heart Beat" program for individuals with Congestive Heart Failure (CHF) on Thursday, June 2 from 10:30 to 11:30 a.m. at the Quincy Council on Aging, 83 Saratoga St., Quincy.

"Heart Beat" is made possible by a grant from South Shore Elder Services.

All members of the local Asian community are invited to attend the educational session, which will offer tips on how to live a full life, while managing CHF. Topics include: diet and nutrition; healthy weight maintenance; exercise; pulse monitoring; medication; stress reduction; and how family and friends can serve as a vital support network.

Frank Poon of South Shore Elder Services (SSES) and Wendy Wong, project director and outreach coordinator for Greater Boston Chinese Golden Age Center, will serve as program translators.

Additionally, Norwell VNA clinicians Suzanne Clark, PT and Donna Seibert, NP, will be on-hand to discuss various ways that individuals can adopt a healthy lifestyle that includes self-management of their CHF.

CHF is a chronic condition that affects nearly five million people in the U.S. It is the number-one cause of hospitalization in people aged 65 and older. This makes CHF a special concern for the Norwell VNA, as the majority of the agency's patient base is over age 60. Senior citizens also represent the fastest-growing segment of the population, signaling an increasing need for CHF education and management.

For more information, call the Norwell VNA at 781-659-2342.

Free Blood Pressure Clinics For Seniors

Weekly blood pressure screenings for elders will be held every Monday from 10 to 11 a.m. at the Council on Aging office, 83 Saratoga St., North Quincy.

Appointments can be made. Walk-ins also are accepted. Call 617-376-1506.

Helen Hayes Here To Witness Salk Vaccine Test Shots

This Week
1954
51 Years Ago

Some 3,500 Quincy youngsters in the first, second and third grades from public and parochial schools, received vaccinations in a test of the new Salk Polio Vaccine.

Actress Helen Hayes, whose 19-year-old daughter, Mary MacArthur, died of polio five years before, was on hand to watch the shots administered at St. John's School.

"I have lived for this day," she said, "to actually see the vaccinations being done. We all have great hopes for it."

Among the first vaccinated at the Coddington School was Robert Birch, 8, of 27 Woodward Ave., one of the boys chosen to give a blood sample to determine its polio antibodies.

"You're a good boy," said Dr. Frederick W. Manley.

"You're a good doctor," said Robert. "It didn't hurt much."

DONOVAN FOR GOVERNOR

Timothy J. Donovan of 20 Hatherly Rd., Wollaston, state banking commissioner since 1946, was preparing to seek the Democratic nomination for governor in his first try for public office.

"I am finding that there are many delegates who will come to the Worcester convention unpledged and I sense that they are looking for a candidate who is free from a career marred by past political activities," he said.

Let's Move Forward On QHS Project

It has taken us nearly eight years and two mayoral administrations to get from Point A to Point A. We're back at square one and now the state School Building Authority has spoken. Rep. Ron Mariano is correct: "It clears up all debate about what we can and cannot do. We know we have 90 percent reimbursement. Let's Go."

Option 1 and Option 2 are seemingly both history now that we will be returning to the originally approved concept which qualified for the 90 percent monies.

How much time was wasted in this Quincy High follies? The City of Quincy messed up and that clearly made this recent fight by City Hall unnecessary. We can have a new Quincy High School and get 90 percent back. However, it has to be a smaller school and built along Southern Artery.

As far as a new Central Middle School goes, it can still move into an old renovated Quincy High School building but without the 90 percent monies. We lost that battle reportedly for lack of an application.

Mistakes were seemingly made by many city officials for a number of years. We can't undo the past or continue to place blame. If we really care about the kids, we'll move forward now and do the best we can too for Central Middle School.

Yesterday's mistakes are behind us. Now is the time to move forward!

Too Much Of A Rush To Demolish Stadium Track

It is unfortunate for the hundreds of Quincy's high school, middle school and track club athletes who use Veterans Memorial Stadium for practice and home track meets that there is such a hurry to install artificial grass on the football field that Veterans' track will be demolished next month and it will be years before a new track is built.

The Park Department did not measure the stadium to make sure it could fit a track large enough to hold state meets until after the Quincy City Council authorized $1 million for artificial turf and a new track.

At last week's public hearing, Park Commissioner Tom Koch made another proposal without any measurements. He displayed two crude proposals for track sites with a paper cutout of a 1/4-mile track taped on a map and with no plans for parking, bleachers, permanent bathrooms or field events. Even though it is dangerous and not allowed at state meets, he proposed having javelin and discus thrown in the middle of the track.

The only proposed sites were Faxon Park and the contaminated wetland behind the Department of Public Works. The displayed map showed the track between two baseball fields on Faxon Park. The commissioner, who expressed concern that the track project is running out of funds, preferred the DPW site, which will have to pass environmental regulations, need a new road built and need to find a new neighborhood for the mulch piles.

Pageant Field was not an option because the commissioner did not want to disturb surrounding walking paths. Although, he plans to install a huge chain link to keep the track from private citizens who may want to jog or walk the track.

It is hard to understand why there is such a rush to demolish the current track when the new track will take so many years to build and the simple solution is to replace our centrally located home meet track at the stadium and not hold state meets.

'The Foreigner' Spring Show For North Quincy Drama Club

The North Quincy High School Drama Club will present its spring production of the comedy "The Foreigner" on five nights and one matinee this month at the Black Box Theatre.

Show times are Thursday, Friday and Saturday, May 12, 13 and 14; and Friday and Saturday, May 20 and 21 at 7:30 a.m.; and Sunday, May 21, at 2 p.m.

Tickets at $8 for adults and $5 for students and senior citizens may be reserved by calling the Drama Club office at 617-984-8998.

"The Foreigner" is a comedy set in a fishing lodge in Georgia where a visiting British writer is introduced as one who does not speak English and learns the secrets of his companions under the pretense he does not understand.

Rock Legend Jay Geils Lectures, Performs At Quincy College

By MATT RAYMOND

The spotlights at Quincy College's Temple Gallery may have been a bit dimmer. The amplifiers a bit smaller. The audience a bit more intimate.

But the dozens of fans that came to hear legendary rock star Jay Geils' lecture at Quincy College were no less adoring than during the height of his musical career. Jay Geils' recent appearance at the College drew people from all over the South Shore anxious to hear the musician chronicle his career and offer a glimpse of life as a rock star.

LEGENDARY ROCK STAR Jay Geils discussed the history of rock from a performer's perspective and performed solo on the guitar during a recent lecture at Quincy College.

Gerry Beaudoin, music instructor at the College who has played with Geils over the years, invited Geils to come and speak to his "History of Rock" class.

"When I heard that a national recording artist was coming to campus, I brought in the Student Life Department and we decided to make this a free community event," said Quincy College Vice President Tom De Santes. "With his newly released jazz album and his appearances in Boston recently, the timing was perfect."

During the evening, Geils gave an insider's look into the history of rock from a performer's perspective and followed the talk with a solo guitar performance. He then entertained dozens of questions from the thrilled guests. His discussion featured a chronological and social explanation of the evolution of rock music as a genre from Calloway in the 1930s to Sinatra in the 1940s up to Elvis Presley in the 1950s.

Geils then continued to highlight his experiences with the J. Geils Band beginning in the early 1970s. After playing at "The Boston Tea Party", the band was discovered by Atlantic Records.

They began their first national tour in the spring of 1971 and their success grew on a national level. The band's hits include "Centerfold", "Freeze-frame" and "Love Stinks" to name just a few of the highest chart toppers.

Geils shared stories of the many talented artists he played with over the years including: Van Morrison, Buddy Guy, Allman Brothers, and BB King. Just this year, the J. Geils Band was nominated for the Rock & Roll Hall of Fame.

"The music department at Quincy College is just a few years old, but already we've been able to create a niche for students interested in music who may not have had the opportunity to attend one of the less accessible private schools in the area." said Quincy College President Sean Barry. "At commencement last year we featured the 70s hit group Tavares and this Jay Geils lecture adds to the educational experience we're able to offer students interested in music."

To sign up for a music class at Quincy College or fore more information, contact Enrollment Services at 617-984-1650 or visit www.quinnycollege.edu.

Summer Family Festival Set For July 14-15-16

The Quincy Business Association will hold its 35th annual Summer Family Festival July 14-15-16.

Hancock Street in Quincy Center will be closed off to vehicular traffic, becoming a pedestrian mall for the three-day event.

Members, invited vendors and crafters will participate.

Entertainers will perform from a stage set up on Hancock Street and there will be music throughout the three days and games for children.

Limited space will be available for crafters and vendors not competing with Quincy Business Association members.

For more information about participating in the festival, call the QBA office at 617-471-3232.

Mount Wollaston Cemetery Walking Tour May 21

Quincy historian Tom Galvin will lead an historical walking tour of Mount Wollaston Cemetery Saturday, May 21, at 2 p.m.

The tour will focus on the Quincy granite industry as it takes participants to the graves of that industry's leaders and civic leaders, notable granite monuments and Quincy's war memorials.

Participants will meet at the Greenleaf Street gate. Rain date is Sunday, May 22, at 2 p.m.

This year marks Mount Wollaston Cemetery's sesquicentennial — 1855 to 2005.

Environmental Treasures To Feature Bird Programs

The Park Department's Environmental Treasures program and the Wollaston Garden Club will join forces to host two programs on birding to celebrate International Migratory Bird Month.

Local architect Jim Edwards, a birder for 20 years, will share his extensive knowledge of great birding spots in Quincy on a walking and driving tour Saturday, May 14.

Participants will meet in the parking lot at Caddy Park on Quincy Shore Drive at 9 a.m. Bring binoculars, bird identification books and wear old clothes.

Ornithologist Sally Avery will present a talk and slide show "Birds of the Northeast," to the Wollaston Garden Club Thursday, May 19 at 7 p.m. at the Wollaston Congregational Church on Winthrop Avenue.

The public is invited.

For more information, call 617-376-1254.

Kilroy, Rosie The Riveter Highlights

USS Salem Anniversary Celebration Set For May 15

Rosie the Riveter, 1940s music and a "Kilroy Was Here" scavenger hunt are among the highlights of the USS Salem's anniversary celebration Sunday, May 15, from noon to 4 p.m.

The family event, to be held aboard the USS Salem at 739 Washington St. in Quincy Point, marks the anniversary of the heavy cruiser's commissioning in the 1940s as well as the 10th anniversary of the Salem's opening as a museum. Admission is $5.

In addition to tours of the Salem, the celebration will feature local actress and theatre director Diane Purdy, who will portray "Rosie the Riveter." Dave Drummond, author of "The Shipyard: Will It Float?", will also give a presentation on the history of the Quincy shipyard and its role in producing ships for the Allied war effort in World War II.

A special focus will be placed on "Kilroy Was Here," the popular World War II catchphrase that originated at the Quincy Shipyard. Planned activities include:

• "Kilroy Was Here" Shipboard Scavenger Hunt: Prizes will be awarded to the individual who finds the most occurrences of the catchphrase hidden throughout the ship.

• Pop Culture Kilroy: View film clips, posters and books illustrating how "Kilroy" became a global pop culture phenomenon.

• Kilroy Essay Contest: The winners of the "What 'Kilroy Was Here' Means To Me" Essay Contest will be announced and prizes awarded during the Salem celebration.

• Children's activities and games: Face painting and "Pin the nose on Kilroy" will be among the kids' activities.

• Kilroy merchandise: "Kilroy Was Here" T-shirts, magnets and other merchandise will be available for purchase.

Event attendees will also have an opportunity to help gain extra recognition for "Kilroy Was Here's" role as a powerful morale booster during World War II.

"The USS Salem has printed up pre-addressed postcards asking the Secretary of the Navy to name a new ship the USS Kilroy Was Here," said Jennifer Logue, executive director of Discover Quincy. "They also have postcards asking the Postmaster General to issue a 'Kilroy Was Here' stamp. We hope people will stop by the celebration, pick up these free postcards and send them to the Navy and the Postal Service to encourage them to commemorate 'Kilroy was Here.'"

For more information on the USS Salem Celebration, call the USS Salem at 617-479-7900 or visit www.uss-salem.org.

Board Approves One Smoker's Patio, Denies Other

By MARIE D'OLIMPIO

Two well-known restaurants asked the License Board Tuesday if they can alter their premises and build patios outside their establishments mostly to benefit smokers who usually smoke outside on the sidewalk.

Pat Flanagan's Pub, 79 Parkinway, received approval from the board unanimously by a 5-0 vote while the Fowler House, 1049 Hancock St., was denied by a 3-2 vote.

Voting against the Fowler proposal was Police Chief Robert Crowley, who made the motion to deny, Jay Duca, director of Inspectional Services, who second the motion, and Health Commissioner Drew Scheele.

Voting in favor was Deputy Chief Tim Pettinelli, who was sitting in for Fire Chief Paul O'Connell, and Chairman Joseph Shea.

Crowley said the main reason he was opposed to the Fowler House was the "close proximity to 77 Adams Place." Several abutters told the board they objected to the patio because of the extra noise and a stronger odor of smoke in a contained area of the patio.

William Rizzotti, owner of the Fowler House, said plans for his patio were to be small, 20 feet by 28 feet, and it would be entirely enclosed with a fence. And in response to one abutter that was concerned with a rodents problem, Rizzotti said the dumpster would be a new one with a solid cover.

According to board members, the proximity between Pat Flanagan's and the Hancock House was not a problem as the Adams Place was to the Fowler House.

James Lee, owner of Pat Flanagan's for the past 25 years, said his patio would have 40 to 50 seats and "will be completed within three to four weeks." He had no abutters. One of the restrictions to the approval was that the hours would be from 11 a.m. to 11 p.m. at the patio.

THE OFFICE OF the State Treasurer Tim Cahill has joined forces with the ABCCand Century Council to launch a statewide education campaign to fight underage drinking during prom and graduation season. From left are: Robert Buckley of the Wine and Spirit Wholesalers of Massachusetts; Treasurer Tim Cahill, a Quincy resident; Jay Hibbard of the Century Council; and ABCC Chairman Eddie Jenkins who announce the Massachusetts release of Alcohol 101 for High School Seniors.

Sean Crowley Graduates Coast Guard Training

Coast Guard Reserve Seaman Sean C. Crowley, son of Martha A. and Charles S. Crowley of Quincy, recently graduated from the U.S. Coast Guard Recruit Training Center in Cape May, N. J.

During the eight-week training program, Crowley completed a training curriculum consisting of academics and practical instruction on water safety and survival, military customs and courtesies, seamanship skills, first aid, fire fighting and marksmanship. A major emphasis is also placed on physical fitness, health and wellness.

Men and women train together from the first day in the Coast Guard just as they do aboard ships and shore units throughout the world. To reinforce the team concept, Crowley, and other recruits were trained in preventing sexual harassment, drug and alcohol awareness, civil rights training, and the basics of the work-life balance, as well as total quality management.

He is a 2001 graduate of North Quincy High School.

Quincy Medical Center Joins Statewide Patient Care Initiative

Quincy Medical Center has signed on to the bold, new Patients First initiative sponsored by the Massachusetts Hospital Association, in partnership with the Massachusetts Organization of Nurse Executives, that commits hospitals to work collaboratively in creating practices and innovations aimed at advancing safe, high-quality patient care, and informing the public about them.

"Patients First is a comprehensive undertaking by Massachusetts hospitals to advance our longstanding commitment to the highest levels of safe, high-quality care," said Christine Schuster, RN, MBA, President and CEO of Quincy Medical Center.

"This is an initiative that will clearly benefit both the patient and the caregiver."

Patients First aims to expand public knowledge about how hospitals measure up and promote a supportive work environment dedicated to patient safety for all of the professional caregivers who work in Massachusetts hospitals.

"Patients First is good for patients because it keeps us informed and makes us full partners in helping to shape the institutions from which we receive our care," said Susan Sheridan, the co-founder of CAPS - Consumers Advancing Patient Safety. "This is an unprecedented step to enhance the patients' knowledge and help ensure a safe, high-quality patient experience."

By signing on to Patients First, Quincy Medical Center agrees to:

• Inform patients, their families and the public about how nurse leaders set safe-staffing plans that meet patients' needs and commit to make safe-staffing plans available to the public.

• Promote a supportive work environment through a variety of nationally recognized programs and work with others to identify strategies to address the effects of fatigue on caregivers.

Patients and caregivers on the frontlines will be given greater input, through new hospital advisory groups, into decisions on safety and quality.

Quincy Medical Center also has joined the Institute of Healthcare Improvement's "100,000 Lives Campaign," dedicated to reducing medical errors, and has committed to eliminate mandatory overtime for nurses, with exceptions for emergency situations.

• Provide more public information by publicly reporting their performance on a series of nationally recognized safety and quality measurements, which will allow patients to see how their local hospitals measure up.

• Relieve the nurse shortage. Patients First hospitals will focus on innovative professional training and career development programs for nurses, such as in-house mentoring by experienced nurses and joint funding of nurse-training programs with local community colleges.

In addition, Patient First hospitals will collaborate with others to address the shortage of non-nursing caregivers, such as physicians, pharmacists, technicians, and technologists.

• Inform the public about how quality and safety can be improved and, in addition, forge partnerships with leaders inside and outside of the healthcare system to help ensure access for all to safe, high-quality care.

"Patients First includes proposals to increase the number of nurses in Massachusetts and promotes a safe and supportive work environment for all caregivers," said Karen Moore, RN, president of the Massachusetts Organization of Nurse Executives.

"For hospitals and professional caregivers, Patients First is not simply an initiative, it's our mission."

"At Quincy Medical Center, doctors and nurses work as a team to determine what's best for our patients. We need flexibility and support to make the best decisions about how to care for them," said Christine Schuster, RN, MBA, President and CEO of Quincy Medical Center.

"Patients First gives caregivers on the frontline the support they need to reduce medical errors and ensure high-quality care. This is an initiative that sets real goals, helps hospitals achieve them, and includes the transparency and accountability to ensure that patients know how their hospitals will go about improving care."

justice for all - justice, justice, justice," said Tobin.

Presiding Judge Mark S. Coven said DiNatale was the obvious choice for the award because she exemplifies the qualities of Rabbi Mann - "concern, compassion and commitment to those people who otherwise might be forgotten."

Other awards included:

• The Timothy J. Spillane Outstanding District Court Prosecutor Award went to Assistant District Attorney Craig Kowalski.

• The Quincy Court Jason Feldman Outstanding Citizen Award went to Jacquelyn Loud, longtime Quincy Housing Authority employee.

• Quincy High School students Haozhi Mei and Wen Huang won the Dennis F. Ryan essay contest for their work about the jury system.

• The Alfred F. Malaney Award of the Quincy Bar Association was given to Quincy District Court Judge Paul Buckley for outstanding legal service.

• The James R. McIntyre Humanitarian Award was given to retired judge Willaim Tierney, a Quincy resident and retired chief justice of the Boston Municipal Court.

• The Mark S. Charbonnier Award was presented to Sgt. Scott C. Jennings from the Massachusetts State Police.

Mayor William Phelan underscored the day's theme, "The Jury System," by praising the work of everyone involved at Quincy District Court.

"The good work that goes on in Quincy District Court truly amazes me," he told about 100 attendees, recalling his own experience as an attorney.

The law day address was delivered by Deval Patrick, former assistant attorney general of the U.S. Department of Justice.

Patrick, who recently announced his bid to run for governor in 2006, used the occasion to praise the award recipients, calling them "the best possible example of community."

"Community is alive and well in the example of this ceremony at this place," he told those in attendance.

Rabbi Mendel Gurkov of the South Area Shaloh House Chabad in Stoughton gave the invocation and Rev. Richard Brondyke of the First Presbyterian Church delivered the benediction.

ATTORNEY PAUL R. Tierney, Jr., president of the Quincy Bar Association, makes the Law Day motion, kicking off last week's event at Quincy District Court.

Board Denies Extended Closing Time For Crabby Joe's

By MARIE D'OLIMPIO

The License Board Tuesday, following complaints from Marina Bay Point Condos, denied a request from Crabby Joe's, 307 Victory Road, Marina Bay, to extend their closing hours after 11 p.m. as other establishments in the area are allowed to do.

In June of 2002 the board voted to restrict Crabby Joe's hours.

One abutter, Diane Holbrook, said the noise has increased with the number of bars now open at Marina Bay. And she said residents want to have more of a "quality of life."

Atty. Donald Orkin said he thought Crabby Joe's was being discriminated against because it is at the end of the boardwalk and closest to the condos. He called it "terribly unfair."

Orkin said owner Sean Conroy would make sure the windows were closed in the summer and he promised to install a temporary or permanent wall facing the residents side. Also that he would have police detail Thursday through Sunday.

Chairman Joseph Shea read some letters of opposition and just a few of those in favor.

Ward 6 Councillor Alicia Gardner said she had a neighborhood meeting in April and advised the board to keep the restrictions they made back in June of 2002. And the vote was denied unanimously by a 5-0 vote.

Family Treasure Hunt Subject Of Library Talk

The Friends of the Thomas Crane Public Library will hold a general meeting Wednesday, May 18, at 7 p.m. in the Richardson Building at the Main Library, 40 Washington St.

Reference librarian Linda Beeler will describe how an e-mail question this spring led librarians on a historical treasure hunt that united two long-lost family members and revealed the story of an attempted murder/suicide in a rented room and brought to light a valuable local art collection.

Beeler also tells how tracing the connection between Dr. John A. Gordon, Quincy's first town physician, and Theophilus King, banker, philanthropist and dedicated teetotaler, turned into a memorable adventure.

The public is welcome to attend.

doctorate in June.

His problems with the Board of Directors appear to have come to a head last November when conservative members of the Sharon mosque won a 7-5 majority on the Board.

"It's a deep problem we have faced for 10 years," said Salim Marhamo. "The new people come in here and say, 'It's my way or the highway.' They never have a chance to be trained to live with other people.

"They only know the system back home is to get control and cancel the other party."

Marhamo cited two instances of Imam Talal's style which, he said, upset the Sharon people.

"When the Pope died, the Imam mentioned how the Pope had a good attitude toward peace and he hoped the new pope would continue it," he said. "These people spread rumors to keep people away from his lecture.

"Another time he allowed a woman to stay in the back of the room to hear a lecture. Some people did not like that. They said women should sit in a separate room. There was another fight."

One of the new board's first moves was to install Hafiz Masood, a native of Pakistan, as imam of the Sharon mosque and limit Imam Talal's authority in the Quincy mosque.

Imam Talal protested but it was denied. He asked for arbitration and that was denied, too. On Jan. 12, "realizing that confrontation may not be in the best interest of the community," he resigned, effective June 30.

The petition that is circulating asking Imam Talal's restoration calls for a special meeting of the general membership of the mosque to:

- Reverse the Board of Directors' decision to accept his resignation.
- Request Imam Talal to withdraw his letter of resignation.
- Resolve the issue that led to Imam Talal's resignation through arbitration.

"Their attitude is wrong," said Marhamo,, referring of the majority on the board. "Here in this country you have to respect others. They don't know that."

As Part Of Merrymount Park Project

CTE Students Build, Install Wrought-Iron Gates

DENNIS THIBAULT, WELDING Technology teacher at Quincy High School's Center for Technical Education, receives the 2004-2005 Technology Education Outstanding Teacher Award from Staff Sgt. Kenneth Raimondi from the U.S. Air Force. Thibault was given the award by the Air Force after being chosen by students.

The second phase of a beautification project for Merrymount Park was completed last week by Quincy High School students when they put up a pair of wrought-iron gates near the pedestrian entrance to a planned formal garden at the park.

Fourteen students from the high school's Center for Technical Education welding and metal technology class made the ornamental steel gates and assisted in the installation. The gates were hung between two large stone pillars off Hancock St.

After months of work, last Friday's official unveiling marked the end of phase two of a three-step project that will improve the aesthetics at Merrymount Park. Last year, students fabricated and installed the surrounding steel fence, which runs out in an arc from the stone pillars.

The last phase of the project will involve putting up approximately 1,000 feet of additional steel fencing along Hancock St. Stone pillars are expected to be spaced at intervals along the length of the fence.

Preliminary work is expected to begin by the end of the current school year, according to Dennis Thibault, whose class has undertaken the project.

Thibault said the Quincy Park Department approached him and his assistant Charles Richard, about the multi-phase project. The department asked Thibault and his class to create wrought-iron gates that resemble the fencing outside Eastern Nazarene College.

According to Thibault, the projects serve a two-fold purpose: They gives students hands-on experience while saving taxpayers money.

"They (students) are getting actual live manufacturing and installation experience and it helps prepare them for the outside world," said Thibault. "And taxpayers don't have to pay for the labor because students are doing the work."

Thibault said much of the work on the wrought-iron gates was was done by hand on an anvil, with some help from hydraulic machines.

The new gates stand on Hancock St. just north of Veterans Memorial Stadium opposite the President City Inn. Each half of the gate is five feet wide and weighs approximately 300 pounds.

Thibault was also recognized by the U.S. Air Force as the 2004-2005 Technology Education Outstanding Teacher.

Nominated by students through Technology Education Website, www.teched101.com, Thibault teaches metal fabrication at Quincy High School.

As one of 250 outstanding teacher award recipients, Thibault will compete for Technology Education Outstanding Teacher of the Year.

Students who worked on the project include, from the left, Thomas Whittemore, Ilan Tejada, John Keefe, Ryan Folan, Ryan Hunt, Chris Pratt, Patrick Flashner, Will Donovan, John Nardone, Mike Narzo, Lester Davis, Greg Burrows and Steve McGee. Moving To A New Home Without A Headache

Moving to a new location can feel overwhelming. However, by following a few tips and a short check list, the process of relocating can be relatively trouble-free.

The Better Business Bureau, Inc. provides the following information to help make your next move as smooth as possible.

When choosing a moving company, ask friends and family for recommendations. Check moving companies out with the Better Business Bureau. The BBB has 90,000 Reliability Reports on companies in eastern Massachusetts, Maine and Vermont. You can search these reports 24 hours a day online (www.bosbbb.org). Search broadly in your area or search for specific companies you are considering.

Get estimates from more than one company and get all estimates in writing. Many movers provide non-binding estimates, meaning that charges could exceed the estimate. Binding estimates guarantee the total cost of the move, but can be costly to obtain. Avoid unexpected costs by providing the company with information about anything that could prove problematic, such as items that required a crane to move, or furniture that must be assembled or disassembled.

The mover will issue you a "bill or lading," which is the legal contract between you and the mover. Sign it only after comparing it with the order for service and reviewing it for accuracy. Have it on hand when your items arrive at your new home.

You may consider hiring someone to pack your items, or you may pack them yourself. Be aware that many companies may not be responsible for broken items packed by the owner. If you are packing yourself, consult your moving company for packing tips and information on obtaining quality packing materials.

If you hire a company to pack your items, be present when the items are being packed, obtain a copy of your household item inventory and review it for accuracy. Separate your fragile boxes from the rest of your items and identify them to the moving company on moving day.

When choosing a moving day, keep in mind that the summer months are the busiest, as well as the first of each month and weekends. You may be able to receive a discounted rate during the offseason or between Monday and Thursday. A company is not required to offer a discount during these times, but they may offer one or be willing to negotiate.

Utilize the following checklist when preparing to move:

8 to 6 weeks before move

- Obtain estimates from moving companies.
- Arrange for packing to be done one to two days before loading or begin packing your items.

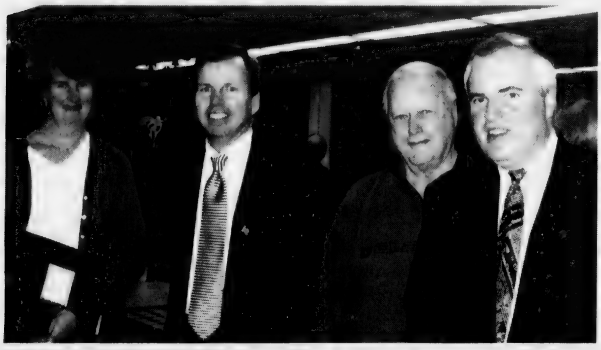
4 weeks

- Arrange to disconnect utilities from your current home and arrange hookup at your new home.
- Donate, sell or throw away unwanted items instead of moving them (this may also cut down the cost of moving).
- If you must store items, arrange at this time.
- If you are moving to an apartment, reserve the elevator for your moving day.

3 weeks

- Arrange change of address for the date of your move.
- Make travel arrangements if required.
- Obtain medical and veterinarian records if you will be changing your doctors.

2 weeks



- Arrange for a baby-sitter for move-in day.
- Make arrangements for pets; with a sitter and/or special travel arrangements.

1 week

- Transfer prescriptions.
- Discontinue delivery services, such as the newspaper or milk.
- If you hired a company to pack your items, then should do so at this point.
- Confirm times and dates with your moving company.

1 to 2 days

- Clear pathways for the move.
- Defrost refrigerators and freezers and clean moisture out once they have defrosted.

NORFOLK COUNTY REGISTER of Deeds William P. O'Donnell spoke recently at the Houghs Neck Community Center about technology and improvements at the Registry along with an overview of the Homestead Act. The event was co-sponsored by Ward One Councillor Leo J. Kelly. Century 21 Annex Realty Announces Top Agents For First Quarter

Phyllis Rudnick, broker/owner of Century 21 Annex Realty in Quincy and Hanover, announces the top agents for the first quarter of 2005.

January: Jodie Walsh, Mary Collins and Mary O'Brien, all of Quincy, led their offices in sales transactions during January.

February: Gus Confalone of Quincy, Zakia Bouzoubaa of Hanover and Ken Huang of Newton, tops in sales during February.

March: Rick McLaughlin and Art Foley, both residents of Quincy, were recognized for outstanding sales performance in March.

The top agent award is based on the total number of successful transactions an agent closes each moth.

For more information, call 617-472-4330.

Neighborhood Housing Services Homebuyer Workshop May 21

Neighborhood Housing Services of the South Shore will hold a First-Time Homebuyer Workshop Saturday, May 21, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at South Shore Savings Bank, 1584 Main St., Weymouth.

All potential first-time homebuyers are invited to attend. Participants will have the opportunity to be prequalified by a lender.

Topics covered include mortgage options, legal aspects of the homebuying process, how a home inspection works and other presentations from real estate professionals. Participants must complete the workshop to qualify for grant programs.

Prior to attending a First-Time Homebuyer Workshop, all participants must attend a free Introductory Session to evaluate credit history and determine level of mortgage readiness. It's strongly suggested attendees obtain a current copy of their credit report.

The next Introductory Session will be held May 17 from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. at South Shore Savings Bank, 1584 Main St., Weymouth. Call in advance to register or discuss dates of future workshops.

There is a $15 fee per person that covers the First-Time Homebuyer Workshop, the Introductory Session and all workshop materials. Breakfast and lunch will be provided. Call 617-770-2227, ext. 31.

Precautions Prevent Ladder Accidents

As you work around your home this spring, be aware that one of the most potentially hazardous tools you'll use has no electric cord, gas engine, whirling blades or any moving parts.

Yet misusing this tool annually sends more than 222,000 people to emergency rooms. What is it? It's an extension ladder or stepladder.

UL safety experts recommend these ladder guidelines:

• Follow the use instructions and warning labels found on ladders. These instructions help you choose the proper ladder for the job and describe ladder weight and height limits.

• Use fiberglass ladders whenever there is a possibility of working near electricity or overhead power lines.

• Before you step on the first rung, inspect the ladder. Ensure the rungs are clean, dry and the ladder is sturdy. Never climb on a slippery or shaky ladder.

• Keep the ladder on a firm, level surface. Don't set the ladder on uneven, soft or muddy ground.

• Remember the 4-to-1 rule. For every 4 feet of ladder height, the bottom of the ladder should be 1 foot away from the wall or object it is leaning against. For example, a 16-foot ladder should have its base 4 feet from the wall.

• On a stepladder, ensure that the spreaders, the devices that hold the front and back sections in an open position, are completely open and locked before you put any weight on the ladder.

• Always use the right height ladder. On a stepladder, don't stand on the bucket shelf. For an extension ladder, make sure it extends 3 feet over the roofline or working surface and that it is not too steep an angle.

• Don't overextend your reach. Move the ladder to new positions as your work progresses.

• Never exceed the ladder's weight limit, otherwise known as the maximum load rating. That means only one person on the ladder at a time.

• Don't carry equipment in your hands while you climb a ladder. Invest in a tool belt or have someone hand the equipment to you.

• Face the ladder when climbing up and down; keep your body weight centered and evenly distributed between the side rails.

• Never move a ladder while standing on it. Always make sure people and equipment are off the ladder before moving or closing it.

• If you have to use the ladder in front of a door, ensure that door is locked or being watched by someone.

• Never leave a raised ladder unattended.

Conway Golf Tournament To Benefit Homeless Coalition

The Jack Conway Realty firm will sponsor its 21st annual charity golf tournament to benefit the MainSpring Coalition for the Homeless Thursday, June 9 at the Easton Country Club.

Contributors may sponsor a hole for $250, a tee or a green for $125, a cart for $25, or can donate raffle prizes as a way to participate in the event, said Denis Lilla, Conway's vice president of sales. To participate, golfers donate $125, which includes the cost of the greens fee, golf cart, a luncheon buffet and tournament prizes.

Since 1985, Conway's annual tournament has raised more than $225,000 to help defray operating costs of the MainSpring shelter in Brockton, Conway House in Middleboro and Evelyn House in Stoughton.

Organizes hope the event raises more than $15,000 for homeless services in Southeastern Massachusetts.

Founded in 1982, MainSpring House provides shelter, food, clothing and services such as adult education courses, case management and referrals to individuals and families in need.

Registration for the MainSpring House Charity Open begins at 7:30 a.m., and play opens at 8 a.m. with a shotgun start. To participate, call Denis Lilla, (781) 871-0080, ext. 327.

A Job Well Done

By SGT. DAN MINTON

On April 22, at approximately 2:10 p.m., Quincy police officers were dispatched to a "bank robbery" at the Citizens Bank located inside the Stop & Shop on Newport Ave. As the units were enroute, "911" operators intensely questioned the caller and notified the officers that a robbery had occurred. Officers John O'Donnell and Brian Coen interviewed the bank tellers, secured as evidence the robber's note, then met with security to review the videotape. No weapon was shown.

SGT. DAN MINTON

The tape showed the suspect, in his 20's, flee out the Newport Ave. exit and run around the store to Wilson Ave., where he stopped briefly to remove exterior layers of clothing. The video showed the suspect being picked up by a man in a Mercury and then drive down Wilson Ave. It also showed the license plate of the vehicle, registered to a Centre St. address in Quincy. Communications dispatchers broadcast a "BOLO" (be on look out) for the suspect vehicle.

Quincy Police Detective Mike Ward staked out the address where the vehicle was registered, but the vehicle did not appear. Detective Jason MacIsaac, with the assistance of the FBI, further reviewed the tapes and made additional observations that would later help determine the identity of the suspects.

Less than 30 minutes later, Officer Joe McGunigle stopped a vehicle with two males in it matching the description of the suspect vehicle. Officer O'Donnell brought photos of the suspects to Officer McGunigle. Although they were not the suspects, Officer McGunigle arrested both occupants on unrelated criminal charges and recovered numerous items involved in past breaks.

Detective Rick Wash received information from officials at the Dedham jail that a suspect matching the description had served his time and was recently released from jail. Further checks showed that Boston police arrested him on the same day for assault and battery but after the bank robbery.

Detective Wash believed that the Boston booking photo and the security photos were showing the same person. Meanwhile, Detective Sean Biggins created a "photo array," and the witnesses identified the suspect. BCI Captain Anthony DiBona submitted a photo of the robbery suspect to the Patriot Ledger and callers responded by providing his identity.

On April 26, Officer Joe McGunigle, again on routine patrol, found the suspect's Mercury parked in the area of the Quincy District Court House. Detectives Coppens, Maloney and Cleary staked out the car. After a short wait, they questioned a male which revealed many loopholes in his story. He was arrested for "accessory after the fact to unarmed robbery" (more charges pending). This suspect told detectives that he drove the other suspect to the Stop & Shop and was waiting for his friend to finish shopping. He identified the robber as the suspect arrested by Boston police.

Detectives MacIsaac and Maloney interrogated the robbery suspect, being held at the Suffolk County Jail, after giving him his Miranda rights. He confessed to robbing the bank. He stated that the driver did not know that he had robbed the bank, but our detectives states this is hard to believe since he was waiting for him behind the store.

The robbery suspect, a 33-year-old male from Needham, faces numerous charges associated with the bank robbery. His accomplish is a 58-year-old male from Quincy. The case was solved due to the diligence and team efforts of the Quincy Police Department and assisting law enforcement agencies, pooling their information and diverse investigative skills.

Nice work!

Injured officer update: Officer Bill Ward was injured last Friday after being forced from his motorcycle to avoid an accident. He suffered a concussion and was transported to Boston Medical Center. Officer Ward is now recovering at home and hopes to return to work soon.

SPRING CAR CARE

Communication Promotes Quality Auto Repair

Even if you don't know the difference between a fuel injector and an oxygen sensor, there are still things you can do to help your auto repair technician properly service your vehicle, according to AAA Southern New England.

"Consumers can help by accurately describing the problem and by asking questions until they understand the work being done on their car," AAA Manager of Approved Auto Repair Alfred Ruggiero. "Accurate communication between the repair shop and the customer is one of the most important contributors to trouble-free auto service."

The first step is to make an appointment for repairs whenever possible. If the shop management knows you are coming and has an idea of the problem, they can assign the right person to the job and allow enough time to get it done properly.

When you arrive at the shop, don't tell the service advisor what you think needs to be fixed or replaced unless it's obvious. Instead, describe the problem and its symptoms. Let the technician determine what needs to be fixed.

To avoid misunderstandings, always get an estimate in writing. Oral estimates can be disputed or forgotten. Most written estimates contain a clause allowing the actual cost to exceed the estimate by a certain percentage, such as 10 percent or $10 in Massachusetts.

Carefully read the work order before you leave your vehicle at the shop. Be wary of broad statements such as "check and correct transmission noise" or "repair engine." You could wind up with a new transmission or engine and a bill higher than you expected. Also, never sign a blank work order, and never tell the shop personnel to "do what's necessary" or "just fix it," unless the problem will clearly be covered by warranty.

Make sure you understand the shop's warranty. It should be printed on the bill. If not, ask for it in writing.

Finally, take a test drive. If the car isn't running right, don't take it home. If you discover that the problem is not solved after you leave the shop, make an appointment to bring the car back as soon as possible.

To further ensure quality auto repair, AAA recommends motorists take their vehicles to shops recognized by AAA's Approved Auto Repair program. These shops have met AAA's rigorous standards for technician competence and customer satisfaction. AAA-approved shops are also equipped with the sophisticated equipment needed to service today's high-tech vehicles.

Warm Weather Drivers To Have New Challenges

You've survived winter's ice-covered roads and frigid temperatures, but spring and summer bring unique challenges. To help motorists handle the primary seasons of auto travel, AAA Southern New England offers the following information:

Flooded Roads

The heavy rains of spring and summer can quickly lead to dangerous flood conditions. AAA offers the following tips for motorists dealing with such conditions.

• Check traffic reports for the location of flooded roads.

• Approach standing water with extreme caution. Do not attempt to drive through deep water or on bridges and roads that are heavily flooded.

• Even if you are confident that your car can make it through the flooded area, it is still possible that water could be forced into your engine compartment, damaging or destroying your engine.

• If there is a risk of flash flood, avoid traveling on roads that run along streams or drainage ditches.

Pothole Blues

With spring comes baseball, flowers and potholes. A direct hit to a pothole can cause vehicle alignment to be thrown off and can damage steering components, tires and wheels. To prevent or minimize damage from potholes:

• Drive slowly on pothole-filled roads.

• If there is sufficient time and space, maneuver around the pothole but do not swerve wildly.

• Slow down as your approach a pothole, but when directly over the hole, do not brake. Applying the brakes causes the car's weight to shift to the front wheels and can increase damage from the impact.

• When driving on pothole-filled roads, hold the steering wheel firmly to avoid losing control.

• Be aware that a puddle could be a pothole in disguise.

Construction safety

Warm weather signals the start of many road construction projects. To safely navigate through construction zones:

• Slow to a safe speed, which is usually posted through the construction area.

• Obey all signs and signals.

• Watch for pedestrians and work vehicles.

• Change lanes with caution.

• Expect sudden stops.

Heat Dangers

Under extreme heat, the temperature inside a parked car can reach more than 190 degrees in just 30 minutes. When dealing with such dangerously high temperatures:

• Don't leave children or animals unattended in a car, not even for a short period of time.

• When parked, use a sun shield to cover the windshield to minimize heat build-up and to help protect the car's interior. Cover metal and plastic parts on seat belts and child safety seats to prevent burns.

• Open the vehicle's doors and let the interior cool off for a few minutes before entering.

Oils Beats The Heat

Motor oil does more than lubricate an engine's moving parts. It also plays a significant role in helping beat the summer heat. As oil coats hot engine parts, it absorbs heat caused by friction and combustion. When the oil drains to the bottom of the engine, the heat is dissipated by air flowing under the car. Maintaining a proper level of fresh oil is essential to protect a car's vital components.

Summer Storms Need Special Driving Skills

Motorists caught in a sudden summer thunderstorm will be safer if they learn and practice wet-weather driving skills, says AAA Southern New England.

"Knowing what to do is important because the odds of having a collision increase in wet weather," said David J. Raposa, director of AAA's Public Affairs. "A hard rain can limit visibility so that a driver can't see the edges of the road, traffic signs or other cars.

"Whether on vacation or running an errand, a driver who knows how to manage reduced visibility and slick pavement is more likely to stay in control."

AAA offers the following tips to help motorists navigate their way through wet weather:

• Turn on windshield wipers as soon as rain begins to fall. If intermittent wipers are used, be certain they are set to a speed that will clear the windshield before visibility is compromised.

• Use low-beamed headlights whenever you use your windshield wipers. This will help other drivers see your car and increase visibility.

• Slow down and increase following distances. Speed limits are set for ideal road conditions. When it rains, visibility is reduced and braking distances increase.

• If you are forced to stop in traffic due to poor visibility, turn on emergency flashers immediately and pull as far off the road as possible.

KEEPING IN CONTROL

Single-vehicle crashes account for more than half of all highway deaths, and two-thirds of these deaths involve rollovers. The good news is that electronic stability control (ESC), a safety feature that senses an impending skid and applies individual brakes to instantly restore control, prevents rollovers and departures from the road. In fact, the National Highway Transportation Safety Administration (NHTSA) has found that ESC reduces fatalities in single-vehicle SUV crashes by 63%. According to the Insurance Institute for Highway Safety, single-vehicle deaths fell by 56% in cars and trucks equipped with ESC. If research continues to confirm the effectiveness of ESC, it may become a mandatory safety feature. ESC may be the most critical safety advance since the seat belt.

ESC systems can be life savers, and are appearing on many new vehicles. If you have any questions about anything related to your car, don't hesitate to ask any questions when you bring it into LEO & WALT'S SUNOCO for servicing. We have modern test equipment, the right parts and the best ASE Certified service technicians available in the area. We also use the AllData CD-ROM based system for the very latest in maintenance and service bulletins for all makes of cars. Let's get acquainted at 258 Quincy Ave., E. Braintree (781-843-1550). We are "A Place Where Your Car Can Live Longer." Sunoco and most major credit cards honored.

HINT: The newest versions of ESC add more rollover sensors that help maintain the vehicle in the upright position, as well as trigger curtain air bags if the vehicle does roll over.

Presidents Split, Within 2 Games Tourney Berth

BASEBALL

The Quincy High School baseball team split a pair of games last week to move within two games of clinching a state tournament berth.

The Presidents rallied for a 7-5 victory last Monday at Falmouth and dropped a 4-2 decision at Dennis-Yarmouth last Wednesday behind some shaky defense.

Quincy (8-5 overall, 2-4 Atlantic Coast League), which hosted Nauset Monday, has a week off as it will play next Monday at Sandwich at 4 p.m.

In the Dennis-Yarmouth game, senior captain John Folino turned in a strong outing, allowing only an infield single while striking out nine. He also walked his first batter of the season to go along with his 64 strikeouts.

The Presidents took a 1-0 in the first inning. Senior Ray Marchand singled, moved to second on an errant pickoff throw and scored on a single by senior captain Steve Sullivan, who is batting .528 (19-for-36) this season.

The Dolphins benefited from two errors to tie the score in the bottom half. After the catcher dropped a foul pop-up, Folino ended up walking the hitter who advanced to second on a sacrifice bunt. He scored when the ball got by the third baseman on a stolen base attempt.

Folino gave up an infield dribbler to short in the third inning. After the runner was bunted over to second, the defense committed three consecutive errors as D-Y took a 4-1 lead.

Senior captain Steve Priscella blasted a home run to center field to lead off the sixth inning but that was all the Presidents would score.

Against Falmouth, the Presidents used their seventh-inning magic again as they produced four runs on five straight hits to erase a 5-3 deficit.

Senior Ed Laura led off with a pinch-hit infield single up the middle and sophomore Steve Connolly and Priscella each singled to load the bases. Marchand lined an RBI single, Sullivan (4-for-4) belted a two-run double and Folino had an RBI groundout.

Quincy scored three runs in the first inning on Sullivan's RBI single and Folino's two-run home run 390 feet over the center field fence.

Falmouth evened the score in the bottom half and pushed across two runs in the fifth for a 5-3 lead.

Senior captain John Santon started the game, giving up five runs on six hits with five strikeouts in five innings of work. Folino struck out six in two innings of relief to pick up the win.

Exercisers With Disabilities Raise Funds In Marathon

Four exercisers with disabilities at the South Shore YMCA received official Boston Marathon medals and t-shirts for cycling the distance of the Boston Marathon using arm ergometers at the Y.

The marathoners finished the race in well under two hours. These efforts, organized by Joe Monahan, were to help raise funds to purchase additional exercise equipment for people with disabilities at the Y.

Joe had been a Boston Marathon runner before a diving accident left him paralyzed from the neck down. He was a charter member of the South Shore YMCA Partnership Program when it began in 1992. The program pairs people with disabilities such as spinal cord injury, multiple sclerosis, cerebral palsy, stroke, blindness and more with volunteer training partners.

Having done a similar fundraiser in 1997, Joe decided it was time to ride again. This time, however, he gathered a team of fellow program participants including Jimmy Costello, Paul Jung, and Nicole Antil. They trained hard for the race, and all were successful in completing the marathon, raising more than $6400 to-date. Donations are still being accepted.

"When training people with disabilities, it is crucial to have the proper equipment," said Partnership Program Director Sheryl Rosa. "Special cuffs, power lifting hooks, quad gloves, and elastic tubing all help enable program members to do the same upper body exercises as able-bodied individuals. Larger pieces of specialized adaptive equipment for our disabled members can be very expensive, yet with our ever-expanding program, more equipment is now needed," she said.

Some of the funds will go toward the purchase of a standing frame that offers safe, dynamic leg motion during standing therapy for Partnership Program members with para- and quadriplegia. Weight-bearing exercise such as this is particularly helpful for individuals who are unable to walk, as it helps strengthen bones. The group also hopes to purchase a seated stepper that can be used for any YMCA member who has difficulty getting on and off of the conventional recumbent bikes.

To make a donation to these marathoners, contact Sheryl Rosa, Partnership Program Director of the South Shore YMCA in Quincy, at (617) 479-8500, x148.

Infinity Mortgage, Corner Crew, Feenan Win

Babe Ruth International

In a rain-abbreviated, five-inning game, Infinity Mortgage recently opened the Babe Ruth International league season with a 5-3 over Corner Crew at Pond Street Field.

Zach Helfrich allowed one run and one hit in three innings to pick up the win. Alex Brean, Ryan Keany and Edwin Nunez collected hits. Second baseman Ryan Bennett ended the game with a diving catch with two runners on base.

For Corner Crew, Will Head went the distance, scattering six hits and striking out seven. Paul Reggianini, Tom Cooper and Dave Hennessy had hits.

Commonwealth 14, GDC 4

Dan Murphy and Joe Madden each had three hits and three runs to lead Commonwealth Building, Inc. to a 14-4 win over Graeber, Davis and Cantwell. Pat Dunn tripled and scored two runs. Peter Lawler started an eight-run fifth inning with a double and scored two runs. First baseman Eric Jensen played great defensively.

For GDC, Matt Guerriero pitched six strong innings and had two hits. Catcher Paul Reardon stood out defensively with several outstanding tags at home. James Sullivan had two hits.

Corner Crew 10, SSGA 5

Tommy Cooper (four innings, six strikeouts) and Will Head (three innings, five strikeouts) led the Corner Crew to their first win.

Paul Reggianini cleared the bases with a triple to deep center field. Steve Barresi (two hits, two RBI), Head (two hits) and Sean Aiken (two hits) led a powerful attack. Tommy Petitti played flawlessly at second base.

For State Street Global Advisors, Steve Babcock threw out four runners attempting to steal and also had two hits. Chris McDaniel and Steve Mulligan also banged out two hits. Second baseman Kevin Mullarkey played a solid game.

Feenan 6, GDC 4

Jeff Olson doubled, tripled and homered and knocked in four runs to lead Feenan Financial. Mike Gillespie pitched five strong innings (eight strikeouts) for the win and Ken Patey pitched well in relief. Richie Ryan had an RBI single and Laura Leger started a double play with a great catch of a line drive.

For Graeber, Davis and Cantwell, Paul Reardon played a great game behind the plate. Matt Guerriero and Lamonte Toombs sparked the offense.

Corner Crew 14, Moose 4

Dave Hennessey scattered five hits and struck out eight in a complete-game win. Greg McDouglas caught the whole game, throwing out two runners trying to steal. McDouglas, Hennessey, Dan MacAuley and Will Head each had two hits and two RBI. Sean Carey played a solid game at first base while Brian Kilcullen and Steve Santana (two hits) patrolled the outfield flawlessly.

For Braintree Moose, John Rowland, Brendan Murphy and Nick Poli each hit a double. Poli, the catcher, threw out three base runners.

Quincy Youth Football Sign-Up For 2005 Season May 21, June 11

Quincy Youth Football will hold sign-ups for its 2005 season May 21 and June 11 from 9 to 11 a.m.

Players and cheerleaders, ages 9-14 (grades 4-8 in the fall) who live in Quincy, are eligible to sign up. Players must weigh no less than 70 pounds and not more than 170 pounds. Registration fee, one of the lowest in the state, is $85 for players and cheerleaders.

Sign-ups will be held at the following locations: North Quincy Apaches, Pageant Field; West Quincy Elks, O'Rourke Field; Houghs Neck Manets, Lebrecque Field and Snug Harbor Elementary; Quincy Point Panthers, Fore River Field; and Squantum Storm, Squantum Community Center.

This year, the teams will have the privilege of helping the city to unveil the renovated Veterans Memorial Stadium, featuring state-of-the-art synthetic grass playing surface and other amenities.

North Quincy Defeats Falmouth For First Win

The North Quincy High School softball team finally broke into the win column with a 12-7 victory at Falmouth last Wednesday.

"It's great for the kids," said head coach Larry Keough. "I care for them and I like to watch them be happy. They played hard. That's all you can expect."

The Red Raiders (1-8 overall, 1-4 Atlantic Coast League), which hosted Sandwich Monday and Nauset Wednesday, will play Falmouth Friday at 4 p.m. at Mitchell/McCoy Field.

SOFTBALL

The defense, which haunted them in a 7-3 loss at Marshfield last Monday, played well behind senior starting pitcher Caitlin Dow.

"What's killing us is the errors," Keough said. "We had eight against Marshfield that led to four unearned runs. We have to cut down on it. We played Falmouth great defensively."

Dow came up big in the sixth inning. North Quincy held a 12-5 lead when the Clippers put runners on second and third with one out. But Dow recorded one of her three strikeouts and induced a pop-up to escape the inning.

Offensively, junior Kelly Barden (4-for-5), senior captain Sarah Kennedy (3-for-5) and junior Jaquie Mullen (3-for-5) powered the offense. Freshman Rebecca Goreham and sophomore Maria Della Croce belted doubles. Kennedy is third in the league in hitting with a .517 average (15-for-29).

Quincy Wins Two, Undefeated In League

The Quincy High School softball team won a pair of Atlantic Coast League games last week to remain undefeated in the league.

Senior captain Rachel Sorensen fired a no-hitter in last Monday's 9-0 victory over Falmouth and the Presidents routed Dennis-Yarmouth, 12-2, last Wednesday, both games at Mitchell-McCoy Field.

Last Friday, though, the Presidents fell at Fontbonne Academy, 3-1, for the second time this year as it remains winless in non-league games.

Quincy (6-4 overall, 6-0 ACL), which traveled Nauset Monday and to Cardinal Spellman Wednesday, will host Stoughton Saturday at 4 p.m. and Sandwich next Monday at 4 p.m. at Mitchell/McCoy Field.

Against Fontbonne, the Presidents couldn't handle junior pitcher Kat Roland again. Roland, who threw a perfect game against Quincy April 22, struck out eight this time around.

In the Dennis-Yarmouth game, Rachel Sorensen fanned six in the complete-game victory and she also went 3-for-4 at the plate.

Junior Leanna Lam went 4-for-6 with a triple and three stolen bases. She is second in the league in hitting with a .600 average (18-for-30). Senior Marissa Powers lined a two-run double to highlight an eight-run fourth inning.

Against Falmouth, Sorensen, who tossed a perfect game in her season debut, punched out 10 and walked just one in the no-hitter. Lam (3-for-4, three runs), junior Courtney Hall (three runs) and sophomore Brighid Kyle (two RBI) powered the offense.

Morrisette Legion Baseball Tryouts Saturday, Sunday

The Morrisette American Legion baseball team will hold tryouts Saturday and Sunday beginning at 1 p.m. at O'Rourke Field on Quarry Street, West Quincy.

Anyone who lives in Quincy, born on or after Jan. 1, 1986, is eligible to try out.

Tryouts will continue at O'Rourke Field on Saturdays and Sundays through the month of May.

There are 11 teams competing for this year's Zone 6 title: Braintree, Canton, Cohasset, Dorchester, Milton, Morrisette, Quincy, Stoughton, West Roxbury, Weymouth, Holbrook.

Each team will play a 20-game schedule starting June 8 and ending July 11 with zone, sectional and state playoffs to follow. The state tournament will be held in Milford beginning July 30.

Quincy Legion Baseball Tryouts Saturday At Bishop Field

The Quincy American Legion baseball team will hold tryouts Saturday from 10 a.m. to noon at Bishop Field, Holbrook Road in the Montclair section of North Quincy.

The city is divided in half for purposes of legion baseball. The dividing line is the Red Line railroad tracks in North Quincy to City Hall, then Hancock Street to Quincy Avenue, Scammel Street to Sumner Street to Washington Street and then east to the Fore River bridge.

All players who live on the ocean/beach side of the dividing line must try out for Quincy Legion. Players who live on the Milton/Braintree side of this line must try out for Morrisette Legion.

Any eligible Quincy resident born on or after Jan. 1, 1986 is welcome to try out. The Quincy Legion team his a minimum of seven spots open this year due to the graduation of seven players from last year's squad.

This season Holbrook Legion has rejoined the league giving Zone 6 11 teams competing for the league championship. Quincy will play each of the opposing 10 teams home and away. They include Braintree, Canton, Cohasset, Dorchester, Holbrook, Milton, Morrisette, Stoughton, West Roxbury and Weymouth.

Those players who are unable to attend the tryouts or for more information, contact coach Mark Jaehnig at 617-472-3311.

by Steven A. Brustin, D.M.D.

A STERILE ENVIRONMENT

Stringent guidelines set forth by the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention and the Occupational Safety and Health Administration ensure that each patient will be protected from infectious diseases while visiting the dentist. These protective measures include steam autoclaving all instruments and hand pieces after every use. Disposal items are also used whenever appropriate. In addition, dentists and staff wear protective eyeglasses during treatment, as well as disposal gloves. All areas that are touched during the procedures are covered with a plastic wrap and changed after each patient so as to eliminate cross contamination. Also, all surfaces, chairs, lights, and units are thoroughly disinfected before and after every patient use.

Our dental personnel are trained to take universal precaution to protect our patients. Regular exams to check the health of your teeth and gums and regular cleanings to remove plaque and tartar are essential for a healthy mouth. Ask us today about ways to improve your smile. Our goal is to provide the very best dental care possible for our patients so that they may achieve optimal dental health throughout their lifetime. We're located at 44 Greenleaf Street, where our entire staff operates as a team. Call 617-479-6220 to schedule an appointment. We offer the services of anesthesiology with a fully trained and qualified anesthesiologist. Visit us on the web at www.quincydentist.com.

P.S. Recommended instrument sterilization methods include the use of an autoclave (steam under pressure), a dry heat oven, or chemical vapor (commonly called a chemiclave).

SCOTT DEWARE

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

Do you ever think about how other people react to you upon meeting you for the first time? Do you protect yourself favorably or vice-versa?

Have you ever thought how facial expressions contributes to first impressions? A smile can be so important. It can be warm with eyes sparkling or it can be just a contraction of the facial muscles. . . A smile can be the difference between making a friend or an acquaintance or even an enemy. . .

We are all aware that friendship is a very precious thing. We need friends in time of trouble just as we need them in our times of joy and pleasure. However, we sometimes forget that just as we may find first overtures difficult, so do other people find them equally hard. The rules of social behavior help us over these awkward moments. But couldn't it be said that it is our attitude, our willingness to be friendly, our interest in the other person that is the deciding factor? This is where the smile comes in. . . Oh yes, it can say so much more than words. . .

Salome's Stars

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) A seemingly stalled romantic situation could benefit from your reassurance that you want this relationship to work. And if you do, use a tad more of that irresistible Aries charm.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Going to new places and meeting new people appeals to both the Taurean's romantic and practical side. After all, you never can tell where those new contacts can take you. Right?

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) That career-change opportunity that didn't work out when you first considered it could come up again. But this time, remember that you have more to offer and should act accordingly.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) There could be some tensions in relationships — domestic or workaday. But a calm approach that doesn't raise the anger levels and a frank discussion will soon resolve the problem.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) It's a good idea to begin preparing for that career change you've been thinking about for a while. Start to sharpen your skills and expand your background to be ready when it calls.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) Bless that Virgo skepticism that has kept you from falling into traps others seem to rush into. But you might want to give a new possibility the benefit of the doubt, at least on a trial basis.

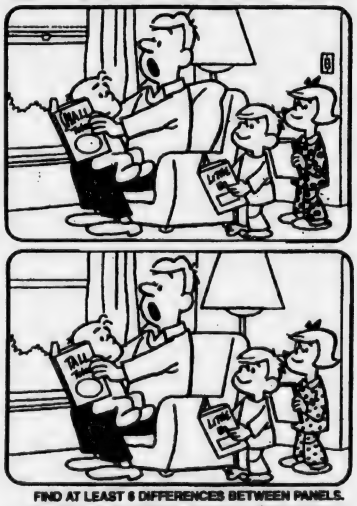
LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) Traveling and career are strong in your aspect. Perhaps your job will take you to someplace exotic. Or you might be setting up meetings with potential clients or employers. Whatever it is, good luck.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) Someone might use deception to try to push you into making a decision you're not fully comfortable with. But those keen Scorpio senses should keep you alert to any such attempt.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) Romance dominates this week when Cupid spears the Archer, for a change. Positive things are also happening in the workplace. Expect important news to arrive by the week's end.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) Anyone trying to bully the Sea Goat — whether it involves a personal or a professional matter — will learn a painful lesson. Others will also benefit from the Goat's strong example.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) Congratulations. With things going the way they are, you should be able to spare some time and take a break from your hectic schedule for some well-earned fun and games.



PISCES (February 19 to March 21) Your sharp Piscean intuition should be able to uncover the true agendas of those who might be trying to catch the Fish in one of their schemes.

BORN THIS WEEK: Your flair for innovative art and design keeps you at least a step ahead of most everyone else.

January 28, 2005
NOTICE OF PETITION FOR PROBATE OF WILL

To all persons interested in the above captioned estate, a petition has been presented praying that a document purporting to be the last will of said decedent be proved and allowed, and that KAREN B. KEENAN also known as KAREN J. KEENAN of SQUANTUM in the County of NORFOLK or some other suitable person be appointed executor, named in the will to serve without surety.

IF YOU DESIRE TO OBJECT THERETO, YOU OR YOUR ATTORNEY MUST FILE A WRITTEN APPEARANCE IN SAID COURT AT CANTON ON OR BEFORE TEN O'CLOCK IN THE FORENOON (10:00AM) ON JUNE 15, 2005.

In addition, you must file a written affidavit of objections to the petition, stating specific facts and grounds upon which the objection is based, within thirty (30) days after the return day (or such other time as the court, on motion with notice to the petitioner, may allow) in accordance with Probate Rule 16.

WITNESS, HON. DAVID H. KOPELMAN, ESQUIRE, First Justice of said Court at CANTON this day, May 3, 2005.

thing that ever happened to Germantown," said Harrington. "No area of the city deserves it more than Germantown."

Harrington said the city has tucked away approximately $282,000 in Community Development Block Grant funds for the Germantown Neighborhood Center, while the YMCA has approximately $270,000 in funds donated from State Street Bank for community services in Germantown.

Many community leaders and elected officials have described the former church as an ideal location for a health/neighborhood center.

"If this deal goes through, it goes beyond your wildest imagination," said Ward 1 Councillor Leo Kelly, who assisted in the establishment of the Manet Community Health Center.

"I don't see how they (Archdiocese) could turn us down for this purchase. This community has made the church what it was, and this would be a good way to give back to the community," he said.

Calling it a "great opportunity" to help needy families, state Sen. Michael Morrissey is asking the Archdiocese of Boston to sell the former St. Boniface Church at little or no cost to expand health and neighborhood services in the area.

In a letter to Archbishop Sean O'Malley, Morrissey urged the Archdiocese of Boston to sell the former church at a "reduced or minimal amount" to either the City of Quincy and/or the Manet Community Health Center.

Morrissey called it a "great opportunity for the Archdiocese to send the right message of their ongoing commitment to help our neediest members of our society."

He said the Germantown section of Quincy stands to benefit the most from a health and neighborhood center because it holds the largest population of low income families on the South Shore.

"The closing of the church has left a big hole in the level of services and the potential for the delivery of help and assistance to local residents both financially and spiritually," Morrissey wrote.

The last Mass was celebrated at St. Boniface on Jan. 30, and Coldwell Banker was hired to broker the sale of the 47-year-old building.

The property is zoned Residence A, and is assessed at more than $1 million. It includes enough space for three single-family homes.

In the late 1990s, it was merged with Our Lady of Good Counsel in Merrymount and renamed St. Elizabeth Seton Parish.

In February, the two former parishes were united with Most Blessed Sacrament Church in Houghs Neck as Holy Trinity Parish. Blessed Sacrament and Our Lady remained open as churches.

Keating Parent Forum On Drug Use May 19

Quincy Public Schools, in collaboration with Impact Quincy, is hosting Norfolk County District Attorney William Keating's Parent Information Forum on Thursday, May 19 at 7 p.m. in the Lloyd Hill Auditorium of Quincy High School.

The workshop will address gateway drugs, over the counter prescription medications, and the increasing influence of Oxycontin and heroin.

Speakers will include community leaders, treatment professionals, law enforcement officials, and a parent's perspective. Resource materials will be available for parents.

All parents are welcome.

Tax Incentive Legislation

Council Approves Key Portion Of Downtown Redevelopment Plan

A key component of the Phelan administration's plan to boost development in the downtown has received the city council's stamp of approval.

On a 7-0 vote, the council ok'd the city's bid to take advantage of District Improvement Financing (DIF), a state tax incentive program that allows cities and towns to use anticipated taxes from any new development to borrow money to pay for public improvements downtown.

Quincy is expected to be one of the first municipalities in the state to apply for the program.

The measure was created two years ago and fleshed out last summer.

"We appreciate the council's unanimous approval, but we have a lot of work ahead of us in the coming months," said Planning Director Dennis Harrington.

During the next few months, Harrington said, the city will be ironing out all the issues regarding a final downtown development plan and a financial plan for investors.

"We will be consulting with financial experts to make sure our invested financial plan is well drafted and well put together," said Harrington, noting that he anticipates that the borrowing for the downtown redevelopment plan will come from the sale of revenue bonds.

On May 31, the city is expected to appear before the state Economic Assistance Coordinating Council, which oversees DIF approval.

Ward 2 Councillor Dan Raymondi and Ward 4 Councillor Jay Davis did not participate in the debate because their status regarding the downtown redistricting plan remains in limbo.

Raymondi and Davis said they have yet to obtain a definitive opinion from the solicitor's office or State Ethics Commission (SEC) as to whether their participation in the rezoning initiative constitutes a conflict of interest. Davis owns property within the proposed district and Raymondi's home on Elm St. is near but not in the proposed district.

Originally, the city's legal office suggested that the councillor's potential funding interest in the downtown area is "too remote and speculative" to trigger the state's conflict of interest laws.

But SEC lawyers disagreed in part, citing the possibility that the two councillors should have their property appraised to see if they stand to gain.

At issue is whether the value of the councillors' properties would be affected by passage of the rezoning initiative.

At Raymondi's request, the council passed a motion asking the solicitor's office to obtain two appraisals each for the properties to determine whether their value would be affected by the rezoning of the district.

Raymondi said he would like to participate in the debate because Ward 2 abuts the proposed district, but he does not want his participation called into question.

"I want the door closed, one way or another," Raymondi told the council.

Davis agreed, saying the appraisal information would be helpful to the SEC before it makes a final decision.

Council President Frank McCauley voted against the motion, and said the city should not be in the business of paying for appraisals for elected officials.

"This is their problem, let them straighten it out with the Ethics Commission," said McCauley, referring to Davis and Raymondi.

Dave Murphy, Phelan's director of operations, said the mayor's office is willing to review the motion and try

Phelan Submits $221.2M Budget

By WILLIAM TRAYNOR

Mayor William Phelan has unveiled his proposed Fiscal 2006 budget, a $221.2 million financial package that calls for a moderate increase in education spending and restores several positions in city departments.

The city council Monday night received Phelan's proposed budget, a plan that increases spending by about $8 million over his proposed 2005 budget, or 3.7 percent. In fiscal 2005, however, the city spent approximately $211.1 million after the council and mayor amended the original proposal. As a result, Phelan's new plan represents a $10 million increase over the actual 2005 spending package.

The council will examine the spending plan during the next month, holding two meetings a week starting next week.

Phelan's budget contains no layoffs and actually calls for the hiring of about a dozen positions that were cut over the past few years.

Mosquito Spraying Starts May 26

The Norfolk County Mosquito Control Project will begin spraying a pesticide Thursday, May 26 for mosquito control, the Quincy Health Department announces.

Applications will occur on Thursday mornings from 2 to 6:30 a.m. and continue weekly until the week of Sept. 30.

Not all areas of the city will be entirely treated on a given date, according to the health department. If inclement weather occurs or equipment fails, the application will be added to the next scheduled day.

The pesticide sprayed is called Anvil, which will be applied in ultra low volume sprayers at the rate of one half ounce per acre of finished spray. The pesticide is a combination of two ingredients, Sumithrin and Piperonyl Butoxide. Sumithrin is a synthetic pyrethroid which imitates the natural pesticides found in chrysanthemums. Sumithrin breaks down rapidly in the environment and is expected to pose little risk to humans when used at low concentrations for mosquito control, according to the Environmental Protection Agency.

Essay Contest Winners Announced

Quincy Celebrates USS Salem, WWII's Famed Kilroy

They celebrated the birthday of the heavy cruiser USS Salem as a museum and the rebirth of the phrase "Kilroy Was Here" Sunday on a section of the former Fore River Shipyard where both were born more than a half century ago.

With actress-director Diane Purdy portraying Rosie the Riveter and real life shipyard worker Mildred Vento returning as Winnie the Welder, the USS Salem observed its 10th anniversary as the center piece of the U. S. Naval Shipyard Museum.

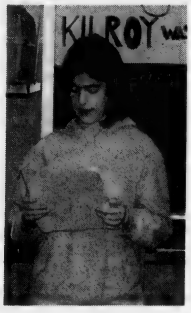
And with at least a dozen descendants of James J. Kilroy, whose chalked notation, "Kilroy Was Here," created a World War II legend, on hand, Discover Quincy revealed the winners of its promotional campaign essay contest on "What 'Kilroy Was Here' means to me."

There was also a "Kilroy Was Here" shipboard scavenger hunt, a presentation by Dave Drummond, a former shipyard worker and author of "The Shipyard: Will It Float?" and children's activities, including "Pin the Nose on Kilroy."

Winners of the essay contests were Jessica Nguyen, a seventh grader at the Broad Meadows Middle School, first place in the student category; and Paul McShane, head of the English Department at North Quincy High School, first place in the adult class.

Excerpts from Nguyen's essay, delivered by classmate Nora Campbell in the absence of Nguyen who was attending a church event, read like this:

"'Kilroy Was Here,' a simple character and saying, is a profound reminder of both the World War II sacrifice and successes of shipbuilders in Quincy and the heroic service of U. S. Navy shipmates and Marines who took these Quincy-built ships 'in harm's way.'

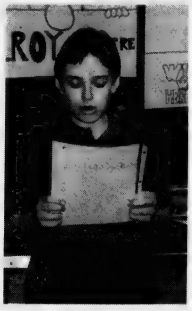


"'Kilroy Was Here' reminds us of the vital role Quincy played in defeating Nazi Germany, Imperial Japan and Fascist Italy. U. S. Naval history was made here in Quincy, back when 'Kilroy Was Here.'

"I'm proud to live in the city that did so much to preserve freedom during World War II. That's what 'Kilroy Was Here' means to me."

McShane's essay told the story of his late father, a deputy fire chief in Quincy and a U. S. Army technical sergeant in France, but before that a welder at the Fore River Shipyard.

PAUL McSHANE won first prize in the adult division of the 'What "Kilroy Was Here" means to me' essay contest.



JESSICA NGUYEN's first prize essay in the student category was read by her classmate Nora Campbell.

"The shipyard icon he spoke of most often was the funny little cartoon of a man peering over a fence accompanied by the logo, 'Kilroy Was Here.' He was there when James Kilroy began to boost the morale of American troops in a remarkably simple but effective manner.

"'I was here,' Kilroy's hastily drawn figure seemed to say. 'I have inspected the rivets on this bulkhead. You are safe. People at home care about your safety.'"

Second place among the students entries went to Thomas Nigl of Central Middle School and honorable mention to Dianna Smollett of the seventh grade in the Broad Meadows Middle School.

Jane Peppard of Texas corralled second place in the audlt portion of the essay contest while honorable mention went to John Laukkanen of Quincy, who brought along a 60-year-old picture he took of an unidentified Marine sitting on a rock on Okinawa on which was scrawled "KILROY WASN'T HERE."

THOMAS NIGL read his second prize essay in the student class while the subject of it all, Kilroy, peered over his shoulder.

At least a dozen of the original Kilroy's descendants, estimated by Michael Condon, executive director of the museum, attended the Salem event that lasted four hours aboard the 717-foot vessel berthed alongside the Fore River Bridge.

They included his son, Robert Kilroy, and his daughter, Maryann Duffy; a granddaughter, Bridgett Duffy; and a daughter-in-law, Candida Kilroy.

Mildred Vento, then Mildred Gillan, figuratively stepped off the stage at South Boston High School to become a welder at the Yard as World War II raged. She stayed for three years, eventually working on the USS Salem, whose keel was laid July 4, 1945.

DEANNA SMOLLETT captured honorable mention in the student division of the 'Kilroy Was Here" essay contest.

Salem, launched in 1947 and commissioned in 1949, was once the flagship of the U. S. 6th Fleet operating in the Mediterranean. She was decommissioned in 1959 and lay in mothballs in the Philadephia Navy Yard for the next 25 years.

She was recommissioned on May 14, 1995, 46 years to the day of her original commissioning, and joined the Historic Naval Ships Association as centerpiece for the United States Naval & Shipbuilding Museum in Quincy.

Rejects Council's Version

Phelan Re-Introduces Tax Cut For Longtime Homeowners

By WILLIAM TRAYNOR

Mayor William Phelan has re-introduced a tax cut measure for longtime homeowners, although the legislation differs from a version passed by the city council last month.

Phelan refused to sign a revised version of his tax cut plan after the council tacked on a number of amendments last month. Instead, the mayor introduced a modified proposal with two notable omissions, a provision linking the Quincy College land deal and a means test for seniors.

At Monday night's council meeting, Phelan re-issued his "Neighborhood Stabilization Fund," which would give checks of up to $500 to Quincy homeowners 62 and older and who have owned a home in the city for more than 20 years as of Jan. 1 of a particular year.

The council placed the measure into the finance committee for debate.

Last month, the council added several provisions to Phelan's original proposal, including placing income limits on the program and tying the tax cut to last year's land agreement between the city and Quincy College.

The council's changes did not sit well with Phelan, who indicated that he would not sign the amended proposal. In particular, Phelan disagreed with linking the tax cut to the land deal.

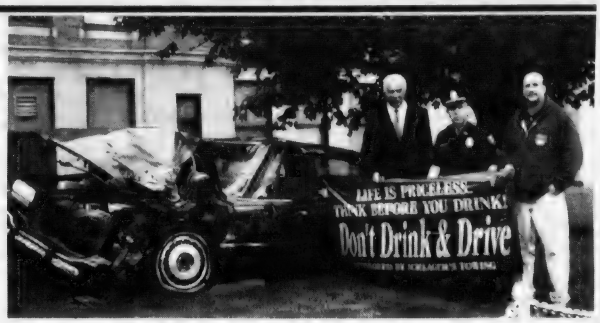
In a letter to Council President Frank McCauley accompanying the new measure, Phelan said he would not sign legislation that "directly affects our negotiations with Quincy College."

"The language in the home rule petition suggests a settlement with the college as a potential source, but by no means will I be forced to negotiate for less than what the taxpayers of Quincy deserve based on an artificial deadline created by this legislation," he wrote to McCauley. "Such language can only benefit the college in negotiations, potentially at the expense of taxpayers."

Last year, the city and college forged an agreement that was supposed to end a two-year rent dispute between the parties. As part of the agreement, however, the mayor was scheduled to file a home rule petition allowing the sale of Saville Hall to the college. In addition, the home rule petition would give the college the authority to buy, sell or lease property.

To date, the home rule petition has not been filed, leading several councillors to question how the city would pay for the proposal.

According to Phelan's plan, the tax cut would be paid for with a $1.1 million cash infusion stemming from the sale of Saville Hall to Quincy College.



Last month, Phelan said he would file a separate home rule petition addressing the college's ability to own property.

Phelan also said based on his discussions with state officials a means test would diminish the proposal's chances of passage at the state level.

He would sign the legislation, however, if the council felt it necessary to attach a means test.

Phelan's new plan extends the tax cut to homeowners who are disabled.

"Disability is defined as 'the inability to engage in any substantial gainful activity by reason of any medically determined physical or mental impairment which can be expected to result in death or which has lasted or can be expected to last for a continuous period of not less than twelve months,'" according to language in the legislation.

FDR And Claire

Not many people got to see former President Bill Clinton during his recent visit to Quincy.

A far cry from the thousands who saw President Franklin Roosevelt the day he came to town in 1936.

ROOSEVELT

Which was also the day FDR met a spunky young lady here named Claire.

Clinton actually wasn't making a public appearance and the fact he was going to be here was pretty much kept under wraps.

He was here to tour the North Quincy warehouse of Cradles to Crayons, the non-profit organizations that provides clothing and other necessities to children of low income families.

CLINTON

Maybe a couple hundred or so got to see him including the warehouse volunteers.

Clinton, of course, was here as a former president and Roosevelt as a sitting president and a bigger attraction.

Thousands jammed Quincy Sq. Oct. 21, 1936 when Roosevelt made a brief but well publicized stop as part of a re-election campaign swing through New England.

Roosevelt was running for a second term against Alfred Landon, the Republican governor of Kansas.

Quincy was a Republican stronghold back then but the huge crowd gave the Democratic President and Mrs. Roosevelt a warm, rousing welcome as they arrived by motorcade.

The motorcade, coming into the city from Braintree and greeted by a 21-gun "bomb" salute arranged by the Democratic City Committee, first stopped at the Presidents John and John Quincy Adams birthplaces on Franklin St. And then proceeded to Quincy Sq., arriving in front of historic United First Parish Church where the two presidents and their wives are entombed.

The President and First Lady were in the back seat on an open car — traditional then but something you haven't seen since the assassination of John F. Kennedy in 1963.

Tom Burgin, who was mayor at the time and a staunch Republican, recalled to me in 1984 a humorous anecdote about the Roosevelt visit that no one in that crowd of thousands was aware of.

BURGIN

It involved that spunky young lady — Burgin's five year old daughter, Claire.

Burgin, as mayor, would officially welcome the Roosevelts to the "City of Presidents." A committee helping to plan the event thought it would be nice if little Claire was the one to present Mrs. Roosevelt with a bouquet of red American beauty roses.

While waiting in the mayor's office for the Roosevelt motorcade to arrive, Burgin suddenly noticed Claire had a two-inch yellow button with the name LANDON imprinted on it pinned to her dress.

Burgin, who wasn't sure where she got the button, said to her:

"You can't wear that, dear."

"Why can't I wear it?" Claire wanted to know. "I'm for Landon!"

"So am I," Burgin told her. "But he is running against the President of the United States — the man you are going to greet and it wouldn't be nice to wear that button."

Claire gave in.

"She hesitantly gave the button to me to put in my pocket for safe-keeping," Burgin recalled.

Word was received the motorcade would be in front of the church in a few minutes. Burgin and Claire left City Hall.

"Down we went to the front entrance of City Hall," Burgin remembered, "from which we were escorted through a solid double line of policemen to the steps of the church."

Claire was holding the bouquet of roses.

"The stems were almost as long as she was tall," Burgin mused.

The President's open car, escorted by two cars of Secret Servicemen, stopped directly in front of them.

A few seconds later, a Secret Serviceman gently swung Claire up into the open car and deposited her on Roosevelt's lap.

Roosevelt gave her a little kiss and asked her what her name was.

"My name is Claire Burgin," she said bravely.

"Glad to see you, Claire," the President said, adding, "Aren't those lovely roses!"

At that, Claire clutched the roses close to her, glared at the President and declared: "These aren't for you, they're for Mrs. Roosevelt."

The President gave her a hug, then tilted his head back and roared with laughter.

Mrs. Roosevelt, after receiving the roses, leaned across to her husband and mused: "I guess that puts you in your place."

After Roosevelt and Burgin briefly addressed the crowd, Roosevelt expressed his thanks for a pleasant visit.

And no doubt, Claire had made an impression.

As he was about to leave, Roosevelt told Burgin he thought Claire was "too cute for words."

A couple of weeks later, Roosevelt was re-elected by a landslide nationwide, taking every state but Maine and Vermont.

But although he carried Massachusetts, he lost Quincy.

The vote here was 17,627 to 15,116 for Landon.

That's how strongly Republican Quincy was back then.

Scenes From Yesterday

THIS IS A 1923 real photo postcard view of the old Brooks-Skinner Company's outdoor small-building exhibit on Adams Street in Lakin Square. The company started in Randolph and moved here in Quincy where they built a large fabrication factory on land between what is now Stedman Street and Wallace Road. They sold a wide range of buildings made of wood and steel including garages, bungalows, school houses and many others. They built up to 3000 buildings a year at their plant here. The exhibit area shown above was between Robertson and Stedman Streets. In this view today a Burger King is on the left and a Seven-Eleven is on the right. Urges Passage Of H.2663

I was puzzled by the article on Quincy Medical Center becoming involved in the ruse by the Massachusetts Hospital Association to avoid passage of real patient protection in the form of the safety net of mandated minimum RN-to-patient ratios. ("Quincy Medical Center Joins Statewide Patient Care Initiative," Quincy Sun, May 12, 2005)

The Massachusetts Nurses Association and 90 other leading advocacy groups support passage of H.2663, An Act Ensuring Patient Safety. In a recent survey, 74 percent of physicians support such legislation, as do over 90 percent of nurses working throughout the Commonwealth. Based on our clinical experience and the overwhelming bulk of recent research, those of us actually engaged in direct patient care state unequivocally that this law must be passed.

One hundred and six out of 200 state legislators now support H.2663. The Massachusetts Hospital Association needs to get out of the way and allow passage of this common sense standard.

Merely posting such numbers as three patients per nurse in ICU, four or five on a step-down unit, or 10 to 12 on a medical floor does nothing for the families of hospitalized loved ones without a standard by which to measure these. Linda Aiken of the University of Pennsylvania (Journal of the American Medical Association, "Hospital Nurse Staffing and Patient Morality, Nurse Burnout and Job Description," October 2002) has found that, on a surgical floor, for every patient an RN cares for over four, the chance of death goes up by 7 percent. Let's stop gambling and set the standard.

Let Senator Michael Morrissey and Reps. Bruce Ayers, Steve Tobin and Ron Mariano know that you expect them to do the right thing and move H.2663 along to enactment and enforcement as soon as possible.

School Enrollment Seen Up By 500

School Supt. Dr. Paul Gossard announced that nearly 1,700 first graders will be starting school in the fall of 1953, bringing the total enrollment to more than 13,300, an increase of 500.

This Week
1953
52 Years Ago

Dr. Gossard said some of the crowding in the Quincy schools is expected to be relieved when the new four-room wing of the Snug Harbor School is ready for occupancy, probably at Christmastime.

Until then, he said, three classes from Snug Harbor would be bused to the Hunting School and the basement library at the Wollaston School and the auditorium at the Merrymount would continue as classrooms.

BROAD MEADOWS TITLE CLOUDY

Assistant City Solicitor Douglas A. Randall stunned city officials when he gave the opinion that the city's title of 136 acres of land in Broad Meadows is in doubt.

The city was entertaining two proposals to purchase part of the city-owned land in the area.

One was an offer of $500 an acre for 55 acres by Grossman Enterprises, which was planning to move to more spacious headquarters from its current location at 130 Granite St.

The other was from Frederick Bailey and Gilbert Mason, who were offering $2,000 for 11 acres of land on which they operated a golf driving range under a lease due to expire in May, 1962.

Meanwhile, John Marshall of the State School Building Assistance Commission was in town to investigate the Broad Meadows area as the possible site for a proposed new junior high school.

Quincy College To Honor American Soldiers Friday At 'Tribute To Troops' Celebration

Quincy College will honor America's soldiers with its second "Tribute to the Troops" event Friday, May 20 outdoors at Quincy College's Coddington Hall.

The celebration, featuring a free barbecue and patriotic concert, will begin at 6 p.m. and is open to the public, weather permitting.

This year's event is dedicated to the Rev. William Harding, pastor of Bethany Congregational Church and a member of the college's Board of Governors. Rev. Harding will travel to the Middle East this summer on assignment with the military.

Several dozen volunteer faculty and administrators from the college will begin serving guests at 6 p.m. under an oversized tent.

At 7 p.m., the Southeastern Massachusetts Wind Ensemble, a 50-piece orchestra, takes the stage. This non-profit community orchestra, featuring musicians from Quincy and the South Shore, will play patriotic standards such as "The Star Spangled Banner", "Strike Up the Band," and "The Chimes of Liberty," in addition to classic Disney tunes for children.

Complimentary snacks for the concert include cotton candy and popcorn.

More than 750 people of all ages enjoyed the performance last year.

Decorated in patriotic themes, the front parking lot of Coddington Hall will be transformed into an al fresco concert hall. The tribute event also features a special correspondence table at which cards and letters can be created to send to troops overseas. Additionally, special drop boxes will be on-site for guests to donate items for care packages that Quincy College will arrange to be delivered to soldiers through Operation Interdependence.

Quincy Homestead Open To Public This Saturday

The Quincy Homestead will be open free of charge for tours of the house and gardens this Saturday, May 21, from 1 to 4 p.m.

Tours will be offered on the hour starting at 1:10 p.m.

Recently designated a National Historic Landmark, the Homestead dates from 1686 and represents the evolution of more than 300 years of American architecture.

During the 17th and 18th centuries, this mansion was considered the grandest estate in Quincy. Today it serves as one of the rare Massachusetts examples in which the elements of a 17th-century building are still clearly visible although they have been surrounded by a later style.

It was also the childhood home of Dorothy Quincy Hancock, the first First Lady of Massachusetts, the wife of John Hancock, who was the president of the Second Continental Congress, the first signer of the Declaration of Independence, and the first governor of the Commonwealth.

For more information, visit the Homestead's website at www.nscda.org/ma/quincy_homestead.

Quincy High School Team Receives Community Research Award

Quincy High School students recently competed in the Massachusetts State Envirothon at Essex Agricultural and Technical School in Danvers.

This year's topic was cultural landscapes. The Quincy High team was awarded the Envirothon's Community Research Award for their work studying the historic, environmental and cultural wealth of our community.

Student research in this area included the granite quarries and granite railroad, the iron furnace and the archaeological findings at Caddy Park. In addition, students performed field study tests from the Blue Hills along Furnace Brook to Black's Creek and Wollaston Beach.

A number of guest lecturers visited Quincy High School this year to share their expertise on the cultural landscape of Quincy. These experts included Tom Galvin (History of Granite Quarries), Margot Davis (Archaeology of Caddy Park), Dr. Misha Yasuda (Environmental Indicators of Blackís Creek Estuary), Tally Lauter (Twin River Technologies), Sally Owen (Quincy Environmental Treasures), Steven Hutchinson (Trailside Museum Wildlife Expert).

Quincy Elks Lodge Grand Marshal

54th Flag Day Parade To Be Held June 11

The 54th annual Quincy Flag Day Parade and Celebration will be held Saturday evening, June 11.

The event, including the parade, flag raising ceremony and fireworks display, is sponsored by the City of Quincy, the Quincy Partnership and the Koch Club.

The parade steps off from Coddington Street in Quincy Center at 7 p.m. and will proceed down Hancock Street and disband at Pageant Field in Merrymount Park. Featured participants will include marching bands, drum corps, color guards, military vehicles and, the perennial highlight, more than 1,500 flag-waving youngsters.

"The city is pleased to sponsor this proud, family-oriented event that brings together so many generations of Quincy all in the spirit of patriotism," said Mayor William Phelan. "This event has proven successful in promoting not only pride in our country to our youngsters, but pride in our city and the remarkable turnout each year illustrates just that."

The parade originated 53 years ago by the late Richard J. Koch and the Koch Club and focused on honoring the flag and teaching youngsters to take pride in our country.

The Quincy Lodge of Elks, celebrating their 100th anniversary this year, has been selected Grand Marshal for the 2005 parade and festivities.

"The Flag Day Committee felt the Elks were a most appropriate selection for their mission of quickening the spirit of American patriotism and their commitment to providing opportunities to youngsters through the scholastic, athletic and community programs they support," said Thomas P. Koch, Flag Day chairman. "Their organization promotes the fundamentals that this event was built upon and we are so pleased to honor them and convey the community's appreciation of their efforts."

The parade culminates into a celebration at Pageant Field which includes a flag raising of a massive 30 foot by 60 foot version of Old Glory, howitzer salute by the 102nd Battalion of the Army National Guard and concludes with a fireworks display over Quincy Bay.

Any youth groups interested in participating in the Quincy Flag Day Parade and Celebration or those who would like more information should contact the Quincy Park Department at 617-376-1251.

Marie's Kitchen

BY MARIE D'OLIMPIO

Pepper Crusted Pork Tenderloin

I think it's safe to say, it's cook-out time—finally. And today's recipe for grilled pork tenderloin was given to me by our niece Anita who recently moved to Scottsdale, Ariz.

When we speak on the phone, the conversation sometimes turns to a new delicious recipe. And so it was last week when she e-mailed me one of her favorites prepared with pork tenderloins.

This entree may be cooked either on a grill or in the oven.

Grilled Pork Tenderloin

4-6 garlic cloves (minced)
1 tablespoon fresh parsley (or 1 teaspoon parsley flakes)
1 teaspoon dried thyme
1 tablespoon lime or lemon juice
1 teaspoon black pepper salt to taste
1 tablespoon olive oil
2 (1/2 pound) pork tenderloin

Most of the markets stock the pork tenderloins. They are long thin rolls of pork and usually weigh from about 1/2 to a pound.

In a small bowl, combine the garlic, parsley, pepper and thyme.

Now combine the lime or lemon juice with the olive oil.

Brush the pork with the juice mixture, coating well. Rub the garlic mixture over the pork pressing lightly.

Place on the grill and cook about 25-30 minutes (depending on size). Turn every five minutes or so to avoid over cooking. (cut a small slice to check).

If you prefer to use the oven to roast them, do this in a 450 degree oven for about the same time. (meat will be pink)

Case Of Beer Leads To 7-Day License Suspension

By MARIE D'OLIMPIO

Jeff Chen, owner of Jazz Moon, 217 Quincy Ave., let his friend take out a case of beer and put it in his trunk because his friend said "the package stores were all closed."

Chen owns the establishment which is a Karaoke bar with a beer and wine license.

Tuesday, the License Board on a unanimous vote of 5-0 suspended Chen's license for seven consecutive days starting next week. The motion was made by Police Chief Robert Crowley and seconded by Jay Duca, director of inspectional services.

Chen will be able to stay open for Karoake only, but he cannot sell beer and wine.

This is the second violation at Jazz Moon in a few months.

Lt. Peter Turowski, Quincy Police Dept. Liquor Inspector told the board that on March 10 at 11:15 p.m; he saw Chung Kwong take out a case of beer and place it in his trunk. When questioned, Kwong first said he did not receive a bill, but would pay later, Turowski said.

When Turowski asked Chen about the incident, Chen said he had given the beer to Kwong to have later with friends.

Chairman Joseph Shea called this a violation since Jazz Moon is not a package store and is not allowed to transport beer or wine to take out, but just to consume in the establishment.

Turowski also told the board that Chen was alone on the night of the violation after he promised the board when he was issued the license that he would have other employees.

Board members recalled that when the Karaoke license was issued, Chen promised he would have enough employees to check ID's and also check the sound rooms that Karaoke was performed.

Atty. Christopher Harrington, counsel for Chen, said when Chen had his first violation, he said he thought the punishment of a three day suspension was too harsh. He said his client has no dispute with what happened on March 10, but appealed to the board to consider splitting the suspension. However the board voted to make the even days consecutive.

Crowley, who said he voted against the concept when the board first granted permission to Chen to open the Karaoke and beer and wine bar. He also said that the fact that Chen was alone that night is "not acceptable."

When Chen said his waitress "was sick", Crowley said he should have had someone to replace her.

Shea who called the violation a "very serious matter." said if Chen has another liquor violation that a revocation of his license would be issued.

Shea said Chen could appeal to the Alcoholic Beverage Control Commission.

Phelan Asks MWRA For Cleanup Mitigation

Mayor William Phelan is asking the MWRA to focus its environmental mitigation efforts on a December 2004 sewage spill that occured at Nut Island on Quincy Bay and the Neponset River.

MWRA has proposed mitigation that would clean maritime debris from the Charles and Mystic Rivers in response to a sewage spill last Winter.

In a letter to MWRA Executive Director Fred Laskey, Phelan called the request "a matter of basic fairness" to Quincy residents.

"The MWRA should perform the mitigation in the area of the affected population," said Phelan. "The people of Quincy suffered years of sewage dumping out at Nut Island and this community was greatly disappointed at the MWRA's dumping over the winter."

Phelan also said the mitigation would be in the interest of boating safety and environmental cleanup of Quincy's waters.

A power outage at the MWRA's Deer Island facility caused pumjp failures in the main system that pumps sewage from Nut Island to Deer Island. As a result of the power failure, the MWRA was made to release sewage off Nut Island to avoid backing up the regional sewage system.

"Our coastal waters are cleaner than they have been in years and this action has shaken the public's confidence in our efforts," said Phelan. "I believe that the MWRA can show good faith by focusing their mitigation efforts where they polluted."

Quincy UPS Store Collects, Recycles Packaging Peanuts

The Quincy UPS Store, 550 Adams St., has joined the Plastic Loose Fill Council and will collect, recycle and reuse loose packaging peanuts.

"Peanuts are small pieces of sturdy protective packaging used to fill the space between merchandise and carton and can be recycled over and over," said Tom Bagley, owner of The Quincy UPS Store located in Adams Plaza.

Bagley, a lifelong Quincy resident and now a local business owner, said he is glad to participate in Quincy's plastic recycling program.

Karen Joffe, executive director of Plastic Loose Fill Council, said, "Consumers feel obligated to do something environmentally sound. Most people are not sure what to do with the peanuts they get in a shipped box; now they can recycle them locally and turn a positive into a negative.

"People are environmentally concerned and want to do the right thing. Celebrating Earth Day is a place to start.," Joffe added.

The American Plastics Council (APC) applauds the decision of business owners to take part. APC President Rodney Lowman said, "I am particularly pleased that Nationally UPS Stores have the capacity to process post-consumer plastics. There is a significant market for recycled peanuts, now used to produce a long list of everyday products."

The Quincy UPS Store is the only drop off location South of Boston for recycling peanuts.

For more information, call Tom Bagley at (617) 479-8771 or visit www.theupsstore.com.

Alzheimer's Experience Subject Of Talk At Atrium

Janet Stone, author of "My Parents and Alzheimer's: A Daughter's Story," will speak about her experiences Wednesday, June 8, at 6:30 p.m. at the Atrium at Faxon Woods, 2003, Falls Boulevard, South Quincy.

Her books will be on sale the night of the event.

For more information or to reserve a seat, contact Wendy Wichroski at 617-471-5595.

FIRE SAFETY

by Captain Tom Lyons
Fire Prevention Bureau
Quincy Fire Department

Basement Bedroom Should Have Appropriate Exit

Years ago I recall a fire where a child was sleeping in a basement bedroom.

It was a single family home. The only access to that basement was down an interior stairwell. There were basement windows, none of which would conform to the size and height that the State Building Code would allow and consider alternate emergency exits. The windows were much too high off the floor and much too small for anyone to escape through, if need be. A building inspector would never have approved the arrangement.

In this instance, at the base of the stairwell on the left was a relatively small utility room containing the furnace and water heater. On the right was a hallway leading to the bedroom at the other end of the basement.

During the night, while the child was sleeping, a fire started within the utility room. I can't recall the cause of that fire at this time. There was no smoke detector at the base of the stairs to alert the child as the smoke escaped through small openings around the door frame and above the partition. Thankfully, at that time, the utility room door was closed.

As the fire grew, the heat would have built up quickly within that small room. Miraculously, that heat melted the copper tubing solder on a water pipe near the ceiling, the water pipe joint separated, and water sprayed into the room onto the fire. The fire was suppressed as if a sprinkler head had operated over it.

It was the noise of the spray which awoke the child. Although I did not speak with the boy, I understand that he ran out past the utility room, notifying the rest of the family to evacuate as well. As I write this I am stilled amazed at his good fortune.

That is the first and only time I have witnessed a water pipe fail in that manner during a fire. If that had not occurred, the smoke would have built up quickly towards untenable conditions even with that door closed while the heat and fire would have made escape down that hallway and up that stairwell impossible.

The point is, before you consider utilizing a basement space for an additional sleeping area, consider first whether you have the appropriate exiting arrangements to do so. I suggest you contact the City of Quincy Building Department and ask their determination. It is too easy to consider using the space for sleeping without considering the consequences should an emergency arise. I certainly wouldn't rely on melting solder to act as protection.

This child was quite fortunate while the family learned a valuable lesson as well. Fortunately, a lesson learned without the loss of a family member.

Thank you!

Physician, Volunteer, Manager, Employee Of The Year

Quincy Medical Announces 'Truly Remarkable' Awards

Quincy Medical Center (QMC) recently held its annual Truly Remarkable Recognition Awards to honor the Manager, Physician, Volunteer and Employee of the Year.

Cynthia Tan, an Evening Charge Technologist in QMC's Clinical Service Laboratory was named Employee of the Year. Cynthia's colleagues in the lab nicknamed her "no problem," in recognition of her upbeat attitude and unflappable nature.

"Cynthia is a tremendous team player and a champion for quality patient care," said Tony Richard, director of the Clinical Services Laboratory. "As an Evening Charge Technologist in the department, she is focused on streamlining the workflow to expedite the turnaround of test results, yet she is always willing to take time out to help a colleague, reassure a patient, or answer an inquiry from a physician or nurses."

Jim Martell, a 36-year-old QMC employee, was named Manager of the Year. As manager of Peri-Operative Services, Martell is responsible for ordering all disposable equipment and instruments for QMC's Operating Room, Post Anesthesia Care Unit and Cardiac Cath. Laboratory. "Jim has an invaluable role in surgical services at Quincy Medical Center," said Peggy Lahar, RN, Clinical Manager of the Post Anesthesia Care Unit.

CYNTHIA TAN

JAMES MARTELL

PETER HILTON

Dr. Tomas Divinagracia, a Board Certified General and Vascular Surgeon with the Boston Medical Center Surgical Associates at QMC, was named Physician of the Year. Dr. Divinagracia was recognized for his skill as a surgeon and his compassion for patients and their family members.

He is a former Chief of Surgery at QMC and served the community for more than 25 years through a private practice in Quincy before joining the Boston Medical Center Surgical Associates in 2005.

Dr. Divinagracia is a Fellow of the American College of Surgeons and a member of the Massachusetts Medical Society, American Medical Society and Boston Surgical Society.

Peter Hilton began volunteering at QMC four years ago after retiring from the fire protection industry. He has contributed more than 1,500 service hours, volunteering each Tuesday and Thursday.

Working primarily from the Volunteer Office, Peter is often called upon to act as a courier between QMC departments and to assist patients being discharged from the hospital.

After Phelan Agrees To Settle Dispute

Council Approves $265,000 Payment To Library Architects

The city council has approved a $256,000 spending request by the Phelan administration to settle a lawsuit filed by designers of the new wing to the Thomas Crane Public Library.

On a 9-0 vote Monday night, councillors approved the payment, which makes up a large part of a $430,000 package proposed by Mayor William Phelan's administration to settle a long-standing bill submitted by architects Childs, Bertman and Tseckares Inc. of Boston for the $16 million library addition.

The council's move was not a surprise since the finance committee approved the request last week.

The new wing was completed in 2001 and will be dedicated to former Mayor James Sheets on May 29.

The Phelan administration delayed paying the bills, maintaining that the city was forced to pick up a tab for work that was never included in any design contract. The remaining portion of the funds will come from a library construction account.

Sacred Heart PTO To Hold 'Queen For A Night' June 4

The Sacred Heart School PTO will sponsor "Queen for a Night," an evening of fun, food, fashion and relaxation for women, Saturday, June 4, from 7 to 11 p.m. at the school, 370 Hancock St., North Quincy.

Tickets at $25 must be purchased in advance and include dinner, dessert and two professional treatments, such as a manicure, foot spa, wellness consultation or a neck massage.

There will be a fashion show, a yoga demonstration, a wine-tasting, raffles and a silent auction with many items donated by local businesses.

They include a full year membership to BodyFit, a six month membership to Fitness Unlimited, a Merry Maids gift certificate Red Sox tickets, Braintree Ballet tickets and many more.

There will also be a "Queen's Marketplace," with more than 20 vendors selling candles, jewelry, handmade accessories, cosmetics, gourmet foods, stationary items and more.

Tickets may be purchased by calling Kirse Rigas at 617-786-9530.

After 4-Alarm Blaze

Fire Chief, Union Head Trade Views On Hydrant Pressure

No one was reported injured in a fire that swept a two-family house at 50 Parker St. early Sunday but the blaze touched off a testy exchange of words between Fire Chief Paul O'Connell and the Firefighters Union.

Tom Bowes, president of the Quincy Firefighters Association, one of the first firefighters on the scene, noted that the water pressure in two hydrants on Parker Street was inadequate to fight the four-alarm fire.

"There has to be a list of these hydrants in the city a mile long — it's a constant problem," he was quoted as saying.

"Not so," said Chief O'Connell. "It's not a citywide problem. We have a list of about nine damaged hydrants down at the DPW. It is remarkable that there are so few after the winter we had."

O'Connell explained that the hydrants on Parker Street are on a dead end water main and not a looped main that would allow water to flow freely at higher pressure from both ends of the main.

Bowes said one of the hydrants on Parker Street did not have sufficient pressure to fight the fire and the second one was dead

PAUL O'CONNELL

"He (O'Connell) thinks a hydrant is out of service only when it's out of water," said Bowes. "If it doesn't have enough pressure to use for firefighting, it's no good for us."

"The line comes off Granite Street and goes up Parker Street and terminates," O'Connell said. "We followed the correct procedure. We had a company standing by looped hydrants on Granite Street to attach a feeder line."

Bowes said the crew at the Granite Street had to attach about 2,500 feet of hose to reach the fire, 1,000 feet to one hydrant and 1,500 feet to the other. O'Connell set the distance at 800 feet.

The fire chief also noted that two brand new pumper engines, delivered only a few months ago, saw action at the fire while the men were running the hoses from Granite Street.

"Each one of our pumpers has a booster tank that can carry 500 gallons of water," he said. "We could get 1,000 gallons from the two engines. We used no more than 750 gallons on the fire before the feeder lines got up from Granite Street."

O'Connell said an independent inspector looked at the Parker Street hydrants two or three months ago and claimed they were capable of releasing 300 gallons of water a minute.

"Ideally," he added, "the city would have all the dead end mains looped but that is not possible. That's why we have developed the procedure we followed at Parker Street."

O'Connell also fumed over reports by two Boston TV channels that the house was a total loss.

"That's a lie," he said. "Look at the house now. It's nowhere near totaled. I resent hearing that on TV and so do the men who fought it.

"There is not a crisis in Quincy. Everything is in good hands. This is not a citywide problem. This is a historic city where a lot of the infrastructure goes back a hundred years.

"The water mains on Parker Street are 115 years old. Mains are like people's arteries. The older you get the more clogged they get. They get smaller and smaller.

"I've spent 32 years in this department and one thing I've learned, you always get dumber in the eyes of others as the years go by."

No one was injured in the fire that started in the basement of the house at 4 o'clock in the morning and went to the top floor quickly.

"It went up in a matter of minutes," said O'Connell. "It was probably in the attic before the firefighters got there."

Two families, Mark Bauman, his wife, Diane, and their six-month-old infant son; and Kelly and Serhat Ediz, got out of the house safely. Damaged was estimated at $250,000.

Home, Condo Prices Rise In Bay State For 46 Consecutive Quarters

Severe weather over the first three months of the year failed to put a chill in the demand for housing this winter, as attractive mortgage rates, steady job growth and an increase in the supply of homes for sale drew a large number of buyers into the Bay State housing market in the first quarter, according to data issued recently by the Massachusetts Association of Reators® (MAR).

Condominium sales were especially strong, setting a new first quarter record, while detached single-family homes rose to their third highest level on record for a January-March period. The healthy sales pace led to sharp price gains in the detached home and condo markets, the 46th consecutive quarter that prices have risen over year ago levels.

The MAR report shows that in the first quarter sales of detached single-family homes increased 5.8 percent over the comparable period last year, from 8,236 homes sold in the first three months of 2004 to 8,714 from January-March 2005. In the condo market, sales rose even more sharply, climbing 35.4 percent from 3,032 units closed in the 2004 first quarter to a record 4,105 in the same three-month period this year. It's the seventh consecutive quarter that sales of existing single-family homes have risen over the comparable period one year earlier, while condo sales have improved for eight

Neighborhood Housing Services Homebuyer Workshop June 4

Neighborhood Housing Services of the South Shore will host a First-Time Homebuyer Workshop Saturday, June 4, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at Citizens Bank, 1200 Hancock St., Quincy Center.

All potential first-time homebuyers are invited to attend. Participants will have the opportunity to be prequalified by a lender.

Topics covered include mortgage options, legal aspects of the homebuying process, how a home inspection works and other presentations from real estate professionals. Participants must complete the workshop to qualify for grant programs.

Prior to attending a First-Time Homebuyer Workshop, all participants must attend a free Introductory Session to evaluate credit history and determine level of mortgage readiness. It's strongly suggested attendees obtain a current copy of their credit report.

The next Introductory Session will be held Wednesday, June 1 from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. at Citizens Bank, 1200 Hancock St., Quincy Center. Call in advance to register or discuss dates of future workshops.

There is a $15 fee per person that covers the First-Time Homebuyer Workshop, the Introductory Session and all workshop materials. Breakfast and lunch will be provided. Call 617-770-2227, ext. 31.

Home, Condo Prices Rise For 46 Consecutive Quarters

straight quarters.

"The anticipated slowdown in the housing market has yet to materialize," said MAR President Maggie Tomkiewicz. "Even with the poor weather we experienced this winter, a jump in mortgage rates in March, and ongoing concerns over higher energy costs, we've seen no real decline in buyer demand. If anything, activity has picked up in recent weeks as mortgage rates hit 6 percent and more homes have come on the market."

The fact that the state's economy has added jobs for seven consecutive months also has helped to boost buyers' confidence. "As the unemployment rates has fallen, job security is improved, and that's given many people the confidence to go out and buy big ticket items," said Tomkiewicz.

Across the state, sales of detached single-family homes rose in all but two regions during the first quarter, with central Massachusetts (Worcester County) and greater Boston observing the most significant year-to-year sales gains at 17.8 percent and 9 percent respectively. Sales also rose a healthy 7.8 percent in southeastern and western Massachusetts (Berkshire, Franklin, Hampden and Hampshire counties), and improved 6.4 percent in the Northeast region over year ago levels.

On the South Shore, sales activity was essentially flat in the first quarter, slipping less than 1 percent, but sales fell over the past year by 10.7 percent on Cape Cod (Barnstable County).

In the condo market, sales increased in all seven regions of the state in the first three months of 2005, with double-digit sales growth reported in all regions except southeastern Massachusetts, where sales rose 6.9 percent over year ago levels. The most significant sales gains occurred on the South Shore and in greater Boston, where sales improved 48.1 percent and 41.2 percent respectively. Sales also increased 30 percent or more in western Massachusetts and Worcester County over year ago levels.

The surge in condo sales is the result of both economic and demographic factors, according to industry observers.

"For entry-level buyers the condo market's appeal remains its affordability, but it's the demands of baby-boomers and active seniors that has triggered the current condo craze," Tomkiewicz said. Condominiums offer the smaller floor plans and maintenance free life-style typically desired by those looking to downsize or purchase a vacation home, she added.

Partnership Expands Home Buyer Education Series To Vietnamese Speakers

Quincy Community Action Programs, Inc. (QCAP) has joined with VietAid to offer its First Time Homebuyers Workshop series in Vietnamese.

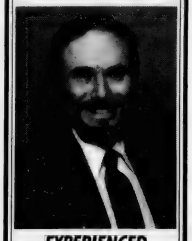
The free workshop will be held June 4 and June 11 from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. in the fourth floor conference room of QCAP, 1509 Hancock St., Quincy Center.

With VietAid support, QCAP is the first South Shore non-profit with a Homeownership Seal of Approval to offer its workshops series in Vietnamese.

James Hoa Ngo, office manager/homebuyer counselor, said the workshop is designed to serve the needs of the many Vietnamese speakers moving to the South Shore.

"Vietnamese speakers need to know about and be able to take advantage of the same homebuying opportunities as other home buyers," he said.

QCAP's housing coordinator, Rona Goodman, said the workshop provides a comprehensive review of the homebuying process. Vietnamese-speaking real estate professionals will cover topics ranging from mortgages to home insurance.



In addition, low income participants who complete the ten-hour program may be eligible for downpayment/closing cost assistance of up to $10,000 and for the soft second program. Other participants may use their certificate of completion to obtain a low rate loan through MassHousing.

QCAP's first time home buying workshops are open to all prospective buyers, regardless of income level or town or residence.

For more information about the Vietnamese workshop and to register, visit hoa@vietaid.org.

Wollaston Island To Be Dedicated For Iraq War Hero

The island on Elm Avenue at the entrance to Eastern Nazarene College in Wollaston will be dedicated to Sgt. Charles "Todd" Caldwell, the former Quincy resident who was killed in Iraq.

The ceremony will take place Sunday, May 22, at 12:30 p.m. with Brig. Gen. John L. Enright, assistant adjutant general of the Rhode Island National Guard attending with an Honor Guard and a Color Guard.

Caldwell was slain Sept. 1, 2003, near Baghdad while guarding a supply convoy with other members of the 115th Military Police Company of the Rhode Island National Guard.

The city of Quincy will join Quincy Veterans' Services and the Wollaston Church of the Nazarene in recognizing Caldwell's devotion to duty and commitment to the Army, his country and the community.

East Coast Petroleum Plans Program For Frigid Winter Of '06

East Coast Petroleum of North Quincy and WeatherCredits, a weather risk management provider, have joined forces in an innovative program to help clients defer high home heating costs.

The program, called Customer Care, is simply a way of covering the unplanned costs of extra oil consumption during what is shaping up to be an unusually frigid winter of 2005-06.

Customer Care is being offered by East Coast Petroleum and underwritten by WeatherCredits working with AA-rated insurance companies to help defray unexpectedly high fuel costs.

The program costs $49.99 to enroll and, if between Dec. 15 and April 15, the winter is approximately 10 per cent colder than normal, enrollees will receive a $200 credit on their East Coast Petroleum accounts at season's end.

For more information, call 617-786-9300 or e-mail sales@eastcoastpetroleum.com.

Dental Screenings For Seniors June 13

Crown Dental Group of Quincy will perform free denture and oral cancer screening for seniors Monday, June 13, beginning at 9:30 a.m. at the Richard J. Koch Recreation Complex, One Merrymount Parkway.

Each participant will receive a screening and education of about 10 minutes.

To make and appointment or secure more information, call the Council on Aging at 617-376-1506.

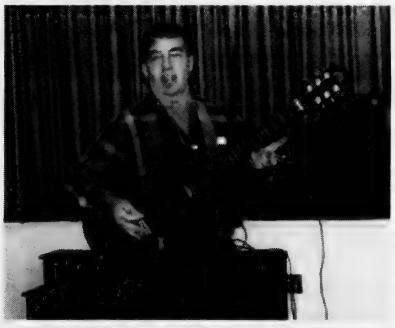
Committee To Preserve 271 Sea St. Raises $1,200 For Wetlands Expert, Surveyor

A successful fundraiser was held recently by the Committee to Preserve 271 Sea St. at the Houghs Neck Congregational Church.

Approximately 50 people attended the event, including Ward 1 City Councillor Leo Kelly (also a member of the Committee), Councillor-at-Large John Keenan, Ward 2 Councillor Daniel Raymondi, Ward 3 Councillor Kevin Coughlin and Ward 5 Councillor Doug Gutro.

Net proceeds of nearly $1,200 were collected, which will be used in part to hire a wetlands expert and a surveyor needed to provide data for ongoing court challenges against the proposed development of the site. Nearly all of the proceeds were from checks between $25-$75 from individual contributors.

Highlights of the evening included the singing and guitar playing of Mike Cotter, a resident of Post Island Rd., who entertained the group with renditions of his own compositions, "Al's Dine and Dance" and "Nut Island Blues," with attendees joining in for a sing-along during the latter piece.

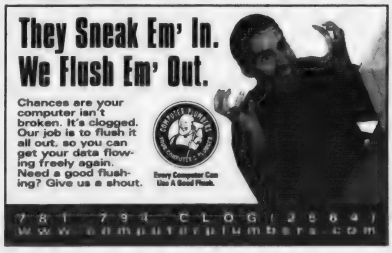


A prize drawing was organized by Steve and Courtney Perdios. About 20 items were donated by local merchants and individuals.

Donors of prizes included:

Gift certificates from Ell's Pet Grooming, 222 Sea St.; Harry's Pizza & Seafood, 405 Sea St.; Fox & Hound Restaurant, 123 Sea St.; Pearl Vision, 470 Southern Artery; Bertucci's, Kenmore Square; and Duhollow Real Estate, 273 Newport Ave. (American Express Gift Card); Susan Friedland, Interior Design consulting; Mother's Car Care products, through Bernie; "Sea Bright" album, Mike Cotter; Three ceramic wall hangings, Cat Chandler Ceramics; Shreve Crump & Lowe gift certificate donated by Sally Owen; a painting by Adrian Valeri; t-shirt & tote bag, Neponset River Watershed Association, Canton; Joe Cotter, lawn mowing; Christine Way-Cotter, massage; and Rosalind Cuschera, Kaluha package.

PAUL KODAD (left) joins Ward 2 Councillor Dan Raymondi at a recent fundraiser to Preserve 271 Sea St. at the Houghs Neck Congregational Church. Kodad is a member of the Committee to Preserve 271 Sea St.



MIKE COTTER of Post Island Rd. leads a sing-a-long with a rendition of his own composition, "Nut Island Blues."

There have been plans to develop the three-acre site the last two years. Citizens groups led by Paul Kodad, a member of the Committee, have been fighting to prevent development and are currently pursuing an adjudicatory case with the Department of Environmental Protection and a case in Norfolk County Superior Court.

Funds from the fundraiser will be used to hire a wetlands expert and a surveyor, who will gather data needed for these cases. The Wetlands expert is needed to define the wetland borders of the site and determine the site's soil type. The surveyor is required to show that the proposed development is in the flood plain and to determine whether the proposed development infringes on wetland areas.

Members of the Committee include Carol Abbott, 91 Shore Ave.; Tom Burke and Susan Friedland, 9 Gannett Rd.; Rosalind Cuschera, 308 Sea St.; Bernard Hanlon, 245 Sea St.; Ross Edwards, 65 Narragansett Rd.; Paul Kodad, 256 Sea St.; and Steve Perdios, 13 Beacon St.

For further information or to make a contribution, call Ross Edwards at 617-479-1154.

workers, we are maintaining or improving our public services," he said.

For the second straight year, the proposed spending will keep overall tax collections lower than is allowed by law, according to Phelan.

The school department's budget will increase about 5 percent, to $70 million. The school committee will decide where the additional $3.2 million in funds will go.

"As long as I am mayor, we will do everything in our power and spend whatever resources necessary to ensure that the residents of Quincy have an educational system that is second to none," said Phelan.

Fixed costs, such as pension and retirement costs, MWRA assessments and trash pickup, jump about $6.5 million over last year's budget and will make up a large portion of the overall spending increase.

Phelan's budget anticipates roughly $38 million in state local aid, which means it will be virtually level-funded compared to last year.

"Despite devastating local aid cuts, we have managed our finances in such a way that enables us to continue to provide services that folks are accustomed to," he said.

Police and Fire Department budgets amount to nearly $35 million, while the DPW will spend about $5.2 million on its budget, according to the proposed plan.

The plan includes restoring about a dozen city positions cut over the last several years largely through attrition. One new firefighter, one civilian police position, and public works and sewer, water and drain jobs are part of the new budget.

Phelan also wants to hire two senior librarians to allow the main branch of the Thomas Crane Public Library to remain open on weekends throughout the summer. He also wants to extend the hours for all branch libraries throughout the year.

Last year, the council spent about 25 hours debating line items before voting to cut more than $2 million from the bottom line.

State regulators ruled the move illegal, but Phelan honored the council's move by making his own cuts.

"We believe the city is running in a very efficient manner," said Phelan. "It's important that the residents receive the services that their tax dollars pay for."

Dependable Cleaners Sponsoring 7th Annual 'Read To Ride' Program

Dependable Cleaners announces its 7th Annual Read to Ride reading incentive program which encourages children, ages 6-15, the chance to win a bike and helmet (retail value up to $275) for every book they complete within the weeks of the program.

Entry forms will be available at all 17 Dependable Cleaners locations and participating bike shops from May 16 to July 15. Over 30,000 entry forms will also be distributed to more than 60 area schools, 15 libraries and 10 youth organizations throughout the South Shore and Boston.

Children may enter once for each book they read. A parent or guardian must sign the entry form, verifying that the book was completed.

Entry forms will begin being accepted on May 16. Three winners' names will be drawn every Monday for seven consecutive weeks, from June 6 until July 18.

Read to Ride promotes literacy by encouraging children to read during the summer months, with the opportunity to win prizes. Since the program began in 1999, area children have read 32,237 books. In addition, 126 children have pedaled away on brand new bicycles as a reward for their educational efforts.

"The success of this program relies heavily on the cooperation of area schools, their directors and superintendents, as well as the overwhelming number of parents who encourage their children to read during the summer months," said Christa Hagearty, president of Dependable Cleaners and a mother of three young children. "Many parents have reported that our Read to Ride program instilled a positive reading habit in their children."

For more information, call Dependable Cleaners at 617-471-1900.

Quincy Student Police Academy Golf Tourney A Success

THE THIRD ANNUAL Quincy Student Police Academy Golf Tournament was a success at Presidents Golf Course. Directors Sgt. Dan Minton (left) and Quincy High School teacher Jim Flahive said the proceeds support QSPA throughout the year for field trips and an annual banquet as well as scholarships for students graduating from the program.

Raiders Improve With 2nd Win Over Falmouth

SOFTBALL

The North Quincy High School softball team has played better in the second half of the season.

The Red Raiders have won two of its last three games, including last Friday's 8-4 victory over Falmouth at home. They dropped a 1-0 decision to Nauset at home last Wednesday after recording their first victory May 4 against Falmouth.

North Quincy (2-9 overall, 2-5 Atlantic Coast League), which traveled to Dennis-Yarmouth Monday and to Fontbonne Academy Wednesday, will host Plymouth South Friday at 4 p.m. at Mitchell/McCoy Field.

Senior Caitlin Dow picked up the win against Falmouth, allowing no earned runs over six innings.

She came up big in the sixth by escaping a bases-loaded, no-out jam with a flyout and two groundouts.

Senior captain Sarah Kennedy went 3-for-4 and freshman Kasey O'Connell added a pair of hits. Junior Kelly Barden and freshman Rebecca Goreham each drove in two runs.

In the Nauset game, the Red Raiders received an encouraging sign for the future when freshman Paige Bonanni tossed a three-hitter in her first varsity start.

Nauset scored the lone run in the third inning. Bonanni walked a hitter, who stole second and moved to third on a fielder's choice, and hit a batter to put runners on the corners. As the runner at first stole second, the catcher threw the ball to Bonanni whose throw home was not in time to get the runner from third.

Youth Football Sign-Ups Saturday, June 11

Quincy Youth Football will hold sign-ups for its 2005 season Saturday and June 11 from 9 to 11 a.m.

Players and cheerleaders, ages 9-14 (grades 4-8 in the fall) who live in Quincy, are eligible to sign up. Players must weigh no less than 70 pounds and not more than 170 pounds. Registration fee is $85 for players and cheerleaders.

Sign-ups will be held at the following locations: North Quincy Apaches, Pageant Field; West Quincy Elks, O'Rourke Field; Houghs Neck Manets, Lebrecque Field and Snug Harbor Elementary; Quincy Point Panthers, Fore River Field; and Squantum Storm, Squantum Community Center.

This year, the teams will have the privilege of helping the city to unveil the renovated Veterans Memorial Stadium, featuring state-of-the-art synthetic grass playing surface and other amenities.

Masons Win 5 In Cal Ripken Minor Baseball

The Quincy Masons defeated Covais Law, 15-3, in recent Quincy Youth Baseball Cal Ripken Minors action at Quarry Hills C Field.

Jeff Alsip picked up the victory. Walter Hannon, Justin Callahan, Andrew Leone and Alsip each went 4-for-4. Katie Alsip played great defensive behind the plate.

For Covais Law, Greg Clark, William Lunng, Tim Nazzaro and Alex Giurea played well.

Masons 11, CHM 10

Benjamen O'Brien notched the win over Consumer Home Mortgage. Catcher Katie Alsip turned in a strong game and Alessandro Barthlow showed great offense.

Consumer Home Mortgage made a great comeback attempt.

Masons 16, Spillane 6

Andrew Minton pitched a fantastic game to pick up the win and Jeff Alsip went 6-for-6 at the plate to power the offense.

For Spillane Law, Joe King, John Manning, Brendan Wright and Austin Rowe all played well.

Masons 6, Yellow Cab 0

Jeff Alsip and Andrew Minton pitched great, Justin Callahan provided great defense and Walter Hannon and Chris McMahon supplied the offense.

For Yellow Cab, Brian Lally and Steven Baglione played well.

Masons 13, Mannions 7

Ben O'Brien and Walter Hannon led the offense and Katie Alsip played great defense behind the plate.

For Mannions, Jonathan Powell and David Westerman played well.

Masons 1, Paul Rogers 0

Justin Callahan and Walter Hannon combined for the shutout. Jeff Alsip banged out three hits and scored the winning run. Andrew Leone had a great day at the plate.

For Paul Rogers Club, Dan Hartel pitched a strong game.

Potent Offense, Strong Pitching Power Presidents

BASEBALL

By CHRIS POISSON

A well-rested Quincy High School baseball team showed no ill effects from a week hiatus near the end of the season.

Powered by a potent offense and strong pitching, the Presidents cruised to an 11-5 victory at Sandwich Monday afternoon, which qualified them for the state tournament for the third straight year.

"Obviously it's very exciting we did it three years in a row," said head coach Mike Draicchio. "It's a totally different group than the last couple of years. It's been nice to have different guys contribute each game."

"Hopefully we can get a few more wins so we can play the first round at home," he added.

Quincy (10-5 overall, 4-4 Atlantic Coast League) traveled to Plymouth South Wednesday and will host North Division-leading Whitman-Hanson Friday at 4 p.m. at Adams Field.

Next week, it closes out the season at Plymouth North Monday and at Brighton Tuesday before a rematch against North Quincy Friday.

Senior captain John Folino picked up his fifth win of the season, allowing three earned runs on eight hits while striking out a dozen and walking just his second batter of the year.

The Presidents pushed across three runs in the first inning. After senior captain Steve Sullivan and Folino walked, sophomore John Alexander lined a two-run single and junior John Orlando stroked an RBI double.

In the third, senior Tim Randall ripped a single to score Alexander (hit by pitch) and senior captain John Santon cracked a two-run single that plated Orlando (single) and Randall.

Quincy added four runs in the fourth. Sullivan and Folino walked and Alexander was hit by a pitch to load the bases. Orlando reached on an infield error enabling Sullivan to score and Randall blasted a double to clear the bases.

Senior Ray Marchand singled home senior captain Steve Priscella (double) in the fifth for Quincy's final run.

Last Monday, Quincy had another thrilling game, pulling out a 4-3 victory over Nauset in extra innings at home.

With the score knotted at 3, Alexander led off the bottom of the eighth inning with a single. Junior Matt Giordani pinch ran for him and reached second base on an errant pickoff throw.

Orlando bunted down the first base line, but the pitcher threw the ball over the first baseman's head and Giordani crossed home plate with the winning run.

The Presidents grabbed a 1-0 lead in the first. Priscella reached on an error and advanced to second on Marchand's sacrifice. After a walk to Sullivan, Folino lined an RBI double.

Nauset tied the game in the second before Quincy scored a pair in the third. With Sullivan (single) on third and Folino (double) on second, Alexander popped out to the first baseman who fell into the dugout. Sullivan tagged up and scored on the play and Folino went to third. Orlando followed with an RBI groundout.

Nauset scored runs in the sixth and seventh innings to force extra innings. Sullivan went the distance for the victory, scattering four hits and punching out 10.

When an athletic program can combine excellence on the playing field and in the classroom, it has something special.

The 2004 North Quincy High School girls' soccer team, which reached the Division 1 South tournament for the eighth consecutive year with a 10-5-7 record, recently received the MIAA Gold Medal Achievement Award given to teams with a GPA of 3.0 or above.

This is the second time in three years North Quincy has achieved the prestigious award. Twenty-three of the 31 team members attained a 3.0 GPA or above.

"I am extremely proud of the girls on this year's team," said head coach Paul Bregoli. "They characterize what all athletic programs should strive to achieve; both excellence on the field and outstanding work in the classroom.

"I ask the girls when they come into the program as freshmen, 'What doors do you want to have open for you in four years?' This group obviously got the message and reached their full potential as student-athletes."

Seniors and where they are going to school are:

Kristina Penzo, UMass-Amherst; Caitlyn Peters, Fitchburg State; Eileen Price, University of Vermont; Amanda Saylor, Salem State; Christine Benoit, Simmons College; Julia Berberan, St. Michael's College; Pam Campos, U.S. Air Force; Kerry Clifford, UMass-Dartmouth; Caileen Coleman, Westfield State; Ali Coughlin, Colby; Meghan Coughlin, University of New Hampshire.

Erika Djerf, UNH; Shelly Donovan, Boston University; Kathleen Frawley, Syracuse; Kerin Frawley, Westfield State; Molly Griffin, Boston College; Julie Holleran, UMass-Dartmouth; Shauna Kelly, Lasell College; Sarah Kennedy, Salem State; Shawna Kennedy, Salem State; Victoria Markhard, Bridgewater State; Jena McEachern, Curry College.

Presidents Ladies Golf Results

The Presidents Ladies Association recently opened its season at Presidents Golf Course.

The Ladies Association was founded in 1981 to promote greater interest in the game of golf with due attention to all rules governing play of the game, course rules and to provide social activities for the membership.

SPOTLIGHT ON HEALTH & FITNESS

QMC Shows Support For The Uninsured

Quincy Medical Center recently joined eight other Massachusetts health systems in a legislative reception at the State House, as part of the Alliance of Massachusetts Safety Net Hospitals.

These nine health systems, including QMC and Boston Medical Center, collectively provide 62 percent of all hospital uncompensated care and 34 percent of hospital Medicaid services in Massachusetts.

Alliance members visited the State House during the House of Representatives' budget negotiations to lobby for adequate funding of uninsured patient care. QMC participants included Carol Gagnon, Christine Schuster, Jane Cruckshank, Maureen McGuire, David Ryan, Chris Mosher, Elizabeth Cadigan, Stewart Bell and Ed Browne.

To further draw attention to the needs of the uninsured, QMC also recently hosted its third annual Cover the Uninsured Outreach Fair at the Quincy Wal-Mart, during National Cover the Uninsured Week in early May. During the fair, QMC Outreach Representatives, fluent in English and Cantonese, provided information on free health services and low-cost health insurance options for uninsured and under-insured South Shore residents.

Quincy Medical Center is a 232-bed acute care community-teaching hospital providing South Shore residents with comprehensive medical and surgical services.

Survival Kit For Staying Healthy And Energized

(NAPS) - Before you work up a sweat, don't forget your must-have survival kit for warm weather fitness.

According to Steven Boggs, Bally Total Fitness personal trainer, there are five crucial components to a fitness survival kit:

Waterproof Sun Block

• Sun block is essential for protecting your skin from the sun's powerful rays; a waterproof sun block is additionally beneficial for fitness enthusiasts because it won't wash away when you sweat. The sun block, which should have a protectant of at least SPF 15, should be applied whenever you are outdoors, even on cloudy days since the sun still reaches your skin. It is estimated that 85 percent of the visible signs of aging are actually sun damage so don't be afraid to apply sun block generously. Pay close attention to those vulnerable points – lips, nose and ears.

Vitamin Infused Water

• The body requires water before, during and after exercise. Don't rely on thirst to tell you when to drink. By the time you are thirsty, you've probably waited too long. To avoid dehydration when exercising in the heat, consume 12 ounces of water before exercise and 16 ounces for every 20 minutes of exercise.

Energy Supplements

• Energy supplements offer a burst of energy that can keep your fitness routine in high gear. Supplements are designed to provide quick energy support to your workout and are a great boost for when you feel sluggish during steamy days.

Appropriate Fitness Attire

• Wear light-colored, loose-fitting clothing made with the new generation of polyester fabrics that will allow your skin to breathe and the air to circulate, which will help keep you cool.

Head Gear

• A sun visor or hat will provide a barrier between you and the sun, keeping it out of your eyes, while the hat can keep you head cool, especially if you work out when the sun is at its peak.

Look for a hat made out of a woven fabric like canvas so your head will breathe while in the sun.

DENTISTRY for the 21st Century

by Steven A. Brustin, D.M.D.

NO SMALL MATTER

According to Japanese scientists, dentists may soon routinely treat small cavities with a paste. This futuristic vision of tooth repair comes on the heels of Japanese researchers having developed a synthetic tooth enamel that can repair early tooth decay without the need for drilling for fillings. The crystalline white paste can reconstruct enamel without removing the decayed area. The new paste both repairs small cavities and prevents new ones. While dentists usually treat cavities by removing the decayed area and filling the hole with a resin or metal amalgam, the new material can reconstruct enamel without drilling. When a treated tooth was examined with an electron microscope, it was found that the paste integrated with the tooth's natural enamel.

This column has been brought to you in the interest of better oral health. We use the most modern equipment and advanced dental techniques in a relaxing environment to provide the highest quality dental care to all of our patients. Your comfort is our highest priority, and we strive to offer the very best in all of our services to ensure your satisfaction and comfort. With regular professional dental care you can become one of the millions of people who smile with confidence. For more information, or the schedule an appointment, call 617-479-6220. We're located at 44 Greenleaf Street, where we offer the services of anesthesiology with a fully trained and qualified anesthesiologist. Visit us on the web at www.quincydentist.com.

P.S. Japanese researchers point out that their new tooth-repair paste should not come in contact with gums because its high concentration of hydrogen peroxide could cause inflammation.

FROM START TO FITNESS

by Andrea Wyatt M.S.S., C.S.C.S.

Starting Exercise at Age 60

Q. My doctor has told me for years that I need to begin to exercise, but I have never started. Now my doctor says it is mandatory that I begin to exercise due to some medical concerns. Since I have never been in an organized exercise program, at age 60, where should I begin?

A. It is never too late to add exercise into your lifestyle. The many benefits of exercise can help to improve your everyday life by increasing muscular strength and cardiovascular endurance, and improving flexibility and balance. Those benefits can translate into improvements in certain medical conditions such as high blood pressure, diabetes, hypertension and heart issues.

The beginning of any exercise program should start with a visit to your physician to ensure you'll be exercising safely. Find out if there are any restrictions (such as heart-rate limitations), exercises you should avoid or certain types of movements that need to be modified.

Once you get the OK from your physician, begin by seeing if there is anything that piques your interest. There is no one-size-fits-all exercise program, so it may take a little time to find something in which you want to participate. Joining a fitness facility, swimming, or videos and DVDs at home may all be options to get you started.

Joining a fitness facility is a great way to begin your journey. There you should find fitness professionals who can talk with you about your health and activity history, help you set goals and develop a safe and effective plan to achieve those goals. They also can address any concerns you may have. Once you have established goals and discussed your health and activity history, you will be able to begin to find the type of exercise that will best suit you.

If a fitness facility is not an option, you can begin by just getting up and moving. Start by walking around the block once a day, riding a bike around the neighborhood or on a designated trail, or swimming laps. Each of these activities will require your heart and other muscles to respond to these new stresses. Soon you will find that these activities will become easier.

It's important to remember not to attempt to make up for the past. Exercising at extremely high intensities or trying to do as much cardiovascular and strength training as possible will not get you in shape any faster. Develop a sensible and realistic plan that you can maintain, and pace yourself. Your body will appreciate and respond to the lifestyle changes you begin to make, and will respond accordingly.

Remember, this is the beginning of a new fun-and-fit lifestyle that you will want to continue to follow for the next 60 years.

A Job Well Done

By SGT. DAN MINTON

Unheralded workers, commonly referred to as Civilian Police Dispatchers and 911 Operators, handle thousands of calls for service each week, often receiving little recognition or credit for their "job well done." It is through their efforts that the officers on the street do their jobs so well.

SGT. DAN MINTON

Here is a sample of their work.

On April 26, 2005, the Royal Canadian Mounted Police sent out a teletype to all law enforcement agencies that they were looking for a suspect involved in a double homicide in Canada. The teletype provided a description of the suspect and a partial drivers' license number. Quincy Police Civilian Dispatcher Carol Flynn reviewed the teletype and was able to determine the suspect's home address in Mattapoisett. Dispatcher Flynn immediately notified the Mattapoisett Police Department and a BOLO was issued. Near midnight of the same day, Mattapoisett Officer Murray stopped a suspicious male who turned out to be the suspect wanted. Mattapoisett Police Chief Lyons contacted this department to commend Dispatcher Flynn for her efforts.

As all Police Officers know, when we initially stop someone, we often don't known if the person is armed, wanted or a danger to us. Having the information before the encounter, as in this case, made for the quick and safe apprehension of a dangerous suspect.

When Dispatcher Flynn finds some "quiet time" as dispatcher, she continues to work on a program called "H.E.L.P" which is designed to assist the police in locating disoriented citizens home safely. She is working on a bracelet identification system for those with Alzheimer's, dementia, autism and other medical issues.

Dispatcher Bob Lingoes helped create the "Doe Network," an international internet search group to match missing people to unidentified bodies. He has received national recognition for his work. His most recent effort involved the discovery of a body in Framingham. Lingoes contacted the police department to get a full description, including tattoos, then confirmed that the body was that of a man missing from Houston, TX. He provided this information to the State Police and they were able to focus on suspects.

Civilian Paul Delahoyde is the "Inside Man" for the Detective Bureau. He has solved many crimes after reviewing reports and linking incidents across the city. Since criminals have no boundaries, his efforts extend to other departments in matching suspects to multiple crimes. Delahoyde is responsible for preserving all the evidence that is collected by the officers. He also develops photo arrays of suspects and assists in the sex offender registry process. Recently, Delahoyde received two commendations for solving burglaries and armed robberies.

Dispatcher Greg Hartnett, also a Police Officer in Webster, was at the Stop & Shop when he observed Quincy Police Officer Dan Flaherty in foot pursuit of a shoplifter. Dispatcher Hartnett gave chase and assisted Officer Flaherty, who was wrestling with the suspect. The defendant battled them until mace was used and additional officers arrived.

Many of the civilians did not want to be mentioned in this article, they just do their jobs. These are just a few of the civilian employees within the Police Department who take the "extra step" in making Quincy a great city to live.

Nice work!

SPRING CAR CARE

Share The Road Safely With Large Trucks

Motorists traveling this summer should remember special precautions are needed to safely share the road with large trucks that also use the nation's highways, according to AAA Southern New England.

There are more than 250,000 crashes annually involving at least one passenger vehicle and one large truck. In more than 70 percent of all fatal crashes involving autos and big trucks, police report the auto driver contributed to the crash.

"While truck operators have an important obligation to operate their vehicle in a safe manner, passenger car drivers are often in a position to avoid dangerous situations," said John Paul, AAA's manager of Traffic Safety. "It's in everyone's interest for motorists to share the road safely."

One key to driving safely near large trucks is to avoid the "No Zones" — areas around trucks and buses where crashes are more likely to occur. Some No Zones are blind spots or areas around trucks and buses where your car "disappears" from view of the drivers. There are No Zones to the side, rear and in front of trucks.

To avoid danger in the rear No Zone, don't tailgate. Always maintain two to four seconds of following distance behind a truck. To stay out of a truck's large side blind spots, make sure you see the driver's face in the side mirrors. If you can't see his face, he can't see you.

Exercise extreme caution when passing a truck. Trucks take twice as long as cars to stop. When passing a truck, don't get back into the truck's lane until you can see the whole cab of the truck in your rear view mirror.

Trucks also sometimes need to swing wide to the left to safely make a right turn. Never cut between a turning truck and the right curb or shoulder.

Take Control Of Rising Gas Prices

(NU) – Does your money seem to evaporate with every trip to the gas station? You can add miles to every gallon you pump simply by maintaining your vehicle and practicing fuel-saving driving habits.

"Most motorists don't realize that it's the little things that don't take a lot of time or cost much that can really make a difference when it comes to saving money at the pump," said Rich White, executive director of the Car Care Council. "Loose or missing gas caps, underinflated tires, worn spark plugs and dirty air filters all contribute to poor fuel economy."

The Car Care Council offers these gas-saving maintenance and driving tips:

• Secure your vehicle's gas cap. About 17 percent of the vehicles on the road have damaged or loose gas caps or are missing gas caps altogether, causing 147 million gallons of gas to vaporize every year.

• Keep tires properly inflated. Driving on underinflated tires is like driving with the parking brake on and can cost you a mile or two per gallon.

• Replace worn spark plugs regularly. A vehicle's spark plugs can fire as many as 3 million times every 1,000 miles. A dirty spark plug causes misfiring, which wastes fuel.

• Change dirty air filters. If the air filter gets clogged and chokes off the air, it creates a mixture that's too "rich" in gas, which causes the engine to lose power. Replacing a clogged air filter can improve gas mileage by as much as 10 percent.

• Don't be an aggressive driver. Aggressive driving can lower gas mileage by as much as 33 percent on the highway and 5 percent on city streets.

• Avoid excessive idling. Sitting idling gets zero miles per gallon. Letting the vehicle warm up for just one or two minutes is sufficient.

• Observe the speed limit. Gas mileage decreases rapidly at speeds above 60 mph. Use cruise control to maintain a constant speed on the highway.

• Do not carry unneeded heavy items in the vehicle. an extra 100 pounds can cut fuel efficiency by 1 percent to 2 percent.

To see the Car Care Council's free service interval schedule, visit www.carcare.org.

Don't Get Burned By Summer Heat

AAA reminds motorists that summer weather can cause temperature inside a parked vehicle to reach levels that can be dangerous or even fatal, especially to children and pets.

"Temperatures inside a parked car can quickly soar to near 200 degrees," said John Paul, AAA's Car Doctor. "Don't leave children or animals unattended in a car, not even for a short time."

Before entering a vehicle that has parked in high temperatures, AAA says motorists should open the vehicle's door and let the interior cool for a few minutes. A sun shield can be used to cover the windshield to minimize heat build-up and to help protect the car's interior. Cover metal and plastic parts on safety belts and child safety seats to prevent burns.

Some motorists opt to leave a window partially open to keep their vehicle cool. This may be appropriate in some circumstances, but it could make your vehicle "hot" by being an easy target for car thieves.

A properly working air conditioning system also will help motorists keep their cool in summer heat. If needed, have the air conditioning serviced by a qualified technician. On cars manufactured prior to 1995 repaired using the refrigerant R-12 or consider retrofitting to R-134a. Do not use non-approved substitute refrigerants.

Auto Care

(NU) – Forecasters say the price of gasoline likely will set records this buy driving season. Is there anything a motorist can do?

According to the professionals at the nonprofit National Institute for Automotive Service Excellence (ASE), taking your vehicle to a repair facility to correct any engine performance problem is one way to squeeze the most out of each gallon of gas. Given today's high-tech engines, it's wise to have this type of work done by auto technicians who are certified by ASE to handle engine performance problems.

Squealing Brakes

Q. Why do my brakes squeak? My Toyota has disc brakes in front and the rear. I have carbon metallic pads. The brakes are fairly new. Is this normal? — Hal P., Oklahoma

A. Hal, a possible reason your disc-brake pads squeal is because of the carbon metallic brake pads themselves. Carbon metallic pads squeal more than non-carbon metallic pads, so the answer may lie in changing your brake pads to a different brand.

Now, for all you readers who wonder about brake noise, if your brakes are squealing and you can "feel" something grinding, please take note. Modern cars have brake wear indicators that will squeal when it is time to change your brake pads. If this is the case, change them now. No harm done.

However, if you've driven beyond the warning squeal, you are now into your disc-brake rotor, and the damage is increasing by the day. Get to your garage quick before you ruin everything and run out of brakes, too.

Other squeal culprits are warped rotors, sticky brake pistons, misaligned or loose calipers, loose wheel bearings or incorrect pads.

Back to Hal: If you still like carbon metallic pads, ask your mechanic about several "anti-squeal" coatings he can apply.

And for those out there who take their brakes for granted, make sure you check them every time you change your oil.

TRACKING DOWN COOLANT
Engine coolant has traditionally been an unmistakable fluorescent lime green. This color has made it easy for vehicle owners to identify leaking coolant beneath their vehicles. In recent years, coolant has also been available in red and orange. While coolant loses some of its bright color as it ages, it will remain visibly green, red, or orange. In any case, all coolant retains its characteristically sweet aroma. On a very hot day, a hot vehicle may spit up a little coolant out of the overflow onto the ground. This is nothing to worry about. If you discover a puddle of coolant beneath your vehicle on anything other than a very hot day, however, have your coolant system checked out.
Find a coolant puddle under your car? Don't hesitate in having it checked out. At LEO & WALT'S SUNOCO we want you to be well informed about every system in your car. Our friendly, professional, ASE Certified service staff here at 258 Quincy Ave., E. Braintree (781-843-1550) will gladly answer all your questions. Hours: Mon.-Fri. 6am-9pm, Sat. 7am-9pm, Sun. 9am-5pm. Sunoco and most major credit cards honored. We are "A Place Where Your Car Can Live Longer." Give us a try. We'll earn your trust!
HINT: To identify a fluid leaking from your vehicle, place a few sheets of white paper beneath your vehicle to collect the fluid. Then, bring the stained paper to an auto tech.

SCOTT DEWARE

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

DO YOU HAVE AN UNDERSTANDING HEART? . . . Someone once said that the realization that there are other points of view (other than your own) is the beginning of wisdom. Understanding what they are is a great step . . . And the final test is understanding why they are held.

With this thought in mind, let us all work towards "building bridges of understanding." Today, perhaps more than ever in history, we need to "build these bridges."

The need today for understanding hearts is just as great as it ever was. The lack of them explains much of the mindless cruelty at work in so many parts of the world today.

Today we cannot ignore the visible and invisible walls dividing countries, races, and families. We must tear the walls down and build bridges instead. Each bridge is worth building, even in frustrating times and on unknown territory.

Let us get to work today!

He died May 10 at Quincy Medical Center.

Mr. Trocino was born in Italy and lived in Scala Coeli. He studied tailoring there and went on to open his own business on Madison Ave. in New York City.

He lived in Brooklyn, N.Y., before moving to Quincy.

Husband of the late Millie Trocino, he is survived by two daughters, Antoinette Schmidt of St. Louis, Mo., and Patricia Hurwitz of Quincy; three grandchildren, and two step-grandchildren.

Arrangements were made by Hamel, Wickens & Troupe Funeral Home.

Viola Boc, 95

Retired Dietary Aid

A funeral Mass for Viola (Lada) Boc, 95, of Quincy, a retired dietary aid, will be celebrated today (Thursday) at 9 a.m. at Sacred Heart Church, 386 Hancock St., Quincy.

She died Monday at Queen Ann Nursing Home in Hingham.

Mrs. Boc worked at St. Joseph's Nursing Home in Dorchester for 15 years, retiring in 1973. She was previously a seamstress at the former Lerner's Dresswear Company in Boston.

Born in Poland, she came to the Unites States at age 3. She lived in Dorchester before moving to Quincy 30 years ago.

Wife of the late James Z. Boc, she is survived by a daughter, Dorothy A. Crifo of Mashpee; a son, Kenneth J. Boc of Buzzard's Bay; two sisters, Victoria Rajewski of Hyde Park and Dorothy Krystiniak of Chelsea; four grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.

Burial was in Cedar Grove Cemetery, Dorchester.

Funeral arrangements were by Clancy-Lucid Funeral Home, Weymouth.

Joseph M. King, 54

Self-Employed Auto Mechanic

A funeral Mass for Joseph M. King, 54, of Braintree, a self-employed auto mechanic, was celebrated May 16 at St. Mary's Church, 95 Crescent St., Quincy.

He died May 11 at home.

Mr. King was an auto mechanic and antique car enthusiast. He especially liked Studebakers and cars manufactured by Studebaker including Avanti. He owned six Studebakers including a 1950s era pick-up that will lead his funeral procession.

He was a member of the Studebaker Driver's Club.

Mr. King graduated from Braintree High School.

He was born in Quincy and lived most of his life in Braintree.

He is survived by his mother, Erma L. (Grasso) King of Braintree; and several cousins.

He was also the son of the late Joseph V. King.

Burial was in Blue Hill Cemetery.

Arrangements were made by the Dennis Sweeney Funeral Home, Quincy.

Francis C. Bonani, 59

Self-Employed Automobile Wholesaler

A memorial service for Francis "Frank" Charles Bonani, 59, of Vero Beach, Fla., a self-employed automobile wholesaler, was held May 14 at First Church of Nazarene, 1280 27th Ave., Vero Beach.

He died May 10 at Indian River Memorial Hospital in Vero Beach after a long illness.

Born in Quincy, Mr. Bonani lived in Stoughton before moving to Vero Beach 15 years ago.

He is survived by his wife of 35 years, Veronica Bonani; three daughters, Theresa Beckham, Meredith Safra and Adreana McClure, all of Vero Beach; a brother, Alfred Bonani of Vero Beach; and a grandson.

Arrangments were made by Cox-Gifford-Seawinds Funeral Home & Crematory, Vero Beach.

Emmanuel G. Fillippides, 59

Retired Cook

A funeral service for Emmanuel G. Fillippides, 59, of Quincy, a retired cook, was held Wednesday at St. Catherine's Greek Orthodox Church, Quincy.

He died Monday at Quincy Medical Center.

Born, raised and educated in Karpathos, Greece, Mr. Fillippides lived in Quincy for the past 13 years.

He is survived by his wife Dina (Tsoukalis) Fillippides; two sons, Philip Fillippides of Quincy and George Fillippides of New York; two daughters, Sophia Kritikos of Lowell and Irene Fillippides of Greece; two brothers, Elias Fillippides of New York and Constantine Fillippides of Greece; and a sister, Sophia Fillippides of Greece.

Burial was in Pine Hill Cemetery.

Funeral arrangements were by Sweeney Brothers Home for Funerals, 1 Independence Ave.

Salome's Stars

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) You might be a bit shaken by a friend's request. But before the Lamb leaps to conclusions, insist on a full explanation. You might still say no, but at least you'll know what you're saying no to.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Seeing red over those nasty remarks by someone with an ax to grind? Of course you are. So get out there and give your supporters the facts they need to get the truth out.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) A changing situation should get you to reassess your vacation plans and make any adjustments as soon as possible. And don't fret — the change will most likely turn out for the better.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) Don't put off dealing with any negative feelings that might be left over from a recent confrontation. The sooner all is resolved, the sooner you can move forward with fewer complications.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) Leos and Leonas might feel the urge to redecorate their dens, and that can turn into a good opportunity to strengthen family ties by putting the whole pride to work to make it happen.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) Look for the most efficient way to get a job done quickly and well. Taking more time than you need to make it look more challenging is a short-sighted move you might regret later on.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) Travel remains strong in your aspect. And this time, it could involve someone traveling a great distance to come to see you. Meanwhile, an important matter could suddenly need your attention.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) A workplace situation becomes a lot more bothersome than you'd expected. Be careful not to be pulled into all that anger. Look for support among others who also want to avoid trouble.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) Cheer up, lonely lovers, wherever you are. Just when you thought you'd been deleted from Cupid's database, the chubby cherub proves that's just not so. Congratulations.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) A casual relationship could take a more serious turn. Are you ready for it? Your stars say you are. Paired Sea Goats will also find a renewed richness in their relationships.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) Meeting a collaborator with new ideas seems to be a dream come true. But for both your sakes, be sure all your legal i's are dotted and t's are crossed before you start working together.

PISCES (February 19 to March 21) A romantic overture flatters the usually unflappable Fish. But since it's a sincere from-the-heart gesture, go ahead an enjoy it. A minor health problem responds well to treatment.

BORN THIS WEEK: You have the warm heart of a Taurean and the sensitivity of a Gemini. You would make a wonderful leader. So go ahead: Run for office.

to clear up any lingering ethical questions for councillors.

In a related matter, the Phelan administration Monday night introduced a $150,000 spending item which will go toward paying urban planning consultants, traffic and parking studies, and other logistical planning services as part of the mayor's move to re-ignite interest in downtown Quincy.

An initial cash infusion of $150,000 is needed by the city to pay for a number of services to jumpstart Quincy's downtown redevelopment efforts, according to the Phelan administration.

The measure was placed in the council's finance committee for further review.

Administration officials said planning money used now is expected to be reimbursed to the city through tax and financing incentives at the heart of the redevelopment plans.

A traffic study of the downtown area is already underway by Rizzo Associates, according to Planning Director Dennis Harrington. The results of the study will be revealed soon, he said.

An additional $100,000 will be required to implement a DIF development program for potential developers, he said.

Another important component of the mayor's downtown redevelopment effort is legislation designed to rezone the district to allow taller buildings in spots, more residential and mixed-use developments and a streamlined permitting process through the planning board.

Vandals Smear Paint Inside Sterling Middle School

Sterling Middle School was vandalized over the weekend by individuals who broke into the school and smeared paint inside a small section of the third floor, according to police.

A custodian noticed the paint inside the school at approximately 9:30 a.m. Sunday, police said. Paint was on the hallway, doors and in a closet, police said.

A trail of paint leading to the girls' restroom was also discovered, as was paint smeared on the inside of a window in the restroom, said police.

School officials said the paint was removed and conditions were back to normal in time for Monday's school opening.

Apparently, vandals gained entrance through a window Sunday morning. The paint was taken from a closet where art supplies were stored, according to school officials.

Police are investigating the matter.

Caldwell Memorial Square Dedicated To Iraq War Hero

A nameless island on Elm Avenue, Wollaston, became Sgt. Charles "Todd" Caldwell Memorial Square Sunday in honor of the son of Quincy, who gave his life for his country in faraway Iraq.

The Caldwell family, mother, father, brother, nieces and a nephew, turned out for the unveiling of the plaque in the name of their son, who was killed Sept. 1, 2003, near Baghdad while guarding a supply convoy.

Main speaker was Brig. Gen. John L. Enright, assistant adjutant general of the Rhode Island National Guard, whose talk was followed by the unveiling of the plaque and placing of a wreath.

The color guard was provided by the 115th Military Police Company of the Rhode Island National Guard, the outfit with which Caldwell was serving when he was killed.

Other speakers included Mayor William Phelan, Steve Fowles, past commander of the Quincy Veterans Council. City officials and Mrs. Theresa Davis, a Gold Star mother, were invited guests.

The benediction and invocation were given by Dr. J. David McClung, president of Eastern Nazarene College; and the Rev. Fred C. Fullerton, pastor of the Wollaston Church of the Nazarene.

Both the college and the church front on Sgt. Charles "Todd" Caldwell Memorial Square.

PLAQUE to be placed in North Quincy High School honoring the late Sgt. Charles 'Todd' Caldwell is displayed by North Quincy Principal Louis Ioanilli while Charles and Gladys Caldwell, parents of the National Guardsman who died in Iraq, look on.

Council Committee Approves Sweeping Zoning Changes

15-Story Buildings For Downtown

By WILLIAM TRAYNOR

Dramatic changes are on the horizon for downtown Quincy after the city council's ordinance committee rubber-stamped a major overhaul of zoning rules, which includes allowing the construction of 15-story buildings in certain areas of Quincy Center.

On a unanimous 7-0 vote, the committee Monday night paved the way for Mayor William Phelan's plan to encourage development in the downtown area. The city council is expected to sign off on the final plan at its June 6 meeting.

"We've watched the downtown languish for a generation, and I think we needed to take bold steps to bring the downtown into the next century," said Ward 3 Councillor Kevin Coughlin, chairman of the ordinance committee. "Absent this ordinance, the downtown was going nowhere."

Phelan's original proposal called for allowing 15-story buildings throughout the district, but councillors carved out a large portion of the area to designate 15 stories in only certain locations. The rest of the district will remain at the present 10-story limit to preserve several outlying neighborhoods that abut downtown Quincy.

Coupled with tax and financial incentives, which have already received council approval, the changes are part of Phelan's push to attract developers to revitalize the downtown.

Last week, the council approved the city's effort to apply for "District Improvement Financing" (DIF), a tax incentive program that would allow the city to use anticipated taxes from new development in Quincy Center to pay for public improvements downtown.

The administration is expected to make its case for the DIF at a May 31 meeting with the state Economic Assistance Coordinating Coun

Stepping Down After 12 Years

Bragg Will Not Seek Re-Election To School Board

Jo-Ann Bragg, a mainstay of the Quincy school committee for 12 years, will not seek re-election to a fourth term.

"At this point in time with the increased needs of my family and added demands of my work, I have chosen to step down and not seek re-election," she said Tuesday.

Bragg's decision creates a second vacant seat on the school committee this election year.

Vice Chairman Michael McFarland is leaving to run for the city councillor at-large seat veteran Frank McCauley is retiring from, closing out a 32-year political career that included four terms as mayor.

JO-ANN BRAGG

Ronald Mariano will be the only incumbent seeking re-election to the school committee this year. He already has taken out his nomination papers.

Parade, Ceremonies Monday

Holocaust Survivor Memorial Day Speaker

Stephan B. Ross, of Newton, a holocaust survivor who was held at 10 Nazi slave labor and death camps from 1940-1945, will be the main speaker at Quincy's Memorial Day ceremonies Monday at Mount Wollaston Cemetery.

Ross, a licensed psychologist who serves as senior staff psychologist with the City of Boston's Centers for Youth & Families, was incarcerated in Poland at the age of 9, and survived 10 death camps before being liberated by the U.S. 7th Army from the infamous Dachau camp at age 14 along with 32,000 diseased inmates.

He was brought to America at age 16 under the auspices of the U.S. Government Committee for World War II Orphaned Children. He was illiterate and eventually managed to earn several degrees.

He was awarded a Doctorate of Letters by Northeastern University for exemplary Community Services. He has served as a youth psychologist in deliquency prevention for more than 40 years.

Mr. Ross is the founder of the New England Holocaust Memorial on Boston's Freedom Trail, which was dedicated in 1995 in memory of the six million Jewish victims of the holocaust.

Marching units in the parade will gather no later than 10 a.m. on School St., and march down School, Hancock, Coddington and Sea Sts. to the cemetery, pausing to place wreaths on the tombs of John Adams and John Quincy Adams in the United First Parish Church.

The parade is expected to begin at 10:30 a.m.

In case of inclement weather, the exercises will be held in the Center for Technical Education gym on Coddington St. at 11 a.m. Official instructions will be broadcast by WJDA-AM, 1300 on the radio dial.

Parade Marshal Robert Loughran, commander of the Quincy Veterans' Council, and honored guests will review the parade from a stand across Sea St. from the cemetery entrance.

STEPHAN ROSS

After the services, the parade will disband and the veterans will retire to their respective posts.

John Raeke, chaplain of the Quincy Veterans' Council, will open the ceremonies with the invocation followed by the introduction of invited guests by the master of ceremonies, Irving Isaacson.

THIS PHOTO of Ross was taken by the Nazis while he was held as a prisoner in one of several concentration camps. This photograph was retrieved from the camp's guardhouse at the end of World War II.

Commander Loughran, Mayor William Phelan, City Council President Frank McCauley and Henry Bradley, director of Veterans Services, will deliver greetings and remarks.

Lorraine Ahern, junior vice commander of the QVC, will read the General Logan's Order creating the first Memorial Day, and Vincent Dolan, senior vice commander of the QVC, will read former President Abraham Lincoln's Gettysburg Address.

Ross will give the main address.

Thomas Stansbury of Quincy Veterans Services Department will extend greetings and remarks, and adjutant will call the roll of deceased comrades, the Memorial Day Prayer will be delivered by Edwin Boland.

Commander Loughran will place a wreath and others will add wreaths for all wars, Gold Star Mothers will place a basket of flowers at the World War II monument, and the Second Marine Division will fire a volley and a bugle will sound Taps.

The National Anthem will be played as Robert LaFleur, the chief of staff, raises the colors to full staff. Joseph Brooker, assistant chaplain of the QVC, will give the benediction and the troops will be dismissed by the officer of the day.

The parade formation, which is subject to change, depending on which posts, colors and guests report, will be led by the Quincy Police Honor Guard, the Quincy Veterans Council Colors, the Quincy Post 95 American Legion, the Sons of the American Legion and Auxiliary.

They will be followed by Loughran, Dolan, Ahern, the mayor and city and state officials.

'A Great Honor To Me And My Family'

New Library Wing To Be Dedicated For Sheets Sunday

They're recognizing former Mayor Jim Sheets Sunday for his work in bringing an $18 million library addition to Quincy.

The new wing of the Thomas Crane Public Library will be named officially the Sheets Building at ceremonies from 2 to 4 p.m. under a tent on the library lawn.

"It's a great honor to me and my family," said Sheets. "Libraries are special to cities and towns because they last through the ages and they do so much for education.

"I'm very thankful to the library board and the mayor for this great honor."

Sheets, a long-time teacher at Quincy Junior College, was instrumental in raising nearly $1 million for furnishings and equipment for the new addition mostly through corporate donations.

The dedication will come only a day short of the 123rd birthday of the library itself, which was officially opened May 30, 1882, by Charles Francis Adams Jr. the chairman of trustees.

The 69-year-old Sheets' portion of the library is in good company, joining the original Richardson Building, and the Coletti Building, which was added to the complex in 1938.

Speakers who will lend their words to the occasion include both those who have contributed to the library and to Sheets 28-year career on the local political scene.

He served as mayor from 1990 to 2002, the longest of any elected Quincy chief executive, through six elections and reelections, essentially unopposed in many of them.

JIM SHEETS

Featured among the Sunday speakers will be Ron Kaufman, who went from a student in Sheets' government classes at Quincy Junior College to political adviser to the first President Bush.

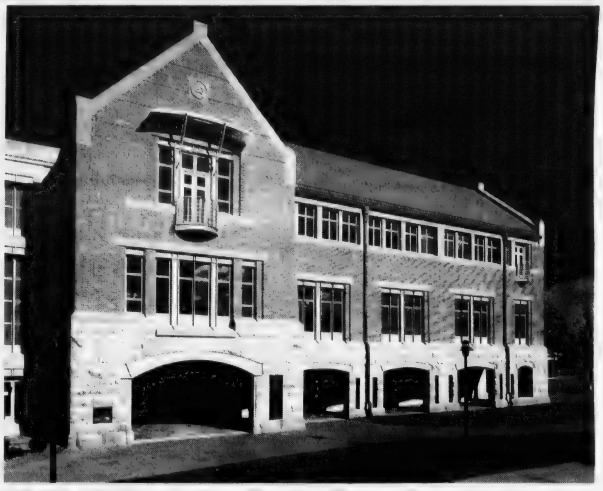
Kaufman, who was Sheets' aide when he was a city councillor and state representative, is now chairman of the executive board of Dulko Worldwide, economic consultants.

Dave Colton, the commissioner of Public Works under Sheets and now the town administrator of Milton, will speak on behalf of members of the Sheets Administration.

Library Director Ann McLaughlin will represent the library and former City Councillor Peter Colson will sing America the Beautiful a capella and several hymns.

Mayor William Phelan will bring the greetings of the city and City Clerk Joe Shea will act as master of ceremonies.

The first of the library buildings was designed by Henry Hobson Richardson, the most noted architect of his day, dedicated May 30, 1882, and known as the Richardson Building.



It was built with a $20,000 bequest from the estate of Thomas Crane, who grew up in Quincy Point and made his fortune in the granite industry elsewhere but never forgot his old hometown.

The Crane estate also put up $64,000 for a wing on Spear Street in 1908 and another $164,000 for the Coletti Building in 1938. And there was still Crane money left to buy the land for the Sheets Building.

D'Amico Begins 4-Month Federal Prison Sentence

He was a member of the Quincy City Council even before he could vote but, after that, something went wrong.

Michael D'Amico, at 20, sat in the Council Chamber at City Hall and helped enact the ordinances that governed the city, the youngest ever to hold that exalted position in Quincy.

Michael D'Amico, at 30, began a four-month sentence in a federal prison camp on charges of corruption Monday, another first for a city councillor in the city's 116-year history.

He had served six years on the Council when investigators caught him on tape taking a $2,500 payoff from a Dunkin' Donuts operator and was convicted of extortion and lying to the FBI.

School Committee Takes Spotlight

Ordinarily the mayor's race is the main attraction in a city election.

This year, however, it could be the school committee.

That stage may have been set Tuesday with Jo-Ann Bragg's decision not to seek a fourth term – a decision many hoped she wouldn't make because of her outstanding track record.

BRAGG

It means there will be two vacant school committee seats on this year's ballot.

McFARLAND

The first was created by Vice Chairman Michael McFarland's decision to run for the city council at-large seat Frank McCauley is leaving as he closes out a distinguished 32-year public career.

The third incumbent due up for re-election this year – Ron Mariano – is running. He has his nomination papers in circulation.

The two vacant seats could produce a line-up of candidates. The McFarland seat has already attracted three contenders:

Robert Haley, former vice president of the Quincy Taxpayers Association; David Smith, a teacher; and Atty. Kathryn Hobin.

As word of Bragg's decision gets around, others will surely be headed to the Election Department for nomination papers.

Meanwhile, a question a still waiting for an answer: Will there be a mayor's race? A real mayor's race?

PHELAN

Or, will incumbent William Phelan get a free – or easy – ride to a third term?

Right now there doesn't seem to be a major challenger waiting in the wings to pounce at the opportune time.

If there is such a challenger in waiting, he – or she – is the best kept secret in town.

For awhile it looked like Joe Finn might run against Phelan. But for personal and other reasons he opted to seek re-election as a city councillor at-large instead.

RAYMONDI

And there were those who thought Dan Raymondi just might decide now is the hour and get in.

But Raymondi, Phelan's severest critic, dropped the curtain on the speculation Monday when he took out nomination papers for re-election to his Ward 2 seat.

Observers don't see any other potential heavyweight opponent on the horizon and don't expect one.

Phelan may get an opponent but no one with the clout of a Finn or Raymondi.

Robert Boussy, who ran against Jim Sheets in 1999, has nomination papers out for both mayor and city councillor at-large. He told Election Department workers he hadn't decided which one he would run for.

Sheets rolled by Boussy that year by a 12,011 vote margin – 14,487 to 2,476 – 85 percent of the vote.

And that was the year a political unknown by the name of Bill Phelan, running for the first time, won one of the three school committee seats.

And who would have thought then, that newcomer would upset Sheets in the very next city election!

If Phelan were to get a re-election free ride, he would be the fourth mayor in the city's history to do so.

BURGIN

SHEETS

Tom Burgin was the first in 1940. McCauley the second in 1983. And Sheets, not one but three free rides in 1991, 1993 and 1997.

Incumbents have a fondness for free rides. They don't have to spend the summer campaigning. And they don't have to spend a lot of money.

But free rides have a downside. Incumbents getting one don't receive a true reading of where they stand with the voters. Sometimes there are warning signals that aren't detected then and the next election is too late to do something about them.

It's similar to an incumbent in an office not having to face a preliminary election opponent. A preliminary election can spot problems a candidate can do something before it is too late in the final election.

A mayoral race is traditionally the main bout in a city election. It's the one that sparks voter interest and voter turnout.

And so far there hasn't been too much interest in the way this election year is shaping up.

The two vacant school committee seats and the council at-large seat may put a little needed zip into Election Year 2005.

Maybe it's only the lousy spring that has kept potential candidates home. And, maybe they'll come out with the warm weather.

Warm weather. There's got to be some before winter.

Environmental Treasures Nature Walk Of Blue Hills

Tom Palmer, a naturalist, writer and environmental activist, will lead a nature walk in the Blue Hills entitled "Streamside Flora of Furnace Brook" Saturday. June 4.

Scenes From Yesterday

THIS IS A 1906 postcard view of the steel schooner Thomas W. Larson built in 1902 at the Fore River Shipyard at Quincy Point. This was the world's largest schooner and the only one ever built with seven masts. She was built for the coastal coal trade and could carry 11,000 tons, but was refitted at Newport News in 1906 to carry bulk oil. On its first trans-Atlantic crossing the ship sank in a storm off the English coast with a loss of 17 men and over 2 million gallons of oil. It was Friday the 13th, December, 1907. Naming the ship after its owner, a wealthy financier from Scituate, was easy, but the names of its seven masts remain controversial 100 years after she was built. Legend has it that the crew named them after the days of the week with the foremast being Sunday. But over time at least six other sets of names have been recorded and contested. A recently published book explores the history of the Lawson. To contact Tom Galvin, e-mail tmgalvin@verizon.net.

Proposes Model Of USS Massachusetts Replace Granite Ball At Rotary

Now that the Granite Ball has been removed from the Fore River Circle in Quincy Point, I have an idea for a replacement. Having read the articles and seen the work done in wrought iron by the Quincy High students, I feel they would be capable to perform the following:

I have given a preliminary sketch to Dennis Thebault and Charles Richard. Both think it is a good idea and it would be an excellent training for their students. Planning could start with the new school year in the fall of 2005.

The existing trees would remain as a background. In front of them a steel, skeletal scale model of the battleship Massachusetts would be constructed. Steel tubing would represent 16-inch guns. The land in front of the ship would be planted with blue and white flowers to represent the sea. Foremost would be a granite stone plaque with the words, USS MASSACHUSETTS in capital letters at the top. At the bottom in same size letters would be: WELCOME TO QUINCY. In between, in smaller print would be a list of Quincy city officials and other contributors including reference to the students. Let's all get behind Dennis and Charles with a "Full Speed Ahead."

In Defense Of Saddam Hussein

They are the disaffected Sunni Arab minority. They are dethroned by the American invasion of Iraq. They are the followers of Saddam Hussein. They are the suicide bombers. They are the Iraqi insurgents. They are the militants and they are the terrorists. They are our archenemies.

But in all fairness, we have shaped their attitude and their activity. When Saddam Hussein was in power, he maintained law and order — sometimes by force, when his enemies domestic and foreign, used force, just as all rulers of the world used force when force was used against them.

Saddam Hussein worked for our intelligence, longer than any other foreign leader. He was our only ally when we had disputes with Iran. And, before our President became the "war President," by invading Iraq, Saddam Hussein invited him to a public debate, to resolve all disagreements, diplomatically.

And, although Saddam Hussein believed that he is entitled to have weapons of mass destruction, in self defense, against his enemies, domestic and foreign, in obedience to the United Nations, he did not obtain them.

Sanctions had Saddam Hussein boxed in. He was able to harm no one outside of his country. The United Nations policies, which had been imposed since 1991, had not only led to ridding him of all weapons of mass destruction, but also effectively weakened his Air Force and Navy as well as his Army.

Douglas Wood, the recently kidnapped Australian in Iraq, described why the Iraqis resist the American occupation, with such superhuman self-sacrifice, comparable in all human history only to the Serbian uprising in the 19th century against the Islamic Turks, whose occupation lasted almost 500 years. Here is what Douglas Wood had to say from his Iraqi captivity:

"My captors are fiercely patriotic. They believe in a strong, independent Iraq, looking after its own destiny. They are strong and they will be able to look after themselves."

The Iraqi suicide bombers proclaim, day and night, to the world that they value freedom more than life itself. Unfortunately, their message is ignored not only by us and our President and the United Nations, but also by the rest of the world combined.

Saddam Hussein has suffered in the last decade tripartite injustice: He was bombed by his neighbor, he was bombarded by three American Presidents and he was bombarded by severe sanctions by the United Nations. We learn from history that other rulers in all history used merciless force against their enemies. History also teaches us that peace, even peace at any price, is always cheaper than victory at any price. If all men have a common Father in Heaven, Saddam Hussein also deserves to be treated as our brother.

JFK Urges End To Shipyard Strike

This Week
1960
45 Years Ago

Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.) urged President Arthur B. Homer of Bethlehem Steel Co. to take a personal role in settlement of an eight-week strike that was trying up East Coast shipyards including Fore River.

Kennedy, a candidate for the Democratic nomination for President, charged that Bethlehem's negotiating policies seemed to be directed at breaking the Shipbuilders Union or closing down the Fore River yard.

"It is a matter of profound concern to me," he said, "that the company has adamantly insisted on overturning numerous practices and procedures established throughout two decades of collective bargaining.

"After 11 months of meetings and four months of a bitter and difficult strike, the company's position apparently remains the same."

Dick Dale To Speak Sunday At Quincy Historical Society

Quincy's Dick Dale, one of the major figures in the history of rock music and credited with creating the surf music sound back in the 1960s, will speak this Sunday, May 29 at 1 p.m. at the Quincy Historical Society, the Adams Academy Building, 8 Adams St.

Dick will discuss his music, reminisce about his youth and talk with audience members. It is believed to be his first public appearance in Quincy in many years.

"The King of Surf Guitar," Dick Dale in the 1950s and 1960s virtually invented - and popularized with a series of hit records - the California sound that became tremendously influential, shaping the music of the Beach Boys and other groups.

DICK DALE

The California sound had some distinctly Boston-Quincy roots, since Dick, drawing on his family heritage, was the first to bring Eastern European and Middle Eastern elements into rock music.

Even as Dick's influence can be found throughout modern popular music, he continues to be an active performer and recorder, launching a big comeback in the 1990s. His music can be heard as the theme in the film Pulp Fiction and in many commercials.

Dick will also be playing this Saturday, May 28 at the Middle East in Cambridge.

River Bay Club Senior Fair June 7

The River Bay Club, 99 Brackett St., will host its 14th annual Senior Fair June 7 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

River Bay Club is a Brookdale Community and the annual Senior Fair is the largest on the South Shore. More than 60 area vendors will be participating in this year's fair.

Planned events include free health screenings: vision testing, free cholesterol testing, blood sugar testing, stress tests, blood pressure screening, bone density testing and more.

In addition, there will be providers of a variety of services for seniors presenting information on health, wellness and other services like financial planning, exercise, banking and moving.

There will be door prizes, raffles and free give-aways have been donated by all of the providers. WJDA will broadcast from River Bay Club during some parts of the day. Refreshments will be served throughout the day.

For more information about the Senior Fair events and screenings, call Suzanne Davis, sales director, at 617-472-4457.

Digital Photography Seminar At Crane Library June 11

An Introduction to Digital Photography seminar will be held Saturday, June 11, from 9:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. at the Thomas Crane Public Library, 40 Washington St., Quincy Center.

This three-hour seminar, led by photographer and teacher Ron Goodman, will provide tips on purchasing a digital camera, an introduction to digital camera functions, how to take great pictures with your camera, and how to edit, manipulate, print and share your digital images. There will be demonstrations of digital equipment along with examples of artistic images.

Goodman is a professional photography and college instructor of photography and computer science. He has won several prizes in local art shows for his digital photographs.

No preregistration is required for the free program sponsored by the Friends of the Thomas Crane Public Library. Bring your digital camera if you have one. For more information, call 617-376-1301.

An Inspiration To All

Alice Webber A Young (Very) 104

By MARIE D'OLIMPIO

This is a story about hope and courage—hope for those who fear getting older and courage for those who are older.

Here is a lady, Alice Webber, who is now 104 years old and lived alone until she was 103 in an apartment.

When she was 99, she flew to Florida by herself to take care of a younger brother who was 89. She called the airline, arranged for a wheel chair all on her own.

Called by her long time friend Gloria Brummitt an "amazing person", Webber is a stock market buff, when each day at the same time each day at 5:07 p.m. she religiously listens to the stock market report.

When Webber turned 100 years old she flew to Florida to celebrate it where her nephew lived. Upon returning, she fell and broke her hip(when we hear of anyone who has had this happen to them, we sometimes do not hold any hope for a recovery.) But not Webber, she went into rehab, healed and now lives at Marina Bay Skilled Nursing Care.

ALICE WEBBER blows out candles on her 104th birthday cake.

Brummitt recalled that when the EMT's placed her on the gurney she sat up and told them to make sure they locked her door and gave her the key.

Born in Dorchester, she was the daughter of a family who owned the Cleary Clothing Service. She was married to Harry Webber for more than 50 years, and had been a bank secretary until her retirement. Her husband died in the 1960's.

She has lived in Quincy since 1966.

Brummitt said that Webber is "healthy and very alert" and now with limited eyesight, she calls friends on the phone by touching the keys.

High School Student Ashley Botticelli Takes College Classes At Stonehill

Ashley Botticelli of Quincy, a sophomore at Archbishop Williams High School, Braintree, found out what a rigorous college curriculum was like when she participated in the New Dimensions Program for gifted and talented high school students at Stonehill College, Easton.

For four Saturdays, Botticelli and 15 other Williams students joined more than 100 other students from schools in southeastern Massachusetts to take college classes in Political Science, Foreign Languages, Biology, Psychology, and Sociology, all taught by Stonehill professors.

"It's an opportunity for our high achieving students, our honor students, to explore a college setting and to experience the intellectual life of college," said Maureen Driscoll, Williams Director of Guidance.

ASHLEY BOTTICELLI

The program emphasizes the development of critical thinking skills and an awareness of current events through numerous small and large group presentations, with lectures followed by question and answer sessions.

Students are deliberately mixed with students from other schools to challenge them to learn to work with others. "This allows them to form a common, family bond, by working together on projects," said Driscoll.

Parents join the program on the last day, observing final student projects from mock game shows to power point presentations. They and their students face the final part of the process together – a review of the college admissions and financial aid process.

Archbishop Williams is a Catholic, co-educational high school serving 632 students from more than 40 communities on the South Shore and greater Boston area.

Benefit Fundraiser For Collins Family June 24

A fundraising event to help defray the healthcare costs for Eileen Collins, who is battling leukemia, will be held Friday, June 24 from 7 p.m. to midnight at St. Ann's School, 1 St. Ann's Rd., Quincy.

Family and friends have put together "A Time For The Collins Family," which will feature a DJ, cash bar and raffles for attendees.

Collins grew up in Quincy and graduated from North Quincy High School Class of 1984, where she was an All-American track and field standout.

She broke the New England high school javelin record and went to Northeastern University on an athletic scholarship.

She was diagnosed with leukemia last year and has been battling the disease ever since. She received a bone marrow transplant from her sister, Alana. But within a year, the cancer returned and she required additional chemotherapy. Her fight continues.

Eileen, a sergeant on the State Police motorcycle unit, and her husband, Scott, are the parents of four children, Patrick, 16, Erin, 14, Mark, 12, and Aislinn, 7.

Donations may be mailed to Lori Scott, c/o The Collins Family Fund, 87 Sims Rd., Quincy, MA 02170. Checks should be made payable to The Collins Family Fund.

Tickets are $20. For tickets and event information, contact Quincy Police Sgt. Dan Minton at 617-745-5719, Maureen Lethin at 617-472-5349 or Joanne Minton at 857-991-7377.

Quincy-Based MRI Head Gives $1M To Alma Mater

Thomas F. Shields, founder and CEO of the Quincy-based Shields health Care Group, has donated a million dollars to Saint Michael's College, a Catholic liberal arts college in Colchester, Vt.

"I've been blessed with good fortune and I wanted to share it with those who played a vital role in my life," said Shields, a 1952 graduate and former trustee of Saint Michael's.

"My fellow Saint Michael's students were the greatest group of people I've ever met at one time, and my teachers, priests and laymen, influenced me greatly."

Shields Health Care Group operates a network of 18 MRI (magnetic resonance imaging) centers in Massachusetts and Rhode Island with a home office in Quincy.

NQHS Air Force JROTC Receives Distinguished Service Award

MA-841st AFJROTC at North Quincy High School has been selected as one of 200 units to receive the 2004-2005 Air Force Junior ROTC Distinguished Unit Award.

The award recognizes Air Force Junior ROTC units that have performed above and beyond normal expectations, and that have distinguished themselves through outstanding service to their school and community while meeting the Air Force Junior ROTC mission of producing better citizens for America.

The objectives of the Junior ROTC program are to educate and train high school cadets in citizenship and life skills; promote community service; instill responsibility, character and self-discipline through character education, and to provide instruction in air and space fundamentals. Enrollment is open to all young people who are in the ninth grade or higher, physically fit and are citizens or nationals of the United States.

Air Force Junior ROTC is located in 746 high schools across the United States and at selected schools in Europe, in the Pacific and Puerto Rico. Junior ROTC enrollment includes more than 104,000 cadets.

For more information about enrollment, contact North Quincy Principal Lou Ioanilli or the Air Force Junior ROTC at North Quincy High School at 617-984-8971.

Dental Screening For Seniors June 13

Crown Dental Group of Quincy will perform free denture and oral cancer screening for seniors Monday, June 13, beginning at 9:30 a.m. at the Richard J. Koch Recreation Complex, One Merrymount Parkway.

Each participant will receive a screening and education of about 10 minutes.

Board Denies Request For Smokers Patio

By MARIE D'OLIMPIO

Trying to stay consistent with its policy regarding outdoor patios to accommodate smokers, the License Board Tuesday on a 4-1 vote denied a request from the Hancock Tavern, 668 Hancock St., citing the proximity to residents on Kemper Street.

The tavern, formerly Welle's Grille since 1937, is now owned by Austin O'Malley and John DeBartolo. Showing plans to the board, both men explained the patio would be 12 feet by 34 feet and have space for nine tables and 36 seats.

Police Chief Robert Crowley, who made the motion to deny, said he could not support the plan that would expand the premises to allow more drinking outside until 11 p.m. He said it was "not fair to the neighbors to hear loud voices at that time."

Fire Chief Paul O'Connell, who voiced concerns regarding the disposal of cigarettes in one area, seconded the motion.

Also voting against the patio was Jay Duca, direction of inspectional services; Cindy DeCristofaro, chief sanitarian of the health department, sitting in for Health Commissioner Drew Scheele; and O'Connell. Voting in favor was Chairman Joseph Shea.

Crowley said, "I guarantee after 11 p.m. more patrons will be standing outside on the sidewalk to continue smoking."

Shea said, "Because of a no smoking ordinance in bars in the city more and more establishments are looking for solutions by constructing patios."

He said he expects maybe eight or nine more requests to be made this summer, and said "every place is different."

O'Malley and DeBartolo purchased the tavern in November 2004 and have extensively renovated it.

Finance Committee Schedules Meetings On 2006 Budget

The city council's finance committee has scheduled a series of meetings to address Mayor William Phelan's proposed Fiscal 2006 budget.

Tonight (Thursday) the committee is scheduled to meet at 6:30 p.m. in the council chambers to address several department budgets, including Veterans' Services, Health Dept., Planning Dept., Recreation, Parks and Constituent Services.

The rest of the schedule is as follows: Tuesday, May 31 at 6:30 p.m.; Tuesday, June 7 at 7:30 p.m.; and Thursday, June 16 at 6:30 p.m.

If necessary, the committee may schedule an additional session on Saturday, June 11 from 9 a.m. to noon, according to Councillor John Keenan, committee chairman.

Bragg Will Not Seek Re-Election To School Board

Achievement Award, has been a hardworking member of the school committee since first elected. She pointed to some of that work Tuesday:

"For 12 years I have had the honor of serving as member of the Quincy School Committee. I began as a parent and taxpayer who was unhappy with the overcrowded schools in the 1980s and worked to solve the problem by reopening the Wollaston School.

"As a School Committee member, I continued that role and worked to reopen the Beechwood Knoll Elementary School, and to build the Della Chiesa Early Childhood Center and Marshall School. I have been a part of building additions on schools, instrumental on building a new Quincy High School, new home for Central Middle School and improving the conditions in all our schools.

"Today we have nurses in every Quincy Public School due to my initiative. The city's first voluntary tax deductible option to donate funds directly to the Quincy Public Schools through property tax bills was created by me. I worked diligently to keep class sizes low, increase the budget for educational supplies, technology, textbooks and library books.

"For six years I served as Chair of Budget and Finance, two years as Vice Chairwoman of the School Committee, four years as Chair of Building Needs, six years as a member of the Special Education Subcommittee, and four years on the Policy Subcommittee. I am the only School Committee member in the city who has received the Lifetime Achievement Award from the statewide Massachusetts Association of School Committees.

"I am proud to have been effective in creating the positive changes that the educational system in Quincy has been through in the last 12 years. We are heading in the right direction and I hope this will continue.

"At this point in time with the increased needs of my family and added demands of my work, I have chosen to step down and not seek re-election. I am unsure what the future will hold and will be keeping my options open. I thank everyone who has supported me over the years. I will always value our friendships and my experience as an elected official."

cil, the group charged with final approval.

In addition to lifting height restrictions in the downtown, the committee approved much of the mayor's original plan, albeit with a few modifications. Some provisions contained in the new downtown district include:

• New density and parking guidelines that will encourage more residential development with retail space on the ground level of buildings. The committee voted to require more parking spaces per bedroom in certain developments.

• Limits on lot sizes to promote consolidation of property and to ensure that larger developments are restricted to big land lots.

• A streamlined permitting process that makes the city planning board the main authority for granting development permits downtown.

• Language that preserves the city's inclusionary zoning ordinance to ensure that developers set aside a certain amount of affordable housing for occupants.

• Assurances that the planning board preserves historic landmarks.

After the meeting, Quincy Planning Director Dennis Harrington hailed the committee vote, saying the zoning changes will have a profound, positive impact on downtown Quincy.

Allowing taller structures in the downtown area will attract developers to Quincy, he said.

"These buildings, if properly configured, will have a distinct visual impact on downtown Quincy," said Harrington. "We are in the business of creating new residential and commercial buildings that will serve the city for generations to come."

Under the ordinance approved by the council, the boundaries of the new downtown zoning district include Burgin Parkway, Dimmock St., Washington St., School St. and Elm St., as well as areas along Coddington St. past Faxon Field. Buildings as high as 10 stories will be allowed within this district, according to the ordinance.

Within some areas of this district, however, developers will be able to construct 15-story buildings. This area is bounded by School St., Mechanic St., Revere Rd., Washington St., Maple St., and Granite St. There are some transition zones within this area, including the area along Mechanic and Revere Rd., Fort St. and Washington St. along the Thomas Crane Public Library.

"I think the city council clearly defined where we want to see development and where we don't," said Coughlin. "We've improved upon parking requirements and strengthened the likelihood that new developments will be constructed in a compatible manner with historical architecture and historic places."

Ward 5 Councillor Doug Gutro, whose Ward is partially contained within the district, concurred.

"Personally, I'm proud of the modifications we made," said Gutro. "It sends the signal that we want to develop certain areas of the downtown."

Both Gutro and Coughlin agreed that the ordinance is one of the most significant pieces of legislation to come before the council in recent years.

"This rises head and shoulders above any of the other votes we've cast," said Gutro.

Coughlin said the council will be able to amend the ordinance as it sees fit, depending on how new development progresses.

Earlier in the evening, the city council's finance committee approved a $150,000 appropriation which will go toward paying urban planning consultants, traffic and parking studies and a meeting designed to field public input for a redevelopment plan.

About $27,000 will go to pay a consultant for a downtown parking study. Approximately $100,000 will be required to implement the District Improvement Financing (DIF) plan, which was approved by the council last week.

Administration officials said planning funds used now are expected to be reimbursed to the city through tax and financing incentives at the heart of the redevelopment plans.

Council President Frank McCauley was the lone dissenter and attempted to cut approximately $47,000 from the appropriation. McCauley railed against the need for a parking study, saying those issues should be ironed out by the city's traffic engineer and not by a consultant.

"We pay a traffic engineer in this city $89,603 per year - this is a job he should do," said McCauley.

But most councillors maintained that the money would be well spent.

"The $27,000 is not a lot of money in the context of the redevelopment issues," said Gutro.

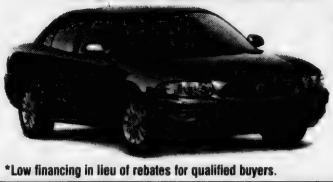
McCauley's attempt to chop $20,000 for a downtown public input meeting also went down to defeat.

Ward 2 Councillor Dan Raymondi and Ward 4 Councillor Jay Davis did not participate in the meeting due to issues relating to a potential conflict of interest. At presstime, the councillors' roles had not been cleared up.

College Board To Address Personnel Matters

The Quincy College Board of Governors was scheduled to meet Wednesday at 6 p.m. in Saville Hall to discuss various issues affecting the college, including personnel matters.

College President Sean Barry is expected to attend the meeting.



The board is also scheduled to address a draft audit, the college's response to the draft audit and the report of the visiting team from the Board of Higher Education regarding the re-start of the college's surgical technology program.

Five Tips For Selling Your Home

(NAPS) — If you're readying for retirement, looking for a bigger home to fit your growing family or trying to set up a cozy spot for your empty nest, you're likely faced with the somewhat daunting task of selling your current residence.

Fortunately, there are some steps you can take to improve the chances of making an early – and potentially lucrative — sale, no matter what the market is doing. The experts at Long Realty offer these five tips:

• Prepare to sell: As you get ready to sell your home, there are usually some simple improvements that can help you get the most for house and sell it quickly. These include touching up the paint job, keeping the lawn neat and trimmed, cleaning the carpets and removing excess furniture to give the home a larger feel.

• Learn its value before you list: Setting the right price before you list is critical to getting the most for your home and selling it quickly. Having a professional with experience in your neighborhood prepare a Comparative Market Analysis (CMA) gives you the facts and insight to set the right price.

• Choose a professional: A great agent helps you better understand the selling process and gives you a number of advantages in selling your home. Their local knowledge of home values and their expertise in pricing and negotiating are important assets in getting the most for your house.

Home & Garden

(NU) – Most pesticides, while useful for the control of common home and garden pests, can be harmful if label directions are not followed.

The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency recommends you read the labels on pesticides closely before using them; store household chemicals out of children's reach; and scrub all fresh fruits and vegetables under running water or peel them when possible.

• Marketing and networking: Getting the best price is about bringing you the right buyers for your house. This is a combination of a solid marketing plan and targeted media exposure to reaching both local and out-of-town buyers.

• Moving locally, nationally or internationally: If you're moving somewhere else in or out of the area, a relocation team can help make the transition easier. In addition to helping you sell your home, such a team can help you find a reputable firm at your destination and help you manage the move. To learn more about relocation teams, speak with your listing agent.

One increasingly popular relocation destination is Tucson, Ariz. The area offers an enticing combination of leisure and business opportunities, along with a warm climate and a wide range of choices when it comes to lifestyle and housing. The region's housing costs are generally said to be below the national norm and land is abundant.

Dedicating Sgt. Charles 'Todd' Caldwell Memorial Square

MAYOR WILLIAM PHELAN has a few words for the folks at the dedication of an island in Elm Avenue, Wollaston, to the memory of Sgt. Charles 'Todd' Caldwell as members of the North Quincy High School ROTC and the 115th M. P. Rhode Island National Guard hold the flags.

BRIGADIER GENERAL John L. Enright, assistant adjutant general in the Rhode Island National Guard, fills the role of guest speaker while members of the 115th M.P. Honor Guard stand at attention during the dedication of the island in Elm Avenue to their slain fellow guardsman, Sgt. Charles 'Todd' Caldwell. Quincy Sun photos/Robert Noble

DR. J. DAVID McCLUNG, president of Eastern Nazarene College, gives the benediction winding up the ceremony dedicating the island in Elm Avenue in front of the college to the late Sgt. Charles 'Todd' Caldwell, who lost his life in the Iraq war.

New Owner For Historic Frontside Market

By MARIE D'OLIMPIO

The License Board Tuesday voted unanimously to issue a common victualer's license to John McGonagle, who will take over the ownership of the Frontside Market, 308 Willard St. (across from Curry's Hardware).

Among the long list of owners dating back to the Civil War, according to Steve Conroy, former owner of Frontside, it was once called Phil's Superette when Conroy purchased it more than 20 years ago. Before Phil's it was Donna's Superette.

According to Chairman Joseph Shea, when he was a young boy attending St. Mary's School and would go in to buy candy, the owner then was the Valero family. The son of that family is the founder of Papa Gino's.

Shea read a letter of support from Ward 4 Councillor Jay Davis.

McGonagle, who said he was a general manager for Dunkin' Donuts for 25 years, said he wanted to extend the hours so he could close at 11 p.m. Conroy's hours were 5 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. McGonagle said it would depend on how the business went but said he wanted permission to close at 11 p.m.

He said he was planning to make the store into more of a variety store and said the name would remain the same.

Crowley Wants License Board Policy On 'Block Parties'

The License Board Tuesday heard a report from Police Chief Robert Crowley who asked the board to adopt a policy regarding block parties in the city, which he called "potential liabilities."

Citing the traditional July 3 Celebration at Edgewater Drive in Houghs Neck, Crowley said there were reports last year of drinking, assaults, persons passing out and illegal fireworks.

He said the bonfires which happen at the end of the event "scare me" with such close proximity to the homes. He said last year he filmed the bonfire and hoped that the local cable television station would be able to show it to the public.

Chairman Joseph Shea said the matter would be taken up at the next meeting scheduled for June 7.

Police Memorial June 5 At Mount Wollaston Cemetery

The Quincy Police Mutual Aid Association announces that the annual Police Memorial exercises will be conducted Sunday, June 5 beginning at 8:30 a.m. at Mount Wollaston Cemetery, Quincy.

Members of the Association, active and retired Quincy Police officers, invited guests and dignitaries will assemble at Quincy District Court and march to the cemetery. The public is invited and encouraged to attend.

During the memorial, the Association will remember its departed members and Quincy Police Crossing Guards and a wreath will be placed at the Police Memorial located in the cemetery directnly opposite Quincy Police headquarters.

Mayor William Phelan, Quincy Police Chief Robert Crowley and Norfolk County District Attorney William Keating will make remarks.

Following the ceremony, a light collation will follow at the George F. Bryan Veterans of Foreign Wars Post Hall on Broad St.

In case of inclement weather, the memorial will take place at the Bryan Post Hall.

White Ribbon Campaign At Pageant Field

Walk Against Family Violence

The Quincy Campaign Against Family Violence-Quincy White Ribbon Campaign will hold a two-mile walk, rain or shine, on Saturday, June 4 at 10 a.m. beginning and ending at Pageant Field, Merrymount Parkway.

Organizers extend an open invitation to walk, and to celebrate Father's Day, and to support the Quincy Campaign Against Family Violence. The White Ribbon Campaign began as a groots roots effort, empowering and urging men to take a stand, and to work with women in the move to end violence.

A White Ribbon Campaign ceremony and pledge signing will be conducted by Thomas Clasby, men's leader, of the White Ribbon Campaign, and director of Quincy's Department of Elder Services.

Peter Waisberger from the South Shore YMCA will give a speech on the role people can play "in violence prevention, and the viision of a community that stands up to domestic violence, strengthens families, and embodies that values of caring, honesty, respect and responsibility."

There is no entry fee. Donations are accepted. T-shirts, refreshments and snacks will be provided.

Germantown Center, YMCA Plans To Train Peer Leaders

A Job Well Done

By SGT. DAN MINTON

On Sunday evening, May 15th, at approximately 10:40 p.m., the Quincy Police were dispatched to 99 Granite St., a senior housing complex, for a breaking and entering in progress.

The female caller reported that she was awakened by a "white male standing over her," who fled after she confronted him. As numerous officers responded to the call, dispatchers gave out the description of the suspect as 50 years old and balding, wearing a blue jacket.

Officer William O'Brien, responding to the call, observed a male matching the description walking from the direction of the incident, about 1/4 mile away. The officer noted that the nervous male had "sweat beading on his bald head and face." The male said he was coming from the MBTA station, where he had missed the last bus, but Officer O'Brien knew that the buses ran until midnight.

When Officer O'Brien asked the male to put his hands on the cruiser so that he could conduct a "pat frisk" (exterior search for weapons, for officer's safety), the man immediately struggled and attempted to flee. Officer O'Brien called for help as he managed to get the suspect's arm behind his back, falling to the ground. The suspect then jumped to his feet. Officer O'Brien pinned him against the cruiser and applied mace, but the suspect continued to fight.

Hearing sirens closing in, Officer O'Brien was able to get the suspect to the ground again. Sergeant Burrell was the first to arrive and they were able to handcuff the suspect. Officer Robert Clark then conducted a search of the area and found a woman's purse a short distance away. Inside the purse was the credit card and driver's license of the caller/victim, along with a total of $9.60.

SGT. DAN MINTON

While officers were arresting the suspect, Officer James Silcox interviewed the victim and learned that she went to bed at about 10:30 p.m., but was awakened by the suspect going through her jewelry box. She asked him what he was doing there and he said he was in the wrong apartment and left. The victim stated that she left her door unlocked when she went to bed.

In this particular case, aside from cuts and bruises that the officer suffered, the outcome was the best to be hoped for under the conditions. The suspect was apprehended quickly – the property returned – the victim unharmed, yet, this all could have been avoided.

Two major security breaches occurred here. The victim left her apartment door unlocked and secondly, someone allowed the suspect access into the building itself. I can only speculate that the suspect went down the hall checking each apartment door until he found one that was unlocked.

The victim also made an additional mistake – confronting the suspect. In this case, the suspect believed that the victim was asleep and was trying to be quiet as he searched the jewelry box. It would have been better for her to remain "asleep" until the suspect left, then lock the door behind him and call "911". The only other option would be if the victim could escape safely.

The victim was lucky. The suspect did assault a police officer when confronted and it took two officers to subdue him. The victim could have been threatened or harmed because she had caught him in the act and was the only witness. Imagine the horrifying feeling of finding someone in your home and you can't escape!

In conclusion, the purpose of this story is not to cause more pain to the victim. It is to educate the readers to lock their doors day and night, whether you live in a multi-unit or private home. For Officer O'Brien, Officer Silcox and Sergeant Burrell – Nice work!

SPRING CAR CARE

Healthy Driving Tips

(NAPS) — For many people, driving is a big part of their everyday routine. However, people rarely stop to question the impact of their overall fitness and well-being on their driving. With today's hectic lifestyle, it can become easy to ignore the connection between good health and one's driving ability.

Nobody knows this better than Newman/Haas Racing Champ Car driver Bruno Junqueira, who spends hours each day behind the wheel. Junqueira knows it is important that while driving on the track or on the nation's highways he must not forget that staying alert and responding quickly requires a well-rested and fine-tuned body.

Junqueira, a competitive racer since age 6, offers some advice average motorists can use.

"People need to take as good care of themselves as they do their car, which means regular 'tune-ups' with your doctor, and giving your body the right fuel to stay fit and healthy," Junqueira said. "Nobody would expect their car to run if they didn't put in the proper gas, get the oil changed regularly and schedule needed maintenance."

Dr. Sam Ho, chief medical officer for PacifiCare, agrees with Junqueira's advice. "Drivers who get plenty of rest, eat properly and get regular physicals are more likely to be drivers who are more alert and respond better to road conditions and other drivers."

In celebration of its role as the "Official Health Care Provider" of the 2005 Champ Car World Series, PacifiCare offers the following "Tips for Healthier Driving":

• Get plenty of sleep: A well-rested driver is more alert on the road.

• Eat regular, healthful meals: Hungry drivers are more apt to be irritable and distracted, and thinking of their next meal, rather than what's on the road.

• Exercise regularly: Regular exercise can prevent tight muscles and the aches and pains that can make driving uncomfortable.

• Visit your doctor: Your doctor is the best partner you have in maintaining good health, particularly for driving. For example, keep consistent visits with an eye doctor to make sure your vision does need correction to see long distances.

"Optimum health can make for a more pleasant driving experience," Junqueira said. "Following these simple guidelines will ensure that your body will be ready for life's many 'races' that you run every day."

Five Carefree Care Tips

Here are five simple tips motorists should follow to keep their cars running smoothly:

• Make sure the air filter is clean and has been changed in the last three months.

• Check the battery for corrosion, and consider replacement if it's more than three years old.

• Replace belts and hoses if they look or feel hard, cracked or shiny.

• Check engine fluids regularly, and change the oil according to the manufacturer's recommendations.

• Check tire pressure and tire tread once a month, and rotate tires regularly.

Regular Maintenance Helps Save Time, Money

(NAPS) — Many of today's women are on the move. They work full time, they take their kids to day care and after-school activities — and a lot of women have the additional responsibility of being the household "car care manager."

Research by the Car Care Council shows women represent 60 percent of automotive service customers in North America. Women spend more than $300 billion annually on vehicle maintenance, repairs and used vehicles, according to American Woman Road and Travel (AWRT).

Fortunately, even the busiest women may be able to save time — and keep their families safe — by getting regular vehicle inspections and maintenance work done.

That's one reason Mr. Goodwrench encourages women to visit their GM dealership to help ensure their vehicle is up to date on its maintenance needs. Maintenance inspections can point out items needing service that can help a vehicle run better, last longer, retain its value and provide optimal safety and security.

Tips From Mr. Goodwrench

• Batteries: A weak battery can leave you stranded — possibly at the worst time and place.

• Brakes: An expert inspection can determine whether your brakes are functioning properly with full braking capability.

• Windshield wipers: Old or worn windshield wipers can lead to poor visibility in adverse weather conditions.

• Head lamps: Properly aimed head lamps are a must for optimizing your visibility — both your seeing and your being seen.

• Oil: Owners of vehicles equipped with the GM Oil Life System (OLS), can use the Simplified Maintenance plan to save time, money and oil. The plan calls for people to visit their GM Goodwrench dealership only when the "Change Oil" light comes on, instead of every 3,000 miles. If you don't have the system, change your oil and filter at intervals recommended in your owner's manual to minimize engine wear and reduce the possibility of internal damage.

• Fluid levels: Improper fluid levels — including coolant, oil, power steering, transmission, brake fluid and even washer solvent — can negatively affect vehicle durability, performance and safety.

• Belts and hoses: A broken belt or ruptured hose can cause costly engine damage and travel delays.

Women On The Move

So just how busy are today's women? According to the U.S. Department of Labor's Bureau of Labor Statistics:

• In 2002, nearly four in every five mothers of school-aged children were in the paid work force.

• In 2003, there were 3.7 million female multiple jobholders.

• The number of working women has grown from 18.4 million in 1950 to nearly 65 million in 2003.

In addition, the American Federation of Labor Congress of Industrial Organizations (AFL-CIO) reports that 63 percent of women work 40 or more hours per week.

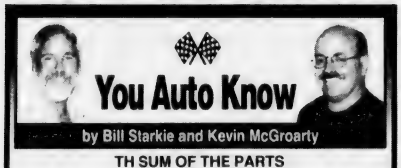
1950 Dodge Business Coupe

Q. I'm trying to decide what kind of engine and transmission to put in my 1950 Dodge Businessman's Coupe. I want to be able to burn the tires on demand, but also drive it on the highway to car shows. What do you suggest for an engine and transmission that won't require major frame and suspension alterations? — Bud N., Ulysses, Kan.

A. Bud, your Dodge Business Coupe is a neat car, and it can be anything you want it to be. I'd lean toward putting in a MOPAR Performance crate engine, like a 360-incher. They start at 300 horsepower and go up to 395 horses, so take your pick.

Remember, you'll also have to install a three-speed Chrysler automatic transmission with a higher stall converter and a stronger Chrysler-bred rear end, like an 8 3/4 or a Dana. You can also go with a Ford 9-inch or a Chevy 12-bolt rear.

The most popular swap for your car is the small-block Chevy V-8 and a Turbo 350 or 400 tranny with one of the above-mentioned rear ends. If it were me, however, I'd drop in one of those MOPAR crate motors and keep it all in the family.



As for the frame and suspension, you must put in that new rear and update the front end with a new kit designed to give you disc brakes and the such. Supporting this new horsepower versus that stock 97-horse engine takes some doing!

Installing all of this new equipment in an old car takes alterations, time and money, so be prepared.

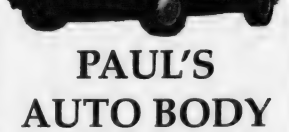
TH SUM OF THE PARTS



Do you know where your vehicle comes from? These days, it is not enough just to know the home country of your vehicle's manufacturer or even where the vehicle was assembled. In today's global economy, a German car company may build a vehicle in Britain that uses thousands of parts from dozens of other countries. Even when the facts of this long supply chain are taken into account, it may be difficult to figure things out. Consider that wheels made in Germany and Italy may be sold by a company headquartered in the United States, or that a headliner made in the U.K. may be sold by a company headquartered in Spain. The world is smaller than you might imagine.

Did you know that you are probably driving a "world car?" If you are having any problems with any of your car's systems depend on LEO & WALT'S SUNOCO for servicing. We have modern test equipment and the best ASE Certified service technicians in the area. Let's get acquainted at 258 Quincy Ave., E. Braintree (781-843-1550). HINT: Automakers are increasingly turning to international outsourcing to remain competitive, and the growing complexity of car designs mean there are more parts to find.

Salome's Stars

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) You might not like some people's idea of a surprise. But you could be in for a pleasant shock when someone finally sends a reply to a request you made so long ago that you almost forgot about it.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) It's a time to expect the unexpected. So don't be surprised if a decision that just recently seemed final suddenly opens up and leaves you with another chance to make an important choice.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) Taking a different tack on a work project might rankle some colleagues. But the positive results of your innovative course soon speak for themselves. Celebrate with a fun-filled weekend.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) Meeting new associates can be awkward, even if you're in a high positive phase right now. Best advice: Make them feel comfortable, and you'll soon forget your own discomfort.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) It's a good time for you social Lions to blow-dry your manes, polish your claws and look like the Fabulous Felines you are as you make new friends and influence the influential.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) Expectations run especially high this week, and you should feel confident in your abilities to take advantage of what might be offered. A colleague has some advice you might find helpful.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) A recent flurry of activity leaves you in need of a little breathing space, and you'd be wise to take it. Close family members should have an explanation about an emergency situation that just passed.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) An insensitive act makes a difficult situation more so. But try not to waste either your physical or emotional energies in anger. Move on and let others fill the clod in on the facts of life.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) It's a good time to look into that training program or college course you've been considering. You might have a good place to use those sharpened skills sooner rather than later.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) Education dominates much of your aspect during this week. You might want to start checking out those summer session courses that could help advance your career plans.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) Progress often comes in fits and starts. But at least you're moving straight ahead with no backsliding. You should soon be able to pick up the pace and reach your goals in due time.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) Be wary of a deal that gives confusing answers to your questions. Remember: It's always risky swimming in unknown waters, so you need all the help you can get to stay on course.

BORN THIS WEEK: You have a way of bringing people together and creating close friendships wherever you go.

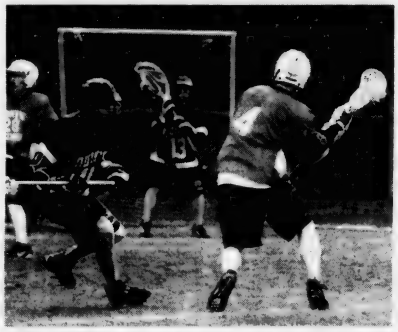
Raiders Defeat Presidents To Complete Season Sweep

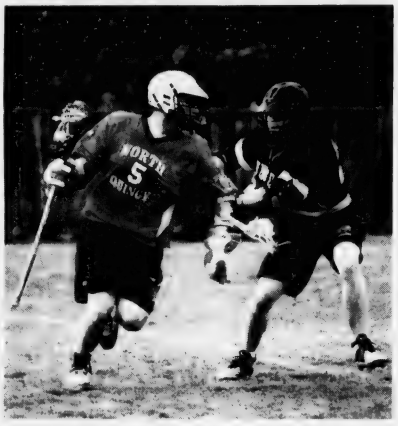
The North Quincy High School boys' lacrosse team completed a season sweep of neighboring Quincy last Friday afternoon at Teal Field.

Senior captain Paul Graham blasted four goals with an assist to power the Red Raiders to the 13-9 victory. They knocked off the Presidents, 11-5, in the first meeting May 2.



"Quincy doesn't quite and they keep coming after you," said NQ head coach Mark Nutley. "We might have been a little more physical than them and we kept them away from our net. Defensively we played a strong game."

The two wins this season avenged last year's 7-6 loss to Quincy in the first-ever showdown between the schools. They were a co-operative team prior to last season.



Now in just their second year as a program, the Red Raiders have posted an 11-5 record to qualify for the state tournament.

"Obviously, that's a huge step for the program," Nutley said. "It should help us attract more kids. A lot of the kids in the youth leagues play at Teal Field and get to see us play. And we have a pretty good record at home."

Against the Presidents, senior defensemen Alex Tringale, Stephen Maggio, Rich Russo, Kris Borgendale and Colin Mooney played well in front of senior goalie and captain Pat Casper (14 saves).

ROB GARDNER (4) holds the ball at the top of the box with Quincy's Chris Pratt giving chase. The senior captain finished with a goal and five assists.

CHRIS TUFO (5) tries to work his way around a Quincy player. The senior captain tallied a goal and three assists.

Sophomore attack Jimmy Fitzpatrick tallied three goals and three assists. Senior Shawn Brown and Mike O'Mahoney each netted a pair of goals while senior captains Rob Gardner (goal, five assists) and Chris Tufo (goal, three assists) rounded out the scoring.

Quincy Youth Football Sign-Ups June 11 For Players, Cheerleaders

Quincy Youth Football will hold sign-ups for its 2005 season June 11 from 9 to 11 a.m.

Players and cheerleaders, ages 9-14 (grades 4-8 in the fall) who live in Quincy, are eligible to sign up. Players must weigh no less than 70 pounds and not more than 170 pounds. Registration fee is $85 for players and cheerleaders.

Sign-ups will be held at the following locations: North Quincy Apaches, Pageant Field; West Quincy Elks, O'Rourke Field; Houghs Neck Manets, Lebrecque Field and Snug Harbor Elementary: Quincy Point Panthers, Fore River Field; and Squantum Storm, Squantum Community Center.

This year, the teams will have the privilege of helping the city to unveil the renovated Veterans Memorial Stadium, featuring state-of-the-art synthetic grass playing surface and other amenities.

Quincy Wins Three, Secures Tourney Berth

BASEBALL

By CHRIS POISSON

The Quincy High School baseball team didn't slip into a funk last week when it secured a berth in the state tournament.

After the Presidents' 11-5, tourney-clinching win over Sandwich last Monday, they followed last Wednesday with a 4-3 win over Plymouth South and last Friday with a 9-5 home triumph over first-place Whitman-Hanson, one of the top teams in the state.

"Beating Whitman-Hanson was a big win for the program," said Mike Draicchio. "It's one of the biggest wins since I've been here. It's a great feeling for us, beating a team like that at home. It was just a great win for us. We hit the ball really well and capitalized on a few of their mistakes."

Quincy (12-5 overall, 6-4 Atlantic Coast League), which traveled to Plymouth North Monday and to Brighton Tuesday, will close out the regular season against city rival North Quincy Friday at 6:30 p.m. at Adams Field.

Against Whitman-Hanson (12-3, 8-2), the Panthers grabbed a 2-0 lead in the first before the Presidents pushed across four runs in the second. Senior captain John Folino singled, sophomore John Alexander walked and junior John Orlando singled to load the bases.

Senior Ed Laura reached on a fielder's choice with Folino scoring on the play. After senior captain John Santon walked, sophomore Steve Connolly belted a bases-clearing triple for a 4-2 lead.

In the third, Alexander stroked a two-run double for a 6-2 advantage. W-H cut the deficit to 6-3 with a run in the fourth inning.

Folino crushed a home run to lead off the fifth and Connolly laced an RBI double later in the inning to make it 8-3. Quincy scored its final run in the sixth when senior Ray Marchand led off with single and scored on Alexander's ground-rule double.

Senior captain Steve Sullivan (6 1/3 innings, four earned runs) ran out of steam in the seventh, allowing two runs before Folino came in to strike out the final two hitters with the bases loaded to seal the victory.

Against Plymouth South, the Presidents took a 2-0 lead in the first inning when Folino singled home senior captain Steve Priscella (single) and Marchand (single).

Plymouth South evened the score in the top of the fourth, but Quincy quickly answered in the bottom half. Santon walked and moved to second on Connolly's sacrifice bunt. After Priscella walked, Marchand cracked an RBI single and Sullivan ripped an RBI double for a 4-2 lead.

The Panthers added a run in the sixth off Santon, who went the distance, giving up two earned runs on five hits while fanning nine.

Presidents In First-Place Tie With Whitman-Hanson

SOFTBALL

By CHRIS POISSON

Just like it fared 14 times against Lisa de la Campa, the Quincy High School softball team struck out last Friday at Whitman-Hanson in its chance to retain first place in the Atlantic Coast League and clinch a state tournament berth.

The Presidents' 2-1 loss placed the two league rivals in a first-place tie (9-1) with two games remaining for each school. It also left them one game short of the postseason with a 9-7 overall record.

"We didn't have a strong performance," said head coach Mike Sedar. "The better team won that day. It was a bad day. A win probably would've won us the league title and it would've clinched a seed in the tournament."

Quincy, which played Plymouth North Monday, will host Braintree today (Thursday) at 4 p.m. and square off against cross-town rival North Quincy Friday at 6:30 p.m. at Mitchell/McCoy Field to conclude the regular season.

The Presidents managed only one hit off de la Campa — a second-inning single by Alysia DiMuzio — but she didn't have great command as she walked four. Still, they couldn't take advantage.

"We weren't patient at the plate," Sedar said. "That was the biggest problem. We had runners on base most of the day. We talked about it before the game but we just weren't patient. We kept swinging at her high pitches. She's a great pitcher but she didn't have her best stuff."

The Panthers reached senior captain Rachel Sorensen with a run in the fourth inning. A hitter reached on an infield hit, moved to second on a groundout and scored on a single.

The Presidents tied the game in the fifth. Sophomore Brighid Kyle walked, stole second and moved to third on a wild pitch. Junior Leanna Lam ripped a ball to the shortstop, who was unable to make the play, allowing Kyle to score.

W-H pushed across the go-ahead run with an unearned run in the sixth with two outs.

North Quincy Edges Plymouth South, 5-4

The North Quincy High School softball team recorded its third win of the season last Friday when it edged Plymouth South, 5-4, at Mitchell/McCoy Field.

"It was a good game," said head coach Larry Keough. "It went back and forth. Defensively we weren't too bad. We made a couple of mistakes, but we made the plays when we had to."

North Quincy (3-11 overall, 3-8 Atlantic Coast League) dropped a 10-0 decision to Whitman-Hanson Monday and hosted Plymouth North Wednesday. It will battle Quincy Friday at 6:30 p.m. at Mitchell/McCoy Field.

Plymouth South got on the board in the first but the Red Raiders quickly evened the score in the bottom half. The Panthers pushed across a pair of runs for a 3-1 lead in the third inning.

In the fifth, North Quincy rallied for three runs. Freshman Rebecca Goreham (2-for-3) doubled and senior captain Kathleen Frawley (2-for-3) plated her with a single for the winning run.

The Red Raiders added an insurance run in the sixth and the Panthers closed out the scoring with a run in the seventh.

Freshman Kasey O'Connell and Catherine Feeney each went 2-for-4. Senior pitcher Caitlin Dow picked up the victory.

Over 300 Medals Awarded At 23rd Senior Olympic Games

More than 300 medals were handed out at last week's 23rd annual Quincy Senior Olympics awards ceremony at Beechwood on the Bay.

"All Olympians are winners and those who won in the competitions look forward to the recognition," said Sharron Beals, Beechwood's executive director and member of the Senior Olympics planning committee. "Some competitors are lifelong athletes, while others participate just to stay fit. This year there were many new participants entering events for the first time."

"We've come of age," she added. "Twenty-three years ago the first Senior Games were held on a Saturday with three events. This year the 10-day event offered 21 competitions at eight sites throughout the city."

"Our Senior Olympic Games are a wonderful example of citywide partnerships," said Mayor William Phelan, who this year was personally involved in planning and promoting the citywide events.

The Olympics were sponsored by Quincy Medical Center and Boston Medical Center. Quincy Rotary Club and River Bay Club also provided support.

Site hosts included Quincy Parks Department, Olindy's Lanes, Club 58, Torre Dei Passeri Club, Presidents Golf Course, Lincoln Hancock School and Beechwood on the Bay.

Service providers included Fallon Ambulance, Quincy Police Department, Quincy and North Quincy high schools ROTC Honor Guards, River Bay Club, QATV, Quincy Sun, WJDA.

In the volleyball game, the Senior Olympian Team knocked of the Mayor's Celebrity Team, 15-6, 9-15, 15-11.

Senior Olympian Team members included: Warren Kirkland, Kristen Johnson, Joan Kierman, Nell Leary, William Sylvia, Joseph Hendry, Edward Kelly, James Lynch, Romano DePaoli, Robert Kravetz, Ralph McLeod.

Mayor's Celebrity Team members included: Mayor William Phelan, Joe Canavan, Liz Fitzpatrick, Dave Murphy, Fred Happel, Mike Ryan, Marie Brinkman.

DENTISTRY for the 21st Century
by Steven A. Brustin, D.M.D.

MAINTAINING YOUR DENTURES

If you have dentures, you have as much reason to continue visiting the dentist as when you had all your natural teeth. Once your teeth are removed, there is less support for facial muscles. The gums are also likely to change. If, and when, these things happen, your dentures may not fit properly and could cause some discomfort. By visiting the dentist on a regular basis, dentures can be kept fitting properly. Although there are over-the-counter products available for relining and repairing dentures, this is a project best left to the dentist. Improperly relined or repaired dentures exert pressure on the jaw, which could cause the jawbone to shrink more rapidly. This would make future fittings all the more difficult.

Do your dentures fit properly? Good oral healthcare is important to your overall good health. When was the last time you had a comprehensive dental examination? We make every effort to see you promptly and listen to your concerns and needs. Keeping you healthy and happy is our first concern. We will let you know about new procedures and technologies and what they can do for you. Please call 617-479-6220 to schedule an appointment. We're located at 44 Greenleaf Street. We offer the services of anesthesiology with a fully trained and qualified anesthesiologist. Visit us on the web at www.quincydentist.com.

P.S. Because dentures accumulate plaque just as natural teeth do, they must be cleaned daily. Plaque poses a threat to gums.

South Coastal Bank Employees Participate In Avon Walk For Breast Cancer

For the second consecutive year, South Coastal Bank employees participated in the Avon Walk for Breast Cancer in Boston.

The South Coastal Strutters team, James Gordon, network administrator; Susan Lincoln, senior vice president and director of retail banking); Ann O'Keefe, vice president and retail operations manager; and Danielle Walsh, assistant vice president and assistant controller, walked in honor of colleague Mary Miller, who was diagnosed with breast cancer last summer.

The Avon Walk requires each walker to rain a minimum of $1,800. To meet their $7,200 group total, the South Coastal Strutters held a prize drawing. Items included a Red Sox prize package of four tickets and a parking pass; holiday wreaths decorated with lottery scratch tickets; and St. Patrick's Day-themed "Pots o' Gold" packed with scratch tickets and other goodies.

SOUTH COASTAL STRUTTERS successfully completed the Avon Walk, raising more than $11,000 for breast cancer awareness and education, screening and diagnosis, treatment, support services; and scientific research. From left are James Gordon, Danielle Walsh, Ann O'Keefe and Susan Lincoln.

The walkers also sold pink "Strive for a Cure" breast cancer awareness bracelets at all South Coastal Bank offices including Quincy Center.

In addition, South Coastal Bank employees helped the strutters by participating in "Jeans and Sneakers Fridays." Employees who made Avon Walk donations on behalf of the South Coastal Strutters wore their jeans and/or sneakers on Fridays to show their support.

The combination of the South Coastal Strutters' fundraising efforts, the generosity of those who contributed and the help of the employees at South Coastal Bank enabled the strutters to raise over $11,000. In total, this year's Boston Avon Walk raised more than $4.5 million, all of which goes toward supporting breast cancer and education; screening and diagnosis; treatment; support services; and scientific research.

Milton Hospital Celebrates Volunteer Day

Milton Hospital recently held its annual volunteer luncheon for more than 100 members of the hospital's auxiliary.

Eight Quincy residents were among the volunteers recognized at the luncheon. They are: Eda Barese, Carolyn Howes, Kathleen Hoyt, Joanne Johnson, Gerry Manning, Jeannette McCarthy, Ronald Smyth and Walter Trask.

The auxiliary announced its annual donation to the hospital, this year contributing more than $31,000. Vice President of Patient Care Susan Mangini displayed four pieces of new medical equipment that the hospital purchased using the auxiliary's donation. New equipment includes an epidural infusion pump, a chair scale, a LifePak 12 portable defibrillator/monitor and a volume ventilator.

The auxiliary raises funds for the hospital through gift shop proceeds, drawings, bake sales and other fundraising efforts throughout the year.

Auxiliary President Gertrude Williams, along with Kathleen Harrington, vice president of human resources, presented pins to 27 volunteers in recognition of long-standing service, including four individuals with more than 10,000 volunteer hours logged. Ruth Crimp and Ruth Ford were recognized for 10,000 hours of service, past president Norma Bowman celebrated 14,000 hours, and gift shop volunteer Ellen Shea topped the list with 26,000 hours.

Hospital President Joseph Morrissey also took the podium to thank the auxiliary.

"We are indebted to our volunteers for the vital role they play in the daily operations of Milton Hospital, including transportation, reception, clerical duties, managing the gift shop, and the countless other duties they are called upon to carry out," Morrissey said.

For more information about becoming a volunteer at Milton Hospital, call the Auxiliary Office at 617-696-4600, extension 1199.

SCOTT DEWARE

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

On this Memorial Day let us remember that this day signifies, perhaps more deeply than any other patriotic observance, the soul of America. The patriots to be remembered on this day represent every generation of Americans. They fell in battles widely separated by distance and time. Some came from families long established in America; many others were new to the land. These patriots differed in color, in religious beliefs, in political faith and in other ways which historically have divided the human family. . .

And so, on this Memorial Day, let us solemnly pay tribute to these fallen heroes. . . Let us spare a prayer of Thanksgiving that there have always been men and women willing to offer the sacrifice so that our national ideals could endure.

Three-Day Mountain Biking Program Added

Recreation Department Offering Summer Sports Clinics

The Quincy Recreation Department will add mountain biking to its long list of summer sports clinics and instructional programs that are offered to city residents on a self-supporting basis during school vacation period.

Quincy resident Lyall Croft, operator of Boston Bike Tours and an experienced mountain bike program guide, will conduct the three-day program.

"We see this as a unique activity that fits in nicely with our other program opportunities and is not available elsewhere," said Recreation Director Barry Welch. "The program will offer one day in Quincy and two days in Blue Hills Reservation and take full advantage of our existing natural resources."

Registration for the summer programs will begin Tuesday, June 7, at 9 a.m. at the main office of the Recreation Department, One Merrymount Parkway. It is done on a first-come, first-serve basis and will continue Monday through Friday, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., as long as openings exist.

100 Ward 4 Residents Take Part In Cleaner, Greener

NEARLY 100 RESIDENTS of Ward 4 participated in this year's Cleaner, Greener Quincy. Residents of all ages fanned out across the ward to spruce up the Lincoln Hancock Community School, the Della Chiesa School, the Taber St. World War II Memorial and the Grasso Playground on Columbia St. More than 70 students, parents and teachers participated in the cleanup at the Lincoln Hancock School. Area businesses lending a hand included BFI and Fallon Ambulance. "Cleaner, Greener in Ward 4 was a perfect example of people giving a couple of hours of their time to the community to make our city a better place," said Ward 4 Councillor Jay Davis. "This would not have been possible without the commitment from the volunteers, businesses, the Ward 4 Neighborhood Association and schools. It was truly a remarkable day."

Blessed Sacrament Rectory Sold For House Lots

The long and complicated reconfiguration of Catholic parishes in the peninsula area of Quincy has taken another step toward its final form as Holy Trinity Parish.

The Archdiocese of Boston has sold the rectory of the former Most Blessed Sacrament Church in Houghs Neck to developers for $815,000.

The developers, Sean Farrell of Quincy and Skipper Mofford of Randolph, plan to building single family homes on the land, which is 42,000 square feet in area.

Planning Director Dennis Harrington said no subdivision plan has yet been filed but each lot must be 7,350 square feet in area with 85 feet frontage on a approved way and 85 feet in width.

That would provide space for at least four single-family homes, possibly five, depending upon the shape of the lots. The 85-foot width forbids pie-shaped lots.

The sale leave Holy Trinity Parish with three church buildings, one of them up for sale, and two rectories,' one of them earmarked for church offices and an outreach center.

The reconfiguration began in 1999 when Our Lady of Good Counsel in Merrymount and St. Boniface in Germantown were joined as St. Elizabeth Ann Seton Parish. Both churches remained open.

Then came the massive church closings announcement of January, 2004, when it was decided that St. Elizabeth Ann Seton Parish would be joined to Most Blessed Sacrament in Houghs Neck.

Part of the Seton Parish, the old St. Boniface Church, is up for sale valued at more than $1 million, and the parish plans to use its rectory as an office and outreach center.

The Germantown Neighborhood Center and the Manet Health Center are seeking to purchase the church, which was closed after the last Mass Jan. 30, as a new and larger headquarters.

The old Our Lady of Good Counsel Church is still open as a second worship place in the parish and its rectory probably will become home for Holy Trinity priests.

Holocaust Survivor:

'I'll Never Forget GI Joe'

This may be the 60th anniversary of Victory in Europe (VE Day) for most of us but it has a more personal meaning to Stephen Ross.

"This is also the 60th anniversary of liberation for me," he said. "I will never forget GI Joe for bringing freedom to 32,000 diseased inmates at the Dachau death cap.

"We will be forever indebted to you."

Ross, who spent the years between 1940 and 1945 in Nazi slave labor camps, was the main speaker at Quincy's Memorial Day ceremonies at Mount Wollaston Cemetery.

"Before you came to free us," he said, directing his words to the veterans at the ceremonies, "we were exposed to insurmountable odds: fear, selections, hunger, thirst, bitter cold, illness, loss of family, home, country and freedom.

"Survival was a relentless struggle from day to month and year to year. I hate to think of what would have happened to us if you had not come at the time you did.

"GI Joes spoke the first kind words to us in years. You gave us our first bites of human food. You provided medical help as best you could. You reached out to us with no reservations. GI Joe came from heaven.

"I was found in the valley of death by a soldier who restored my faith in God, mankind and the civilized world. He showed compassion, gave me food and this flag of freedom, which for the past 60 years has been my most precious possession.

"I always envision in my mind the way you were 60 years ago.

"I can see your dirty faces, your helmets. your uniforms, your boots and your weapons hanging on your body. You looked rough and tough and yet you showed so much empathy.

"You left an indelible mark on a 14-year-old boy that can never be erased."

Ross, who is now a licensed psychologist living in Newton, came to the United States in 1948 as a boy of 16 with the aid of the American Committee for Orphaned Children.

"American people embraced me, took me under their wings, gave me and opportunity to grow and prosper so that I could become one of them," he said.

"Tragically, we are again fighting a war to defend freedom at home and abroad. Please respect and honor our servicemen and women."

A smaller than usual crowd watched the annual Memorial Day parade as it wound down School, Hancock, Coddington and Sea Streets to the cemetery, pausing to place wreaths on the tombs of John Adams and John Quincy Adams in the crypt of United First Parish Church.

Parade Marshal Robert Loughran, commander of the Quincy Veterans Council, and honored guests reviewed the marchers from a stand across Sea Street from the cemetery entrance.

Lorraine Ahern, junior vice commander of the QVC, read General Logan's order creating Memorial Day and Vincent Dolan, senior vice commander of the QVC, read President Lincoln's Gettysburg Address.

Commander Loughran, Gold Star Mothers and others decorated the World War II Monument in the cemetery, a firing squad from the Second Marine Division fired a volley and a bugler sounded Taps.

Considering Legal Action Against College Board

'No Evidence Of Wrongdoing,' Says Barry Atty.

By WILLIAM TRAYNOR

An attorney for Quincy College President Sean Barry said her client is considering legal action against the college board of governors and the board's chairwoman after Barry was placed on paid administrative leave last week.

The college president was placed on paid leave indefinately pending the outcome of an investigation into his handling of the school's fundraising foundation.

But Barry's attorney, Margaret Donovan, said there is no evidence that her client engaged in any wrongdoing.

Instead, she said, Barry's rights were violated during last Wednesday's closed-door meeting of the college board of governors and took aim at the board's chairwoman, Theresa LordPiatelli, describing her as the college president's "judge, jury and executioner."

The board's finance and facilities subcommittee tomorrow (Friday) is expected to choose a firm to conduct an internal audit of the fund, according to Lord-Piatelli. Members of the subcommittee are Dennis. Grindlay, Condon Walsh and White. Raymondi was recently removed from the subcommittee by Lord-Piatelli.

The board will take further action based on the findings of the internal audit, according to Lord-Piatelli.

Donovan said Lord-Piatelli's actions during and after last Wednesday's executive session warrant close scrutiny. A former labor re-

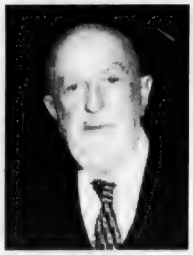
Rabbi Jacob Mann Square To Be Dedicated Sunday



Quincy will honor the memory of a beloved adopted son Sunday with the dedication of the Rabbi Jacob Mann Square.

The square is the corner of Grafton and Lancaster streets, site of the Beth Israel Synagogue, where Rabbi Mann served for nearly 62 years as its spiritual leader. He died April 13 in Petach Tikvah, Israel, where he had lived since the fall of 2003. He was 95.

He is buried in the Quincy Hebrew Cemetery at Baker Street in West Roxbury.

Former Mayor Arthur Tobin, clerk magistrate of Quincy District Court and a longtime friend of Rabbi Mann, will be the keynote speaker at the 11 a.m. ceremony Sunday.

Other speakers will be

RABBI JACOB MANN

Mayor William Phelan, Ward 2 City Councillor Daniel Raymondi, Harold Krasnoff, president of Beth Israel Synagogue, and Rabbi Mann's two sons, Prof. Jonah Mann and Rabbi Abraham Mann, both of New York. Irving Isaacson, past commander of the Quincy Jewish War Veterans and a member of Beth Israel Synagogue, will be the master of ceremonies.

The City Council last December unanimously voted to name the corner of Grafton and Lancaster as Rabbi Jacob Mann Square on a resolve by Raymondi in whose ward the synagogue is located.

Rabbi Mann was born in Israel and came to Beth Israel Synagogue in 1942 at age 33. His tenure at Beth Israel was an historic one — the longest anyone has served as spiritual leader of a Quincy house of worship.

Rabbi Mann participated in the annual Law Day ceremonies at Quincy District Court for many years and a Law Day award in his name was established two years ago.

Commemorating End Of WWII

Postcard Campaign Launched For Kilroy Ship, Stamp

The Quincy-born catchphrase "Kilroy Was Here" was a rallying cry for thousands of GIs in World War II, who scrawled the phrase wherever they went as they fought their way across Europe and the Pacific.

Now, as America commemorates the 60th anniversary of the end of that war Quincy's "Kilroy Committee" is hoping local residents will help convince the government to recognize the unique contribution "Kilroy Was Here" made to the Allied was effort.

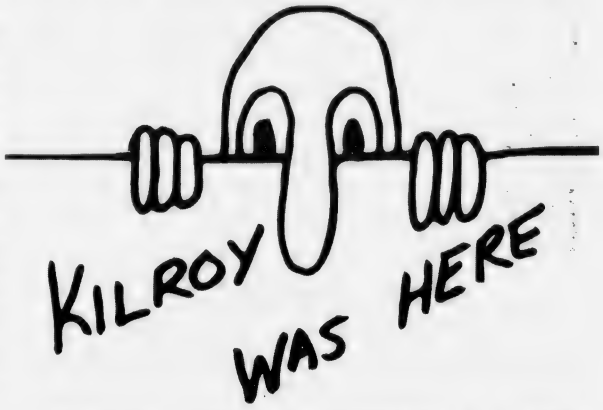
The group has printed pre-addressed postcards asking the Navy to name a new ship the USS Kilroy Was Here in recognition of the tremendous morale boost the phrase provided to Allied troops during World War II. Similar postcards have been printed asking the U.S. Postal Service to issue a "Kilroy Was Here" stamp.

"We're hoping residents will show their support for 'Kilroy' by picking up these free postcards, signing their name and mailing them to the Navy and Post Office," said Jennifer Logue, executive director of Discover Quincy, which is co-sponsoring the "Kilroy Was Here" initiative with the USS Salem and The Quincy Sun.

"The 60th anniversary of the end of World War II is the perfect time to recognize the special role 'Kilroy Was Here' playing in boosting the spirits of American GIs at a pivotal time in our nation's history," she said.

The free postcards may be picked up at The Quincy Sun's offices at 1372 Hancock St. Postcards are also available in the lobby of City Hall, 1305 Hancock St., at Discover Quincy's offices in President's Place (1250 Hancock St.) and aboard the USS Salem at 739 Washington St.

The postcard campaign is just the latest in a series of events and activities the Kilroy Committee has organized to spotlight Quincy's link to "Kilroy Was Here." In addition to a recent essay contest that encouraged both students and adults to address the topic, "What 'Kilroy Was Here' Means to Me," the committee is also currently conducting a "Kilroy Was Here" photo contest. Scheduled to run throughout the summer, the contest encourages residents to take flyers bearing the "Kilroy Was Here" cartoon and phrase with them when they travel to snap a photo of it in fun and famous locations around the world. The collected photos will be displayed online at www.whereiskilroy.com, with prizes awarded for Most Exotic Locale, Most Original Photo and more.



Kilroy was also featured recently at the USS Salem's anniversary celebration, which was attended by several children and grandchildren of James Kilroy, the Quincy shipyard inspector who started the "Kilroy Was Here" phenomenon.

For more information on the postcard campaign, call Discover Quincy at 617-657-0527, the USS Salem at 617-479-7900, or visit www.whereiskilroy.com.

For an appointment, call 617-376-1506.

Postcard Appeal To Secretary Of Navy

The text of the postcard being sent to Secretary of the Navy Gordon R. England requesting that a ship be named the USS Kilroy Was Here follows:

Dear Secretary England:

I'm writing to ask the U.S. Navy to consider naming a ship the USS "Kilroy Was Here."

During World War II, James Kilroy — a shipyard inspector in Quincy, Massachusetts — began scrawling this phrase on Navy ships to prove that he had inspected the ship's rivets. With no time to paint over the markings, the phrase "Kilroy Was Here" soon traveled the globe, becoming a rallying cry and morale booster for Allied Troops on land, air and sea. So popular did "Kilroy Was Here" become that it's believed the phrase and its accompanying caricature have been found on the Great Wall of China and even on the moon!

As America marks the 60th anniversary of the end of World War II, now would be an appropriate time to recognize the tremendous contribution the phrase "Kilroy Was Here" made to the Allied war effort. I urge you to name the next available Navy ship the USS "Kilroy Was Here."

Police Memorial Sunday At Mt. Wollaston Cemetery

The Quincy Police Mutual Aid Association announces that the annual Police Memorial exercises will be conducted Sunday, June 5 beginning at 8:30 a.m. at Mount Wollaston Cemetery, Quincy.

Members of the Association, active and retired Quincy Police officers, invited guests and dignitaries will assemble at Quincy District Court and march to the cemetery. The public is invited and encouraged to attend.

During the memorial, the Association will remember its departed members and Quincy Police Crossing Guards and a wreath will be placed at the Police Memorial located in the cemetery directnly opposite Quincy Police headquarters.

Mayor William Phelan, Quincy Police Chief Robert Crowley and Norfolk County District Attorney William Keating will make remarks.

'A New And Better Opportunity To Learn'

Libraries Hailed As Generations Links At Sheets Dedication

By TOM HENSHAW

In the new $16 million addition to the Thomas Crane Public Library. said former Mayor Jim Sheets, "we pass on to future generations, a new and better opportunity to learn."

And that, he added, is what one generation must do for the next.

Sheets, who shepherded the new wing that doubles the size of the 123-year-old library through a maze of hurdles from his office as mayor for 12 years, spoke Sunday at its dedication as the James A. Sheets Wing.

"New generations will not long remember those of us who are gathered here today but they will remember what we have done here," he said.

"They will know that at the heart of every community there needs to be a place where the knowledge of past generations mingles with the knowledge and experience of the present assuring a foundation on which future generations can create an even more peaceful, civil and enduring world.

"Perhaps John Adams caught the real essence of this thought when he wrote this letter to Abigail some 225 years ago. He said:

"'I studied politics and war that our sons may have the liberty to study mathematics and philosophy in order to give their children the right to study painting and poetry.'

"In a sense, John Adams was saying that each new generation of Americans must provide the next generation with the opportunity to learn and to build an even better world.

"The generations speak to us through books and education."

The dedication ceremony, held in a tent on the library lawn, attracted about 300 people, many of them local official of the past who served on the city council and in the state legislature with Sheets.

They included current Mayor William Phelan, former Mayors Walter Hannon, Arthur Tobin and Joseph LaRaia and Mayor David Madden from neighboring Weymouth.

The high-point of the ceremony came when Sheets and his wife, Joanne, their children and grandchildren, unveiled a portrait of the wing's namesake that will hang in the library.

Mayor Phelan called the new addition "the centerpiece around which we can build a successful community."

"I'm proud that Quincy is now expanding their library at a time when other communities continue to reduce. I think what Jim Sheets has

Quincy IRS Office Closing This Fall

The Internal Revenue Service recently announced it will close its office on Hancock St. in Quincy this fall.

The IRS said fewer people are visiting the agency's 400 assistance centers because more taxpayers are using its website and telephone services.

The closures are part of a mass closing affecting 68 sites nationwide. Taxpayer assistance centers, like the one in Quincy, are the most expensive type of customer service the IRS offers, and many questions can be answered more accurately by routing taxpayers to experts over the telephone.

THE HISTORY CHANNEL

• On June 3, 1864, Union General Ulysses S. Grant makes what he later recognizes to be his greatest mistake of the Civil War by ordering a frontal assault on entrenched Confederates at Cold Harbor in Virginia. The result was some 7,000 Union casualties in less than an hour of fighting.

• On June 5, 1883, John Maynard Keynes, the groundbreaking economist who argued for the benefits of full employment and active government involvement in economic matters, is born in Cambridge, England.

• On May 30, 1908, Mel Blanc, the voice of Bugs Bunny, Daffy Duck, Road Runner, Tweety Bird and countless other cartoon characters during his 50-year career at Warner Bros., is born in San Francisco. Blanc also provided for other studios the voices of Barney Rubble in "The Flintstones," Mr. Spacely for "The Jetsons" and Woody Woodpecker's laugh.

• On June 4, 1940, the evacuation of Allied forces from Dunkirk on the Belgian coast ends as German forces capture the beach port. The nine-day evacuation, the largest of its kind in history and an unexpected success, saved 338,000 Allied troops from capture by the Nazis.

• On June 1, 1967, the Beatles release the album "Sgt. Pepper's Lonely Hearts Club Band." The album, which took four months to record, sold more than eight million copies and spent 15 weeks at No. 1.

• On June 2, 1970, car racer, designer and manufacturer Bruce McLaren of New Zealand is killed while testing his newest Can-Am car, the M8D, at Goodwood racetrack in England. McLaren still holds the record as the youngest driver (age 22) ever to win a Formula One Grand Prix race.

• On May 31, 1990, the sitcom "Seinfeld" debuts. Produced and sometimes co-written by comedian Jerry Seinfeld, the show gradually gained popularity, reaching first place in the Nielsen rankings during the 1994-95 season. Some 76 million viewers tuned in to watch the final episode of "Seinfeld" on May 14, 1998.

Sheets Writing 'Like It Was' Book

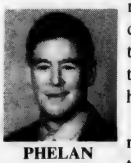
Jim Sheets is writing a book.

And, it may not make everybody happy.

It's about his political career, one that spanned 28 years as mayor (12), Ward 4 city councillor (16) with four simultaneously as a state representative.

Both a frank out-front and behind-the-scene look at a unique career, a book no doubt destined for the new wing of the Thomas Crane Public Library named for Sheets Sunday.

SHEETS



It's not going to be a Joe LaRaia "A City Under The Influence" book but it apparently will have some political meat to chew on.

"I'm not going to pull any punches," Sheet says. "I'm going to tell it like it was. There are things that have to get out there.

"I'm going to be as honest as I can. Some of it will probably make some people unhappy. But some of it will make me unhappy, too. I'm going to be straight forward."

One subject will be the 2001 election that brought his political career to a sudden end.

That, of course, was the year a virtual political newcomer named William Phelan defeated Sheets by a scant 17 votes in the closest mayoral race and one of the biggest political upsets in the city's history.

PHELAN

For 12 years as mayor, Sheets dominated the local political scene. He was the longest serving Plan A mayor. And was re-elected to three of his six terms without opposition, another footnote in Quincy's political history.

He had long been seen as unbeatable. Major mayoral hopefuls didn't want to challenge him and patiently waited for him to leave office on his own. Then along came Phelan to upset the political applecart.

Sheets has always seen the light voter turnout that Nov. 6 as a major factor in his close loss.

Only 47 percent of the city's record high 53,021 registered voters actually voted. Sixty to 63 percent were expected.

That unbeatable image apparently hurt Sheets this time.

"I kept running into people who told me not to worry, that I was a shoo-in," he recalls. "And, I kept saying, no, I am not a shoo-in. I need your vote."

Phelan got his vote out. Sheets feels many of those who saw him as a sure-thing were among the many who stayed home.

Sheets also wasn't too happy about a couple of rumors floating around during the campaign. One was that he was having a million dollar home built in his native Pennsylvania and was going to move back there after leaving office. The other was that he was ill.

"Neither was true," he says.

The saving of Quincy Hospital is considered by many as Sheets' finest hour as mayor, his greatest legacy.

But Sheets intends to spread the credit around in his book.

"The real story of Quincy Hospital (now Quincy Medical Center) needs to be told," he says. "How close we came to losing it. The cooperation on the part of the union employees who took a 10 percent cut in benefits and wages. The help we needed and got from Ted Kennedy and Paul Cellucci. And other people like Peter Kolson."

But it was Sheets who spearheaded the around-the-clock, around-the-weeks, around-the-months effort to keep that vital medical facility open.

The hospital was an accomplishment home run. But there were strikeouts, too. His biggest miss was his ambitious but ill-fated attempt to re-open the Fore River shipyard and put Quincy back into the shipbuilding business. He may have put too much faith in one man.

"I'm going to cover everything," Sheets says of his book. "I am not going to leave anything out."

Which would seem to indicate he will include that stupid City Hall break-in that occurred unknown to him during his final days in office.

Sheets started writing the book six months ago and says it will be one instructors will be able to use teaching municipal government.

The first chapter is about his coming to Quincy from Clarksville, Pa., a little coal town where he grew up and where his mother, Pauline, didn't want him to follow in the family's footsteps:

His father, Harry, two grandfathers and seven uncles were all coal miners. One uncle was killed in a mine cave-in.

Unknown to Sheets, his mother sent an application for admission and his high school graduation transcript to Eastern Nazarene College in Wollaston. He was accepted and arrived there as a student in 1953. And for the first time got to see the Atlantic Ocean.

A year later, a pretty young lady named Joann Roberts enrolled. She came from Scotdale, Pa., where her father was a minister, about 45 miles from Sheets' hometown but the two had never met.

JOANN

But they did at ENC, never dreaming he would become mayor and she the first lady of Quincy.

Sheets estimates it will take about three years for him to complete his book. He has another project that is keeping him busy.

He is the regional director of the Adams Memorial Foundation, raising funds for the planned Washington, D.C. memorial to Presidents John and John Quincy Adams, their wives and the Adams family.

Would he consider a political comeback — a return to the mayor's office?

"No," he says. "I just turned 70 — not the age to go back into politics."

But he has his book and the Adams Memorial to keep him from getting bored.

Cancer Survivors Day Observance At QMC June 15

Quincy Medical Center will host a Celebration of Life Wednesday, June 15, in observance of National Cancer Survivors Day.

The evening will include a speaking program, led by Barbara Stone, Ph.D., LICSW, a psychotherapist, cancer survivor and author. Stone's book "Cancer As Initiation: Surviving the Fire" (1994, Open Court Publishing Company) is the autobiographical account of her holistic approach to recovery from this illness.

The free evening reception is open to the public and will be held from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. in Conference Room B & C at Quincy Medical Center, 114 Whitwell St.

For more information or to RSVP, call Jane Taub, RN, at 617-376-3112 by Friday, June 10.

Scenes From Yesterday

THIS IS A 1948 postcard reproduction of the Wollaston Theatre on Beale Street in Wollaston Center. Built in 1926 it opened as a legitimate theater named the New Wollaston. The original Wollaston Theatre had operated on a small stage in the old Masonic Temple building to the right. About 1930 the above theater with almost 1300 seats was converted to show the new talking movies. A few years after this picture was taken the vertical marquee shown here was replaced with the angular one there today. The featured movie on the marquee: Back to Bataan, starred John Wayne and Anthony Quinn in a 1945 film about American-led guerillas in The Philippines after General MacArthur's withdrawal in 1942. The "Wolly" as it was affectionately known to generations of Quincy moviegoers was the last neighborhood theater in Quincy when it closed a few years ago for repairs. The National Historic designation of the property limits its use. Hopefully, it will reopen as a theater someday. To contact Tom Galvin, e-mail tmgalvin@verizon.net.

No One Person Responsible For High School Dropout Rate

Mayor Bill Phelan recently announced that he doesn't apparently want to waste money on new dropout prevention programs because the problem at Quincy High School has been seemingly solved by new Principal Frank Santoro.

A task force was appointed and had recommended a series of programs costing about $500,000, most of the monies coming from grants. But Phelan has nixed those ideas proclaiming the high dropout rate points to the man Santoro replaced.

Said Phelan, "A principal was hired four years ago, and now a new principal as been hired, and it (dropout rate) is back down."

Wouldn't it be great if there was only one person or cause creating the spike in dropouts?

Before apparently beating up on the former principal, did the mayor ever find out what this year's dropout rate was at Marshfield High School and compare it to last year to see if his mayoral insight carried over to Marshfield?

Rushing to blame one person and declaring there is no longer a problem is dangerous territory for a politician to explore.

The task force surely had a responsibility to look at not only dropout rates but also at what our elementary and middle schools were doing to address and identify at-risk students who were potential dropouts.

The dropout crisis doesn't start in high school. By then it could be too late for many students who might have been saved.

Does Quincy High no longer have at-risk students? What about the bomb scares and firearms scares that emptied out the building this year?

The real problem to me is that while we haggle about a new Quincy High School we forget too many of today's students.

One dropout is one too many. However, the problem of at-risk students continues out of sight and apparently the mind of the mayor.

If I were Frank Santoro, I would distance myself from the mayor's praise. No one person deserves the praise alone because if things go wrong, is he totally responsible for the ills of our school system too?

Finds 'Defense of Saddam' Distressing

Regarding "The Defense of Saddam Hussein" written by Michael Jovanovic in your May 26th edition:

How distressing it was to read Mr. Jovanovic's insipid and ill-informed defense of Saddam Hussein in your May 26th edition. His attempt at moral equivalence is far off the mark. I guess the mass graves being unearthed in Iraq containing tens of thousands of men, women and children, the rape rooms, torture chambers, videotaped executions and the use of poisonous gas against half a million Kurds (the "Anfal Campaign"), the invasion of Kuwait, the missile strikes at Israel, the support of terror and terrorists against the United States and the systemic wholesale slaughter of millions of human beings over the course of Hussein's blood-soaked regime, are all news to Mr. Jovanovic.

His assertion that "peace, even peace at any price, is always cheaper than victory at any price," should be directed at the millions of victims of Saddam Hussein and his mass-murdering regime. Unfortunately, those millions of victims can't reply - they're dead.

I quote John Stuart Mill:

"War is an ugly thing, but not the ugliest of things. The decayed and degraded state of moral and patriotic feeling, which thinks that nothing is worth war, is much worse. The person who has nothing for which he is willing to fight, nothing which is more important than his own personal safety, is a miserable creature and has no chance of being free unless made and kept so by the exertions of better men than himself."

Finally, on behalf of the millions of defiant Iraq voters, I reply to Mr. Jovanovic's ignorance and misplaced moral outrage by "giving" him my purple-tipped finger!

Pruitt New School Superintendent At $18,000 Salary

This Week
1963
42 Years Ago

Robert E. Pruitt, 46, of Forest Park, Ill., associate director of the University of Chicago's Experimental Laboratory School, was named to the $18,000 a year post of superintendent of schools in Quincy.

Pruitt was to succeed Supt. Dr. Paul Gossard, who was retiring Aug. 1.

"I am very pleased," said Pruitt in a telephone interview to his midwest home. "The professional way in which members of your school board have handled this has impressed me. It is a very pleasant experience."

Although he was born in Kentucky and spent most of his working life in the midwest Pruitt was no stranger to New England, having spent time at Harvard and MIT as a supervisor of teaching methods for the War Department.

"All aspects of education must get emphasis," he said.

"In past years, the sciences have been greatly emphasized. But we are moving in the direction of, and I support this, a need to implement efforts to strengthen the social studies, humanities and arts."

DUMPING RESTRAINED

The City of Quincy obtained a restraining order in Norfolk Superior Court to halt the dumping of demolition lumber into a privately-owned quarry off Willard St., West Quincy, not far from the big Swingle's Quarry.

The quarry was owned by Peter G. Ruscitto of Braintree, who was filling it in as part of a preliminary phase to the development of about 270 acres of property he owns in the quarry district.

REBUILDING GOP

C. Frederick Dumaine, chairman of the Republican State Committee, told his fellow party members in Quincy that they should take a leaf from the Democrats' book and look to youth for party revival.

"We must get youth into the ranks," he said. "We will never have the strength to do what Ted Kennedy has done but we must have youth on our side."

Twice Cooked Veal Chop

Whenever we dine out, and veal chops are on the menu, it is out of sight in price as a rule. So we sometimes purchase veal chops in the supermarket and at times, if just sautéed, they are not very tender.

Last week when my husband brought home a large shoulder veal chop and a package of sliced mushrooms, I decided to cook it entirely different.

After I sautéed it, I added red cooking wine and white cooking wine and then popped it in the oven and what a difference. Here is the recipe that I have since made a couple of more times.

Twice cooked Veal Chop

1 large veal shoulder chop (or two if cooking for more than two)
1 package mushrooms
1 small onion (chopped)
1 clove garlic (chopped)
1/4 cup red cooking wine
1/4 cup white cooking wine
1/4 cup water
salt and pepper to taste
olive oil for sautéing

Preheat the oven to 350 degrees.

I used a black cast iron pan so I could just leave it in the pan, and another time, I used a stainless steel frying pan. But if you have neither of these, just transfer it to a baking pan.

Sauté the onion and garlic in the hot oil and then place the veal chop in the pan and cook uncovered until chop is turned at least once.

Add the cooking wines and the mushrooms. Cover until blended. If it needs a bit more liquid, now is the time to add the water.

Bake covered for one a half hours and it will be so tender and tasty. In between times, I checked to see if there was enough liquid so that it wouldn't dry. Either add a bit more wine, or stock or water if desired.

STUDENTS AT THE Beechwood Knoll Elementary School will perform in the original play Ming Ue Friday, June 3 and June 10 at 7 p.m. in the Cove Auditorium at Eastern Nazarene College, 23 East Elm Ave., Wollaston.

Friday And June 10 At Eastern Nazarene College

Beechwood Knoll School Students To Perform In Original Play

Students at the Beechwood Knoll Elementary School will perform in the original play Ming Ue Friday, June 3 and June 10 at 7 p.m. in the Cove Auditorium at Eastern Nazarene College, 23 East Elm Ave., Wollaston.

Admission is free. A donation will be taken to support the Shi Zong Orphanage in China.

The children will dance to traditional Chinese music. The Dance of the Warriors, Moon and Star Dance, Harvest Dance and the Dance of the Shadows were choreographed by Chu Ling.

Ming Ue is a fictional tale that takes place in the historical context of China. During the spring and autumn period (771-401 B.C.), China largely consisted of a group of minimally powerful kingdoms.

The story takes place in Eastern Chu on the Yellow River near Loyang. Even though fighting between the states was common, it was also the most energetic flowering of Chinese thought and culture in Chinese history. In Eastern Chu the greatest philosophers established the rudiments of Chinese philosophy, ethics, political theory, and culture.

Ming Ue is about how two young girls, Ming Ue and Princess Chan Juan, save the adults from the crushing despair that was between the two city-states of Jinn and Chu has brought upon both the people and their kings. The girls' great curiosity and zeal for life cause a series of events that lead to the healing of deep family wounds and also bring peace back to the people of the land.

Proparvulis Club Members Take 'Musical Trip Down Memory Lane'

The Wollaston Golf Club was the scene recently for the annual fundraiser for the Proparvulis Club, an affiliate of Catholic Charities.

Members took a "Musical Trip Down Memory Lane" with Eric Olsen, guitarist and soloist providing the music.

Mary Rita Sullivan, president, greeted guests and Sister Mary Cahill, spiritual director of the Club, offered Grace Before Meals. After a delicious meal, Mary Herman, chairman of the event, introduced the entertainer for the afternoon.

To help set the scene, some members took hats and stoles out of the mothballs, while others even wore suits and dresses that fit them from the 1950s and 1960s. There were surprisingly attractive.

The door prize was won by Eleanor Serafini of Quincy. The prize, an Irish knit sweater, was made by Mary Birmingham, who turned 100 years old on March 17. Mary continues to knit regularly and creates wreaths for prizes at the club's annual Christmas party.

The club's motto is "Having fun - doing good," and their musical trip down memory lane proved to live up to that standard.

Proparvulis means "for the little ones." The club has been active for more than 80 years working to raise funds for children in the inner City of Boston. Each year, the club gives several camperships for Sunset Point Vacation Camp, which is operated by Catholic Charities.

Proparvulis has also been able to provide funds to Emmanuel House in Boston to help with their programs for disadvantaged children.

ELEANOR REIDY, former president of the Proparvulis Club, and current President Mary Rita Sullivan, show off their 1950s-style hats during the club's "Musical Trip Down Memory Lane," held recently at the Wollaston Golf Club.

RESERVATION CHAIRPERSONS GRACE Hoyt and Alice Sadler welcomed guests to the club's annual fundraiser, which is designed to raise money for children in the inner city of Boston.

EUGENIA ANDRADE (middle), a Quincy High School ninth grade student, receives congratulations as the winner of the Women In Technology (WIT) Club essay contest. The topic was "My Dream Career." Essay participants were asked to reflect on elements of technology use on the job. Andrade received a $250 bond named the Loretta DeGrazia/East Coast Petroleum Co. Scholarship. Eugenia aspires to a career in allied health and cited state-of-the-art technology uses in her future field. Offering congratulations are, from left, Emily Lebo, director of the Center for Technical Education; Loretta DeGrazia, founder/owner of East Coast Petroleum; Deborah DeCristofaro, department head, Quincy High School guidance; and Maureen MacNeil, QHS assistant principal. DeGrazia is also a member of the Center for Technical Education's Advisory Board. WIT is a QHS/CTE organization that promotes non-traditional careers or career pathways that are designed to lead to better quality lives for women in the form of salaries, working conditions, benefits and promotions. WIT members also perform community service for their school such as this scholarship program.

United First Parish Church To Dedicate New Gardens Sunday

The newly landscaped and planted gardens surrounding historic United First Parish Church will be dedicated Sunday at 11:30 a.m.

The dedication, with Rev. Sheldon Bennett, minister, members of the church and invited guests participating, will follow a special "Children's Sunday/Garden Service" at 10:30 a.m.

For almost a decade the church has been in various stages of reconstruction from replacing the slate roof to restoring the sanctuary and its spectacular lotus-blossom designed ceiling. For many year, "moonscape" was the best way to describe the outside construction-impacted grounds of the church.

The impetus for the design of this new garden came from two church members, Ginger Jackson of the Seaside Gardeners of Squantum and Pat Artis of the Wollaston Garden Club. Both women longed for a beautifully designed church garden filled with colorful perennials.

Jackson and Artis met with other interested church members and looked over a landscape plan done in the 90s by the National Park Service. A core group of gardeners including Virginia Wigmore, Joan Brasier and Kathleen Frost held many meeting to plan Gardeners.

They envisioned a garden that would soften the hard lines of the large granite building, bring color to contrast with the gray stone, design a place for seating and reflective thinking, and provide security for this well-traveled spot. With the support of the church Board Chair, John Reed and the Board of Governors, and by a vote of the congregation a budget was proposed and approved for the landscaping project. The UFPC Perennial Gardeners approached Ralph Ames and Ames Landscaping of Squantum with their ideas and Ames agreed to design and construct the extensive, highly visible church gardens.

Work on the garden began in the spring of 2004 with the building of an irrigation system, creation of a berm and the planting of foundation plants like rhododendrons, azalea, viburnum, andromeda, hydrangea, cyprus, and grasses surrounded by a rim of red Japanese barberry. Focal trees and shrubs like Japanese maple, holly, and pg hydrangea were planted. The church grounds already had stunning dogwoods, crab apples and a magnolia tree for spring color. Benches were added.

The installation of the fountain is also planned. Choosing perennials instead of annuals, has already brought pleasure to the congregation as they enjoyed daffodils and vinca in full bloom in April, and look forward to the many blooming surprises ahead. A garden gift giving program has been set up for members of the church and outside community to "gift" special plants in honor/memory of a loved on.

Annual Quincy Public Schools Literature Contest Today

The annual Quincy Public Schools Literature Contest will be held today (Thursday) from 9 a.m. to 12 noon at the Thomas Crane Public Library Meeting Room.

Each year media specialists invite fourth and fifth graders to compete in this event. Contestants agree to read as many as 45 books from a pre-selected reading list and to be tested on their knowledge of the material.

Ninety-six finalists in grades 4 and 5 qualified to represent the city's elementary schools and grade 5 at Point Webster Middle School at this year's competition. Students will answer questions about the books both as a team and individually in this event.

Diane Rodriguez, media specialist at Point Webster, will be the reader for round one, and Debbie Barrett, medial specialist at Lincoln Hancock, will be the scorekeeper.

In round two, Susan Riley, Wollaston and Bernazzani media specialist, will be the reader, and Joan Condon, Squantum and Atherton Hough media specialist, will be the scorekeeper.

Kathleen Mitchell, department head, will be the reader in the final round, with Donna Dunbar, media specialist at Beechwood Knoll and Merrymount, will be the score keeper.

All attendees will receive a certificate of attendance. Winning teams will be awarded gold and silver medals.

'Planting Pride' Resumes For 2nd Year In Quincy

The concerted effort to beautify the city of Quincy met with such enthusiasm in the first year that Mayor William Phelan is going to take another shot at it.

He has announced plans to reconvene the Planting Pride in Quincy Committee to supervise beautification and entry in the America in Bloom contest for the second year.

"The positive response from last years effort was overwhelming and I'm please to make beautification a municipal priority," he said.

"By making a greater effort to keep our city parcels neat and attractive we set a tone for neighborhoods to follow ultimately creating a great quality of life for residents, businesses and visitors."

The Planting Pride in Quincy Committee is made up of representation from residents and garden clubs as well as business and municipal interests. It includes:

Henry Bosworth, publisher, The Quincy Sun; Elizabeth Campbell, executive director, Quincy Access Television; Jo Costello, Wollaston Garden Club; Sally Erickson, Squantum Seaside Gardens.

Jack Garland, local attorney; Lynne Houghton, Century 21, Abigail Adams; Kristen Keohane. program manager, Park Department; Thomas Koch, executive director, Park, Forestry & Cemetery Departments.

Richard Meade, Daniel J. Flynn & Co., Inc.; David Murphy, director of operations for Mayor Phelan; Stephen O'Donnell, commissioner of Public Works; Dean Rizzo, executive director, Quincy 2000.

Kevin Segalla, director, Quincy Public Schools custodial services; and Andrew Scheele, health commissioner.

The committee will be seeking input from the public in developing new beautification efforts, promoting community participation, and creating an itinerary for the judges in the America in Bloom contest.

Suggestions may be made by calling the Park Department at 617-376-1251 or by e-mailing kkeohane@ci.quincy.ma.us.

The judges are scheduled to visit Quincy for a three-day stay June 17, 18 and 19 to evaluate the city based on eight criteria. They are:

Tidiness effort, Environmental Awareness, Community Involvement, Heritage Conservation, Urban Forestry, Landscaped Areas, Floral Displays, and Turf and Ground Cover Areas.

"Having one year under our belts I feel we can only improve," said Thomas Koch.

"The evaluation we received from last year's effort indicated areas that required more attention as well as areas where we excelled and we're using the feedback to tailor our endeavor for success."

The evaluation, he added, also encouraged improvement in the urban forest category and the addition of 450 trees in last fall's citywide street tree planting should improve the score in that particular category considerably this year.

Once again, the America in Bloom contest will match Quincy against communities in the 50,000 to 100,000 population bracket across the country.

"The evaluation this contest provides truly has been instrumental in setting higher standards as we strive to improve the appearance of our city," said Phelan.

"I look forward to the judges' visit, welcome their professional recommendations and feel they will be quite pleased with the progress we've made in just one year."

For more information, call the Park Department at 617-376-1251.

Jimmy Kennedy Memorial Run For ALS June 11

The eighth annual Jimmy Kennedy Memorial Run for ALS, also known as the Squirrel Run, will be held Saturday, June 11.

The event will begin and end at Pageant Field, Merrymount Parkway, Quincy.

All proceeds will go to the Angel Fund, an organization dedicated to supporting ALS investigations at the Cecil B. Day Laboratory for Neuromuscular Research at Massachusetts General Hospital.

Jimmy "The Squirrel" Kennedy lost his courageous battle with Amyotrophic Lateral Sclerosis (ALS), better known as Lou Gehrig's Disease, in 1997 at age 31.

His father, Christopher, also died of ALS.

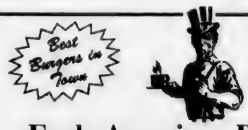
Registration begins at 8 a.m. The 5-mile run will start at 9 a.m. and the 2.5-mile walk at 10 a.m. Cost is $20. The first 500 entrants will receive T-shirts.

Children can participate in the own activities during the event.

There will be awards for 15 age divisions for men and women.

For more information, call Richard Kennedy at 781-383-6008 or Marty Levenson at 800-999-5950, ext. 1127.

Mandela's Grandson To Visit Quincy Students June 8



High and middle school student from Quincy public schools will host Prince Cedza Diamini, grandson of South Africa's Nelson Mandela, Wednesday, June 8, at 1 p.m. at the Thomas Crane Public Library.

Diamini will engage the Community and Global Service student representatives on achieving the United Nations #2 Millennium Development Goal of achieving universal primary education by 2015.

The Quincy students were selected because of their 10 years of ongoing "global service" which results in a yearly partnership with a non-governmental agency to develop an educational project each year.

This year's project partners the students with the Heifer Project to educate and protect 40 10-year-old girls in rural Vietnam to place them in a residential school and away from the child slave traffickers.

The Quincy students trace their activism back to their years as students at the Broad Meadows Middle School where, in 1995-97, students successfully raised more than $140,000 to build a "School for Iqbal" in Pakistan.

Services Expanded To Include Men

Marie Curry Walk Renamed QMC Cancer Walk

Quincy Medical Center announced recently that it will expand the highly successful Marie Curry Walk and rename it the QMC Cancer Walk to benefit women and men stricken with cancer.

The QMC Cancer Walk will take place on Sunday, Sept. 18.

In seven years, Marie Curry Walk supporters have raised more than $1 million to ensure that underinsured or uninsured women have access to cancer care.

The QMC Cancer Walk will continue to support the Marie A. Curry Fund endowment, while also raising funds to benefit expanded cancer care services for both women and men.

"Since 1998, this community has built a tremendous resource to ensure that South Shore women have access to vital breast cancer screening and detection," said Robert Curry, chairman of the QMC board of trustees. "It is now time to take our efforts to the next level to ensure that South Shore men, as well as women, have access to advanced, high quality detection and treatment for a full range of cancers."

ROBERT CURRY

HANK BRADLEY

In 1995, the Curry family established the Marie A. Curry Fund at QMC as a lasting and living memorial. The fund was the family's way of demonstrating their appreciation for the high quality, compassionate care that Marie received at QMC for breast cancer.

As part of their ongoing efforts to support the fund, Marie's family, friends and the Mayor's Commission on Women in Quincy joined together with others in the community to create a cancer walk in her name.

Last year, about 1,200 participants raised more than $160,000 for the fund.

Curry and Henry "Hank" Bradley, director of Quincy Veterans' Services, have been named as Honorary Co-Chairs for this year's walk.

Mayor's 2006 Budget Hits Few Obstacles

It's been smooth sailing thus far for Mayor William Phelan's proposed 2006 Fiscal budget.

After two budget sessions last week, the city council's finance committee has signed off on virtually all of the mayor's spending requests. Last week, the mayor submitted his proposed $221.2 million spending blueprint for Fiscal 2006.

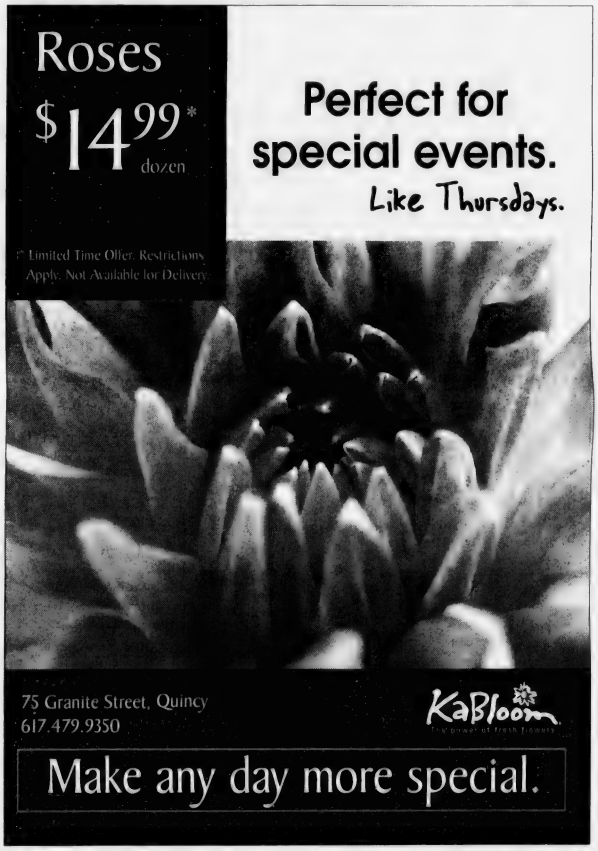
Aside from a $2,900 cut to the mayor's expense line item, the committee last week approved the budgets of several departments, including Parks, Cemetery, Library, Planning and Emergency Management.

On Tuesday, the committee was expected to take up several other department budgets, including Personnel, Assessors, Treasurer, Purchasing and Information Technology.

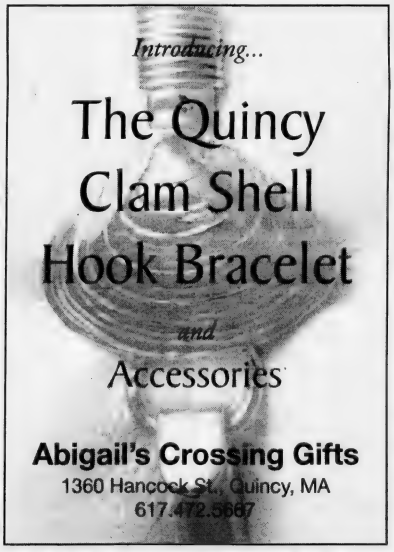
On Tuesday, June 7, the committee is expected to review the DPW, Building, Construction and Maintenance and the Sewer, Water and Drain Departments, among others.

Maralin Manning Speaker At Beechwood Breakfast

Maralin Manning, executive director of the Quincy Business Association, will be the guest speaker at the Current Events Breakfast Wednesday, June 8 at 9 a.m. at Beechwood On The Bay.

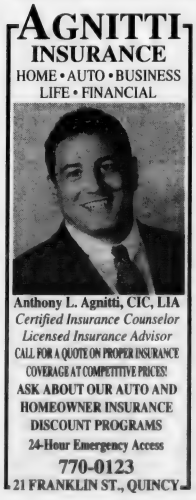


Manning's topic will be "Psychology of Color." This will be the final breakfast of the season. Seniors and friends are invited to attend. A $2 donation is requested.



A graduate of Massachusetts College of Arts, Manning has a long background in the fashion industry with experience in design, retailing and education.

Laura Powers Presidential Scholar At Merrimack College



Laura Powers of Quincy, a history major at Merrimack College, was recently honored as a 2005 Presidential Scholar Award Recipient.

The designation is awarded to students who have achieved a minimum 3.5 cumulative grade point average by the beginning of the spring semester of their senior year.

'No Evidence Of Wrongdoing,' Says Barry Atty.

lations advisor to Quincy Public Schools, Donovan said a decision will be made regarding legal action after she reviews transcripts of the meeting, which were recorded by a court stenographer.

"We are considering all possibilities regarding legal action, because I want to make sure my client receives all of his due process rights, which he hasn't so far," she said.

"Certainly, his (Barry's) civil rights were violated when he was denied due process during the hearing," said Donovan. "His contract of employment was violated when he was not given just cause for a disciplinary action."

In a written statement, Barry said, "I anxiously await the opportunity to return to work, to continue to overcome challenges and to share in planning of our 50th year as an enduring educational institution committed to student success.

SEAN BARRY

"My experience with the board of governors over the years has been one built on a precious trust and mutual commitment to the college," he said.

Last Wednesday evening, the board voted 6-4, with one abstention, in favor of placing Barry on leave.

Current members of the board are: Chairwoman Lord-Piatelli, Simon Chan, David Dennis, William Grindlay, Rev. William Harding III, Dr. Joseph Nicastro, Richard Nici, Peter O'Neill, Dan Raymondi, Jerrell Riggins, Joanne Condon Walsh and Walter White. Grindlay was not present at last week's meeting, according to sources.

Sue Harris, the dean of liberal arts and science, has been named acting president of Quincy College for the interim.

Lord-Piatelli said Barry is under the microscope for allegedly using foundation money to pay for his travel expenses. The Quincy College Foundation, a fund-raising mechanism for the college, awards scholarships to students.

"I don't know what the guy was doing with this money but something went terribly wrong," said Lord-Piatelli. "People are donating money to the college and they want their money to go to a scholarship with the idea it's going to help people that need it. The foundation should not be used to reimburse the president's travel expenses."

In 2003, Mayor William Phelan commissioned an audit of the foundation that documented $75,000 spent on administrative travel and entertainment over an 18-month period. The money was reimbursed by the city as a business expense, but Phelan eventually refused to reimburse the college foundation.

Despite the city's refusal, Barry continued to pay for travel expenses through the foundation, Lord-Piatelli contends.

Specifically, Barry used foundation funds to reimburse travel expenses for trips to Las Vegas, San Francisco, Colorado, San Diego, Miami, Orlando, New Orleans and Washington, D.C., among others, she said. "And he's used tens of thousands more," she said.

Barry is the foundation's liaison to the board of governors and he has not kept the board apprised of foundation spending, according to Lord-Piatelli, who is on the executive committee of the foundation.

"He is supposed to convene the foundation executive committee for any requests to use foundation funds," said Lord-Piatelli, "and I never received a single notice of a meeting."

All requests to use foundation funds are supposed to have the board's stamp of approval, she said.

"The president brings the request to the full board, and that has not happened," she said.

Lord Piatelli said she was "completely ignored" by Barry after making several requests to discuss the foundation allegations. And he has denied her access to information about the foundation, she said.

But Donovan called Barry's actions an "ongoing practice" that continued for years until at least April, 2004. "There has been no intent to hide this practice," said Donovan.

And she pointed out that the 2003 audit did not uncover any criminal activity or lead to further scrutiny.

In addition, a local auditing firm, O'Connor and Drew, has been reviewing records of the college foundation and "they did not see any illegality," said Donovan.

At the closed-door session, Lord-Piatelli said Barry had every opportunity to speak on his own behalf but declined.

"He (Barry) said nothing to address the allegations," said Lord-Piatelli.

But Donovan said no allegations were presented at the meeting.

"The person who is bringing the charges would have to come forward with the evidence," said Donovan, "and no one has come forward with any evidence."

Donovan said the board had the authority to stop the practice but elected not to do so. Barry had informed at least one board member of the practice, and Lord-Piatelli, as chair of the board, should have been aware of his actions.

"Nothing was ever done so the practice continued," she said.

Donovan questioned the chair's role during the meeting. Lord-Piatelli barred Donovan from actively participating in the hearing, citing a section of state law governing meetings where "discipline and dismissal" are being considered.

But Donovan maintains that state statute and Barry's contract guaranteed him the right of an active counsel.

"She (Lord-Piatelli) acted as both the hearing officer and a member of the board, and I've never encountered a situation like that," said Donovan.

Lord-Piatelli scoffed at Donovan's assertion that Barry's rights were violated during the meeting.

"The president was given every right, and the law is very clear that an attorney can be present to advise the client but cannot actively participate," she said.

In addition, Donovan accused Lord-Piatelli of violating open meeting laws because "she went to the press" with details of the closed-door session.

The board's decision to take action against Barry follows the release of a damning report commissioned by the state Board of Higher Education which casts serious doubt on the college's ability to restart its surgical technology program this year.

According to the report, issued after a three-day site visit to the college, the surgical technology program is plagued by poor oversight, inexperienced faculty members and inadequate classroom and medical resources for students.

To date, steps taken by the college have not adequately addressed these problems in time for a Fall 2005 startup, according to the report.

"Financial, human and physical resources allocated to the program for academic year 2005-2006 are not adequate to re-establish, maintain, and ensure appropriate program oversight, monitoring, suppport and quality," the report states.

The college's surgical technology program was suspended last year after two former students charged they were allowed to graduate without adequate hospital experience. Several other students have taken the college to court over the matter, according to sources.

Faith Tucker, the program director at the time, is awaiting trial on charges of stealing more than $100,000 by cashing payroll checks from phony instructors.

A draft report of an investigation commissioned by the city blamed administration neglect for allowing the alleged fraud and poor instruction to occur. Barry apologized publicly for lapses that allowed the alleged fraud to occur.

Barry secured the job as president in 2000, six months after being named interim president.

Barry, 40, is the college's fifth president since its founding in 1957. He holds a bachelor's degree from Ohio Wesleyan University and a master's in communications from American University in Washington, D.C.

Flag Day Committee Seeks Veterans' Memorial Flags

The Quincy Flag Day Parade Committee is seeking veterans' flags for display during the 54th annual Flag Day Parade Saturday evening, June 11.

Families of deceased veterans may drop off their flags at the Keohane Funeral Home, 785 Hancock St., Wollaston. The memorial flags will be placed on the "Quincy Salutes Its Veterans" float in the procession.

Edward J. Keohane, chairman of the Quincy Partnership, one of the organizations sponsoring the parade, assures that all flags lent for display will be well crafted for while in the parade committee's possession.

"The veterans' flags display allows us to honor the sacrifices of those who are no longer with us and reminds us that our freedom is a credit to their efforts," he said.

The Flag Day Parade will step off from Coddington St. in Quincy Center at 7 p.m. and proceed down Hancock St. before turning down Merrymount Parkway and disbanding at Pageant Field in Merrymount Park.

The parade will be followed by a flag-raising ceremony at Pageant Field with a 30-foot-by-60-foot version of Old Glory. A fly-over by the Massachusetts State Police Air Wing, patriotic performance by six-year-old Quincy resident Syrah Mehdi, and howitzer salute will highlight the evening's celebration leading up to a 30-minute fireworks display over Black's Creek.

For more information call 617-376-1254.

The university held its 142nd Commencement ceremony on May 21.

Firemen's Memorial Services To Be Held Sunday, June 12

The annual Quincy Firemen's Memorial Services honoring deceased members will be held Sunday, June 12, at 9 a.m. at the Firemen's Memorial Monument in Mount Wollaston Cemetery.

Firemen's Memorial Sunday has been set aside as the second Sunday in June by all fire departments throughout the state.

A detail will form at the cemetery gate on Sea Street at 8:30 a.m. and march to the Firemen's Memorial Monument for the program. At the conclusion of the service those attending are invited to Quincy Fire Headquarters, where there will be refreshments and fire apparatus on display.

Participants at the exercises for Quincy deceased firefighters will be Fire Chief Paul O'Connell, Fire Chaplain Father Robert Conole and officers of the Quincy Firemen's Relief Association, President Ernest Arienti, Vice President Chris Barry, Treasurer Kevin O'Connor, and Secretary Paul Moody.

In the event of inclement weather, the program will be conducted at the Quincy Fire Headquarters, 40 Quincy Ave.

Christine Leone Sales Associate At Century 21 Annex Realty, Inc.

Phyllis Rudnick, Broker/ Owner of Century 21 Annex Realty, with offices in Hanover and Quincy, announces Christine Leone has joined the company as a sales associate.

Leone is based in the company's Quincy office.

She joined the sales team at Century 21 Annex Realty after receiving her real estate license from Annex Real Estate School.

"Christine has a talent for understanding and communicating with her clients," Rudnick said. "Her ability to simultaneously close a sale and establish a genuine rapport with people makes her a great asset to our team. We look forward to her continued success."

CHRISTINE LEONE

Leone lives in Milton with her three children: Michael, 17; Sara, 16; and Lindsay, 14. In her spare time, she enjoys running and participating in competitive races.

Century 21 Annex Realty, Inc., offers comprehensive real estate services to the South Shore with a staff of more than 50 professional Realtors.

For more information about Century 21 Annex Realty, Inc., call the Quincy office at 617-472-4330 or toll-free 800-345-4614, the Hanover office at 781-829-4210 or toll-free 800-207-8647 or log on to www.C21Annex.com.

Cooking Ideas

(NAPS) – One-dish meals don't have to be boring.

A new cookbook provides 300 deliciously easy recipes for one-dish meals – from skillet dishes to stir-fries to main-dish salads and foil-packed meals.

"Betty Crocker® One-Dish Meals" (Wiley, $14.95) has a new recipe for practically every day of the year.

Quincy Community Action Homebuyer Workshop Starts July 12

Quincy Community Action Programs, Inc. will hold a free first-time homebuyer workshop July 12, 14 and 19 from 5:30 to 8:30 p.m. at Tuft's Library, 46 Broad St., Weymouth.

Speakers will be real estate professionals, including mortgage lenders, a realtor, home inspector, lawyer and insurance agent.

Participants will receive a workbook with valuable websites and reference materials. Upon completion of the three workshops, participants will receive a certificate at the end of the course, which is a prerequisite for favorable soft second mortgages, Mass Housing mortgages and down-payment closing cost assistance.

For more information and to register or learn of future workshops, call Kathy Pratt at 617-479-8181, ext. 119, or e-mail: kpratt@qcap.org.

Conway Expanding Services To Include Buyer Agency

Jack Conway & Co., the largest privately owned real estate company based in Massachusetts, will expand its services to include buyer agency this summer.

The move will allow Conway's 1,000-plus associates to offer more options to their customers beginning July 1.

In its 49 years in business, the privately owned company has used a traditional agency model, in which its associates represent the interests of only the seller of the property.

"The marketplace is changing, and we want to be at the forefront of that change," said Conway President Richard F. Cahill, who has been in the real estate industry for more than 30 years. "Our customers have told us that they would like representation as buyers, and we are responding to that need."

Buyer agency – in which a real estate associate agrees to represent the interests of a buyer as a client in a transaction – is growing in popularity across the country.

Conway Corporate Counsel Jay Chaisson led two workshops on the new policy recently in Randolph and Plymouth to unveil the new disclosure forms and procedures to Conway's sales force. Additional training courses are planned in anticipation of the introduction of the new service on July 1.

"We studied this issue in great detail over the last few years, and we are confident that the time is right to embrace buyer agency," said Chairman Jack Conway.

"The customers want it, the state has clarified the regulations to allow it, and we are moving full speed ahead to practice it."

Jack Conway & Co. posted $1.9 billion in sales last year and is ranked 71st among the top real estate firms in the United States in National Relocation and Real Estate Magazine's annual Power Broker survey.

In addition to 43 residential sales offices, Conway operates a mortgage company, appraisal division, full-service relocation department, commercial and business brokerage, property management division, referral registry and educational center.

A Coat That Protects Against The Elements

(NAPS) - Consumers who want to get the most out of the metal products they buy often look for ones protected with electrocoat – e-coat, that is.

E-coat paint is a finish designed to protect products used indoors and outdoors from corrosion and other wear and tear. It can be used as a primer or a top-coast finish or both.

Products painted with electrocoat include lawn mowers, tractors, wheelbarrows, outdoor furniture, light fixtures, motorcycles, ATV's outboard marine motors, metal furniture, washing machines, door handles, air diffusers and faucet handles.

Taking A Look At Windows

(NAPS) - Improving a home's windows may help shut the door on high energy bills – and improve your family's bill of health. That's because the right windows not only curb energy loss, they help limit indoor air pollutants as well.

The following signs may mean your windows are contributing to energy loss and possibly indoor air pollution:

• Window are difficult to open and close.

• Windows and/or window frames appear to be cracked.

• Moisture damage and stains on windows and doors.

• Moisture between the two panes of glass.

• Visible mold growth on surfaces.

• Condensation on glazing, jambs or sills.

• Blistering or peeling paint.

• Cracked or missing caulking.

If you do plan to replace windows, it's a good idea to take note of the type of edging your new frames have.

Erin Johnson, spokesperson for Edgetech, an industry leader in "health smart" windows, says to avoid windowpane edging materials that are made of aluminum or stainless steel. Instead, Johnson recommends something called the "super spacer," which is made entirely of polymer structural foam.

Carpet Repairs

Q. Our carpet is a little worn, but we're not ready to replace it. However, there are some unsightly areas on it, including stains and a scorch mark where a candle was dropped. It also is pulling away at one of the seams. Can we fix these problems without replacing the entire carpet? — Joyce in Omaha

A. Small stains and loose seams can be repaired fairly easily without too much cost, so dig out those spare scraps of carpeting that your mother always told you to save, and head to the home-improvement or carpeting store. If you didn't save those scraps, or they are just too old, dirty or worn to use, you'll have to bring a small piece of the existing carpet to the store to match up the replacement.

Scorch marks in carpet fiber can sometimes be removed by carefully clipping away the burned fibers with a small pair of scissors. However, deeper burns can't be removed this way. In addition, permanent stains are usually too deep to be disguised. In these cases, you'll need to cut away the damaged area.

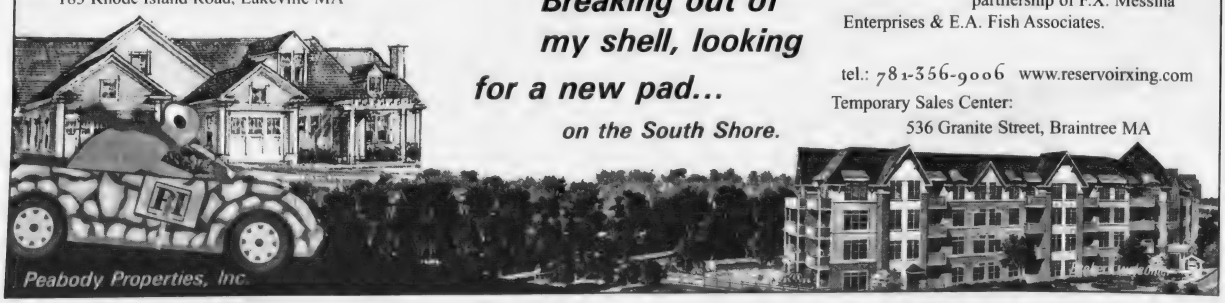
Loose seams can be reglued, but not with household glue. You'll need special heat-activated seam tape and a tool called a seam iron, which safely heats the glue without damaging the carpet edges.

So, once you've assessed the extent of the damage, head to the carpeting store. Ask for a cutter tool (which looks like a shaped cookie cutter) to cut out segments of carpet, double-face carpet tape, and liquid seam adhesive. Rent a seam iron, and pick up a roll of heat-activated seam adhesive. You'll also need a wooden board and a couple of weights to hold down the seam while it dries (lumber scraps and a couple of bricks should work).

Use the cutter tool to cut away the scorched carpet. Then, use the tool on the replacement carpet to cut out a patch the same size. Turn the patch over and lay double-sided tape across it, overlapping the seam a bit, and press the patch into place, making sure the pattern or nap matches the rest of the carpet and tucking the overlap under the surrounding carpet. Apply liquid seam adhesive to the patch edges to keep the carpet from unraveling.

Now to the loose seam. Carefully pry up the carpet edges on both sides and remove the old tape (a putty knife may help scrape it away). Cut a new strip of heat-activated seam tape the length of the repair area and slip it underneath the carpet edges, so that the center of the tape is aligned with the seam. Heat up the seam iron.

At this point, two people should work on the repair: one to work the iron, the other to follow along, pressing the seams into place. Start at one end of the seam. The first person should hold back the edges of the seam, while the second person presses the hot iron squarely on the tape for about 30 seconds. Once the glue melts, slide the iron down about a foot to the next section of tape.



Meanwhile, the first person should quickly press the edges of the carpet together over the heated tape, using the thumbs to separate the carpet fibers and make sure none are sticking to the glue, while ensuring a tight seal. Finally, place a weighted board directly over the seam to keep it flat until the glue sets.

21 Quincy Residents Graduate Archbishop Williams High School

Emma Groarke of Quincy, Archbishop Williams High School Valedictorian, sought inspiration for the advice she would give in her speech from the character Albus Dumbledore, the Headmaster at Hogwart's School in J.K. Rowling's Harry Potter book series.

"Don't be afraid to be original, to think something else, to have a different opinion on something. Accept the strange and unusual. Don't be a clone or a slave. Be curious, not judgmental," Groarke said to fellow students, their families and friends.

"I encourage you to trust the truth inside yourself, to not be afraid to be different, and to enjoy the adventure that awaits you," she said.

Groarke, and 20 other Quincy residents were among 144 graduates who were presented with diplomas by Principal Mary Louise Sadowski.

Those graduates and their college choices are:

Mary Bloomer, National Honor Society, Fairfield University; Ryan Buckley, Mass. Bay Community College; James Callahan, Bryant University; Jeffrey Chan, Bryant University; Nicholas DeVico, Syracuse University; Thomas Graceffa, Bridgewater State College; Emma Groarke, National Honor Society, University College, Dublin; Danny Hanna, Curry College; Melissa Hanna, Curry College; Meghan Lawlor, University of Mass., Amherst; Jervis Liang, National Honor Society, Worcester Polytechnic Institute; Jennifer Lorenz, National Honor Society, St. Anselm's College.

Also, Kerri McAteer, Sacred Heart University; Michael McGue, Quinnipiac University; Nicholas McNeill, National Honor Society, Providence College; Meredith Morris, Assumption College; Michael Nesti, University of Mass., Amherst; Andrew Nguyen, University of Mass., Boston; Justin Petkus, Bridgewater State College; Daniel Reggiannini, Lasell College; Yasmina Maria Tinney, Curry College.

Archbishop Williams High School is a Catholic coeducational school serving more than 632 students from more than 40 cities and towns in the South Shore and greater Boston areas.

EMMA GROAKE of Quincy, valedictorian of this year's graduating class at Archbishop Williams High School, delivers her address at the school's recent commencement.

Quincy High Inducts 36 Students Into National Honor Society

The Quincy High School Chapter of the National Honor Society recently held its induction ceremony in the Lloyd Hill Auditorium.

Selection for NHS membership is the highest honor a student can receive while in high school.

At the Induction Ceremony NHS members, faculty, family and friends proudly gathered for an hour-long ceremony in which 36 new members were inducted.

The new inductees are:

John Alexander, Pluton Angjeli, Elizabeth Bergstrom, Devin Cahill, Jiawei Chen, James Christie, Stephen Connolly, Jonathan Conso, Wendell Cosgrove, June Dandhanin, Tieu Dinh Dang, Man Nhi Dao, Jennifer Fooks, Tina Hicks, Ralfi Khondili, Nguyet Lam, Jinhai Liu, Taysir Mahmoud, Sara Marhamo, Alison Moriarty Carlson, Jeffrey Mui, Janet Ng, Cali Nguyen, Paige Neuman, Daniel O'Connell, Robert Page, Danielle Perry, Dung My Pham, Kimberly Pham, Ashley Quan, Katherine Shea, Frederick Smith, Amanda Spear, Lillian Sticco, Mei Zhen Tan, and Chaoran Xie.

During the ceremony, Mary Beth Morris (president), Danielle Rand (vice-president), Katie Walker (secretary) and Pearl Woko (treasurer) talked about the importance scholarship, leadership, service and character.

The Quincy High School Horizon's Choir sang "In My Life" written by Paul McCartney and John Lennon, and featured a solo by new inductee Lillian Sticco, as well as solos by current NHS members Pat Dunlea, Donika Hajrizaj and Catherine Gropp.

QUINCY HIGH SCHOOL recently inducted 36 new members into the school's National Honor Society. The ceremony was held in the Lloyd Hill Auditorium.

Quincy High Principal Frank Santoro emphasized the power that lies within these new inductees to positively impact the environment at Quincy High School. All new inductees were then introduced by a NHS member and received the NHS certificate and pin.

The induction ceremony celebrated the successes and achievements of these hard working and enthusiastic students.

National Honor Society, founded in 1921, are functioning, active groups, whose members are outstanding leaders and role models for the school community and promote the ideals of scholarship, leadership, character, and service among all students. Only those students who have demonstrated outstanding character, leadership, and commitment to service, in addition to outstanding scholarship, are considered for membership.

SEAN TOBIN of Quincy recently graduated from Xaverian Brothers High School in Westwood. He is the son of Stephen and Francine Tobin and will attend Stonehill College. He was a member of the indoor track team.

Quincy Public Schools Receives $500 Grant From South Coastal Bank

South Coastal Bank announces Quincy Public Schools has been awarded a $500 grant from its South Coastal Bank C.A.R.E.S. community giving program.

The grant is designed to help local not-for-profit groups promote and encourage a sense of community, achievement, responsibility and excellence in children through exposure to the arts.

C.A.R.E.S. funds allowed 25 students from Quincy Public Schools' String Instrument Program, which provides violin, viola and cello lessons, to attend an "Evening at the Pops" concert by the Quincy Symphony Orchestra for free. The concert featured a full orchestra performing a selection of classical music, Broadway show tunes and American favorites.

For more information on South Coastal Bank C.A.R.E.S., call community liaison Susan Lincoln at 781-681-7206.

Kimberly Smith Receives NEH Grant To Study In England

Former Quincy resident Kimberly Smith, an English teacher at Boston College High School, is one of 15 Americans selected from a national applicant pool to attend one of 28 summer study opportunities supported by the National Endowment for the Humanities (NEH).

KIMBERLY SMITH

Smith will participate in a seminar entitled "Chaucer's Canterbury Comedies." The six-week program from June 27 to Aug. 5, to be held in Canterbury, England, will be directed by Peter G. Beidler, professor of English at Lehigh University in Bethlehem, PA.

"My central goal in the seminar," said Professor Beidler, "is to provide information, background studies, source materials, some theoretical orientation, training in Chaucerian Middle English, and travel opportunities so that participants will be able to teach these famous Chaucerian works with a greater depth of knowledge and renewed pedagogical confidence and enthusiasm.

"We will study the cultural history behind the various tales, earlier continental stories with similar plots and motifs, the language in which Chaucer wrote the tales, the physical settings of the tales, and the pilgrimage on which the individual pilgrims told their tales."

Eugene Holmes, chairman of the BC High English Department said, "The scholarly cachet Kim brings to the department and the school is but one of the gifts with which she has graced our community in her four years with us. Congratulations, Kim."

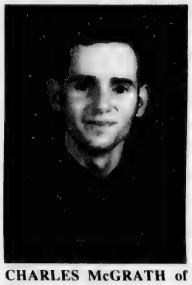
Jonathan Paquette Presidential Scholar At Merrimack College

Jonathan Paquette of Quincy, an economics major at Merrimack College, was recently honored as a 2005 Presidential Scholar Award Recipient.

The designation is awarded to students who have achieved a minimum 3.5 cumulative grade point average by the beginning of the spring semester of their senior year.

North Quincy Grad Award Goes To Holliston Student

The second annual Greg Buck Distinguished Award has gone to Jonathan Hoy of Holliston High School.



The award, named for a member of the North Quincy High School Class of 1992 who died too young, was presented by his mother, Margaret Walker, an English teacher at North Quincy at the State Science Fair at MIT.

Buck, who graduated from the University of Pennsylvania and was studying at Harvard for a master's degree in architecture when he died, had been an enthusiastic participant in the Science Fair.

The award was established in 2004 by his high school science teacher, Mary Young, the department head at North Quincy.

A scholarship fund also has been funded by friends and family at North Quincy High School and a fundraiser is planned in July.

For more information, contact Peggy Walker at 617-471-4279 or Cassian Jae at 617-328-9792.

Presidents Clinch Share Of League Title

Quincy Cruises Past North For 11th Victory

SOFTBALL

The Quincy High School softball team cruised to a 20-1 win over North Quincy last Friday night at Mitchell/McCoy Field.

With the victory, the Presidents (11-1 league) clinched a share of the Atlantic Coast League North Division championship with Whitman-Hanson.

"We would've liked to have won it outright," said head coach Mike Sedar. "We felt we could've beat them the second time. But half is better than nothing. And it's a great thing for the seniors to win on their way out."

Quincy, which closed out the regular season with 3-2 loss to Braintree last Saturday, finished with an 11-9 overall record and will be playing a high seed in the state tournament. Tournament pairings were announced Tuesday.

"I don't care who we play," Sedar said. "We've played so many good teams this year."

Against the Red Raiders, senior Rachel Sorensen fired her third no-hitter of the season and the offense banged out 20 hits.

Sophomore Brighid Kyle went 2-for-4 with a mammoth three-run home run over the center field fence in the third inning.

Juniors Leanna Lam (four runs) and Kim Lebel and Sorensen (three RBI) each had four hits.

7 Quincy, North Players Softball League All-Stars

Seven local high school softball players were named to the Atlantic Coast League all-star team.

Seniors Rachel Sorensen and Alysia DiMuzio and juniors Leanna Lam, Kim Lebel and Courtney Hall made it for Quincy High School.

Senior Sarah Kennedy and junior Kelly Barden represented North Quincy.

Quincy Masons Defeat Century 21

The Quincy Masons squeaked by Century 21, 10-9, for the eighth win of the season in recent Quincy Youth Baseball Cal Ripken Minors action at Quarry Hills B Field.

John Johnson, Justin Callahan, Walter Hannon and Kyle Zarnoch provided the offense.

For Century 21, Brendan Nealon and Alex Loud played well.

North Quincy Youth Football Clinic July 5-8

North Quincy Youth Football will hold a clinic July 5-8 from 8:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. at Merrymount Elementary School.

NFL players will be coaching at the camp. For more information, call coach Jim Connor at 617-838-9720.

Braintree Moose Win 4

Babe Ruth International

Braintree Moose picked up an 18-12 win over Everlasting Engraving last Saturday in Babe Ruth International league action at Pond Street Field.

Nick Poli earned his second win of the season, allowing five earned runs and striking out eight in a complete-game effort. He also added an RBI single.

Jared Martin made a tremendous running catch in left field and scored a run to earn the game ball. Ryan Gorman sparked a rally with a game-tying hit before his teammates came through to take the lead.

Tim Gillis stroked a two-run double early and played great defense, splitting his time between catcher and third base. John Rowland got on base four times, scored three runs and made two excellent plays at first base. Pat Ryan and Brian Croake each had three hits.

For Everlasting, Chris Doyle reached base four times and made every play at second base. Alex Trojano had three hits and pitched well in his first start. Zach Dwyer reached base three times and made some nice plays at third and Zach O'Hara added two hits.

Moose 11, Marina Bay 4

Chris Devlin notched the win, striking out five in five innings. Sean McDonald picked up the save by recording the last six outs. Steve Anastasi had two hits, two RBI and played a fine game at shortstop. Mike Benoit had a hit, RBI, run and played solid at third. Catcher Nick Poli threw out two more base runners.

For Marina Bay Skilled Nursing, Joe Callahan pitched well. Brandon Devonshire, Ed Oldham and David Ray paced the offense with timely hitting.

Moose 7, CB 5

Nick Poli earned the win, punching out 10 and allowing three earned runs in a complete-game performance. He also added a hit and stolen base. John Rowland stood out at first base, while Brian Croake had two hits, including a RBI double, and made a nice outfield catch. Pat Ryan had a hit and scored two runs. Joe Benoit had a clutch two-run hit and scored two runs and played well behind the plate.

For Commonwealth Building, Billy Ahearn and Jon Mullin played well defensively and offensively to keep the game close.

Moose 16, GDC 16

For Moose, Tim Alsip, in his first year in the league, received the game ball with a hit, two RBI, run scored and two nice plays in the field. Sean McDonald went 4-for-4 and pitched effectively in relief. Brendan Murphy had a triple and single and Anthony DiPalmo had two hits and two runs.

For Graeber, Davis & Cantwell, first baseman Lamont Toombs, catcher Paul Reardon and shortstop James Sullivan all played great defense and contributed with the bat.

North Quincy Boys' Volleyball Sixth Seed

The North Quincy High School boys' volleyball team drew the No. 6 seed in the South Sectional tournament.

The Red Raiders (11-5 overall) opened Tuesday at third-seeded Catholic Memorial (13-3) in a quarterfinal match-up.

North Quincy Boys' Lacrosse Seeded 14th

The North Quincy High School boys' lacrosse team earned the 14th seed in the Eastern Mass. Division 1 state tournament.

The Red Raiders (12-5) will head to No. 3 Lincoln-Sudbury (14-5) in the first round Saturday at 1 p.m.

Presidents 5, Red Raiders 1

Quincy Ends North's Bid For Tourney Berth

BASEBALL

By CHRIS POISSON

The Quincy High School baseball team delivered a cruel blow to North Quincy in their second meeting of the season last Friday night at Adams Field.

The Presidents, who suffered an 8-7 loss in the first game April 28, paid the Red Raiders back with a 5-1 victory, knocking them out of contention for a seed in the state tournament.

"They beat us last time and we came out on top this time," said Quincy head coach Mike Draicchio. "They were two good games. I feel bad we knocked them out. I think (head coach) Ricky (Beach) has done a great job with those kids."

Quincy rolls into the tournament having won six of its last seven games. It defeated Brighton, 11-4, last Saturday and fell to Plymouth North, 2-1, Sunday to finish with a 14-6 overall record. Tournament pairings were announced Tuesday.

Senior captain John Folino overpowered his cross-town rivals, yielding three hits and walking just his fourth batter of the season while punching out 10.

His counterpart, junior Matt Tobin, pitched a strong game in defeat. He scattered seven hits and gave up no earned runs while striking out nine.

"Tobin's tough," Draicchio said. "He throws a lot of curves and keeps batters off-guard. But we had guys in scoring position every inning. We should've had more runs."

The Red Raiders produced their only run in the first inning. Folino hit junior Tom Power to lead off the game and walked junior Paul Doolan.

With junior Drew Loud showing bunt, they executed a double steal and an errant throw by the catcher allowed Power to cross home plate.

The Presidents, stymied through four innings, finally cracked Tobin in the fifth. Senior captain Steve Priscella and senior Ray Marchand singled and senior captain Steve Sullivan walked to load the bases.

Folino ripped the ball to the first baseman, who stepped on the bag for one out but threw wildly to home allowing Priscella and Marchand to score. Sophomore John Alexander slapped a single to right to plate Sullivan for a 3-1 lead.

Quincy added a pair of runs in the sixth. Sophomore Steve Connolly reached second base on an error, moved to third on a passed ball and scored on Priscella's single to left field. Priscella scored when Folino reached on another error.

Red Cross Golf Classic July 18 At South Shore Country Club

The 19th annual Red Cross Golf Classic will be held Monday, July 18, at the South Shore Country Club in Hingham.

Money raised by the event ensures the American Red Cross can continue its work in the community, including providing assistance to disaster victims.

Robert Petrie of South Coastal Bank will serve as general chairperson and Daniel J. Flynn of Daniel J. Flynn Co. will serve as major sponsor.

Petrie is assisted by a committee comprised of members of the South Bay Chapter's Advisory Board that includes: Donna Buccheri, Kevin Burke, James Chiccino, Mark Fisher, Michael Gianoni, Richard Gormley, Mae Harris, Michael Healey, Michelle Higgins, Maralin Manning, Daniel May, Kevin Meskell, John Pasciucco Jr., William Reilly, Joseph Richardi and Catherine Woods.

To reserve a tee time or to offer sponsorship, contact Jackie Gardner, executive director of the American Red Cross South Area Chapter, at 617-770-2600.

Quincy Legion Baseball To Host Clinic June 5

The Quincy Legion baseball team will host a clinic for boys and girls ages 6-15 Sunday, June 5, from 6 to 7:30 p.m. at Kincaide Park on Water Street in West Quincy, across from the Lincoln Hancock School.

Registration will be held at the field from 5:30 to 6 p.m. The team is requesting a $15 donation from each participant as a means of raising funds for the upcoming season. No child will be turned away for financial reasons.

The clinic will be run by the players and coaching staff of the Quincy Legion baseball team.

The format of the clinic will feature six 15-minute stations which will include the following:

• Catching fly balls: Calling for the ball, using two hands and using the glove to shade the sun.

• Fielding ground balls: Using two hands, using proper footwork to make the throw and use of the flat glove training aid.

• Hitting: Using soft toss and batting tees to encourage proper footwork, "squishing the bug" and, most importantly, keeping your eye on the ball.

• Pitching: Using good footwork, proper mechanics and keeping your eye on the target.

• Running the bases: Making proper turn at first base, touching the inside of bases, proper sliding technique and the "run down."

• Diving catches: Who can make the greatest diving catches?

The program will end with two contests and prizes will be awarded to the winners.

Drawings will be held for selection of honorary bat boys/girls for each of the team's 10 home games at Adams Field.

If time permits, the team will put on a long ball display with a home run hitting contest.

For more information, contact coach Mark Jaehnig at 617-472-3311.

Quincy Tennis Club Clinic For Children

Quincy Tennis Club will hold a free clinic for children ages 7-11 Tuesday, June 14, from 1 to 3 p.m. at the rear of 19 Glendale Road.

Children must be accompanied by an adult for registration and orientation purposes and are asked to bring a racquet. In the event of rain, the alternate date will be June 21.

Quincy, North Represented On League All-Star Baseball Squad

Six local high school baseball players received recognition by the Atlantic Coast League for their play this season.

For Quincy High School, seniors John Folino, Steve Sullivan and Steve Priscella were named to the all-star team and senior John Santon was an honorable mention.

For North Quincy High School, senior Chris Mercurio made the all-star team and junior Tom Power was an honorable mention.

Gary Dalton, Chris Kirschner On Nichols Team

Quincy residents Gary Dalton and Chris Kirschner played on the Nichols College baseball team this past season.

Dalton, a junior pitcher, went 3-0 with a 3.44 ERA. Kirschner, a freshman, will be looked at next season to make an impact.

Nichols finished the year with a 22-16 overall record (14-6 in the league) and advanced to the semifinal of the Commonwealth Coast Conference tournament.

GPS For Boaters Seminar

Quincy Bay Sail and Power Squadron will present a seminar entitled "Introduction to Global Positioning Systems for Boaters" tonight (Thursday) from 6:30 to 9:30 at the Maritime Center in Houghs Neck.

Registration fee is $45 ($35 for members). If possible, bring a hand-held GPS. Advanced registration or reservation recommended. Call Steve Ruzzo at 781-986-0203.

RATE YOURSELF

If you are getting mileage that falls short of the EPS rating for your vehicle, it may be due to a number of factors, including trip length, outside temperatures, higher speeds, and/or harder acceleration/braking. The fact is that shorter trips, particularly ones less than two miles long, adversely affect mileage. By consolidating shorter trips into longer ones, you might be able to get up to 15% better fuel economy. Regarding outdoor temperature, the best fuel economy occurs at 60-70° F. At 50°F, fuel vaporization may be a problem. Closer to freezing, the heater/defroster begins to exact a toll, and aerodynamic drag increases in the colder, denser air. Conversely, in the summer, air conditioning reduces mileage.

With today's high gas prices it pays to drive carefully and to keep your car in perfect tune. At LEO & WALT'S SUNOCO we want to be informed about everything in your car whether or not your car is leased. Our friendly, professional, ASE Certified service staff, here at 258 Quincy Ave., E. Braintree (781-843-1550), will gladly answer all your questions. We use the AllData CD-ROM based system for the very latest in maintenance and service bulletins for all makes of cars. Hours: Mon-Fri. 6am-9pm, Sat. 7am-9pm, Sun. 9am-5pm. "A Place Where Your Car Can Live Longer."

HINT: Although a significant factor, air conditioning is not figured into EPA estimates of fuel mileage for vehicles.

Montclair Runner-Up

Beechwood Knoll Wins George Dunn Basketball Tourney

Beechwood Knoll gym won the Quincy Recreation Department's annual George Dunn Basketball Tournament with a recent 58-37 victory over Montclair.

Beechwood coach Andrew Dwan accepted the Dunn Trophy on behalf of his team and Recreation Director Barry Welch presented them with trophies and certificates to Montclair.

The championship game was taped for broadcast on QATV with commentary provided by recreation supervisors Pat Dooley and Michael Curtin.

The tournament is named in recognition of the late George Dunn, who was a leader in the Recreation Department for more than 20 years. He died in 1998.

Beechwood got off to a fast start by playing an up-tempo style of basketball. It used a seven-man rotation with everyone scoring at least one basket.

Emanuel Barros poured in a team-high 18 points. Jade Pena scored 15 points as strong defensive play led to easy baskets. Anthony Black led his team in rebounding and scored all 11 of his points in the first half.

Jim Bleiler added four points while Jesse Buckley and Emmanuel Nunez each had two. Barros and Pena led the team in steals and Buckley paced the team in assists.

Montclair, led by veteran coach Dean Zoia, couldn't recover from an early deficit but it picked up its defensive intensity after a slow start. Zoia changed defenses multiple times in the second half leading to confusion in the Beechwood offense.

Jimmy Ly drained a team-high 12 points. Ben Fang played a strong all-around game and finished with 11. Phuoc Nguyen led the second-half surge with six of his nine points. Kiriakos Kalpakidis and John Yu scored two apiece.

Dennis Chu was relentless on the defensive boards while Dixon Lee led the team in offensive rebounds. David Ng showed tremendous footwork and quick hands to lead the team in steals and Chang Zheng found the open man to lead the team in assists.

Beechwood earned its place in the finals with a 52-49 overtime win over a strong Snug Harbor team. Black powered the team with a game-high 20 points, including seven in OT.

Barros scored four in the extra session to finish with 16. Pena added seven, Buckley four, Bleiler three and Johnny Black two. Nunez led the team in rebounds.

Led by coach Ryan Herlihy, Snug Harbor sent the game into OT when Giovani Cesar (team-high 12 points) nailed a shot at the buzzer. Ethan Thomas scored seven of his 11 points in the extra session. Kinsin Theodoris added seven points, Terrell Johnson six, Rory Ellife five and Jordan Blair three. Pat Dean led the team in assists and Charlie Zacharias in steals.

Montclair began its journey to the finals by knocking off Squantum, 48-19. Nguyen scored 11 of his 15 points in the first half while Ly tallied nine of his 15 in the second half. Zheng added 10, Yu four, Lee two and Chu two. Ng led the team in rebounds.

Squantum, led by coach Pat Dooley, couldn't maintain its pressure for the entire game. Joe Lydon led the team with nine points and Chris Borgendale added six. Steve Spring and Tom Callahan each had two. Jay Gribado led the team in assists and Nick Hutchings in steals.

In the semi-finals, Montclair scratched out a 34-31 win over Bernazzani. It struggled early but overcame a deficit with strong play by Fang (16 points). Zheng chipped in nine, Yu six and Ly three. Kalpakidis led the team in rebounds.

Coach TJ Bell used a motion offense to get Bernazzani off to fast start but it couldn't sustain its offense. Dennis Martin scored a team-high 14 points and led the team in steals. Nick Mulaney added six, Steve Barry and Tyler Costa three apiece, Tim Brown and Sean Pekkinen two apiece, and David Atkins one. Pekkinen led the team in rebounds.

In the first game of the tournament, Snug Harbor downed Merrymount, 74-35. Johnson netted a game-high 21 points, Thomas 17, Theodoris 16, Dean 14, Blair eight and Zacharias two.

Coach Corey Awed had Merrymount trying to play a fast-paced style of basketball but Snug Harbor proved to be too much. Colin Sullivan scored 13 points, Diego Aradondo and James Mullin five each, Nick Caper and Kyle Tobin four apiece, and Paul Oldham two. Tobin led the team in assists and Mullin in steals.

Dr. Brian Dalton Named Medical Director QMC Hospitalist Program

Dr. Brian Dalton, MD, will join Quincy Medical Center as Medical Director of the Hospitalist Program, effective July 1.

A Board Certified Internal Medicine Physician, he will oversee QMC's six-physician Hospitalist Program, which focuses exclusively on the care of patients who are hospitalized at QMC.

More than half of the patients admitted to QMC, each day, are referred by their physicians to the Hospitalist Program for care. The hospitalists consult continuously with referring physicians to coordinate a patient's care and to ensure a smooth transition back to the primary care physician when the patient is discharged from the hospital.

DR. BRIAN DALTON

Dr. Dalton also will join the Boston University Medical Group at Quincy Medical Center to treat primary care patients.

Dr. Dalton received his medical degree from University of Massachusetts Medical School. He completed his internship and residency in Internal Medicine at Boston University School of Medicine. He joins Quincy Medical Center from the Affiliated Medical Practice of Jordan Hospital.

Walking: A Health Bargain

(NU) — A $1,000 for a treadmill. Fifty dollars a month for a gym membership. Is there a way to loose weight without losing your money, too?

The answer lies right at your feet: walking.

"Walking is just about the best health bargain around — fun, easy and absolutely free," said Dr. Lloyd Smith, president of the American Podiatric Medical Association (APMA).

Walking for exercise is safe, easy and inexpensive and requires little athletic skill. Physicians say walking can help you strengthen your heart and lungs, improve circulation, boost your metabolism, improve muscle tone and reduce stress and tension.

A brisk walk can burn up to 100 calories per mile, and if you walk at a brisk pace for a half-hour three to four times a week, you can lose about 10 pounds a year.

Walking is not strenuous and has few health risks. However, you should consult a physician if you are over 60 years old, have a disease or disability or are taking medication.

A checkup also is recommended if you are substantially overweight, easily fatigued, an excessive smoker and have been physically inactive for a long period of time.

Ready to get started? A podiatrist can help you plan a walking regimen. Here are some tips from the APMA on how to get the most out of your walking routine.

• Stretch: Stretching before and after your walk helps you improve circulation and decrease buildup of lactic acid, a chemical byproduct that causes muscles to ache.

• Start off slowly: Gradually increase the distance, time and pace of your walking workout. You run the risk of injury if you walk too far or too fast too soon. If you are just starting a regular walking regimen, stay on flat surfaces, avoiding excessively big hills and embanked roadways.

• Move at a steady pace: Walk fast enough to speed up your heartbeat and breathe deeply. Make sure to walk with your head up, you back straight and your abdomen flat. As you walk, land on the heel of your foot and roll forward to push off on the ball of your foot.

• Stay hydrated: Drink plenty of water before and after your walk.

• Wear the proper footwear: Podiatrists recommend lightweight walking shoes with breathable materials and adequate support and flexibility. Wear thick, absorbent socks made of acrylic fiber.

Fear of Fitness

Q. I know it's important to exercise regularly, but I'm very reluctant about starting a fitness program. I'm worried about not doing the exercises correctly, the risk of injury, and not fitting in at the gym. How can I get past my fears and begin exercising to improve my health?

A. You're not alone; many people share your same concerns. By taking steps to ensure you are taking part in a safe and effective exercise program, many of your fears can be conquered.

To begin incorporating an exercise program into your life, first consult your physician to rule out any medical conditions that may keep you from exercising safely. Knowing that your body is physically equipped to safely begin to exercise can help ease some fears.

Once you get the OK to exercise, identify activities that you enjoy. If you like being outdoors, plan to walk or cycle around the neighborhood or on a designated trail. As you start to feel comfortable with an activity you enjoy, you can begin to add other elements of exercise that may be more challenging.

The thought of joining a health club or other fitness facility can be overwhelming. One of the biggest misconceptions about such places is that all of the members know what they're doing. This is not the case. You don't have to be in tip-top shape or be a professional body builder to join a gym. Find a facility that fits your needs and allows you to feel comfortable.

Facilities are geared toward all types of fitness levels and demographics. Some are just for women, others include swimming and many offer a variety of group exercise classes. Orientation sessions will acquaint you with the amenities of the facility.

Ask a friend or someone you respect to recommend a fitness facility. Knowing someone else who is a member can help you feel comfortable. Take a tour of the facility and ask questions that will give you enough information to make a confident decision about joining.

Your worry about hurting yourself is very valid. Although it's important to exercise, it is equally important to exercise correctly and in a safe environment. Many people begin to exercise incorrectly, placing themselves at risk for injury.

Consult a certified and experienced fitness professional who can help you set goals, develop an individualized exercise program and safely guide you through an exercise routine. Using the knowledge of a professional is an excellent way to help overcome those fears of placing yourself at risk for injury because of improper exercise techniques.

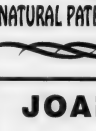
DENTISTRY for the 21st Century

by Steven A. Brustin, D.M.D.



LOW-CARB CAUTION

If you are on a low-carbohydrate diet, you may be losing weight, but you also may have worse breath. How can that be? Initially, a protein-rich diet, such as the Atkins Diet, tmay force your body to burn fat for energy. A by-product of the fat-burning process is a smelly waste known as ketones. These compounds accumulate in the bloodstream and saliva. To make matters worse, bacteria in the mouth produce more sulfur compounds, which are primarily ingredients of bad breath, when they mix with high-protein foods. To help overcome this recipe for halitosis (bad breath), drink plenty of water to wash away the sulfur compounds. Also, brush and floss after every meal.

In addition to diet, regular dental care and good oral hygiene prevent most cases of halitosis. Using a tongue scraper and dental floss is beneficial too. We would like to increase dental awareness and stress the importance of regular dental care. It's never too late to start good oral hygiene. Remember that nothing is more economical than regular dental checkups. Most insurance companies allow two cleanings per year. Have you had one this year? For gentle compassionate dental care, call 617-479-6220 to schedule an appointment. We're located at 44 Greenleaf Street. We offer the services of anesthesiology with a fully trained and qualified anesthesiologist. Visit us on the web at www.quincydentist.com.

P.S. A tongue scraper removes accumulations at the back of the tongue, which is a prime sulfur-producing area.

SCOTT DEWARE

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

A glance at the history of our civilization reveals the fact that many of those who have contributed most towards its advancement have come up through great difficulties. We are reminded of:

Homer, blind, living on crumbs, leading the company of poets;

Milton, blind, living in hell, writing Paradise Lost;

Beethoven, deaf, yet giving to the world some of its greatest music;

Helen Keller, blind and deaf, yet rising to heights of greatness unequaled by any other under such handicaps. She once said: "I knew there would be obstacles in the way, but I was eager to overcome them. Everyone who wishes to gain true knowledge must climb the hill of difficulty alone."

What gave us John Huss, Martin Luther, John Wesley, Cromwell, George Washington, Lincoln, Livingston, William Booth, Jane Adams, Booker T. Washington, and hundreds of others? The answer is: Persecution, Slavery, City Slums, Dark Continents, Civil Wars, Ignorance, Hard Places - DIFFICULTIES.

Salome's Stars

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Your Aries self-esteem level is high, as is your impatience to see more action come your way in the workplace. Good news, Lamb: It could start to happen sooner than you think.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Changing things now could upset a lot of people. But if you feel you're acting because you believe it's the right thing to do, others will understand and even come to support you.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) A change of mind might not necessarily be a change of heart. You still want to go ahead with your plans, but you might see a better way to make them happen. So go for it.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) An old business dispute could re-emerge and possibly affect upcoming negotiations. Consider opening up the situation to include suggestions from others on both sides of the issue.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) Some Leos and Leonas might find it somewhat difficult to get their ideas accepted or even considered. But that's only for a while. Things will soon return to the way you like them.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) The pace seems to be slowing down from the hectic on-the-job run you recently enjoyed. But be assured that you're still in the race to pick up new workplace-related goodies.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) Seasonal changes create opportunities for busy Librans. However, be sure to balance your workload with your personal life so that you don't overdo it on one end or the other.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) A former critic could make a surprise turnaround and become a supporter. But if your Scorpion sense suspects a questionable motive, who are the rest of us to doubt it?

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) Data on a new project seems less than dependable. But it might turn out to be just the opposite. Consult with someone who knows how you might best be able to check it out.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) Capricorneans face many decisions this week, with the Sea Goat's kids rating high on the consideration scale, especially regarding vacations and upcoming school matters.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) Showing that you care is what Aquarians do so well. It's your very special skill. And this week, you'll have several chances to show off that gift for a very special person. Good luck.

PISCES (February 19 to March 21) That streak of Piscean wariness should serve you well this week should you be among those who come up against a slippery character offering a fishy deal with nothing to back it up.

BORN THIS WEEK: You have an artist's sense of how to help others see, as you do, the beautiful things about the world.

HERE IS A PLEASANT LITTLE GAME that will give you a message every day. It's a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner and check one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

LEGAL NOTICE

NOTICE OF FINDING OF NO SIGNIFICANT IMPACT AND NOTICE OF INTENT TO REQUEST
RELEASE OF FUNDS

May 28, 2005
City of Quincy
1305 Hancock Street
Quincy, MA 02169
(617) 376-1365

These notices shall satisfy two separate but related procedural requirements for activities to be undertaken by the City of Quincy.

REQUEST FOR RELEASE OF FUNDS

On or about June 12, 2005 the City of Quincy will submit a request to the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) for the release of HOME funds under Title II of the Cranston-Gonzalez National Affordable Housing Act signed into law on November 28, 1990, as amended, to undertake a project known as Squantum Gardens, for the purpose of acquiring and developing the property estimated at $450,000 at Quincy Shore Drive/East Squantum Street (Assessors Plan 6067, Plots 19 & 5), Quincy, Massachusetts.

FINDING OF NO SIGNIFICANT IMPACT

The City of Quincy has determined that the project will have no significant impact on the human environment. Therefore, an Environmental Impact Statement under the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969 (NEPA) is not required. Additional project information is contained in the Environmental Review Record (ERR) on file at the Department of Planning and Community Development, 1305 Hancock Street, Quincy, Massachusetts, and may be examined or copied weekdays 8:30 A.M. to 4:30 P.M.

PUBLIC COMMENTS

Any individual, group, or agency disagreeing with this determination or wishing to comment on the project may submit written comments to the Quincy Department of Planning and Community Development. All comments received by June 12, 2005 will be considered by the City of Quincy prior to authorizing submission of a request for release of funds. Comments should specify which Notice they are addressing.

RELEASE OF FUNDS

The City of Quincy certifies to HUD that William J. Phelan in his capacity as Mayor of Quincy consents to accept the jurisdiction of the Federal Courts if an action is brought to enforce responsibilities in relation to the environmental review process and that these responsibilities have been satisfied. HUD's approval of the certification satisfies its responsibilities under NEPA and related laws and authorities, and allows the City of Quincy to use Program funds.

OBJECTIONS TO RELEASE OF FUNDS

HUD will accept objections to its release of funds and the City of Quincy's certification for a period of fifteen days following the anticipated submission date or its actual receipt of the request (whichever is later) only if they are on one of the following bases: (a) the certification was not executed by the Certifying Officer of the City of Quincy; (b) the RE has omitted a step or failed to make a decision or finding required by HUD regulations at 24 CFR Part 58; (c) the grant recipient has committed funds or incurred costs not authorized by 24 CFR Part 58 before approval of a release of funds by HUD; or (d) another Federal agency acting pursuant to 40 CFR Part 1504 has submitted a written finding that the project is unsatisfactory from the standpoint of environmental quality. Objections must be prepared and submitted in accordance with the required procedures (24 CFR Part 58) and shall be addressed to HUD grant administration office at 10 Causeway Street, Boston, Massachusetts. Potential objectors should contact HUD to verify the actual last day of the objection period.

Dolan Funeral Services Renews Lofty Oaks Affiliation

Dolan Funeral Services of Milton and Dorchester has renewed its affiliation with Lofty Oaks Association, a New Hampshire organization dedicated to reforestation and conservation efforts in Massachusetts.

The firms arrange to have a tree planted for each service that they perform to provide a living memorial in honor of the deceased and to renew the forest life of Massachusetts.

The memorial trees are planted in the spring and fall. This program is part of a large endeavor to restore the landscape and our environment with the eternal beauty of living trees.

After each service, close family members and friends are informed that the memorial tree has been arranged for by the staff of Dolan Funeral Services. When a certified nurseryman has planted the three, the designated people will receive a certificate of planting suitable for framing and keeping in the family's history.

NOTICE OF FINDING OF NO SIGNIFICANT IMPACT AND NOTICE OF INTENT TO REQUEST RELEASE OF FUNDS

Date of Notice: May 25, 2005
Name of Responsible Entity: City of Quincy
1305 Hancock Street, Quincy, MA 02169
Tel. (617) 376-1365

These notices shall satisfy two separate but related procedural requirements for activities to be undertaken by the City of Quincy.

REQUEST FOR RELEASE OF FUNDS

On or about June 10, 2005 the City of Quincy will submit a request to HUD the release of Community Development Block Grant funds under Title I of the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974, as amended, to undertake a project known as the Germantown Multi-purpose Service Center Development Project, 360 Palmer Street Project for the purpose of acquiring the property on that address, and renovating the former church for use as a multi-purpose service center at an estimated total development cost of about $4 million.

FINDING OF NO SIGNIFICANT IMPACT

The City of Quincy has determined that the project will have no significant impact on the human environment. Therefore, an Environmental Impact Statement under the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969 (NEPA) is not required. Additional project information is contained in the Environmental Review Record (ERR) on file at the Department of Planning and Community Development, 1305 Hancock Street, Quincy, MA 02169 where the record is available for review and may be examined or copied weekdays 9:00 A.M. to 4:00 P.M.

PUBLIC COMMENTS

Any individual, group, or agency disagreeing with this determination or wishing to comment on the project may submit written comments to the Quincy Department of Planning and Community Development. All comments must be received by June 9, 2005. Comments should specify which Notice they are addressing.

RELEASE OF FUNDS

The City of Quincy certifies to HUD that William J. Phelan in his capacity as Mayor consents to accept the jurisdiction of the Federal Courts if an action is brought to enforce responsibilities in relation to the environmental review process and that these responsibilities have been satisfied. HUD's approval of the certification satisfies its responsibilities under NEPA and related laws and authorities, and allows the City of Quincy to use Program funds.

OBJECTIONS TO RELEASE OF FUNDS

HUD will accept objections to its release of funds and the City of Quincy's certification for a period of fifteen days following the anticipated submission date or its actual receipt of the request (whichever is later) only if they are on one of the following bases: (a) the certification was not executed by the Certifying Officer of the City of Quincy; (b) the City of Quincy has omitted a step or failed to make a decision or finding required by HUD regulations at 24 CFR Part 58; (c) the grant recipient has committed funds or incurred costs not authorized by 24 CFR Part 58 before approval of a release of funds by HUD/State; or (d) another Federal agency acting pursuant to 40 CFR Part 1504 has submitted a written finding that the project is unsatisfactory from the standpoint of environmental quality. Libraries Hailed At Sheets Dedication given the people of Quincy will be appreciated for many, many years."

David Colton, the former public works commissioner who is now the town administrator in Milton, called his time in the Sheets administration "a golden age in this city."

"We are lucky to have it (the new wing) and can thank Jim Sheets today for the leadership to make it happen," he said.

Library Director Ann McLaughlin speculated that if Sheets "had not chosen a career to be an educator or a public official, he might have been a librarian."

"He loves the library," she said. "He believe in its mission and its importance in our democracy as a place of learning, free for all."

Ron Kaufman, once a student of Sheets at Quincy Junior College, reminisced of the days when members of Sheets' government class challenged him to run for the city council, a dare that started his career in politics.

While Sheets rose to become mayor of Quincy, Kaufman went to Washington to become an important figure in the administration of the first George Bush.

"Only in America could the sons of a coal miner (Sheets) and a shoe salesman from Sachem Street in Quincy (Kaufman) get together and live out some of life's most beautiful dreams," he said.

LIBRARY ADDITION, dedicated as the James A. Sheets Wing, forms the backdrop for a photo of former Mayor Jim Sheets and his wife, Joann.

"There can be no more meaningful tribute than to have this beautiful library addition dedicated in your honor."

At Sheets request, former City Council President Peter Kolson sang the hymn "How Great Thou Art, in memory of Father Cornelius Heery of Sacred Heart Parish and Rabbi Jacob Mann of Beth Israel Synagogue, "two spiritual leaders who contributed so much to the moral and spiritual life of Quincy."

Others in attendance included former councillors Warren Powers, Dennis Harrington, Thomas Fabrizio and Charles Phelan; former State Rep Thomas Brownell; Senators Michael Morrissey and Robert Hedlund and City Councillors Leo Kelly, Alicia Gardner, John Keenan, Kevin Coughlin and Doug Gutro.

City Clerk Joseph Shea acted as master of ceremonies and the Rev. Fred Fullerton, pastor of the Wollaston Church of the Nazarene, led the blessing.

SHEETS FAMILY gathers around the portrait of the patriarch that will hang in the new James A. Sheets Wing of the Thomas Crane Public Library. 5 Mayors, Congressman At Dedication Sunday

Rabbi Jacob Mann: 'A Man Of God . . . A Friend To All'

Five mayors, a Congressman and other officials joined with family and members of Beth Israel Synagogue under a blazing sun Sunday to dedicate Rabbi Jacob Mann Square.

Two sons, Prof. Jonah Mann and Rabbi Abraham Mann, former Quincy residents now living in New York, unveiled the plaque in front of the synagogue at the corner of Grafton and Lancaster streets.

The inscription reads: "This Square is dedicated to Rabbi Jacob Mann by the City of Quincy June 5, 2005. 'A Man Of God . . . A Friend To All.'"

Rabbi Mann, who served nearly 62 years as a spiritual leader at Beth Israel Synagogue, died April 13 in Petach Tikvah, Israel, where he had lived since the fall of 2003. He was 95.

CONGRESSMAN William Delahunt, after paying tribute to Rabbi Jacob Mann, announced he will begin the process to have Beth Israel Synagogue designated as an historic landmark.

Congressman William Delahunt, one of the speakers, said of him: "He touched my life and the lives of so many. He was

Not Used For Travel, Entertainment, She Says

Foundation Head Defends Barry On Scholarship Funds

By WILLIAM TRAYNOR

The chairwoman of Quincy College's scholarship fund-raising foundation said she is confident that "not one cent" of funds intended for student scholarships was spent for entertainment or travel by College President Sean Barry.

But she admitted she was unaware that the embattled college president allegedly did not reimburse the nonprofit to pay for thousands of dollars in trips and entertainment.

Barry was placed on paid administrative leave two weeks ago by the college board of governors after college officials questioned his spending practices. The board will take further action pending the outcome of an internal audit of the college fundraising foundation.

Foundation Chairwoman Dorothy McTiernan said it was common practice for the foundation to allow the use of "unrestricted funds" to pay for college officials' travel and entertainment expenses. And she expressed confidence that "restricted funds," which are specific donations earmarked for scholarships, were not used by Barry or any other college official.

"I'm absolutely confident that not one cent of scholarship funds has been used for anything other than scholarships," she said.

McTiernan, who assumed the position of chair of the foundation last July, defended Barry's actions and predicted the internal audit would uncover no wrongdoing by the president.

"I honestly believe that nothing illegal or hidden was done in any way," she said. "Could practices have been done better, obviously yes. It will be beneficial to have more checks and balances in the system."

McTiernan said she takes the allegations very seriously because the college's largest private scholarship is named after her late husband, John "Spanky" McTiernan.

"Do I have the books in front of me - no," said McTiernan, "but I'm confident in the morality of the man (Barry) and the people around him."

Attorney General Thomas Reilly's office is gathering information about the foundation and has not made a decision whether to investigate.

"We are aware of the allegations and are reviewing the facts to make a determination on how best to proceed," said spokesperson Sarah Nathan.

A spokesperson for the Quincy-based auditing firm of O'Connor and Drew would not confirm whether it was examining the college foundation books.

Marge Donovan, Barry's attorney, said last week that the firm was in the process of reviewing foundation records and thus far "they did

Barry Files Complaint Against College Board

Details were still unclear at presstime, but The Sun has learned that Marge Donovan, Quincy College President Sean Barry's attorney, has filed a complaint on his behalf in Norfolk Superior Court against the college's board of governors and its chairwoman, Theresa Lord-Piatelli.

A hearing on the complaint is scheduled for today (Thursday) at 2 p.m. in Norfolk Superior Court, Dedham.

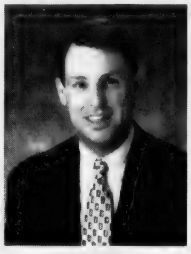
Keenan Suggests City Sever Ties, Davis Calls For Oversight Committee Hearing

Council Weighs In On College Controversy

By WILLIAM TRAYNOR

The city council will hold hearings on the firestorm of controversy involving Quincy College, its embattled president and the college's relationship with the city.



Questions surrounding the college's financial association with the city have reached such a fever pitch that Councillor John Keenan Monday night suggested the city should sever its ties to Quincy College and allow the school to thrive on its own as a private institution.

To that end, Keenan said he will introduce a draft of a home rule petition that calls for the end of the city's financial relationship with the college. Keenan said he expects to unveil the legislation at the June 20 council meeting.

"It may be time for the city and the college to part ways," Keenan told his colleagues. "For the college to survive this, it may be better off on its own."

A home rule petition would require the mayor's signature, and Mayor William Phelan said the council should be "careful" on how it proceeds with Quincy College.

"The City of Quincy benefits from having a college in our city," said Phelan. "We should be careful on how we proceed because any steps that are taken must ensure that Quincy College as an institution continues to service those students that benefit from it and the school continues to benefit the city at large."

JOHN KEENAN

JAY DAVIS

Keenan said having Quincy College in the city is a boon, but his goal is "to allow the college to succeed on its own."

"If I'm a student and I pick up the newspapers I don't want to go to Quincy College - the present relationship with the city is not working," he said.

Keenan's proposal came on the heels of a call by Ward 4 Councillor Jay Davis to hold hearings on the recent controversy surrounding the college and its fundraising arm, the Quincy College Foundation.

Davis said the council has stayed out of the debate for too long, telling his colleagues that "people are disgusted" by recent developments at the college.

"It's time for the city council to get proactive with this," said Davis. "It's time for the city council to step into the process."

Davis highlighted a number of disputes between the city and college, including pension fund contributions and a property tax cut that has been held up due to a disagreement over its funding source. Davis and Keenan agreed that the college's problems are slowly becoming the city's problems. No date has been set for a hearing.

The council's move comes during a tumultuous time for the college. President Sean Barry two weeks ago was placed on paid administrative leave pending the outcome of an internal audit of the school's non-profit fundraising arm.

Barry has also taken some heat due to a scandal involving the school's surgical technology program. A recent audit of the program found it will not be ready for a September restart as originally planned.

Council President Frank McCauley said he was open to entertaining a proposal that would allow the college to break away from the city.

"I do think the time has come to take a look at cutting the college loose," said McCauley. "Financially, they are in good shape."

But McCauley said any proposal would face an uphill battle because changes would involve employee unions, pension funds and other personnel and financial matters.

Technically, Quincy College is its own city department, but its budget is set by the college's board of governors.

"I really don't know what the benefit is to the college being tied to the city," said Keenan. "I don't believe there is a benefit."

Keenan said he will also introduce a resolve that sets up a city council subcommittee charged with drafting legislation that is agreeable to all parties involved.

"There are pension issues, collective bargaining issues and other financial issues that must be resolved, and this committee will seek to iron that all out," said Keenan.

Yard Rock Cafe Reopening Postponed For Raymondi Meeting

A proposal to re-open the former Yard Rock Cafe, 132 E. Howard St. was postponed until June 21 at the request of Ward 2 councillor Dan Raymondi, who plans a neighborhood meeting before the License Board's decision.

At Tuesday's meeting, Health Commissioner Drew Scheele, sitting in for Chairman Joseph Shea said Raymondi wrote a letter stating that he wants to have a neighborhood meeting regarding the site which is across the street from the shipyard.

Atty. Christopher Harrington, counsel for Christopher J. Mealey, new manager of Jimarike, Inc. doing business as Kilroy's said that the site is being completely renovated with a pub on one side and the restaurant on the other.

He said the new owners have signed a 10 year lease and the restaurant will have 67 parking spaces.

THE HISTORY CHANNEL

• On June 10, 1692, in Salem Village in the Massachusetts Bay Colony, Bridget Bishop, the first colonist to be tried in the Salem witch trials, is hanged after being found guilty of the practice of witchcraft.

• On June 7, 1866, 13 years after American settlers founded the city named for him, Chief Seattle (Seathl) dies in a nearby village of his people. In 1853, Chief Seattle had been so friendly and welcoming to settlers that they named the tiny new settlement on Elliott Bay in Puget Sound in his honor.

• On June 8, 1935, Joan Rivers is born in Brooklyn, N.Y., the daughter of a prominent physician. Her big break came in 1965, when she appeared on "The Tonight Show" and made a fan of host Johnny Carson.

• On June 6, 1949, George Orwell's novel of a dystopian future, "1984," is published. The novel's all-seeing leader, known as "Big Brother," becomes a universal symbol for intrusive government and oppressive bureaucracy.

• On June 11, 1967, the Six-Day War between Israel and its Arab neighbors ends with a United Nations-brokered cease-fire. The outnumbered Israel Defense Forces achieved a swift and decisive victory, more than doubling the amount of territory under Israel's control and seizing the Old City of Jerusalem from Jordan.

• On June 12, 1975, Indira Gandhi, prime minister of India, is found guilty of electoral corruption in her successful 1971 campaign. Despite calls for her resignation, Gandhi refused to give up India's top office and later declared martial law in the country.

• On June 9, 1990, Charles Freeman, the owner of E-C Records store in Fort Lauderdale, Fla., is arrested for selling the rap album "As Nasty As They Wanna Be" to an undercover police officer. Two days earlier, a U.S. district judge had ruled that the 2 Live Crew recording was legally obscene.

Free Rides For Ward Incumbents?

Don't look now, but could this be the year of free rides for incumbent ward councillors?

As of mid-week, none of the six ward councillors have an opponent. The only candidates who have taken out nomination papers for the six seats are the six incumbents.

That could change, of course. Deadline for taking out and filing nomination papers is July 26. Plenty of time for challengers to step forward.

But there seems to be a feeling among observers that there is a reluctance on the part of most residents to enter the political arena.

Either they don't have the time and money to campaign against an incumbent or just don't have the interest in serving in elective office.

Right now, the six incumbents — Leo Kelly, Dan Raymondi, Kevin Coughlin, Jay Davis, Doug Gutro and Alicia Gardner — don't have an opponent in sight.

One or two of them may yet but it is beginning to look like most of the six — if not all — could go unchallenged.

BUT WHILE THINGS are quiet along the ward front, they are warming up on the school committee front.

The two vacant seats have attracted two more candidates, bringing the number to five at last count.

A political newcomer and a veteran campaigner are the latest to take out nomination papers for the two vacant seats.

The newcomer is Celeste McGlone, former Executive Assistant to Mayor William Phelan and before that Executive Assistant to then Dist. Atty. William Delahunt for 14 years.

McGLONE

McGlone and her husband, Jack, an attorney, live in Ward 5 and have two sons in the Quincy school system.

She's making her political debut and already out there circulating those nomination papers and picking up an endorsement.

"Celeste McGlone is highly qualified," says Roseann Russell, former president of the Quincy City Wide Parents Council. "As a mother, she wants what's best for all our school children and an advocate on the front-line of government — she's got what it takes to be an effective member of the Quincy School Committee."

GIARRATANI

The veteran of a few political battles is Sal Giarratani, a community activist who keeps a close watch on what's going on in the city and speaks his mind.

FORMER MAYOR Arthur Tobin, now clerk magistrate of Quincy District Court, was among those participating in the Quincy Police Mutual Aid Association's annual Memorial Services Sunday.

TOBIN

With the others, he made the traditional march from the courthouse to Mount Wollaston Cemetery.

And, probably could have completed the route blindfolded. It was the 39th consecutive year he has done it.

Police are close to his heart. The Tobin family is a police family.

Twin sons Brian is a Quincy police sergeant and Bruce a state trooper. His brother Tim is a retired Quincy police officer and his late brother, Tom, was with the California Highway Patrol.

Nephews Kevin Tobin is a Quincy police sergeant and Paul Sandonato a Weymouth police sergeant. And, son-in-law Donald Greenwood is a Quincy police sergeant.

FR. PETER QUINN, former pastor of St. John's church, will be installed as pastor of St. Catherine of Alexandria church in Westford Sunday, June 19, at a 10:30 a.m. Mass.

FR. QUINN

St. John's parishioners are invited to attend. Those planning to, and in need of transportation, are asked to contact Elaine Walsh at St. John's rectory (617-773-1021) by 5 p.m. Friday, and leave their name and telephone.

If there are enough parishioners who need transportation, St. John's hopes to obtain a bus for the trip to Westford.

Fr. Quinn was at St. John's 13 years, the last 10 as pastor. His successor here has not yet been named.

JOHN NOONAN, chairman of the Quincy Council on Aging, hopes to be back on the job sometime this month.

NOONAN

He is recuperating from surgery he underwent April 6 at Brigham and Women's Hospital.

John, who celebrated his 85th birthday in February, is in his 25th year as the Council on Aging chairman.

And during that time has looked over Quincy seniors and their needs as though they were all members of his family.

John, the family hopes to see you soon.

RON KAUFMAN and Kevin Coughlin look-alikes? Kaufman was one of the speakers at the dedication of the new Thomas Crane Library in honor of former Mayor James Sheets. Coughlin was among those in the audience.

KAUFMAN

COUGHLIN

Kaufman, who went on to the big leagues in Washington, D.C. as a Republican consultant serving with President George W.H. Bush, reminisced about Quincy and as a student of Sheets' at then Quincy Junior College.

And how he and other members of the government-history class challenged Sheets to run for the City Council which he did in 1972 with Kaufman and fellow students working in his campaign. It was the successful start of Sheets' political career.

After the dedication, Kaufman had to leave for New Hampshire for another event. And Coughlin started to get compliments on the speech from people who came up to him thinking he was Kaufman. Coughlin kept smiling and explaining he wasn't Kaufman.

Kevin, it must have been the mustaches. Kaufman left with his. And you remained with yours. And those people were looking for the man with the mustache.

Erica Limoncelli On Dean's List

Erica Limoncelli of Quincy was named to the Dean's List for the spring semester at Dean College in Franklin.

She is a member of Phi Theta Kappa and the Honors Program.

Kristen DiMattio Dean College Graduate

Kristen DiMattio of Quincy graduated from Dean College in Franklin with an Associate in Science degree in sports/fitness-athletic training.

She was a member of the volleyball team.

Scenes From Yesterday

THIS IS A 1911 real photo postcard view of the entrance to Johnson's Flower Shop that was at 1361 Hancock St. in Quincy Square. Carl Johnson and later his son operated this store for many years next to Heffernan's Shoe Store in the old wooden Central Building. In 1920 the Central Building was attached to the old Town Hall building next door and together they became a much larger Central Building with a common façade. In 1950 new owners changed the name to the Burgin & Platner Building. Today, there is another new owner and this postcard view is now the entryway to the Phase II Jewelry Store at 1361 Hancock St. To contact Tom Galvin, e-mail tmgalvin@verizon.net.

Thanks Hedlund For Bill To Ban Exotic Circus, Carnival Animals

We wish to express our thanks to Senator Robert Hedlund of Weymouth for his bill to ban exotic animals from carnivals and circuses in Massachusetts.

The ban, which our organization successfully promoted here in Quincy and which Weymouth and Braintree later passed, is the wave of the future for this nation and all civilized nations. Perhaps not in my lifetime but surely in the next few decades these barbaric displays will be outlawed, as they are now in Britain.

If these circus operators were caged and treated as their animals are, with "utmost care" such as whippings and electric shocks, they might rethink how they earn their blood money.

Great Strides Thank You

We would like to thank all the people and businesses who so generously donated to the annual Great Strides Walk to find a cure for Cystic Fibrosis. The Quincy walk site raised over $69,000. We are sincerely grateful and appreciative. Your support will help fund the vital research needed to find a cure for this life-shortening, incurable genetic disease.

Everyone had a great time thanks to these three very special sponsors: Waterworks at Marina Bay for allowing us to use and enjoy their great facilities; the Outback Steakhouse for providing a delicious buffet; and the Bub Band for entertaining all the walkers with their awesome tunes.

Our sincere gratitude and appreciation to friends, family and neighbors who volunteered to make the event such a success, to all the people who so generously sponsored our walkers and to the following merchants for their support:

The Quincy Sun, Stop & Shop, Dunkin' Donuts, Marina Bay Management Services, Thomson & Thomson, Colonial Federal Savings Bank, Fantini Bakery, RNR Marine Supply, MacDonald Piano Studio, BJ's Wholesale Club, Brown Chiropractic, Oral Surgery South, Curves of Hanover, Captain Fishbone's Restaurant, Marina Bay Sugar & Cream Coffee Shop, Quincy Fire Department, Quincy Police Department, River Bend Golf Course, Skyline Bar & Grill Restaurant, Atlantica Restaurant, Bertucci's Pizzeria of Hanover, Cold Stone Creamery of Hingham, Decathlon Sports, Fajitas & Ritas, Finians Restaurant, Firestone of Quincy, Gennaro's Eatery, Gymboree of Quincy, Hair Place One, Hingham Jewelers, Capeway Printing, London Harness Company, Personal Best Day Spa, Pizzeria Uno of Hanover, River Bend Country Club, Sintra, Skyline Restaurant, Starbucks Coffee, Tuscany 323, Venezia, Vin & Eddie's, Tullio's, Pacini's, Sacred Tattoo, Flagship Cinemas and Blockbluster.

A very special thank you to all the individuals who came to the walk to support this worthwhile cause and gave so generously.

Adams Academy Site Proposed For New City Hall

This Week
1945
60 Years Ago

The Veterans Memorial Committee, ignoring the recommendations of the Planning Board, selected the Adams Academy grounds at Hancock and Adams St., as the best available site for a proposed new City Hall.

The Committee, headed by Rep. William W. Jenness, also suggested that adjoining land north of the site, valued at $45,000, to be taken all the way to the edge of the South Shore Buick property.

The Planning Board had already help public hearings on proposals to locate the new City Hall in the so-called "Apex" at Hancock and Washington Sts., site of the Bargain Center, and the Hardwick estate.

Jenness noted that those sites could cost Quincy taxpayers as much as $325,000 in land damages, or $2.50 on the tax rate, a sum that would be unfair to newly returned veteran homeowners.

QUINCY BAY CLEAN-UP

Mayor Charles A. Ross, testifying before the House Committee on Ways and Means, argued that construction of a sewage treatment plant at Nut Island "will clean up the terrible mess on the shores of Quincy Bay."

The Committee was hearing an $18 million bill directed at cleaning up pollution in Boston Harbor and adjacent waters.

Howard E. Porter of the Health Department condemned "the wholesale dumping of raw sewage into this beautiful recreation area."

"On hot days," he said, "we get hundreds of calls and our answer is the same: 'Don't go in if the water is dirty. If it looks clean and you go in, take a shower immediately when you get home."

FIRST MEDAL OF HONOR

Marine Maj. Everett P. Pope, son of Mr. and Mrs. Laurence E. Pope of 155 Billings Rd., North Quincy, became the first Quincy man to win the Congressional Medal of Honor for heroism in the Pacific war.

"I would rather have this medal than be President of the United States," said President Harry S. Truman in making the presentation to Maj. Pope on the steps of the White House.

Mrs. Joseph Gioncardi of 85 Franklin St., a Gold Star mother, unveiled the South Quincy Roll of Honor Memorial in Liberty Square honoring some 900 of the area's sons and daughter in service.

Author Tom Palmer To Speak At Crane Library Tonight

Local author and naturalist Tom Palmer will read from his book, "Landscape With Reptile: Rattlesnakes in an Urban World," Thursday, June 9, at 7 p.m. at the Thomas Crane Public Library, 40 Washington St., Quincy Center.

The book traces the history of the timber rattlesnake in the Blue Hills, probably the last remaining habitat for that snake in New England. Palmer mixes nature writing with human history and sociology as well as ecology and evolution in this fascinating account of a reclusive and maligned creature.

At the beginning of the reading, the Quincy High School Envirothon team will discuss their research on Quincy's cultural landscape for the statewide 2005 Massachusetts Envirothon competition.

Copies of the book will be available for sale at the reading, which is co-sponsored by the Thomas Crane Public Library, the Friends of the Blue Hills and the Quincy Park Department's Environmental Treasures program. For more information, call 617-376-1301.

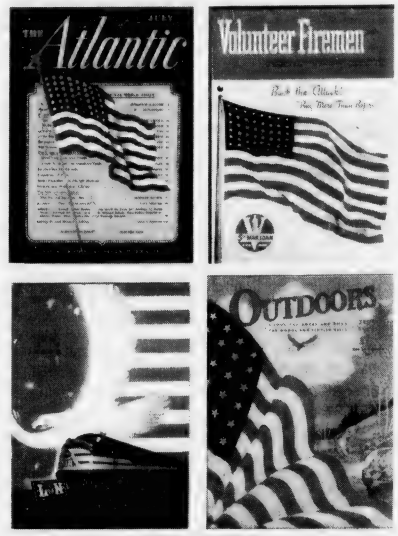
WWII Magazine Covers Featuring American Flag Display Begins June 11

To celebrate this year's Flag Day on June 14, classic World War II magazine covers featuring the American flag will be on display beginning June 11 at the National Heritage Museum, 33 Marrett Rd., Lexington.

The exhibition, titled "Old Glory: July 1942 Magazine Covers," will run from June 11 through Dec. 11, 2005. The covers are drawn from the collection of Quincy resident Libby Payne.



In July, 1942, to mark the first Independence Day following the United States' entry into World War II, some 500 magazines featured the American flag on their covers. More than 30 of these examples will be featured at the exhibition.

The flag magazine cover campaign was the brainchild of Paul McNamara, a promotion manager and editor for Hearst Publications. The guidelines were simple: The flag had to fly from left to right, could not have type printed over it, and the cover should incorporate the slogan, "United We Stand."

The National Publishers Association backed the initiative, eager to show the important role magazines played in keeping the public informed and in bolstering morale on the home front. The Treasury Department, responsible for raising funds to finance the war effort, joined in. The agency requested that the covers bear the message "Buy War Bonds and Stamps." In return, it arranged for stores across the country to display and sell the magazines.

Admission to the exhibition is free. Hours are Monday through Saturday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., and Sunday from noon to 5 p.m.

For more information contact the museum at 781-861-6559 or visit the website at www.monh.org.

DOVE Annual Dinner Fundraiser June 16

DOVE, Inc. will hold its annual dinner/dance fundraiser, "Cruise Into Summer" Thursday, June 16, at 7 p.m. at Venezia's Waterfront Restaurant, 20 Ericsson St., Dorchester.

DOVE, Inc., (DOmestic Violence Ended), is a non-profit agency for abused women and their children, founded in 1978 by the Mayor's Commission on the Status of Women and assists thousands of victims of domestic violence each year offering immediate and long-range support and solutions for families in need.

DOVE also provides:

• shelter with temporary housing for women and children in a protected, caring, confidential environment, while receiving support, advocacy, case management, legal advocacy and children's services.

• 24-hour crisis hotlines by a caring team of staff and volunteers who offer support and crisis intervention.

• outreach programs including psycho-educational, ongoing support, parenting and concurrent children's groups, safety planning and support services to individuals in the community.

• community education through trainings and seminars to human resource providers, business organizations, law enforcement agencies, schools and concerned community members in the South Shore and Norfolk County areas.

• children's programming that is committed to ending domestic violence by preventing further victimization of children and reducing the risk that they will become adult victims or perpetrators of violence.

• 24-Hour Crisis Hotline 617-471-1234

• Outreach & Family Service Center 617-770-4065

• 24-Hour Children & Teens Crisis Hotline 617-773-HURT

The evening will include a presentation to the Quincy Police Department, in recognition of dedication, service and awareness.

There will be a full course dinner; dancing and cash prize drawings as well as a silent and live auction featuring a 4-hour sail on Boston Harbor and a one night stay at the Boston Marriott Quincy for two including breakfast.

The auction will also include a New England Patriots Limited Edition Commemorative Football featuring the signatures of Tom Brady, Richard Seymour and Adam Vinatieri.

Julie Devereaux of WROR radio and Jordan Rich of WBZ radio are masters of ceremony.

Tickets are $75 each or a table of 10 for $700.

To sponsor, advertise, donate an auction item or purchase tickets contact: Laurie Kelliher at 617-773-2434 or Linda Santoro at 617-770-4065.

QUINCY RESIDENTS Jennifer Harrington and Hans Morrison attended the "Get Happy" gala benefit fundraiser for the Boston Philharmonic at Saunders Theater in Boston featuring two-time Tony nominated Broadway vocalist Christine Andreas. The evening also featured a reception, silent auction and dinner dancing in Memorial Hall to the White Heat Swing Orchestra.

Marie's Kitchen

BY MARIE D'OLIMPIO

Ann Marie's Colossal Cookies

It was one of those rainy raw days in May (remember those?). And I had made some chicken soup. So my husband and I brought some over to our daughter Ann Marie and son-in-law Dave.

While we were there and having a cup of coffee, she served the most delicious cookies. When she told me how easy they were to make, I just had to share these two recipes for the easiest, most delicious cookies ever.

Ice Cream Cookies

6 tablespoons butter (or margarine)
6 tablespoons powdered sugar
1 beaten egg yolk
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup sifted flour

Pre heat oven to 350 degrees. Cream butter and sugar together until smooth. Add the egg yolk, vanilla and flour and mix until blended. Drop by spoonfuls on ungreased cookie sheet. (I like a larger cookie, so I use a tablespoon.) I placed a small apricot in the center of each one. Ann Marie placed a pecan. Any other favorite fruit can be used. Just make a small hole in the center of each one. Bake for 15 to 20 minutes.

The next recipe is just as easy and delicious, especially if you love coconut.

Crunchy Coconut Cookies

1/2 cup egg whites (it takes 6 eggs)
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 1/4 cups sugar
1/2 teaspoon vanilla
2 1/2 cups shredded coconut

Pre heat the oven to 350 degrees. Beat the egg whites, add the salt and sugar. Mix well. Then fold in the vanilla and shredded coconut.

Drop by spoonfuls on a slightly greased cookie sheet and bake for 15 to 20 minutes, or until they turn light brown. They are so light and melt in your mouth.

Farmer's Market To Open July 1 For 23rd Year

The 23rd annual Farmers' Market will open Friday, July 1, in the Hancock municipal parking lot across from Quincy District Court.

Hours for the market, which will continue weekly on Friday, rain or shine, will be 11:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.

"This outdoor market allows area residents the opportunity to purchase freshly grown local farm products," Mayor William Phelan said in a recent letter to the Market Manager, Anneli Johnson of Quincy.

"The same farmers are anticipated to return again this year, in addition to a new entry of one of Quincy's own, the Almquist Flower Land," Johnson said. "The Almquist family has been growing finest quality flowers and plants for us more than three generations on top of historic Penn's Hill in Quincy and at their nearby green houses and gardens. Their plants are grown on site; therefore, they are surely to survive as they are already acclimated to this climate."

Almquist will bring bedding plants, perennials and vegetable plants, such as tomato and pepper plants that are ready to go directly into the garden. They have plants that are suitable for your containers on balconies and window boxes as well as in your vegetable and flower gardens.

Stillman Farm and Greenhouses of Lunenburg and Freitas Farm of Middleboro will provide their full array of fruits and vegetables. Serving Ourselves Farm of Long Island in Quincy Bay will bring herbs such as sweet basil along with unusual varieties of vegetables and greens. Noquochoke Orchards of Westport specialize in some 25 varieties of apples.

The Five Loaves artisan breads will return as well, with new additions to the array of breads and rolls, Johnson said.

"There are many advantages of buying from your grower, in that the produce is picked the day of the market; it had suffered no jet lag," she said. "The nutritional value is maximum. And, ultimately we are keeping the revenue within our own region and with our growers. Farmers are known to be the bulwarks against urban sprawl.

"Because we are buying directly from our growers, we have a ready resource for any of our questions on growing or preparation of fruits and vegetables of our own. Quincy Farmers' Market, along with all the farmers' markets throughout the Commonwealth, is real growers' markets. No produce is ever brought in from a wholesale market. The farms are all certified by the Department of Agricultural Resources of Massachusetts."

For more information of farmers' markets visit www.mass.gov/arg/massgrown/farmer_markets.

Dr. Mark Jaehnig To Receive Richard Koch Youth Service Award

54th Flag Day Parade, Ceremony Set For Saturday

The Quincy Flag Day parade and celebration is set for Saturday, marking the 54th year of city's family-oriented, patriotic event.

The parade steps off at 7 p.m. from Coddington Street before making its way to Hancock Street, turning right onto Merrymount Parkway, and ending at the entrance to Pageant Field.

A number of bands will be in the procession, including East Coast Jazz, The Spartans, who edged East Coast Jazz for the Grand Championship of Division 2 & 3 International Drum Corps in Denver last year, Boston Police Gaelic Column and the Quincy Public Schools All-Star band.

In addition to the bands, honor guards representing the Massachusetts State Police, Quincy Police Department, Quincy Fire Department, two antique fire engines from the Bare Cove Fire Museum, this year's Grand Marshal, the Quincy Lodge of Elks, various floats and, the parade highlight, nearly 2,000 flag-waving youngsters from youth organizations citywide will participate in the 1.5 mile march.

"Each year my family and I look forward to this summertime tradition and I'm sure many Quincy families share our anticipation," said Mayor William Phelan. "The legacy of this event and the patriotic values it reinforces in us and instills in our youth are so important and it's refreshing that it continues to endure."

The parade will culminate into a celebration at Pageant Field with a flag-raising of a 30 foot by 60 foot version of Old Glory, patriotic performance by 6-year-old Quincy resident Syra Medhi, howitzer salute by the 102nd Battalion of the Army National Guard, fly-over by the Massachusetts State Police Air Wing (weather permitting) and presentation of the Richard J. Koch Youth Service Award to recipient Dr. Mark C. Jaehnig.

Jaehnig, who owns and operates Quincy Chiropractic, was selected to receive the honor based on his founding of and dedication to the Sacred Heart Youth Basketball League, which has been in existence for over 15 years. In addition, he has coached in various youth football, soccer and baseball leagues throughout the city and currently coaches Quincy Legion Baseball and the Quincy Redstockings AAU Baseball team.

"Mark Jaehnig has dedicated his skill and devoted his time to providing opportunities for youngsters to play, become part of a team and ultimately succeed," said Thomas P. Koch, chairman of the Flag Day Committee. "He's played a significant role in teaching kids how to make their dreams a reality on and off the court by instilling in them confidence and the value of character."

The award is named for the late Richard J. Koch, founder of the Koch Club and originator of the Flag Day parade and celebration.

The evening is capped off by a dazzling fireworks display over Black's Creek that will be shot off at approximately 9:15 p.m. There is no rain date for the parade, but if conditions are unfavorable the fireworks display will be rescheduled for a date to be announced.

For more information on the Quincy Flag Day parade and celebration, contact the Quincy Park Department at 617-376-1251.

MAYOR WILLIAM PHELAN said "Rabbi Mann left an indelible mark on our community."

CITY COUNCILLOR Dan Raymondi, whose resolve, unanimously approved by council colleagues, led to the corner of Grafton and Lancaster Sts. being named "Rabbi Jacob Mann Square," said of him: "He taught us the true values of life."

HAROLD KRASNOFF, president of Beth Israel Synagogue, recalled Rabbi Jacob Mann's "spiritual guidance."

'A Man Of God . . . A Friend To All'

everybody's Rabbi who meant so much to our community."

Delahunt delighted those in attendance with the announcement that he will initiate the process to designate Beth Israel Synagogue as an historic landmark, but stressed the process is along one.

Mayor William Phelan said: "Rabbi Mann left an indelible mark on our community. He was a small man with a great spirit."

Former Mayor Arthur Tobin, now clerk magistrate of Quincy District Court and a longtime friend of Rabbi Mann, was the keynote speaker.

The other former mayors attending with Phelan and Tobin were Frank McCauley, now City Council president, James Sheets and Joseph LaRaia.

Irving Isaacson, past commander of the Quincy Jewish War Veterans and member of Beth Israel Synagogue, was the master of ceremonies.

Tobin thanked members of Beth Israel Synagogue, the dedication committee, the Veterans Services Department, the city and Mayor Phelan "for honoring the memory of a very special person, Rabbi Jacob Mann."

"Your love and affection for Rabbi Mann and family shines brightly here today. I know many of you have wonderful memories of your association with Rabbi Mann as I do and through your efforts this dedication will be a reminder to all that once upon a time in the history of Quincy, there was a beloved Rabbi who served his congregation and the citizens of Quincy with love, care and understanding."

Tobin recalled he had known Rabbi Mann some 63 years and that they first met when Rabbi Mann was the new Rabbi at Beth Israel and Tobin a student at the Daniel Webster elementary school just across the street.

"I did not know who he was then, but I do recall seeing the man in the dark suit and hat on numerous occasions walking through the neighborhood and around the synagogue."

Tobin recalled that when his Jewish classmates weren't playing in the school yard they were learning about their religion, tradition and the Hebrew language from Rabbi Mann in the synagogue.

"They were ordinary youngsters who were good students and they achieved much. They became solid citizens in our community and they are my lifelong friends. They were the grandchildren of the founders of Temple Beth Israel and the children of hard-working parents and members of the temple.

"Their names are Jerry Rosenblatt, Bernie Reisberg, Jason Feldman, Cookie Needle, Mort Bernstein, Elliot Robinson, Stanley Miller, Elliot Stanley, Charlotte Berman Milton and Nate Katz, Bernie Warshauer, the Nankins, Weiners, Jonah and Abraham Mann and others whose names I don't recall at this time.

"What did we all have in common? Our lives were impacted by Rabbi Jacob Mann. These young people went on to wonderful achievements and confided to me that it was the structure given to them by their Rabbi that shaped their lives."

Tobin said Rabbi Mann loved Law Day at Quincy District Court where "he was at his best."

"He would give the Benediction Blessing . . . and . . . convey a poignant message, bring laughter, be serious, lecture the audience, talk to the judges and finish by invoking a blessing for us all and everyone would leave feeling good about themselves.

"This was Rabbi Mann. He was a treasure. He was a friend."

Tobin told a very personal memory.

"The night the man in the dark suit and hat came through the door, walked down a long, dark hospital corridor (Quincy Hospital) to a room to give his blessing and prayer. My family was experiencing a personal tragedy. He told me he wanted to be there. He walked to the hospital on a cold winter Sabbath to show his love and caring and I felt his love and caring that my friends had told me about.

"I never attended Hebrew school, but Rabbi Mann made me feel like one of his students from the days on the school grounds at Daniel Webster because he was also my mentor, my teacher, my counselor, the one who would always offer good advice and I felt that his wise advise and counsel gave me structure, also.

"Shalom, my good and caring friend . . ."

Councillor Daniel Raymondi, in whose Ward 2 Beth Israel Synagogue is located, noted that some people come into your life like passengers on an airliner.

"They sit and talk awhile and then go on to their own destination. You don't see them again. Rabbi Mann came into our lives and set up camp. He taught us the true values of life."

It was Raymondi's resolve, unanimously approved last December by council colleagues, that led to the creation of Rabbi Jacob Mann Square.

Harold Krasnoff, president of the Beth Israel Synagogue, recalled Rabbi Mann's "spiritual guidance" and said the Rabbi was the reason that he, a Hull resident, has been a member of the synagogue since 1964.

In response to Delahunt's announcement, Krasnoff said: "I would love to be alive and celebrate the dedication of Beth Israel as an historic landmark."

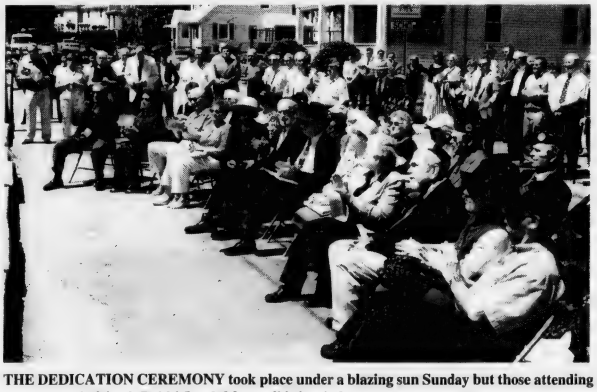
Jonah Mann expressed his appreciation for the city naming the square for his father which he felt was appropriate.

Abraham Mann said the dedication should also be to those who helped his father "so much."

"A memorable day," Mann said. "He loved this community. A day my father would have enjoyed."

Other officials attending included Rep. Stephen Tobin, City Councillors Kevin Coughlin and Alicia Gardner, City Clerk Joseph Shea, Police Chief Robert Crowley, Norfolk County Commissioner John Gillis, Henry Bradley, director, and Tom Stansbury, Quincy Veterans Services Department; and Robert Bloom, first assistant clerk magistrate at Quincy District Court.

MARILYN REISBERG, a longtime close friend of Rabbi Jacob Mann, gave the benediction at the dedication of Rabbi Jacob Mann Square Sunday. Behind her is Irving Isaacson, master of ceremonies.



FORMER MAYOR Arthur Tobin (at podium), keynote speaker, called elected officials present at the dedication to stand with him during his tributes to Rabbi Jacob Mann. From the left, former Mayor James Sheets, former Mayor Joseph LaRaia, City Council President and former Mayor Frank McCauley, Mayor William Phelan, Congressman William Delahunt, Ward 2 Councillor Daniel Raymondi, Ward 3 Councillor Kevin Coughlin, County Commissioner John Gillis and Ward 6 Councillor Alicia Gardner.

Rabbi Mann Square Dedication Committee

Members of the committee for the Rabbi Jacob Mann Square dedication were:

Harold Krasnoff, president Beth Israel Synagogue; Irving Isaacson, who was also the master of ceremonies; Marion and Melvin Needel, Bernard and Helen Warshauer, Marilyn Reisberg, Alan and Marilyn Kramer, Arlene Osoff and Charles Michelson.

The committee was assisted by Henry (Hank) Bradley and Tom Stansbury of the Quincy Veterans Services Department.

THE DEDICATION CEREMONY took place under a blazing sun Sunday but those attending to honor their friend, Rabbi Jacob Mann, didn't mind.

Bernazzani Students Walk Nets $12,000 To Fight Diabetes

More than 180 students at the Charles A. Bernazzani School recently raised $12,000 to fight diabetes simply by walking around their school as many times as they could.

"It was a great day for all the kids," said Maura Shaughnessy, guidance counselor. "They learned as much about diabetes and how they can do some simple things to prevent diabetes and, in the process, helped others with the disease.

"Our school also received some great new physical education equipment and school medical supplies as our thank you gift for participating. In addition, our top fund raisers will be spending a day with the Red Sox as a thank you for raising so much money."

The funds raised by the School Walk for Diabetes will help to continue the important research, information and advocacy efforts of the American Diabetes Association.

More than 1,100 schools participated in the walk, which is sponsored nationally by ARAMARK Corporation and SPLENDA, the no-calorie sweetener.

YOUNGSTERS from the Bernazzani School raised $12,043 to fight diabetes in the American Diabetes Association's School Walk for Diabetes. The school's 186 students walked around the school, some as many as 10 times, to fulfill their end of the pledge.

Begins July 11

Bellotti Plans Summer 'Basketball Academy'

The Norfolk County Sheriff's Office in conjunction with the Massachusetts Basketball Coaches Association this summer will begin an educational basketball program to develop youth leadership both on and off the court, Sheriff Michael Bellotti announces.

The "Future Captains Basketball Academy," he said, is a unique opportunity for eighth-grade boys and girls with at least a B-minus average who start on their school basketball team. The first of six four-day sessions begins July 11. Applications are now being accepted.

MICHAEL BELLOTTI

Both individual and team instruction will be given by coaches and counselors who are varsity student-athletes and former captains. Drills, scrimmages, lectures and film sessions are designed to prepare students for high school.

Staff from the Sheriff's Office will also meet with participants to discuss the value of good decision-making and responsible citizenship.

"Our goal is to make this an exciting athletic and academic experience that will help the student-athlete improve both on the court and in the classroom," Bellotti said.

The basketball academy is being offered free-of-charge through Bellotti's Youth Programs Division, which also operates the Youth Leadership Academy in the summer and the After School Program during the fall and winter.

For more information about the "Future Captains Basketball Academy" or to receive an application, contact Program Director Brian Buckley at the Norfolk County Sheriff's Office at 781-751-3517.

Ayers Office Hours

Rep. Bruce Ayers will hold office hours at the Council on Aging office, 83 Saratoga St., on the second Friday of the month.

For an appointment, call the Council on Aging at 617-376-1506.

FIRE SAFETY

by Captain Tom Lyons
Fire Prevention Bureau
Quincy Fire Department

Using And Storing Propane Grills Safely

It's time to talk about propane grills.

It's been a long and harsh winter and grills have been stored in that weather outside. Tired equipment can be more susceptible to malfunction so it is imperative to heed the facts about proper storage and the use of these grills.

Propane is one and half to two times heavier than air. Consequently, the State code requires that a propane cylinder be stored a minimum distance of three feet away from building openings that are below the level of cylinder storage. For instance, basement windows, dryer vents, etc. The intent being, should the cylinder or hose leak, it minimizes the chances of propane gas migrating into the basement of a house where the potential ignition of a furnace or water heater exists. Cylinder storage should be located five feet away from any potential exterior sources of ignition as well.

The Quincy Fire Department recommends a grill be used at least 10 feet away from both sources of ignition and potential combustibles such as wood siding, deck railings, etc. We prefer they not be left unattended while in use as well. Considering the close proximity of some houses within this community, be mindful of wind conditions and smoke migration. The smoke and aroma of your best cooking efforts might just be a nuisance to another.

The State code also prohibits the storage or use of propane grills above the first floor of a building used for habitation. Over the years, we have made quite an effort to eliminate their use and storage on apartment building balconies. Our attempts continue. With limited manpower hours to focus on this effort, however, we have encouraged building owners to prohibit their use in writing in a tenant's lease or a condo by-law.

A fire in a propane cylinder can have disastrous effects at grade level, but the potential for damage to life and property increases substantially with the inaccessibility of a building balcony. Danger to occupants and firefighters alike increases considerably when fire infringes upon a propane cylinder above grade level where extinguishment efforts are hampered by access limitations and height. If you currently have a propane grill on a balcony, please help us in our continued effort to remove them.

It's no wonder grills have become so prevalent over the years. Enjoy your efforts with them. Bon appetite. But be mindful of using them safely.

TIF Agreement, Funds For Parking And Traffic Studies

Council Approves Measures For Downtown Redevelopment

The city council Monday night approved two important financial measures aimed at jumpstarting Mayor William Phelan's downtown redevelopment plan.

On a unanimous vote, the council ok'd a Tax Increment Financing (TIF) agreement that will be used to encourage developers to build in the downtown.

Developers entering into a 20-year agreement with the city will receive state tax breaks on the increase of the value of their property.

The council also signed off on a $150,000 spending item which will go toward paying urban planning consultants, traffic and parking studies, and other logistical planning services as part of the mayor's move to re-ignite interest in Quincy Center.

Administration officials said the planning monies used now are expected to be reimbursed to the city through tax and financing incentives at the heart of the redevelopment plans.

About $100,000 of that will be required to implement a District Improvement Financing (DIF) development program for potential developers. Planning Director Dennis Harrington said Monday night the city recently met with state officials and received the initial green light to proceed with their formal application for the DIF.

The council is expected to sign off on the mayor's rezoning initiative during a special council meeting Monday at 6:50 p.m.

New ID Signs For Over 150 Alcohol, Tobacco Retailers

By MARIE D'OLIMPIO

This week, in an effort to prevent underage drinking, more than 150 tobacco, alcohol retailers will be receiving new bright colored signs with large letters ID on the top to be displayed.

Patricia P. Henley, program director of Blue Hills Tobacco-Free Community Mobilization Network told the License Board at Tuesday's meeting that after a survey of about 15 to 20 liquor establishments, she said she felt a "better job" could be done involving signage pertaining to ID's.

Henley, who said she had the support of Liquor Agent Lt. Peter Turowski, said that Impact Quincy will help distribute the signs.

The signs are bright green and red with white letters and say "if you forgot it, forget it," which Henley said help both the clerk and the customer.

Police Chief Robert Crowley called the new signage a "great idea" because he said he felt things were "getting too lax". He said the owners will be more vigilant and the impact on kids coming in the store will be affected. As more ID signs are displayed, Crowley said the kids will finally "turn around and walk out."

Once Expected To Fail, Cronin's Celebrates 15th

They shook their heads when Denis and Margaret Cronin launched Cronin's Publick House at 23 DesMoines Rd., around the corner from the main gate of the Fore River Shipyard.

Starting a new restaurant and pub in that spot was bad business, they said, particularly in the days so soon after the once thriving shipyard had closed down for good.

They couldn't have been more wrong.

The premises will be rocking Saturday, June 11, from 5 p.m. until closing time when the Cronins celebrate their 15th anniversary in the business and location they said was doomed to fail.

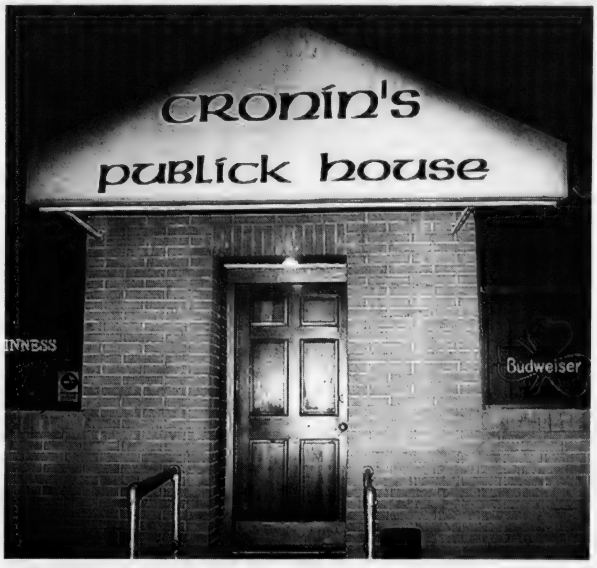
Admission is free. The popular DJ Keith Noble will spin his vast collection of Irish and American favorites and a full complimentary buffet will be served.

What the experts failed to consider in 1990 was that location may not be that important when you combine top quality food and beverages with the best in Irish hospitality.

Right now, midway through its second decade, Cronin's Publick House is busier and more popular than ever with customers coming from as far away as California and Ireland to sample the famed marinated steak tips and fresh seafood.

The fare at the family-owned Cronin's has won strong reviews over the years, earning the 5 Chef (top) Rating from the Quincy Business News and a "too good to pass up" review from the website hiddenboston.com.

In an article leading up to the 2005 Superbowl, the Boston Herald singled out Cronin's Buffalo wings as "sure to be a hit at parties."



Currently Cronin's offers a special on Buffalo wings for 10 cents each, Sunday through Wednesday from 3 to 6 p.m. A full menu is served seven days a week from 11 a.m. t 10 p.m.

The cozy, air-conditioned pub features seven large TVs, a juke box packed with hits, and a full Lottery license, including Keno and instant scratch tickets.

It has become a "must visit" destination on St. Patrick's Day and Margaret Cronin is looking forward to a 15th anniversary celebration that is equally popular.

"I look forward to personally saying thank you to our past and present customers and staff and certainly any newcomers who would like to join the party are more than welcome."

Further information is available by visiting Cronin's website, steaktips.com.

Fire Study Underway; Final Report In November

A thorough, in-depth study of the fire department's long and short-term needs is underway, and a final report is expected by the end of the year.

Members of the fire study steering committee last week met with representatives of MMA Consulting Inc. of Boston to discuss preliminary plans for the overall study. MMA was recently chosen by the committee to undertake the study.

The consulting firm has already begun taking an inventory of the department's staff, apparatus, fire stations and other equipment, according to Dave Murphy, Mayor William Phelan's director of operations and a member of the steering committee.

MMA has signed a contract with the city to undertake the study at a cost of $63,000, according to Murphy. The city's cost will be only $13,000 because the city was able to secure about $50,000 in grant funds from the state Executive Office of Public Safety, he said.

Murphy said MMA has estimated that the entire study will take about five months to complete.

"For the next month MMA will be gathering data, response times and documenting the number of stations, apparatus and other items," said Murphy. "From there they expect to begin the interview process with fire officials and firefighters."

NORFOLK COUNTY Dist. Atty. Bill Keating addresses parents at the recent substance abuse prevention forum.

MAYOR WILLIAM Phelan presents a proclamation to school committee and task force member Elaine Dwyer designating May 19 as "Drug Awareness Day."

District Attorney Keating Hosts Substance Abuse Forum For Parents

More than 80 parents from Quincy and surrounding communities heard about heroin and its presence in Massachusetts from front-line clinical and law enforcement personnel, as Norfolk District Attorney William Keating convened his sixth regional parent information forum recently at Quincy High School.

"The pervasive influence of heroin and OxyContin has been felt in cities and towns all across our Commonwealth," said Keating. "No community is immune.

"The key is to face what is already in our midst," he added, "and to work together to help keep children and families safe."

Heroin's low introductory cost, high purity, and ability to be ingested through snorting, were all identified as contributors to its newfound popularity and to the increasing number of overdoses and fatalities that have accompanied its resurgence. A videotape overview documented the recruitment of a new generation of addicts among younger and younger children.

The Quincy Drug Awareness Task Force that helped plan the event was recognized for its efforts by Mayor William Phelan, who presented a proclamation to school committee and task force member Elaine Dwyer designating May 19th as "Drug Awareness Day" in the city. Phelan was introduced by School Supt. Dr. Richard DeCristofaro.

Joining Keating as panelists were Quincy Police Officer Lisa Linsky, Stoughton Police Sergeant Robert Devine, Norfolk Juvenile Probation Officer Teresa Plante, and Dr. Daurice Cox of Bay State Community Services.

The medical nature of heroin addiction, the dire health consequences of even short-term "experimental" use, and its association with OxyContin, were recounted by David Abrahamian, Clinical Director of New Hope T.S.S. in Weymouth. A parent's perspective on the family devastation wrought when heroin takes hold of a child was provided by a member of the parent support group, Learn To Cope (learn2cope.org).

Keating, whose office launched this public awareness effort last spring, commended the Quincy Police Department and the Quincy Public Schools for their proactive efforts to help protect children and families from substance abuse. In particular, he thanked Pupil Personnel Director Janet Powell and Safety and Security Director Ken McPhee for all of their hard work and leadership. He attributed the strong audience turnout to the community's long-standing commitment to prevention.

Resource materials about general substance abuse prevention, alcohol, marijuana, OxyContin, and heroin were distributed to attendees.

Additional information is available online from the U.S. Justice Department's National Drug Intelligence Center at www.usdoj.gov/ndic.

New Phonics Program Offers Aid To Readers

A new reading program, based on phonics and designed to promote literacy in both children and adults, has come to the Quincy area.

The Academic Associates Reading Program, developed by an elementary school principal, has already taught reading to thousands of students around the world.

The program is taught at the Academic Associates Reading Center, operated by Colleen Wolf, a reading instruction specialist, from her home on Sachem Street in Quincy.

"Our mission is to help struggling readers succeed and good readers to become even better," said Wolf. "We want to see our students succeed in both school and life."

The program is based on phonics with each letter representing a sound. It teaches all the sounds in the English language, plus a few simple phonics rules.

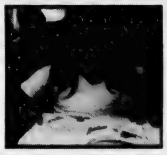
By the end of lesson one, every student, even those with learning disabilities, should read at least 300 words. Typically, within 30 to 50 hours, students gain 3 or 4 years in grade level.

Spelling and comprehension improve dramatically and self-confidence soars. "A parent says, 'This is a different boy. You've turned his life around. His teacher can't believe the change,'" says Wolf.

Instruction at the Reading Center is one-on-one. Students are patiently taught phonics skills and never embarrassed by their reading difficulties.

The program works equally well with older students and those who are learning the English language, adults included. It is widely used in Asian, European and Middle Eastern countries

"We offer a free no-obligation evaluation," says Wolf. "There are no contracts to sign. If you suspect your child has a reading problem, we can help."



Academic Associates Reading Center can be reached by calling 617-479-3485.

New Landscaped Gardens Dedicated At United First Parish Church

SPECIAL 'Children's Sunday/Garden Service' is led by the Rev. Sheldon Bennett, pastor of United First Parish Church, prior to the dedication of the newly landscaped garden surrounding the gray stone building. Shirtsleeved crowd enjoyed perfect weather at the ceremony.

FLOWERS and shrubbery add a touch of color to the onetime drab surroundings of the historic Church of the Presidents in Quincy Square. Dedication of the newly landscaped and planted gardens was carried out Sunday. That's City Hall in the background.

Quincy History On Display At New Museum Opening

A new Quincy History Museum will open with an invitation-only celebration Wednesday, June 22, at 5:30 p.m., at the home of the Quincy Historical Society in the Adams Academy Building, 9 Adams St.

The museum, entitled "Quincy: Of Stone, Of Ships, Of Minds," will be the first comprehensive exhibit of the city's history from the time of the first Native Americans to the 21st Century.

"Quincy's history is really an epic story with dynamic people and events of national significance in every era," said Edward Fitzgerald, the QHS executive director.

"And within a great diversity of people and events, it really is one story. We're using the most modern displays, graphics and media to tell that story in the most exciting way we can."

The museum was developed by the QHS and the design firm, Bailey Donovan, to highlight the Revolutionary Era and the granite and shipbuilding industries while tracing the progress of ordinary life.

The displays include a wide variety of subjects and modes of presentation, with historical artifacts extending from memorabilia of John and Abigail Adams to Howard Johnson's ice cream scoop.

"Quincy's history is of the greats and the unknowns," said QHS President James Edwards, an architect. "Its sum is pretty remarkable.

"Its pieces, its people and places, truly the building block of a nation, have given us a legacy worthy of great celebration.

"We intend the museum to serve well both Quincy residents and visitors to the city. We believe the museum will be an important and lasting community resource."

The museum will be open Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. and Saturday from 12 noon to 4 p.m.

The Historical Society has also restored the Adams Academy lobby, removing the late 20th century construction and recreating a 19th century atmosphere in the lobby.

"We've been very conscious, throughout, f maintaining the integrity of the Academy, and enhancing its attractiveness," said Edwards.

For Affordable Housing Efforts

MassHousing Recognizes South Shore Savings Bank

MassHousing recently recognized South Shore Savings Bank and nine other mortgage lenders for their affordable housing efforts at its ninth annual Home Ownership Awards Ceremony.

The lenders were honored for their promotion and use of MassHousing mortgage and mortgage insurance products.

South Shore Savings Bank was presented with an award for their creative use of MI Plus with portfolio loan programs. MI Plus provides mortgage insurance protection that allows a buyer to finance a home with little or no down payment.

In addition, MI Plus plays up to six months of the principal and interest portion of the monthly mortgage payment — a maximum of $2,000 per month — in the event that the borrower becomes unemployed during the first 10 years of the mortgage term. The mortgage payment protection benefits of MI Plus are offered at no additional cost on all new loans insured by MassHousing.

"Our lending partners make it possible for thousands of low- and moderate-income home buyers across the state to have access to our affordable mortgage products," said MassHousing Executive Director Thomas R. Gleason. "These lenders have made promoting MassHousing programs and affordable home ownership a priority, and we are recognizing them for that effort."

Many people are deterred from buying their first home due to the lack of a down payment and from the fear or losing their home due to job loss," said Christopher Dunn, Senior Vice President of Residential Lending at South Shore Savings Bank. "With MassHousing's affordable financing programs and the added protection of MI Plus, we are helping break down the barriers to home ownership by offering peace of mind to first-time home buyers."

MassHousing offers both low- and no-down payment home mortgage programs for income-eligible first-time home buyers and second mortgage products for income-eligible families that already own a home. To apply for a MassHousing loan, a prospective borrower can go to any one of over 100 lenders on the agency's list of approved lenders across Massachusetts. For more information, call 1-888-MASSLOAN or visit www.masshousing.com/homebuyer.

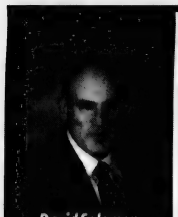
Computer Seminar At Norfolk Registry

Register of Deeds William P. O'Donnell will host an informational seminar on computer assisted land records research at the Registry of Deeds in Dedham Thursday, June 23 from 4:30 to 5:30 p.m.



The seminar is intended for both real estate professionals and the general public.

The program will include a brief presentation (at 4:30 and at 5 p.m.), written reference materials, and hands-on exercises. There will be opportunities for both basic and advanced questions and answers.

Computer assisted land records research is available both at the Registry and on the Internet at www.norfolkdeeds.org.

There is no charge for the seminar, but persons planning to attend are asked to register by phone (781-461-6116).

The Registry of Deeds, located at 649 High Street, Dedham, is the principal office for real property in Norfolk County. The Registry receives and records hundreds of thousands of documents each year and is a basic resource for homeowners, title examiners, mortgage lenders, municipalities and others with a need for secure, accurate and accessible land record information.

Session On Credit History, Mortgage Readiness June 15

Neighborhood Housing Workshop June 18

Neighborhood Housing Services of the South Shore will hold a First-Time Homebuyer Workshop Saturday, June 18, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Dedham Institution for Savings, 55 Elm St., Dedham.

All potential first-time homebuyers are invited to attend. Participants will have the opportunity to be prequalified by a lender.

Topics covered include mortgage options, legal aspects of the homebuying process, how a home inspection works and other presentations from real estate professionals.

Downpayment and closing cost assistance is available for income-eligible graduates. Income-eligible buyers can receive up to $10,000. Participants must complete the workshop to qualify for grant programs.

Prior to attending a First-Time Homebuyer Workshop, all participants must attend a free Introductory Session to evaluate credit history and determine level of mortgage readiness. It's strongly suggested attendees obtain a current copy of their credit report.

The next Introductory Session will be held Wednesday, June 15, from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. Dedham Institution for Savings, 55 Elm St., Dedham. Call in advance to register or discuss dates of future workshops.

There is a $15 fee per person that covers the First-Time Homebuyer Workshop, the Introductory Session and all workshop materials. Breakfast and lunch will be provided. Call 617-770-2227, ext. 31.

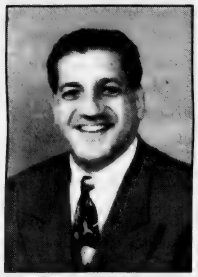
(NAPS) - To get your pool ready for the season, remove and store the cover; check and clean the pump filter; fill the pool and circulate the water for up to 48 hours before using. Have your water tested by a certified pool care professional who can give you a personalized pool care plan. For tips on effective pool and spa products, visit www.bioguard.com.

Few people know that owner's title insurance can protect the purchaser if a claim is made against a home's title. You might be surprised at how often such claims are made. According to the American Land Title Association, the industry paid $699 million in claims in 2004 alone. To learn more about the importance of title insurance, visit www.alta.org.



Pollutant levels can be two to five times higher in a home than outside it, but there are ways to help. For instance, a ventilation system can replace a portion of stale indoor air with fresh outdoor air, reducing energy loss in the process. Air exchangers from York Heating and Cooling let users manually or automatically adjust the fresh air flow. The units retain energy used to heat or cool the home, helping save home owners money on utility bills. For more information, visit www.yorkupg.com or call 1-800-910-YORK.

How To Spark A Potential Buyer's Interest

Selling Your Home? Create Curb Appeal

(NAPS)—When it comes to selling your home, a first impression can be a lasting one. Experts say home sellers only have a few key minutes to spark a potential buyer's interest. That's why creating "curb appeal" for a house can be an important part of the selling process—and the first step in the moving process.

The phrase "curb appeal" simply refers to how attractive a house looks from the curb. According to Daniel C. Owens, who has been featured on the Home & Garden Television show "Curb Appeal," a good way to gauge your home's curb appeal is to cross the street and view your house with a critical eye. Look for positive elements that can be highlighted and negative areas that should be concealed. He says a black-and-white photograph of your home may help, too. Color can often affect your perception of problem areas.

Owens is working with Allied Van Lines on its "Creating Curb Appeal" program and developed the following tips. They may help you improve the looks of your home—and possibly increase its sale potential.

• Set the Stage: Take a moment and identify your home's style. Is it Mediterranean? Colonial? Contemporary? Incorporate that theme into the landscape with a few key features that set the stage for visitors, such as basic landscape lighting, a coordinating mailbox or even new house numbers. All these items are available for less than $150, but their visual impact can be worth much more.

• Paint by Numbers: A simple palette of neutral tones (warm browns, ivory or sage green, for example) is a great choice for a home's exterior color. The tones can be complemented with stronger accent colors to provide more of a "pop" from the curb.

• Home Turf: Trees, shrubs and flowers should be trimmed and tidy. Leaves and debris should be removed from the yard. Consider planting fragrant flowers near the front door to greet potential buyers.

• Lighten Up: Keep exterior lights on in the evening and consider adding landscape lighting in case a potential buyer decides to grab a quick look at night.

After First-Round Win Over Bridgewater-Raynham

Presidents' Season Ends With Loss To Walpole

BASEBALL

By CHRIS POISSON

Three days after securing the program's first tournament victory in 11 years, the Quincy High School baseball team's season and the careers of a successful senior class came to an end.

The ninth-seeded Presidents (15-7 overall) hung with top-seeded Walpole (21-1) through six innings in Monday's Division 1 South Sectional quarterfinal but unraveled in the seventh en route to an 8-1 loss on the road.

Last Friday afternoon, Quincy dispatched eighth-seeded Bridgewater-Raynham, 3-2, in extra innings for its first postseason win since 1994.

Led by captains John Folino, Steve Sullivan, Steve Priscella and John Santon, the senior class, which had 10 players on the team this season, revived the program by qualifying for the playoffs the past three seasons.

"I'm just proud of the kids and what they accomplished," said head coach Mike Draicchio. "We had great leadership with the seniors and the four captains did a great job. The younger kids looked up to them. What they did for the program was tremendous. All the seniors contributed in some way."

Walpole struck first but the Presidents tied the score in the third inning. Junior Mike MacPherson walked and reached third base on an errant pick-off attempt. Priscella brought him home with a sacrifice fly.

Sullivan started the game and came out strong, striking out five in the first two innings. He pitched into the seventh inning, but an error on a potential inning-ending double play opened the floodgates.

"We played them as good as anyone is going to play them," Draicchio said.

In the B-R game, it was nearing 5 o'clock in the afternoon when Folino stepped into the batter's box after two quick outs in the 10th inning and the teams deadlocked at 2. With the seniors needing to attend their prom that evening, he decided it was time to put an end to the first-round game and head back home.

After being fooled on a curveball, he swatted a 2-2 offering from Matt Shapiro 360 feet over the right field fence for a majestic home run and then headed back out to the hill in the bottom half to finish the game.

"He's been our ace and he's done it at the plate all year round," Draicchio said of Folino, who went 3-for-5 with a pair of doubles. "He had a couple of big shots and then he gets the winning home run. This kid plays for that. That's why he's going to UConn. He's just a solid player all around for us and he showed his true captaincy today."

The right-hander was equally impressive with his arm. He gave up the two runs on five hits while fanning 13 and walking none to improve his ridiculous ratio of 112 strikeouts to four walks for the season.

As good as Folino was, Shapiro may have been more dominant in the losing effort. The junior southpaw yielded the three runs on 10 hits while chalking up an astonishing 22 strikeouts with just one walk.

"That kid was the best pitcher we've played against all year," Draicchio said. "Hands down. Twenty-two strikeouts. We've never done that."

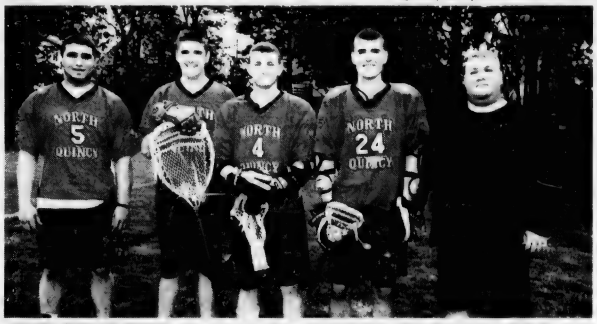
The Presidents rang up six of their 10 hits in the first three innings. Priscella led off the third with a screaming home run (No. 4 of the season) over the trees in left-center field to put his team on the board.

Senior catcher Ray Marchand reached on an infield single between the first and second basemen. After an out, Folino drilled an RBI double to center field to hand Quincy a 2-0 lead.

Folino, meanwhile, retired the first nine batters of the game before hitting Nick Campbell to begin the fourth. Dan Cabral doubled into the left-center gap and Ryan McElhinney plated them both with a single to even the score.

With McElhinney at second, Pete Gomez blasted a ball to center field, but Priscella jetted underneath the ball, leapt and made the catch while crashing into the fence to keep the score tied after four innings.

"The catch he made out in center field was incredible," Draicchio said. "That was the turning point of the game. That would have been another run. He just has such great speed."



After Folino's home run in the 10th, he received some defensive help in the bottom half. He gave up a leadoff single to Matt Devin and got the next hitter to pop up.

Marchand, who gunned down the speedy Campbell in the sixth inning, then picked off Devin's pinch runner at first, which turned out to be huge because Greg Karsner followed with a single. Folino struck out the next batter to seal the win.

Successful Year For Raider Lacrosse

THE NORTH QUINCY lacrosse team ended its successful 12-6 season last Saturday with a 24-4 first-round loss at Lincoln-Sudbury in the Eastern Mass. Division 1 tournament. Front row, from the left: Alex Jorgensen, Colin Mooney, Richard Russo, Stephen Maggio, Paul Graham, Rob Gardner, Shawn Brown, Kris Borgendale. Second row: Alex Tringale, Matt Martin, Nash Winters, Mike O'Mahoney, Pat Casper. Third row: David Atkins, Joe Morris, Steve Spring, James Fitzpatrick, George Haines. Back row: head coach Mark Nutley, Dave Thompson, Chris Tufo. Quincy Sun photos/Robert Noble

NORTH QUINCY HIGH lacrosse captains, from the left, Chris Tufo, Pat Casper, Rob Gardner and Paul Graham and head coach Mark Nutley helped guide the Red Raiders into the postseason in just their second year as a program. Against Lincoln-Sudbury, Gardner (two assists) and Graham each netted two goals and Tufo tallied two assists.

North Quincy Girls' Lacrosse Bows In South Sectionals

The North Quincy High School girls' lacrosse team ended its breakthrough season with a 24-7 loss at No. 4 seed Dartmouth in last Wednesday's quarterfinal of the Division 1 South Sectional tournament.

In just their second year as a program, the fifth-seeded Red Raiders finished with an 11-3 overall record after registering one win in their inaugural campaign.

Just like they have done all season, the Stille sisters powered the offense. Sophomore Lauren (74 goals, 15 assists) and freshman MaryKate (46, 10) each scored a hat trick and sophomore defender Bridget Coleman (4, 4) added the other goal.

"Dartmouth is a wonderful team," said head coach Barbara Webster. "They were like a college team compared to us. It was a great experience for the kids. They never backed down. I told them not to worry about the score and just keep playing."

Graduating only three seniors — goalkeeper Marissa Deegan, Shelly Donovan and Molly Griffin — the program's future looks strong.

"I would say so," Webster said. "We made a big improvement this year. They're all talented kids and good athletes. We need to hone our skills a little more."

GLASS ACT

Replacing a windshield may seem as simple as replacing a pane of glass in your home, but there is a big difference. To begin with, a windshield is a technological wonder, in terms of both safety and function. Not only is it designed to withstand impact without shattering, it is also part of the vehicle's structural integrity. In fact, in some vehicles, the windshield supports up to 50 percent of the roof. From a safety standpoint, the windshield may stay in place during a crash to prevent an unbelted driver or passenger from flying through the windshield opening. Beyond that, a windshield can contain embedded antennae, non-glare coatings, shade bands, and even rain sensors. This is no ordinary piece of glass.

Whatever the age of your car, it is critical that its windshield is clear. If not, have it replaced. If you have other problems LEO & WALT'S SUNOCO at 258 Quincy Ave., E. Braintree (781-843-1550) is your local full service center offering customers only the finest in service. We never compromise the wonderful reputation we have earned from our many satisfied customers. We are "A Place Where Your Car Can Live Longer." You can rely on us for the best in automotive service. We are also your local source for propane for grills, motor homes, and converted vehicles.

HINT: Professional windshield replacement must take industry standards into account. There is much more to the job than low cost and quick replacement.

Drops 10-0 Decision In First Round Of South Sectional Tourney

Quincy Falls To Bridgewater-Raynham

SOFTBALL

The Quincy High School softball team suffered a 10-0 loss to 15th seed Bridgewater-Raynham last Wednesday in the first round of the Division 1 South Sectional tournament.

B-R sophomore Christina Beradi silenced the 18th-seeded Presidents with a three-hitter and 12 strikeouts while her sister, Andrea, collected three hits and two RBI.

"They're a decent ballclub, but we played much better teams this year," said head coach Mike Sedar. "Our pitching was awful, our defense was awful and our hitting was awful. It was the worst game I've seen us play as Quincy coach. We were stale."

Junior catcher Kim Lebel had one of the team's three hits and also threw out a couple of runners. Senior Marissa Powers turned in a strong game.

Quincy played most of the season without senior captains Katie Walsh and Rebecca Williams and its lack of depth hurt.

"We're so lean," Sedar said. "It's tough playing with nine players. I think it would've helped a little if we had extra players."

The Presidents, which shared the Atlantic Coast League North Division championship with Whitman-Hanson, finished the season with an 11-10 overall record.

Starters returning next year will be juniors Leanna Lam, Courtney Hall and Lebel, sophomore Brighid Kyle and freshman Marybeth Torpey. They lose seniors Rebekah Sorensen, Rachel Sorensen, Alysia DiMuzio, Powers and Walsh.

Central Defends City Track Titles

Central successfully defended its boys and girls titles in the recent 17th annual Quincy Public Schools Middle School City Track Meet that attracted nearly 400 athletes.

The team scores for the girls were: Central, 86.5; Atlantic, 28.5; Broad Meadows, 24.5; Sterling, 18; and Point Webster, 1.5.

Team scores for the boys were: Central, 72.25; Atlantic, 36.75; Point Webster, 22; Sterling, 18; and Broad Meadows, 11.

Individual winners for girls were: Jessica Howlett (Atlantic), 100 meters; Kendra Cahill (Central), 200 meters; Lindsay Reilly (Central), 400 meters; Lily Man (Central), 800 meters; Lauren Brooks (Atlantic), mile; Kathleen Gorman (Broad Meadows), high jump; Erin Collins (Central), shot-put; and Juliann Leone (Broad Meadows), long jump. Central won both the 4x100 and 4x352 relays.

Winners for boys were: Chris Brown (Central), 100 meters and long jump; Joe Vialpondo (Central), 200 meters; Jake Kerins (Atlantic), 400 meters; Matt Furey (Central), 800 meters; Mason Mayberry (Broad Meadows), mile; Lamonte Toombs (Atlantic), shot-put; and Tim Stille (Central), high jump. Central won both relays as well.

Meet Director Geoff Hennessy thanked officials Maureen Duggan, Charles Djerf, Jake Mahoney and Rich Hanlon of the MTFOA as well as coaches Peter Chrisom Jr., Brendan Welch, Reba Tierney and Jason Bialka of North Quincy/Quincy. Athletes from the combined North Quincy/Quincy cooperative track team assisted throughout the meet.

Hennessy also recognized the coaches of the five middle schools: Atlantic's Carolyn Parsley and Tina Markarian, Keith Kane of Broad Meadows, Central's Ricardo Cordaro and Kathleen Burke, Scott King of Point Webster and Sterling's Mark Halloran and Ellen Kielmeyer.

North Quincy Boys Bow To CM

VOLLEYBALL

The North Quincy High School boys' volleyball team suffered a 3-1 loss at third-seeded Catholic Memorial last Tuesday in a South Sectional quarterfinal match.

The sixth-seeded Red Raiders (12-6 overall) lost the first game, 30-24, rebounded with a 30-26 in the second game, but dropped the next two games, 30-20 and 30-26.

"I was pleased because it was our best effort of the year," said head coach Jim Rendle. "It was a great match against a real strong team.

"They were bigger than us and had more firepower than us. We had trouble blocking and that killed us. We needed more blocks. We couldn't stop them because of their height. But we beat them in other aspects of the game."

Junior middle hitter Imad Elkatrib powered the offense with 30 kills while also registering 18 digs and seven blocks.

Senior Frankie McKenna tallied 11 kills, senior outside hitter Ben Fang had six kills and 11 digs and senior setter Tuan Vu notched 32 assists.

Junior first-year player Anthony Black had four kills and four blocks, junior outside hitter Albert Luu had four kills, four digs and a block, and junior Harvey Sham added nine digs.

"We gained valuable tournament experience," Rendle said. "We have a number of kids coming back next year. We hope to improve on what we thought was a surprisingly successful season."

Moose, Corner Crew, Feenan, SSGA Win Babe Ruth International

Nick Poli allowed one earned run and struck out 11 to lead Braintree Moose to a 14-4 win over State Street Global Advisors in Babe Ruth International league action Sunday at Pond Street Field.

Poli hurled a three-pitch sixth inning and started a 1-2-3 double play to end the game. He also added two hits and scored three runs. John Rowland paced the offense with three hits and four RBI. Steve Anastasi and Mike Forbes also had three hits with two RBI and John Benoit had a strong game behind the plate. Tim Alsip made a nice catch to take away a hit.

For SSGA, Mark McCulley pitched well to keep the game close early. Chris McDaniels made a couple of sparkling defensive plays and had a hit. Steve Shattuck played a great game at shortstop and scored a run.

Moose 14, GDC 5

Sean McDonald went the distance, striking out 13 to pick up the victory. He also scored two runs. Tim Gillis had three hits and two RBI to pace the offense. Mike Forbes, Ryan Gorman and Brian Croake (three runs) each added two hits. John Rowland added to his team lead in walks and continued his golf glove play at first base.

For Graeber, Davis & Cantwell, Matt Guerriero pitched well into the fourth inning, keeping Moose batters off-balance. J.J. Downs pitched well in relief and James Sullivan banged out three hits, including two long doubles.

Feenan 8, Moose 7

Kenny Patey started on the mound for Feenan Financial and pitched well to keep Moose off the board early. Sean Kelly came on in relief to pick up the save. Jeff Ohlson led the offense with three hits, two RBI and a run scored. Justin Laura had a hit, reached base twice and played strong defense.

For Braintree Moose, they rallied from an 8-0 deficit and had the tying run at third base in the last inning, but couldn't push the run across. Chris Devlin and Anthony DiPalmo pitched well and added a hit. Steve Anastasi had two hits, an RBI and a run scored, and played well at shortstop. Nick Poli caught a good game and reached base three times, including a seventh-inning RBI double to bring Moose within a run.

Infinity 11, SSGA 9

Infinity Mortgage rallied from a 9-1 deficit with 10 unanswered runs. Brian Bertrand, Zach Helfrich, Eddie Hugill and Erik Anglehart each had two RBI. Anglehart struck out 12 batters in four innings of relief, allowing a walk and one hitter to reach base on an error.

For State Street Global Advisors, Steve Shattuck, Steve Mulligan (three RBI) and Chris McDaniel led the offense. Clayton Guerard, Kevin Mullarkey and Steve Babcock played well defensively.

Corner Crew 6, GDC 3

Will Head gave up four hits and struck out 10 in a complete-game effort. He mixed a great curveball with his fastball to retire nine straight at one point. Paul Reggianini hit a towering, two-run double while Greg McDouglas, Tommy Petitti and Brian Kilcullen all singled to produce the winning run. Steve Santana and Victoria Barney patrolled the outfield flawlessly as did Steve Barresi at first base.

For Graeber, Davis & Cantwell, Kevin Zagrodny pitched well with relief help from J.J. Downs (single). Lamonte Toombs had two hits and three RBI.

Feenan 14, SSGA 6

Feenan Financial's offense was led by Ken Patey (three hits, three RBI), Mike Gillespie (two doubles, single), Matt Jayne (two singles) and Justin Lawless (two singles). Trevor Richardson and Jayne sparkled in the field. Laura Leger pitched two hitless innings of relief.

For State Street Global Advisors, catcher Steve Babcock threw out two runners. Kyle Briody (two hits), Mark McCulley (two RBI) and Alex Dolan (double) paced the offense. Colin Dailey and Alex Thomas played well in the field.

SSGA 12, Moose 11

In a see-saw slugfest, Mark Sullivan played the game of his career with three hits and two exceptional catches in the field to save runs. He doubled, stole third and scored on Pat Dunn's single. Steve Shattuck struck out 12 in a complete-game win. Kevin Therrien, playing third base and later shortstop, made three quality plays to preserve the win.

For Braintree Moose Family Center, Nick Poli, Tim Gillis, Anthony DiPalmo and Brendan Murphy played well.

IM 7, CB 5

Infinity Mortgage's Alex Brean pitched five strong innings for the win, scattering four hits and fanning eight. Brian Bertrand had three hits (double) and three RBI and Edwin Nunez had two hits and three RBI. Dan Green collected his first league hit. Nathan Mahoney and Brendan Deasey played great defense.

For Commonwealth Building, Joe Lynch, Joe Madden and Billy Ahern drove in the runs while Peter Lawlor and Dan Murphy also got hits.

Basketball, Soccer Programs For Boys, Girls Start July 11

Joys Sports will hold basketball and soccer programs for boys and girls ages 8-13 beginning July 11.

SPOTLIGHT ON HEALTH & FITNESS

Exercises Take Different Forms

Q. There seem to be many different ways to complete certain exercises. I have a friend whose workout routine includes regular lunges, lunges with weights and walking lunges. Are the different variations of exercises just to keep people from being bored, or is there another purpose?

A. The variety of exercises can become overwhelming when deciding which ones are right for you. Most exercises progress from a basic form to a more advanced version, and determining which ones are right for you will depend on your goals, exercise experience and fitness level.

The many different lunges your friend completes should each have a purpose. Lunges are intended to strengthen the muscles of the legs (quadriceps, hamstrings and glutes). After you have learned the correct technique of completing lunges, and you can control your body weight, the next progression could be to perform the lunges while walking. Once this part of the exercise is done correctly, then the next progression could be to add weights to each hand to make the exercise more difficult.

Each change in progression is determined by how well you can complete the previous one. Your friend may perform these different types of lunges as a way to intensify her workouts. However, it is extremely important not to progress too quickly to a more advanced stage of an exercise until you have mastered it at a more basic level.

Remaining enthusiastic about your exercise routine can sometimes become a challenge. Doing the same exercises day after day can become boring. It is important to keep the excitement in your exercise program, but not by progressing to an exercise that is too advanced.

Not all exercises are for everyone. If you have any medical conditions or injuries, it is important to complete exercises that will allow you to remain safe and not cause additional injury. In these instances you may have to rule out certain exercises either temporarily or permanently.

For example, you may have seen someone perform a shoulder exercise that looks like fun. But if you have shoulder problems, this exercise may not be what you need to meet your goal of improving your shoulder strength. Many injuries are caused by watching other people exercise, then copying what they do instead of learning the purpose of the exercise and its proper technique.

Try to develop your own workout routine. Don't mimic the programs of others without knowing their specific reasons for performing those exercises. When in doubt, seek the help of a fitness professional.

Always consult a physician before beginning an exercise program. If you have a fitness or training question, e-mail Andrea at letters.kfws@ hearstsc.com, or write her in care of King Features Weekly Service, P.O. Box 536475, Orlando, FL 32853-6475.

Sprains, Strains And Muscle Spasms: What They Are, Protecting Yourself

By DR. ANN DOGGETT

Sprains, strains and muscle spasms can give you a great deal of pain. By knowing what they are and how to protect yourself, you can save yourself a lot of discomfort and enjoy the spring activities.

Sprain

You are playing baseball or just starting to enjoy golfing after a long New England winter, when suddenly your ankle turns over and you feel a wrenching pain but can still walk with a little discomfort. The real pain comes later. This is a sprain.

When the joint is forced to go beyond its normal range of motion, causing overstretch and tear of the ligaments, sprain occurs. When blood leaks from the injured ligament to the surrounding tissue and joint, it causes pain and discomfort. Back sprains are usually severe. Acute sprains need the attention of a doctor and/or chiropractor.

Strain

If you injured a muscle or a tendon when you twisted your ankle, you have a strain. It is not as serious as a sprain. Strain happens when you forget to warm up before using a muscle. It can be chronic or acute.

Spasm

After a long day at work, you go home and bend over to pick up your child for a kiss. You feel the pain on one side of your back rebel and clamp down into a spasm. (I am sure this doesn't affect your love for your child.)

A muscle spasm is a sudden, forceful and sustained muscle contraction. It is usually caused by a direct injury to the muscle, excessive exercise or chronic strain. When you have a muscle spasm, you will feel the muscle bulges and is hard to the touch. It is painful and feels as if it's tied in a knot.

When you overwork the muscles around the spine, they will contract and protect the spine. If something is wrong with the discs or facet joints, muscles go into spasm to hold everything in place to prevent the spine from further injury. Protective muscle spasm can be chronic. If can be the cause of scoliosis or abnormal spinal curvature.

Tip To Project Your Spine

- Warm up your muscles and joints before exercise.
- Stretch them out when you are through exercising.
- Keep your muscles flexible with daily slow stretching.
- Have your spine checked by a chiropractor to correct any defects in joint mobility and misalignment of the spine. By maintaining a healthy spine you restore the proper function of your body.

DENTISTRY for the 21st Century

by Steven A. Brustin, D.M.D.

SAME OLD STORY

Cost remains the major hurdle that prevents many older individuals from getting the dental care they need. This conclusion comes from researchers who found that more than half of the individuals over age 60 who were studied faced barriers to seeing a dentist. The expense was seen as the most serious barrier to seeking dental treatment, and the vast majority of seniors surveyed had no dental insurance. As for the younger seniors in the group studied, they were especially apprehensive about spending a significant amount of money on dental care because they had recently retired and were living on fixed incomes. Seniors over age 75 cited lack of transportation and anxiety as barriers to dental care.

This column has been brought to you in the interest of better dental health. Our family oriented practice encourages comprehensive complete care with emphasis on prevention through early detection. We'll be sure to review your oral and general health history and give you all the options available to you. Your dental health is our number one priority. Please call 617-479-6220 to schedule an appointment for gentle dental care. We're located at 44 Greenleaf Street, where we are currently accepting new patients. We offer the services of anesthesiology with a fully trained and qualified anesthesiologist. Visit us on the web at www.quincydentist.com.

P.S. Many of the older seniors in the study mentioned above remembered a time when going to the dentist was associated with painful procedures without anesthesia.

A Job Well Done

By SGT. DAN MINTON

On May 11 at approximately 11:30 a.m., an employee at the CVS Pharmacy on Quincy Shore Drive called stating that a man with a gun just robbed the store. Sergeant Richard Curran and Officer Brian Coen responded and interviewed a citizen, who stated that the suspect fled to a side street and drove away in a brown SUV. The witness provided a key piece of evidence, the license plate.

Officer Coen went inside the store and interviewed Pharmacy employees, who said that the suspect approached the counter, pulled a black handgun from the waist of his pants and demanded that a bag be filled with the prescription drug, Oxycontin. Once the bag was filled, the suspect fled out of the store with over 800 pills. Officer Coen reviewed the videotape and took the copy as evidence.

SGT. DAN MINTON

Meanwhile, Sgt. Curran determined that the license plate listing came back to an address on Atlantic St., Quincy. Sgt. Curran directed Officers James McNeil, John O'Donnell, Paul Foley and Thomas Ford to surround the house and then mediated the surrender of the suspect. The suspect emerged from the rear of the house and was taken at gunpoint by Officer McNeil.

Detectives John Menz and James Lencki advised the suspect of his Miranda rights and then brought him back to CVS. The witnesses identified the suspect as did the videotape from the store. The investigation did not end here. Still missing were the prescription bottles with over 800 pills as well as the gun.

Detective Mark Kennedy obtained a search warrant for the apartment and common areas. Once in the apartment, Lt. Richard McKusker located a black semi-automatic pellet gun, hidden under some clothing. Clothing articles matching the suspect's were also found.

In the outside trash barrel, Detective Jim Lencki recovered 10 bottles of Oxycontin in a CVS bag. The defendant, a 24-year-old Quincy resident, was charged with armed robbery, larceny of a controlled substance and unlawful possession of a firearm. He also had two outstanding warrants. Citizens coming forward and thorough police work led to the arrest.

Nice work!

Anthony Caruso Senior Vice President of Branch Administration For Bank of Canton

Anthony Caruso has been named senior vice president of Branch Administration for Bank of Canton, announces James D. Egan, Bank of Canton president and CEO.

Caruso is a banking industry veteran with more than 25 years of experience. Based in Canton, he will be responsible for overseeing sales initiatives and general operations of the entire branch network, which includes offices in Canton, Quincy and Randolph as well as Brookline, which is expected to open at 1299 Beacon St. this spring.

Caruso will also be involved in the future growth of the company through branch expansion, new business opportunities and furthering retail staff development.

ANTHONY CARUSO

Previously, Caruso spent 14 years as the vice president of Retail Banking for The Co-operative Bank of Concord and Bank of Braintree. He also spent six years as the senior vice president of Retail Banking and Marketing at Bay State Federal Bank in Brookline before being named regional vice president of Greater Boston for Compass Bank for Savings in Brookline.

He was also employed as the business development officer and manager of Mortgage Operations for Quincy Co-operative Bank, and subsequently for The Co-operative Bank in Quincy.

An active member of the community, Caruso is director of the Bay State Federal Savings Charitable Foundation, a board member of the Neponset Valley Chamber of Commerce and past president and twice past treasurer of the Randolph Rotary Club.

In Town, Fore Rivers

MWRA Will Clean Up Sewage Spill

The Massachusetts Water Resources Authority (MWRA) next month will begin an environmental cleanup in portions of the Town and Fore rivers stemming from a sewage spill in Quincy Bay last year.

Quincy will be part of a remediation plan that came after millions of gallons of sewage was spilled into Quincy Bay because of a power failure at the Nut Island Treatment Plan. Mayor William Phelan prodded the agency to include Quincy in the deal.

"I am pleased that the MWRA has seen the wisdom of associating their mitigation with the affected pollution," said Phelan. "The citizens of Quincy were made to tolerate releases from this plant for many unfortunate years and last year's release, though isolated to one instance, was extremely discouraging after many years of progress. The boaters and people of Quincy will now benefit from cleaner and safer waterways as a result of this project."

The MWRA will hire a contractor to remove floating debris from the waterways. The debris can pose a safety hazard to boaters and may eventually wash ashore into tidal wetlands.

Darby's Food, Liquor Licenses Transferred To New Restaurant

By MARIE D'OLIMPIO

The License Board granted a transfer of the common victualer, all alcoholic license held by Sailfish Enterprises Corp., doing business as Darby's Public House, 35 Washington St. to Amy Gorham, who will manage a new restaurant called The Salt Box.

For many years, the site was the former Conway & Nally and then Darby's Public House.

Until recently, Gorham was part owner of The Sly Fox on Copeland St. (former Rouillard's.)

Health Commissioner Drew Scheele advised Gorham to have her employees take a food safety course, which she said she plans to next month. Also to update the grease barrels in the rear of the building.

Gorham said she would focus on serving more food including lunches to the many new businesses coming in the area.

License For Computer Games Postponed By Board

By MARIE D'OLIMPIO

A request to the License Board Tuesday to open a new computer gaming business featuring games, lessons, printing and computer repairs was postponed until June 21.

Health Commissioner Drew Scheele, sitting in for Chairman Joseph Shea told the owners Aurora and Robert Oh and Michael Condon that he wants to view another gaming business in Weymouth before the board votes on the proposal.

Sandra Oh said there are two other gaming places in Weymouth and one in Boston.

Scheele said he would take a drive down to Weymouth to view the concept.

Police Chief Robert Crowley said he was concerned over long lines waiting outside if the establishment was crowded.

Robert Oh said they plan to have a couch and chairs for those waiting to go on the internet.

Oh said they would not allow any loitering and would make sure to notify those waiting outside.

There will be 15 stations which would allow internet access from those 14 years of age to 30.

Condon said they plan to be "vigilant and follow standards created a well as restrictions.

The site is across the from the former Quincy Jade.

Patrick T. Gallagher of Quincy earned a bachelor's degree from Manhattan College in Riverdale, N.Y.

Foundation Head Defends Barry On Scholarship Funds

not see any illegality."

Theresa Lord-Piatelli, one of Barry's chief critics, questioned McTiernan's assessment, saying, "I don't know how she can have that level of confidence, because she hasn't seen the books."

Lord-Piatelli criticized Barry for what she said was his refusal to inform the board about his spending practices.

"It was very wrong not to be informed about what was going on with the foundation and use of foundation funds," she said. "Myself and other board members have felt misled."

In 2003, Mayor William Phelan commissioned an audit of the foundation that documented $75,000 spending on administrative travel and entertainment over an 18-month period. The money was reimbursed by the city as a business expense, but Phelan eventually refused to continue the practice after September 2003.

Despite the city's refusal, Barry continued to pay for travel and entertainment expenses through the foundation, according to Lord-Piatelli.

Specifically, Barry used foundation funds to reimburse travel expenses for trips to Las Vegas, San Francisco, San Diego, Colorado, Orlando and New Orleans, among others, according to Lord-Piatelli.

Thousands of dollars were spent on dozens of tickets to the Red Sox, the Wang Center, the Celtics and Radio City Music Hall.

According to McTiernan, "unrestricted funds" can be used for various activities, such as anything that "enriches college and campus life," she said.

"These funds can be used to enhance college life or to do anything that is in the college's best interest," said McTiernan. Over the years, foundation monies have been utilized for several college activities, including its salute to the troops, community cookouts and receptions for the college's honor society awards.

"They are wonderful events for the community," she said.

But Lord-Piatelli said she and other board members made contributions to the foundation with the idea the funds would be used for scholarships only.

"Did these donors have any idea or reason to believe that the money they were donating to the foundation was being used for Sean Barry's travel expenses?" she asked.

McTiernan, as chair of the foundation, said she was under the assumption that Barry was reimbursing the fund all along.

But according to Donovan, Barry never received "written notice" from the mayor that checks would not be reimbursed after a certain time.

"In the past, it was such a long period of time before being reimbursed that he didn't know whether he would be reimbursed or not," Donovan said of Barry. "If this was something that important don't you think Sean would have received a written memo about it?"

Phelan responded by saying, "At this point and time, given the proceedings that are ongoing by the board of governors, I don't believe it would be helpful to comment."

Donovan also complained that copies of foundation checks have been circulating in the local newspaper.

"Trying this case in the press is inappropriate," said Donovan. "These checks were not presented at the board of governors meeting, but they appear in the newspapers. Sean asked to hear or see any specific allegations and they didn't have any."

McTiernan said she would not be surprised if the negative publicity puts a severe damper on the college's fundraising efforts.

"People will ask, 'Do I know for sure where my money goes?'" she said. "But they have to know that scholarship money cannot be used for that purpose. You cannot intermingle funds.

"We have been concentrating on our buildup to the 50th anniversary of the college. The college is such a jewel and a gem, and all of this is just tarnishing it," she said.

Firemen's Memorial Services To Be Held Sunday, June 12

The annual Quincy Firemen's Memorial Services honoring deceased members will be held Sunday, June 12, at 9 a.m. at the Firemen's Memorial Monument in Mount Wollaston Cemetery.

Firemen's Memorial Sunday has been set aside as the second Sunday in June by all fire departments throughout the state.

A detail will form at the cemetery gate on Sea Street at 8:30 a.m. and march to the Firemen's Memorial Monument for the program. At the conclusion of the service those attending are invited to Quincy Fire Headquarters, where there will be refreshments and fire apparatus on display.

Participants at the exercises for Quincy deceased firefighters will be Fire Chief Paul O'Connell, Fire Chaplain Father Robert Conole and officers of the Quincy Firemen's Relief Association, President Ernest Arienti, Vice President Chris Barry, Treasurer Kevin O'Connor, and Secretary Paul Moody.

In the event of inclement weather, the program will be conducted at the Quincy Fire Headquarters, 40 Quincy Ave.

SCOTT DEWARE

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

It seems a pertinent question to ask these days, "What does the flag mean to you? Is it only a symbol? If so, of what? Our nation's independence? Is it identified only with a ritualistic habit?

What do the colors of red, white and blue mean? Do the number of stars mean only a union of separate states? Do the stars mean anything else? What do the red and white stripes represent? Does the color of red symbolize the blood shed by soldiers to gain independence for us? Does it indicate the valor, zeal and fervency of the American way? Does the white indicate hope, purity and cleanliness? Does the blue indicate the color of the sky and sea which in turn indicates reverence to God? ... It may mean some of the these things to some people. But should it not mean, above everything else, a symbol of American Civilization, Enlightenment and Liberty; a reflection of patriotism at its finest?

Salome's Stars

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Still operating under a full head of self-esteem makes you want to tackle a matter you had shied away from. OK. But be sure to arm yourself with facts before you make a move.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) That smart move you recently made caught the attention of a lot of people, including some with financial deals to offer. Use your Taurean wariness to check them out thoroughly.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) Shyness might keep you from asking for more information on a potentially important matter. But your curiosity grows stronger by midweek and gives you the impetus for data-gathering.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) Taking on too many tasks may not be the wise thing to do at this time. You might overspend both your physical and emotional energy reserves, and have to miss out on some upcoming events.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) Try to keep your spending at an affordable level. Splurging now — especially on credit — could create a problem if your finances are too low for you to take advantage of a possible opportunity.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) You might not approve of a colleague's behavior over much of the week. But don't play the judgmental Virgo card here. As always, check the facts before you assume the worst.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) Coping with an old issue that has suddenly re-emerged could take a big toll on your emotional energies. Decide whether you really want to pursue the possibilities here.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) For all your skill in keeping your secrets safe, you could be unwittingly letting one slip out by the way you're behaving in that new relationship. Are congratulations soon to be in order?

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) Good old-fashioned horse sense could help you get around those who unknowingly or deliberately put obstacles in your way. Ignore the confusion and follow your own lead.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) A puzzling attitude change in a colleague from friendly to chilly might stem from a long-hidden resentment suddenly bubbling up. An open and honest talk should resolve the problem.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) This week, many ever-generous Aquarians might find themselves feeling an acquisitive urge. If so, indulge it. You've earned the right to treat yourself to wonderful things.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) Expect to get a lot of advice on how to go about implementing your plans. But once you've sorted it all out, you'll probably find that, once again, your way will be the best way.

BORN THIS WEEK: You enjoy the quiet times of your life, but when you're in the mood, you can throw a party everyone will want to go to.

HERE IS A PLEASANT LITTLE GAME that will give you a message every day. It's a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner and check one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

NOTICE OF INTENT TO REQUEST RELEASE OF FUNDS

CITY OF QUINCY, 1305 Hancock Street
Quincy, MA 02169
Tel. (617) 376-1373

DATE: May 31, 2005
APPLICATIONS No. B-05-MC-25-0021
And M-05-DC-250214

TO ALL INTERESTED AGENCIES, GROUPS AND PERSONS

On June 16, 2005 the CITY OF QUINCY will request the U.S. Department of Housing & Urban Development (HUD) to release federal funds under Title I of the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1974 (PL 93-383) and the National Affordable Housing Act of 1990 for:

1) PROJECT TITLE: Housing Rehabilitation; PURPOSE/NATURE: Owner occupied/rental housing rehabilitation, deleading and handicapped accessibility grants and loans to be undertaken by the City and Neighborhood Housing Services; LOCATION: Quincy and Weymouth, Norfolk County, MA. EST COST: $1,480,000 (CDBG; HOME; and Private)

2) PROJECT TITLE: Public Facilities Improvements; PURPOSE/NATURE: Renovation of public facilities that service primarily low and moderate-income persons; LOCATION: Quincy, Norfolk County, MA: EST. COST: $360,000 (CDBG and Private)

3) PROJECT TITLE: Public Works Improvements; PURPOSE/NATURE: Reconstruction of streets and sidewalks; installation of sewer/water lines, and other public improvements in low to moderate-income service areas (EST. COST: $200,000) or urban revitalization districts (EST. COST: $500,000); LOCATION: Quincy, Norfolk County, MA; (CDBG; State and Local)

4) PROJECT TITLE: Commercial Loan and Technical Assistance to Microenterprise; PURPOSE/NATURE: Assistance to private, for-profit business for the reconstruction or renovation of commercial, industrial or retail structures; LOCATION: Quincy, Norfolk County, MA; EST. COST: $315,000 (CDBG and Private)

5) PROJECT TITLE: Community Housing Development Organization Program (CHDO); PURPOSE/NATURE: Acquisition and rehabilitation of single/multifamily housing by Neighborhood Housing Services or Quincy Community Action Prgorams; LOCATION: Quincy and Weymouth, Norfolk County, MA; EST. COST: $2,750,000 (HOME and Private)

6) PROJECT TITLE: Rental Production; PURPOSE/NATURE: Acquisition and rehabilitation of affordable rental housing units by non-CHDO. LOCATION: Quincy and Weymouth, Norfolk County, MA; EST. COST: $947,000 (HOME and Private)

The activities proposed are categorically excluded under HUD regulations at 24 CFR Part 58 from National Environmental Policy Act requirements. An Environmental Review Record that documents the environmental determinations for these projects are on file at the Department of Planning and Community Development, 1305 Hancock Street, Quincy, MA 02169 where the record is available for review and may be examined or copied weekdays 9:00 AM to 4:00 PM.

PUBLIC COMMENTS: Any individual, group, or agency may submit written comments on the ERR to the Department of Planning and Community Development, 1305 Hancock Street, Quincy, MA 02169. All comments received by June 15, 2005 will be considered by the City of Quincy prior to authorizing submission of a request for release of funds.

RELEASE OF FUNDS: The City of Quincy certifies to HUD that Mayor William J. Phelan in his capacity as Mayor consents to accept the jurisdiction of the Federal Courts if an action is brought to enforce responsibilities in relation to the environmental review process and that these responsibilities have been satisfied. HUD's approval of the certification satisfies its responsibilities under NEPA and related laws and authorities, and allows the City of Quincy to use Program funds.

OBJECTIONS TO RELEASE OF FUNDS: HUD will accept objections to its release of funds and the City of Quincy's certification for a period of fifteen days following the anticipated submission date or its actual receipt of the request (whichever is later) only if they are on one of the following bases: (a) the certification was not executed by the Certifying Officer of the City of Quincy; (b) the City of Quincy has omitted a step or failed to make a decision or finding required by HUD regulations at 24 CFR Part 58; (c) the grant recipient has committed funds or incurred costs not authorized by 24 CFR Part 58 before approval of a release of funds by HUD/State; or (d) another Federal agency acting pursuant to 40 CFR Part 1504 has submitted a written finding that the project is unsatisfactory from the standpoint of environmental quality. Objections must be prepared and submitted in accordance with the required procedures (24 CFR Part 58) and shall be addressed to HUD grant administration office at Address of that office. Potential objectors should contact HUD to verify the actual last day of the objection period.

Jonathan Green And Owen Kane

Two Attorneys Fill Vacancies In Solicitor's Office

The City of Quincy has hired two new attorneys to fill vacancies in the solicitor's office, Mayor William Phelan announces.

Joining the city in the role of assistant city solicitor are Attorneys Jonathan Green and Owen Kane.

Kane was an assistant city solicitor in Lowell for the past three years. He has served as the general counsel and director of legislative affairs for the Massachusetts Department of Economic Development.

He holds a Masters of Public Administration from Harvard University's John F. Kennedy School of Government, a Juris Doctorate from Widener University School of Law and a Bachelor of Arts in Politics from St. Joseph's University.

Green previously worked at Bingham McCuthcen, LLP of Boston. He is a graduate of the University of Chicago Law School and the University of Pennsylvania where he earned a Bachelor of Arts degree in Psychology with a minor in Anthropology.

"We are fortunate that such talented young attorneys are willing to enter the public service sector," said Phelan. "Both Attorney Green and Attorney Kane are great additions to our hard-working and productive legal team."

First Assistant City Solicitor Jay MacRitchie left the solicitor's office last month to take the position of executive director of the Quincy Housing Authority. Assistant City Solicitor Christine Griffin left the office for a position at Perkins, Smith and Cohen.

Andrew Ayer Resigns, Citing Lack Of Authority

City Seeks Harbormaster

By WILLIAM TRAYNOR

As the boating season shifts into high gear, the city is searching for a harbormaster to oversee Quincy's 27-mile coastline.

Andrew Ayer last week resigned from his part-time position as harbormaster, citing a constant tug of war with the city council over funding and a lack of authority in overseeing Quincy's coastline. The end result was a job that was more frustrating than anything else, he said.

"I took an oath to uphold certain things, like boater safety and to come up with a harbor plan," said Ayer. "The city lacks any type of harbor plan - we have no minimum standards."

Ayer said the city's inability to approve a harbor plan, which includes new mooring fees for boaters, prevented him from doing an effective job.

"If you want to implement a harbor plan you have to raise money to do it, and the best way to raise that money was to get it from the boaters, like all other towns do," he said. "But lacking any money in the budget to do that, it was very frustrating."

Ayer, who has held the job since 2002, submitted his resignation to Mayor William Phelan. The mayor could not be reached for comment.

Ayer said he was also frustrated that no money has been appropriated for the Harbormaster in the Fiscal 2006 budget. Instead, he said, the mayor's office proposed bringing in a supplemental appropriation later in the fiscal year.

His $15,000 budget for Fiscal 2005 was just recently approved by the city council after several months of delays. He said he would not be surprised to see a repeat of that struggle this year.

"Whoever they get, I hope they pay him to do the job," said Ayer. "Quincy is one of 11 designated harbors in the state, and there is so much to be done here. We haven't even started yet - it's a shame."

Last year, the state Inspector General's office opined that the city was sidestepping state law by failing to properly track boats moored in Quincy's waters. Inspector General Gregory Sullivan told city officials that lax regulations posed a potential safety threat.

Sullivan's letter prompted Ayer to draft a harbor plan, including a proposal to oversee mooring permits and several other issues. Start-up costs associated with a mooring program would cost about $100,000, and that money could be raised through the introduction of a mooring fee, Ayer maintained.

Earlier this year, Ayer, with Phelan's backing, proposed mooring fees for residents and non-residents. But that effort was stopped dead in its tracks by the city council, which voted to give itself greater control over mooring fees. Ultimately, Phelan signed a local ordinance which gives the council final approval over any mooring fees.

In 2003, the city council handily rejected mooring fees after hearing complaints from angry boaters.

Ayer said the city council continues to ignore the fact that two-thirds of all boats moored in Quincy are owned by non-residents. As a result, much of the funds raised from a mooring fee would be derived from out-of-towners, he said.

Ayer admitted that his relationship with boaters has not always been a congenial one.

"I think they (boaters) had a problem with any change in boating regulations," said Ayer. "They didn't want to have proper moorings. You have to have regulations like that, and we don't. "That's why I didn't have acceptance by the boaters."

But some councillors said Ayer did not foster a good relationship with the boating community.

"He (Ayer) had a meeting last year with boaters about his mooring plan and they complained that he was arrogant and nasty with them," said Ward 1 Councillor Leo Kelly. "The boaters still talk to me about it - he really got them upset."

Officials Criticize Archdiocese For Rejecting Manet Proposal

City Determined In Bid For St. Boniface

By WILLIAM TRAYNOR

City officials are vowing to forge ahead with a plan to purchase the former St. Boniface Church in Germantown after the Archdiocese of Boston rejected a bid by Manet Community Health Center to turn the building into a full service, multi-million dollar health and neighborhood center.

The archdiocese last week turned down a $420,000 bid that was hammered out by the city, Manet and the church's real estate broker over the past several weeks. The rejection has left many observers scratching their heads, but city officials are adamant about not allowing the former church to be turned over to a private developer.

"It came as both a surprise and a disappointment," said Planning Director Dennis Harrington. "But the mayor has firmed up his resolve to ensure the facility is not lost for a potential neighborhood community center."

Harrington said the city is prepared to "jump through hoops" to keep Manet in the picture, but suggested Quincy may have to step in as principal owner if the Manet deal cannot be resurrected.

If necessary, the city has adequate funds in a Community Development Block Grant account to make its own bid, he said.

Manet CEO Antonia McGuire said she received word last Friday from the Archdiocese that it would not accept a proposal to sell the St. Boniface land. The archdiocese provided no explanation for its actions, however.

Calls placed to the archdiocese were not returned.

Interested parties were perplexed at the development because the archdiocese has said previously that a building's use would factor heavily into the sale of closed parishes.

"We put together what we thought was the best community use for that particular property," said McGuire. "It was a very good opportunity for this community and now it may be a missed opportunity."

McGuire said Manet representatives will soon meet with city officials and other interested parties to determine the next course of action.

City and elected officials described Manet's proposal

Cites Drinking, Illegal Fireworks, Outsiders At Edgewater Drive

Crowley Promises Police 4th Of July Crackdown

The combination of booze and fireworks is bringing down the wrath of Police Chief Robert Crowley on Fourth of July festivities on Edgewater Drive in Houghs Neck.

The chief has promised that as many as 40 or 45 officers will on duty the night of July 3 to put a stop to underage drinking, illegal fireworks and bonfires.

But the big attraction, the fireworks sponsored by the town of Weymouth and fired from a barge in the river between the two communities.

ROBERT CROWLEY is beyond the reach of the Quincy police chief.

His target is the upwards of 4,000 people, many of them from outside Quincy, who have been known to show up for the show, bringing with them firewood, fireworks and firewater.

Crowley called the resulting festivities "an uncontrollable situation."

He said he plans to block streets leading to Edgewater Drive on July 3 afternoon, check all coolers and backpacks and warn hosts who are known to throw big parties to cool it.

"Edgewater Drive is no longer going to be a magnet for drunken and assaultive behavior," he said.

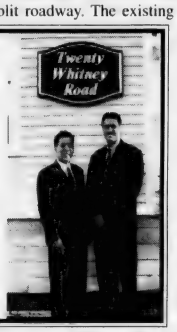
Safety Improvements Underway At Rte. 3A Intersection

The long-anticipated traffic changes to the intersection of Hancock St. and Merrymount Parkway are now underway, according to Mayor William Phelan's office.

The state is altering the intersection to improve traffic and pedestrian safety there. The state plans to reconfigure the intersection into a "T" intersection by eliminating a portion of the split roadway. The existing lanes that veer off in a northerly direction will be eliminated and reclaimed as parkland. A traffic light will be added to the new intersection.

"The improved safety, especially for young children walking to school, is paramount," said Phelan. "The improvements will provide a higher level of safety for pedestrians and motorists alike."



The intersection has been identified as one of the most dangerous intersections in the city. The length of the pedestrian crosswalks across Merrymount Parkway and the traffic issues caused by motorists crossing Hancock St. from Merrymount Parkway to Standish Ave. have led to an inordinate number of traffic accidents at this location.

Phelan thanked Quincy's state legislative delegation and said the city can move forward with plans for the World War II Memorial and completion of the formal garden area.

"This will be a beautiful and unique addition to our park system," said Phelan.

Motorists are cautioned to be aware of construction that could cause traffic delays and should seek alternate commuter routes.

Paves Way For 15-Story Buildings

Council Approves Downtown Rezoning

By WILLIAM TRAYNOR

Fifteen-story buildings in Quincy Center are poised to become a reality after the city council approved a major overhaul of zoning rules in the downtown district.

After months of debate, the city council Monday night endorsed Mayor William Phelan's proposal to jumpstart redevelopment efforts in downtown Quincy, paving the way for dramatic changes in the area.

Coupled with tax and financial incentives, the council's 7-0 vote rubberstamps Phelan's plan to attract developers to Quincy Center as a means of revitalizing the long-suffering downtown.

Phelan hailed the council vote, saying the city has removed several barriers that hindered earlier attempts at redeveloping the downtown.

"Two years ago, we identified three major impediments - infrastructure, zoning and financing - that have prevented redevelopment in Quincy Center, and we set out to overcome those obstacles," said Phelan. "With the passage of the new zoning district, the state's first-ever approved DIF district plan and the continued progression of the Quincy Center Concourse, we have put Quincy Center in position for a major revitalization. I am very excited about the future of Quincy Center."

In general, councillors praised the mayor's ambitious plan, calling it a significant step forward for the city.

"It will reshape Quincy Center as we know it for many years to come," said Ward 5 Councillor Doug Gutro.

Council President Frank McCauley said the overall proposal is a step in the right direction.

"This is a positive step forward and it should change the complexion of downtown Quincy," said McCauley. "Up to this point, the city has gone about it the right way, but the key will be selling this thing to developers."

A highlight of Phelan's plan is a push to build 15-story buildings in certain areas of Quincy Center. Originally, the mayor pushed for 15-stories throughout the entire district, but the council carved out a large portion of the area to designate 15 stories in only certain locations. The rest of the district will remain at the present 10-story limit to preserve outlying neighborhoods that abut downtown Quincy.

In addition to lifting height restrictions, the council approved several provisions, including:

• New density and parking guidelines that will encourage more residential development with retail space on the ground level of buildings.

• Limits on lot sizes to promote consolidation of property and to ensure that larger developments are restricted to big land lots.

• A streamlined permitting process that makes the city planning board the main authority for granting development permits downtown.

• Language that preserves the city's inclusionary zoning ordinance to ensure that developers set aside a certain amount of affordable housing for occupants.

• Assurances that the planning board preserves historic landmarks.

According to the ordinance approved by the council, the boundaries of the new downtown zoning district

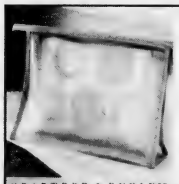
LOCKS OF LOVE -- Seven-year-old Kristy Rose Arnott and her brother, T.J. Arnott, 13, of Quincy, recently had their ponytails clipped at Aura Salon in Quincy Center. They donated their hair to Locks of Love, an organization that makes wigs for children who have lost their hair because of cancer. The children grew their hair for about 2 and a half years.

Committee Votes Clampdown On Illegal Storm Drains

The city council's ordinance committee has unanimously endorsed legislation that cracks down on illicit connections and discharges to the City of Quincy storm drainage system.



On a 9-0 vote Monday night, the committee supported Ward 5 Councillor Doug Gutro's move to prevent pollutants from entering Quincy's drainage system.

"There is a new tool in the toolbox that will be in place this summer to help reduce pollution to the beaches and the bay," said Gutro. "Even one toilet to a home or business connected to a storm drain has the potential to close a beach."

The ordinance also prohibits illegal connections and unauthorized discharges into the system, requires the removal of all illicit connections, ensures compliance with all federal and state regulations relative to stormwater discharges and establishes legal authority to insure compliance with the provisions of the ordinance through inspections, monitoring and enforcement.

The proposed law sets up stiff penalties for those who knowingly or unknowingly break the law.

September More Popular For Brides?

They may not be playing "Here Comes The Bride" as often in June as they used to.

You might be hearing it more in September.

In Quincy, at least, according to marriage intention figures in the Vital Statistics Department of City Clerk Joseph Shea's office.

Staffer Brenda Fernandez notes September has led June in total marriage intentions filed for the last three years — 298 to 263. (There have been only 37 for June so far this year.)

"About 95 percent of the couples get married in the same month they file their intentions," she says. "They usually file two to three weeks ahead. But they can file up to just three days before the wedding."

Actually over the last three years, August had the most intentions filed with 301 — just three more than September.

But Brenda says a good number of the August intentions were for September weddings.

"The last two weeks of August are really busy," she says.

May was up there with 295 intentions, some of which, no doubt were for June weddings.

July had 235 and October 217.

July 4th and Columbus Day weekends have become popular wedding times.

And apparently there aren't as many Christmas weddings as you might think. Only 128 intentions filed in December the last three years.

Least popular month for getting married would seem to be January which had only 121 intentions the last three years.

The other months:

February: 127. March: 145. April: 214. October: 217. November: 131.

The marriage ceremony must be performed within 60 days from the date of the application/intention. Fee is $35. Once upon a time it was $2.

SAME SEX MARRIAGES seem to be leveling off.

Last year when they became legal, 47 gay couples applied. Of these 26 were male couples and 21 female.

This year, so far, only 11 couples have applied, seven female, four male.

IF ANYONE WANTS to get married at City Hall they can during regular office hours: Monday through Friday, 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. Ceremonies are by appointment only. The fee is $50 — $50 in cash.

❑

MIKE McFARLAND isn't letting any grass grow under his feet in his bid for the city councillor at-large seat Frank McCauley is leaving.

McFARLAND

His campaign kickoff is set for tonight (Thursday) 7 to 10 p.m. at the Adams Inn, 29 Hancock St., North Quincy. And you might say the price is right: $15 per person, $25 per family.

McFarland, vice chairman of the Quincy school committee, wasted little time in announcing his candidacy for councillor at-large.

That was last year, shortly after McCauley said he was stepping into political retirement after a 32-year career that includes four terms as mayor. McFarland even had bumper stickers in circulation last year.

The feeling is that by jumping in early, and with his track record in the vote-getting department, he may have discouraged other potential candidates — including one or two ward councillors — from getting in. As of this writing he is the only official candidate for that seat.

FORMER QUINCY TRAFFIC Engineer Roy Lamotte, Jr. is getting acclimated to life in Florida where he is now the Transportation Manager for the City of Tampa.

The Sun's Will Traynor met him there recently while on vacation and Lamotte took him on a guided tour of the cosmopolitan city. Lamotte apparently plans to stay. He recently bought a home in the new Tampa area.

It's probably cooler down there than it has been in Quincy the past few days.

LaRAIA

DICK DALE, "The King of Surf Guitar," reminisced about growing up in Quincy Point as a recent speaker at the Quincy Historical Society. Fondly remembered Shea St. where he lived, the Pollard School and other Quincy Point places that meant a lot to him as a youngster.

In the audience was another Quincy Pointer, former Mayor Joe LaRaia (also a singer) who lived near Dale.

But Dale was younger and they had never met until one day they bumped into one another at Baxter Pharmacy.

"That was some 50 years ago," LaRaia notes.

So, Joe wasn't too sure Dale would remember him when he said hello at the Historical Society and added, "Baxter Pharmacy."

That quickly turned the clock back for Dale and he gave LaRaia a bear hug.

But, Joe, maybe you have a face people just can't forget.

MORRIS

A REMINDER FROM Lennie Morris, World War II veteran: "The state is honoring all World War II veterans Saturday at noon at the Charlestown Navy Yard. I hope as many as possible can attend and be honored. There aren't many of us left."

MILESTONE: Deanna Gazarian and husband Greg Seymourian, owners of Phase II Jewelry in Quincy Center, have a new grandson.

And Deanna is handing out chocolate bars with personalized wrappers announcing the birth of Christopher Robert Cherry, born May 26 at Brigham and Women's Hospital.

He is the second child and second son of Jessica and Brian Cherry of Milton. Their first is Daniel, 15 months. Cherry is the Milton police prosecutor at Quincy District Court and she is an attorney in Sheriff Michael Bellotti's legal department.

Deanna is a past president of the Quincy Business Association.

Congratulations!

Germantown Beach Clean-Up Backfires

This Week
1961
44 Years Ago

An experiment with chemicals in the clean-up of oil from the Riverbank Road Beach in Germantown backfired. The oil dislodged from Germantown, floated across Town River and landed on Avalon Beach in Quincy Point.

"I'm through with chemicals," Mayor Amelio Della Chiesa said after inspecting the new oil deposits in Quincy Point.

The experiment was done by a Boston firm whose employees sprayed a small section of the Riverbank Road beach and then used a fire hose to wash it off.

The oil on the Germantown beach escaped from a tanker discharging crude oil on the Quincy Point side of the river last fall.

McINTYRE HITS VOLPE FOR ATTACK ON JFK

Rep. James McIntyre criticized Gov. John Volpe for a speech he made in New York attacking President Kennedy's foreign policy.

"I am disturbed that Governor Volpe has chosen to go out of state to attack our native son President," McIntyre said. He also pointed out that in the area of foreign affairs, the President has almost universal bipartisan support.

"I believe that it would be in the best interest of Massachusetts if the governor would spend more time in state, trying to straighten out the disgraceful condition of the various divisions of his former department, the DPW, and pay more attention to solving transportation problems in a less dictatorial and autocratic manner that he approached the South Shore problem."

MORRISETTE DEFEATS QUINCY, 4-0

In American Legion baseball competition this week, Morrisette defeated Post 95's team, 4-0.

Bob Mina led Morrisette with three hits. Hugh McDonald, Jack Walsh and Ed Guilfoyle each had singles.

Bill Devine pitched a two-hitter for the winning team, striking out 13. Even though he was on the losing side, pitcher Phil Crowley was outstanding, striking out eight.

Commends City Cemetery Department Employees

Again, as in past years, the employees of Quincy's Cemetery Department did an exceptional job to ensure that the city's cemeteries looked beautiful for Memorial Day.

We have a family lot at Pine Hill Cemetery, and we live near Mt. Wollaston. Despite the continuous rain for many weeks and severe shortage of staff, the men worked very hard to keep the grass cut and maintain the beauty of the cemeteries.

Too often the public is critical of city employees. It is important to recognize that these men and the office secretary work hard to make every Memorial Day a special day for our veterans and families who have loved ones buried in these cemeteries.

Thank you to all.

Cradles To Crayons Making A Difference

It was President Franklin Delano Roosevelt who observed, "The test of our progress is not whether we add to the abundance of those who have much; it is whether we provide enough for those who have too little." Throughout our history we have come to recognize that government cannot alone bridge the gap between those who have and those who are in need. Cradles to Crayons is one of many private sector non-profits whose mission is to be part of the solution.

As a member of the Cradles To Crayons Event Committee, I want to express profound gratitude to the local businesses that steppted to the front of the class to help in drawing a brighter future for the thousands of children and families served by Cradles To Crayons through the recent inaugural fundraiser, i.e., Dan Quirk of Quirk Dealerships, Sue Casterline and Bill Grotevant of Boston Scientific, and Michael Corcoran of Corcoran Properties. Your generosity has truly made a difference.

Cut Ties Between College And City

With all the revelations in the headlines recently, and with the allegations, yes, allegations that must be proven, has there ever been a better time than now to cut ties between Quincy College and the city?

Let's see, so far we have grand theft, fraud, malfeasance, deceit, gross mismanagement and possible misuse of funds by top officials of Quincy College.

We also have a 12-member Board of Governors which has been clueless, with no sense of what has been going on for the last several years right under their noses. And they are supposed to be the oversight for the college? Where have they been?

Now we find that people named as members of the Scholarship Foundation had no idea they were members. It's called the right hand not knowing what the left hand is doing.

Mayor William Phelan should call a meeting immediately with our three state representatives and senator and get the ball rolling to break ties with the college. They need to whatever it takes to have the state take over and be the big brother to the college. Let's get the process started now. We have enough problems without shelling out more taxpayers' money to the college.

All that is happening at the college is an absolute disgrace and an embarassment to the City of Quincy.

Some of the quotes and comments by college officials reported in news articles are a complete joke - talk about a Three Stooges movie.

One very important fact that we all need to keep in mind: less than 20 percent of students at the college are Quincy residents.

Reservations may be made by calling 617-376-1506.

Students 'Climbing The Walls' At Beechwood Knoll School

Beechwood Knoll School students are literally climbing the walls over new equipment installed in the gymnasium.

The school recently installed an eight-foot by 32-foot climbing wall as part of a physical education program called Project Adventure. Students participate in activities which involve communication, cooperation, trust, problem solving and teamwork.

"The students use life skills through games and they enjoy it," said Robin Franceschini, physical education teacher at Beechwood Knoll. "The activities have a goal and a purpose, but most important is that the students have fun."

Students and the PTO recently held a successful candy fundraiser to raise funds to purchase the climbing wall.

Adventure education is growing rapidly throughout the physical education community. The Quincy Public Schools is offering Summer Adventure Camp through Summer Scene August 8-12 at Beechwood Knoll School.

For more information, contact the Office of Extension & Continuing Education at 617-984-8888 or Robin Franceschini at 617-984-8781.

Cookout To Welcome Summer At Beechwood

Beechwood on the Bay has extended an invitation to all Quincy seniors to attend their "Summer Kick-off" cookout Wednesday, June 22, at 12 noon at Beechwood, 440 East Squantum St.

The cost is $2 per senior and $4 for all others with the cookout offering the traditional fare of hamburgers, hot dogs, potato salad and baked beans.

Reservations are open until June 17 at 3 p.m. and may be made by calling 617-471-5712. The event is co-sponsored by Beechwood and South Shore Elder Services.

"It will be an intergenerational celebration, with seniors encouraged to bring their children and their grandchildren," said Maryann Mahoney, Beechwood Senior Center coordinator.

The event will be indoors and outdoors with tables and tents provided. Seniors and their guests are invited to bring their own favorite folding chairs.

Kathleen Powers Celebrates 100-Year Young Birthday

It was Houghs Neck air that did it, observed Kathleen Powers as she celebrated her 100th birthday surrounded by family and friends at Nino's Restaurant in Hingham.

Mrs. Powers and her late husband, John, rented a small cottage on Island Avenue in July 1938, moved to Orleans Street, then to Bird Street in 1942 where she remained ever since.

Dublin-born 16-year-old Kathleen Connelly arrived in Boston in 1921 with her sister, Nora, sponsored by her aunt, Nora Flynn, to live with their sister, Mary Payne, in East Boston

They arrived on a Friday and by the following Monday she was working at Lowney's Chocolate in Cambridge earning $7 a week.

KATHLEEN POWERS

She married John H. Powers on Jan. 30, 1930, and they had two sons, Edward, who lives with his wife, Patricia, in Quincy; and John, whose lives with his wife, Carol, in Falmouth.

She has eight grandchildren: Sharon Joyce of Braintree, Susan Mollay of West Roxbury, John Powers of Florida, Lynn Crawford of Reading, Kathy Powell of Marblehead, Debbie Infacelli of Norwell, Ed Powers Jr. of Weymouth and Nancy Bridge of West Falmouth.

And she also has 15 great grandchildren: Jacqueline, Liam, Meghan, Colin, Lauren, Kevin, Nolan, Olivia, Cameron, Sean, Brendan, Matthew, Andrew, Julie and Charlotte.

Her husband, a fisherman for 51 years on the Boston Fish Pier, died in 1981.

Past Presidents Honored At Catholic Women's Club

The Catholic Women's Club of North Quincy recently honored nine of its past presidents at a luncheon held at the Old Colony House in Dorchester.

Each president was presented with a token gift.

They are: Ruth Mullaney, Janet Crowley, Mary Blake, Helen Casey, Natalie Sullivan, Mary Costello, Jane Timilty, Carol McCarthy and Virginia Moore.

The club was formed in 1915.

Maureen McNamara was honorary chairperson, and Kate Shamon was chairperson for the event.

The club is celebrating its 90th anniversary this year.

Benefit Fundraiser June 24 For Collins Family

A fundraising event to help defray the healthcare costs for Eileen Crehan, who is battling leukemia, will be held Friday, June 24 from 7 p.m. to midnight at St. Ann's School, 1 St. Ann's Rd., Quincy.

Family and friends have put together "A Time For The Collins Family," which will feature a DJ, cash bar and raffles for attendees.

Crehan grew up in Quincy and graduated from North Quincy High School Class of 1984, where she was an All-American track and field standout.

She broke the New England high school javelin record and went to Northeastern University on an athletic scholarship.

She was diagnosed with leukemia last year and has been battling the disease ever since. She received a bone marrow transplant from her sister, Alana. But within a year, the cancer returned and she required additional chemotherapy. Her fight continues.

Eileen, a sergeant on the State Police motorcycle unit, and her husband, Scott, are the parents of four children, Patrick, 16, Erin, 14, Mark, 12, and Aislinn, 7.

Donations may be mailed to Lori Scott, c/o The Collins Family Fund, 87 Sims Rd., Quincy, MA 02170. Checks should be made payable to The Collins Family Fund.

Tickets are $20. For tickets and event information, contact Quincy Police Sgt. Dan Minton at 617-745-5719, Maureen Lethin at 617-472-5349 or Joanne Minton at 857-991-7377.

Sees Good Omen

Fr. Richard Cannon New Pastor At St. John's

By TOM HENSHAW

The Rev. Richard Cannon takes over as pastor of St. John the Baptist Church on July 11, the feast day of St. Benedict.

"Maybe it is a good omen," he said, noting that it was the same name adopted by Pope Benedict XVI when he was elevated to the Papacy.

Whatever, said Father Cannon, "I'm looking forward to the move. I hope to continue the good work that has taken place in the parish in past years."

He succeeds Father Peter Quinn, who was at St. John's for 13 years, the last 10 as pastor, and has moved on to St. Catherine of Alexandria Church in Westford.

Raised in Millis, Father Cannon sees few if any difficulties moving from a big city parish (St. Vincent de Paul in South Boston) to the suburbs.

"I grew up in a suburb," he said. "There may be a different rhythm to life in the suburbs but you find good people wherever you go."

Father Cannon, who is 49, was born in Boston but moved with his family to Millis at an early age.

His father worked for 35 years for Boston Edison and his mother was a nurse at St. Elizabeth's Hospital. Both are living in retirement.

One brother, Ken, is a priest who has settled in St. John's Parish, Hopkinton, after years as a missionary in the Philippines. Ted is a Medfield lawyer and Bob a manufacturers representative.

Sister Maureen is the wife of a doctor, mother of six children and lives in El Paso, Texas, where she once taught chemistry at the University of Texas at El Paso. Sisters

REV. RICHARD CANNON

Kerry has three sons and Moira two daughters.

Father Cannon attended Millis High School where he played football and baseball on some pretty good scholastic teams.

""I was the best mediocre halfback Millis ever had," he joked. "I still try to get back there for the Thanksgiving Day game."

He attended UMass-Amherst before entering St. John's Seminary to study for the priesthood. He was ordained by Bernard Cardinal Law and celebrated his first mass in St. Thomas Church, Millis, June 7, 1986.

"My brothers attended the mass," he said, "and they couldn't wait to get to a TV. The Celtics were playing in the finals that day. It was the last year they won the championship."

Father Cannon describes himself as more of a Red Sox and Patriots fan than a Celtics follower. He golfs in the mid-90s.

His first assignment was at St. Brigid's In South Boston, where he remained for five years, then Holy Ghost in Whitman for another five. He had been at St. Vincent de Paul for nine years when the call came to St. John's.

Meanwhile, Father Quinn will be installed as pastor of St. Catherine of Alexandria Church in Westford at a 10:30 a.m. mass Sunday.

St. John's has reserved a bus to take parishioners who wish to go to the installation mass in Westford. The bus will leave St. John's at 9 a.m.

For more information, contact Elaine Walsh at the rectory, 617-773-1021.

Online Food Stamp Applications Starting In Quincy

Project Bread is working with select community agencies, including one in Quincy, to expand access to the state's first online application for food stamps.

This program, in partnership with the Department of Transitional Assistance (DTA), gives eligible applicants a convenient, supportive, and secure way to access benefits online.

During the summer, online food stamp applications are available through Quincy Community Action Programs.

The electronic process provides greater convenience: applicants can apply right in their own neighborhood; they can work with a counselor who speaks their language and who coaches them through the process; and the program gives applicants a unique tracking number and a confirmed time and date of submission, eliminating the guesswork about when the application has arrived for processing.

Locally, food stamps can be applied for online at:

• Quincy Community Action Program (QCAP) at http://www.qcap.org.

QCAP's address is 1511 Hancock St., Quincy, MA 02169. Phone number is 617-479-8181 ext. 100.

Assistance is available Wednesday from 9 to 11:15 a.m., by appointment only; and Friday 1 to 3:15 p.m., by appointment only.

• Quincy Community Action Program (Southwest Community Center). Web address: http://qcap.org/ProgsFood.htm.

Address is 388 Granite St., Quincy, MA 02169. Telephone 617-471-0796 ext. 100.

Assistance available Mon through Friday, 12:30 to 2:30 p.m., by appointment only.

"We are very please to be part of Project Bread's online food stamp project," said Tracy Donahue, director of Planning and Development at Quincy Community Action Programs. "The application process has made food stamps accessible to a population that otherwise may not have applied for them.

"People with mobility and transportation problems appreciate that they can submit the application online and locally. Clients are also surprised by how fast and easy the application process is and spending time with clients during this process establishes a personal relationship that makes it easier to successfully finish the application," Donahue said.

'Get Well Party' For Paul McKenna

Friends have organized a "Get Well Party for Pat McKenna" Friday, June 24, from 7 p.m. to 12 midnight at IBEW Hall on Freeport Street in Dorchester to help defray mounting medical expenses.

McKenna, 43, a popular 1979 North Quincy High School graduate and laborer in Local 133, was diagnosed with colon and liver cancer in May, 2004.

Tickets at $20 per person can be purchased at the door.

PATRICK McKENNA

Donations can also be sent to: Pat McKenna Fund, c/o Terry Bellotti, Citizens Bank, 371 Hancock St., North Quincy, MA 02171.

The fundraiser will include music, an auction and a raffle with a large array of prizes.

"Pat is one of those special people who is always helping others," said his lifelong friend, Jack Dunn. "He has done so many favors ad organized so many benefits for people. We simply wanted to help him now in his hour of need."

"Throughout this ordeal I have never heard him complain," said his brother, Michael McKenna, also of Quincy. "He has great inner strength and a capacity to face any obstacle. We are all inspired by his courage."

Quincy Teacher To Study Tsunamis In Thailand

Matthew Dugan of Quincy, who teaches physics at Madison Park Technical-Vocational High School in Roxbury, will spend part of his summer studying the effect of December's tsunami on the coral reefs around Thailand.

Dugan is one of 47 teachers in the Boston Public Schools who won a Fund For Teachers/Boston grant of $4,797 for summer travel and study from the Boston Plan for Excellence, the city's local education foundation.

"This is the chance of a lifetime," said Dugan.

"The understanding of waves is an important part of the physics curriculum, but its study is often theoretical and difficult for grade nine students. I want to instill life in this subject by teaching physics from a real-world perspective."

Dugan will team with experts in physics, marine biology and geology at Bangkok's Chulalongkorn University who are knowledgeable about tsunamis and travel to Phuket, which bore the brunt of the devastation.

His research will document damage to the coral reefs, half of which may have been destroyed by the tsunami. The reefs, with their many species of fish, are central to the region's tourist-driven economy and its long-term recovery.

Dugan's research will unfold this fall in a new teaching unit on tsunamis, which will include a student-led investigation into their history, since many Madison Park students come fro the Caribbean, a region that averages one tsunami every eight years.

Rene Lumaghini Graduates Army Unit Training

Army Pvt. Rene M. Lumaghini recently graduated from One Station Unit Training (OSUT) at Fort Leonard Wood, Waynesville, Mo.

The course of instruction included basic military training and advanced individual training (AIT).

The basic military trainee received instruction in drill and ceremonies, weapons, map reading, tactics, military courtesy, military justice, physical fitness, first aid, and Army history and traditions.

During AIT, the soldier completed the Combat Engineer Course to perform basic combat construction and rigging operations; operate light and heavy engineer wheeled and armor tracked vehicles while participating in combat mobility, countermobility, and survivability operations; assist in assembly and maintenance of military standard float and fixed bridges; prepare, install, and prime firing systems for demolition and explosives; arm, disarm, and install anti-personnel and anti-tank mines, locate mines by visual means or with mine detector; and recognize and neutralize land mines, firing devices and booby traps.

MBTA Making Bus Route Changes To Improve Service

The MBTA is making changes in service to Squantum, North Quincy, Montclair and Wollaston that will make more busses available to riders.

"The changes in these routes will be beneficial to those who live in the area and ride the route," said Sen. Michael Morrissey.

Weekday changes include:

Two additional weeknight trips from Quincy Center via Route 211 and 212: Route 212 7 p.m. and Route 211 7:15 p.m. The Route 211 7:04 p.m. trip from Squantum has now changed to 7 p.m. and a Route 212 trip from North Quincy at 7:15 p.m. has been added.

Saturday changes include:

Route 210 changed from running every 30 minutes after 7:40 a.m. to running every 60 minutes. Route 211 schedule shifted with the result of two extra trips in the timetable. The service from Quincy Center now starts at 6 a.m. rather than 6:15 a.m. and ends later at 6:50 a.m. instead of 5:50 a.m. Route 212 also had its schedule shifted and three trips were added. There are now trips from Quincy Center Station at 6:50 a.m. and 8 a.m. and then the service runs hourly until 6:10 p.m. In the past service ran hourly from 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m.

Sunday changes include:

There is now Sunday service on Route 211 via Billings Road operating hourly from 11:10 a.m. until 6:10 p.m.

These changes are now in effect.

For ore information call the MBTA at 617-222-3200.

QUINCY BUSINESS ASSOCIATION members recently planted new patriotic color in their garden spot at the Paul Harold Memorial Bridge and Burgin Parkway for Memorial Day. The QBA, in cooperation with QBA member Almquist Florist, seasonally change plantings in keeping with the season. From left to right are Tina Tuggle, Marie Watts, George Nolan and QBA Director Maralin Manning.

Andrew H. Mahoney, secondary education and history; Andrew J. Mannix, marketing; Karan N. Patel, biology and chemistry; Daniel E. Pritchard, English and philosophy; Caitlin J. Golden, human development.

William Tam Recognized For Outstanding Achievement In National French Exam

William Tam of Quincy, a freshman at Boston College High School, has been recognized for outstanding achievement on the Le Grand Concours – The National French Exam.

The Grand Concours was administered to more than 103,000 students nationwide, including more than 6,500 from Massachusetts.

In a letter sent to Robert Peloquin and Sheila Becker Gailius, the BC High French teachers, Professor Jean-Pierre Berwald, the Regional Director of the American Association of Teachers of French, stated that Tam's accomplishments were "formidable."

Tam received an honorable mention in the level 1 (beginners) category.

Ayers, Ms. Wheelchair Massachusetts Collaborate In Campaign For National Title

Rep. Bruce J. Ayers, who works with Ms. Wheelchair Massachusetts, Laurel Elizabeth Labdon, on legislation to improve the quality of life of the disabled throughout the Commonwealth is now raising money through local road races to assist her in her quest to become Ms. Wheelchair America 2005.

Ms. Wheelchair Massachusetts seeks to give women with physical disabilities in the Commonwealth a forum for the promotion of the achievements as well as the needs of mobility impaired persons.

Unlike the Miss America Pageant, the Ms. Wheelchair Massachusetts Program is not a beauty contest. It is a competition to select the most accomplished and articulate spokesperson for the disabled in Massachusetts. The selected representative must be able to communicate both the needs and the accomplishments of her constituency to the general public, the business community and the legislature.

Labdon, of West Brewster, was injured in a car accident a week before her 20th birthday in 1990. The accident left her paralyzed from the neck down.

"If I was given a choice, I'd choose not to be a quadriplegic," Labdon says. "But I choose to do valuable things. When life doesn't give you a choice, you have to figure out a new way of doing things and deal with it the best you can."

Since her accident, Labdon has advocated on the behalf of the disabled community.

"I am impressed with her attitude, strength and ability to do the most with what life has dealt her," Ayers said. "She serves as a role model both to the disabled community and to the community at large. I am proud to support the effort that Ms. Labdon has spearheaded to bring the Ms. Wheelchair pageant and its mission to Massachusetts."

To learn more about Ms. Wheelchair Massachusetts or to donate to the organization visit the website www.mswheelchairmass.org or contact Rep. Bruce Ayers at 617-472-9877.

Prince Cedza Dlamini Here To Promote UN Goals

Grandson Of Nelson Mandela Visits Local School Students

Local students participating in a worldwide program that helps build schools for poor countries received a special visitor last week when Nelson Mandela's grandson, Prince Cedza Dlamini, met them at the Thomas Crane Public Library.

PRINCE CEDZA DLAMINI, grandson of Nelson Mandela, visited Quincy last week and met with students to exchange ideas for ending poverty and disease in developing nations around the world. Quincy Sun Photo/Noreen O'Shea

Dlamini, a member of the royal family of Swaziland, was in Quincy to offer support to students from Broad Meadows Middle School, Quincy High School, North Quincy High School and Archbishop Williams High School. Broad Meadows was one of the first of 23 schools to participate in the program, which began in 1997.

Called "Operation: Day's Work," the program allows students to raise money each year to build a school in a developing country. Students choose one project from countries such as Bangladesh, Ethiopia, Ghana and Guatemala.

This year, students partnered with the Heifer Project to educate and protect 40 ten-year-old girls living in rural Vietnam. The program is designed to protect the girls from child slave traffickers active in the region.

In addition to literacy, the girls will be taught their rights by members of the Women's Trade Union of Vietnam. The girls' moms will receive micro-credit loans to start up their own small business.

Dlamini, a student at Tufts University, was in the city to promote the Millenium Development Goals, established by the United Nations. Among the goals: eradicate poverty and hunger, reduce child mortality, combat HIV/AIDS, promote gender equality and achieve universal primary education for all students worldwide by 2015.

He said that education is the most important aspect of achieving those goals and that not enough people are aware of problems throughout the world.

Students revealed their plan to come up with a model for sustainable aid to developing countries on a grassroots level. Students said they directly contact non-governmental organizations in developing countries asking them to submit a four- or five-page application outlining what they need, how much it would cost and how they will sustain the aid after the original start-up aid from students is exhausted.

That approach won praise from Prince Cedza, who said, "Aid must be a two-way street."

Ron Adams, a seventh-grade language arts teacher at Broad Meadows and the faculty supervisor of the program, said the prince's visit was inspiring.

"Prince Cedza came to Quincy carrying a message from the UN and a message from his legendary grandfater, Nelson Mandela, who once stated, 'Education is the most powerful weapon which can be used to change the world,'" said Adams. "In Quincy, the prince encouraged students to use their own education to change the world a little - I was so proud."

Students later presented Prince Cedza with a donation to an orphanage in his native home of Swaziland and made Dlamini an honorary member of their organization.

City Determined In Bid For St. Boniface

as a potential boon to the neighborhood: The church building would stay grounded in the community while Manet and the Germantown Neighborhood Center could solve its space problems.

Manet Community Health Center services roughly 15,000 patients on the South Shore. Its primary mission is to provide primary health care for people regardless of their ability to pay.

McGuire said the church location was to replace two of the center's five offices, which are located in Hough's Neck and Snug Harbor. Space is at a premium in those spots, she said.

And the church location was a potential answer to the Germantown Neighborhood Center's quest to find a new home. The city was prepared to pay for the center's new addition at the church location with funds from a grant from State Street Bank.

But the archdiocese's decision has thrown cold water on the deal, at least temporarily.

Sen. Michael Morrissey, a staunch supporter of the Manet deal, offered a blistering attack on the archdiocese for what he called an "outrageous" decision.

"It blows my mind," said Morrissey. "The parishioners built this church. If the Catholic Church is interested in helping people what better way to give back to the community.

"Here is a community where they closed the church in the poorest section of the city," said Morrissey. "This was a home-run proposal. And God knows the Catholic Church could use a good news story. I just hope this is not the case of another insider land deal by the Catholic Church."

Ward 1 Councillor Leo Kelly echoed those sentiments, calling the rejection "extremely disappointing."

"We felt we put together a serious package and it would benefit the people in the community who need this kind of assistance. We are going to fight this tooth-and-nail."

Harrington suggested that the archdiocese should show more concern for its parishioners in Germantown.

"We are struck by their silence," Harrington said of the archdiocese. "St. Boniface parishioners have lost their church and I wonder why there isn't more concern with the St. Boniface facility. We are wondering why Archbishop Sean O'Malley or his advisers have not reached out to those parishioners."

St. Boniface was closed on Jan. 30 as part of the archdiocese's church consolidation plan. The 30,000-square-foot Shed St. location is zoned for residential use, which means the most likely use would be a housing development.

The property is assessed at more than $1 million. It includes enough space for three single-family homes.

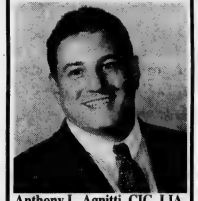
In the late 1990s, it was merged with Our Lady of Good Counsel in Merrymount and renamed St. Elizabeth Seton Parish.

In February, the two former parishes were united with Most Blessed Sacrament Church in Houghs Neck.

Richard Sweeney III Elected Vice President Of National Honor Society At BC High

Richard T. Sweeney III of Quincy, a junior at Boston College High School, has been elected Vice-President of the National Honor Society for school year 2005-2006, announces school President William J. Kemeza.

"Richard has shown outstanding accomplishments in the areas of character, leadership, service and scholarship," said Alfred Navarrete, moderator of NHS. "He has exhibited academic achievement and honorable and admirable character, as well as service demonstrating that he is willing to use his talents and skills for the improvement of the society."



The National Honor Society (NHS) and National Junior Honor Society (NJHS) are the nation's premier organizations established to recognize outstanding high school and middle level students.

NHS and NJHS serve to honor those students who have demonstrated excellence in the areas of scholarship, leadership, service, and character (and citizenship for NJHS). These characteristics have been associated with membership in the organization since their beginnings in 1921 and 1929.

Chapter membership not only recognizes students for their accomplishments, but challenges them to develop further through active involvement in school activities and community service.

South Coastal Bank Honored For Community Service

The Independent Community Bankers of America (ICBA) has chosen South Coastal Bank of Rockland as one of five national winners of the association's National Community Bank Service Award.

The award annually recognizes outstanding commitment and achievement of the community service activities of its members. Nearly 5,000 community banks were eligible to win the award.

In addition to other civic projects, South Coastal Bank, which has a branch in Quincy, was honored for its CARES grant program that financially supports a wide variety of nonprofit cultural arts opportunities for children, including programs offering dance, painting, music, theater and writing instruction. The year-old CARES contributed more than $10,000 last year toward local programs.

"South Coastal Bank is delighted to receive this recognition," said John J. O'Connor III, president, chairman and CEO of South Coastal Bank. "The CARES grant program was spearheaded by our retired directors, whose dedication to community involvement is shared by the bank's employees, who volunteer hundreds of hours for local charities, community events and area schools."

Four Residents On Fitchburg Dean's List

Four Quincy residents were named to the Dean's List for the spring semester at Fitchburg State College.

They are Ashley K. Nee, Elizabeth M. Caliri, Steven D. Marinilli, Nicholas A. Pistorino.

CHARLES A. BERNAZZANI Elementary School recently held its first rummage sale, raising $1,600 towards a new playground for the school's students. The project will cost an estimated $25,000.

Bernazzani Elementary School Rummage Sale Raises $1,600 Towards New Playground

The Charles A. Bernazzani Elementary School recently held its first Rummage Sale raising $1,600, the first fundraiser for "Project Playground."

All money raised is earmarked towards a new playground for the school's students.

Presently, the children have recess on the blacktop playing kickball or four-square, and there are not many options if students do not enjoy team sports.

A new playground will create an environment that encourages daily exercise for all students as well as provide an opportunity for peer interaction and free play.

A new playground, school representatives say, will give the Bernazzani school an opportunity to play a more active role in helping to increase physical fitness among its students and encourage a more creative use of recess time by providing such a playground.

Bernazzani has plans for additional fundraising once the new school year begins, including a school festival, silent auctions and engraved bricks.

Families and local businesses are invited to participate in this effort. For more information, call Judy Kiley at 617-328-9507.

On Second Tour Of Mideast

Cpl. William Eastwick On Duty In Iraq

"He's in a place called Tikrit now," said Laura Eastwick. "He says it's pretty nice. It's scary but beautiful.

"His missions are escorting convoys. He says it's dangerous work but not to worry because we're better trained than the enemy."

Laura should know because she had just been talking via computer to her brother, Cpl. William Eastwick, 21, of Quincy, who is on duty with the 42nd Military Police Co. of the National Guard in Iraq.

It's the second tour in the Mideast for Eastwick, who spent nine months, including his 19th birthday, in Afghanistan. He's been in Iraq since May 30.

CPL. WILLIAM EASTWICK

Eastwick has been in the National Guard, based at the Taunton Armory, since he was 17 years old and freshly graduated from Quincy High School with the Class of 2002.

He lives on Chickatabot Road in Merrymount with his grandparents, David and Frances Eastwick, and his sister, Laura, 18.

"He figures he'll be in Iraq for at least six months," said Laura. "They're usually there for 18 months but the unit he joined had already been there for 12 months so he may be sent to another unit."

"We didn't have a party for him when he went away," said Frances Eastwick, "but we'll have one when he comes back."

Eight Graduate From Norfolk County Agricultural School

The Norfolk County Agricultural School recently held its commencement. Eight Quincy residents were among the graduates.

They are:

Michael Brundige, Patricia Doherty, Timothy Fernandez, Sarah Gardikis, Jeniffer Mitchell, Michelle Thatcher, Adriano Valeri and Jessica Worth.

In addition, the following students received Proficiency Awards in the area of Plant and Environmental Science: Timothy Fernandez, Michael Brundige and Jessica Worth.

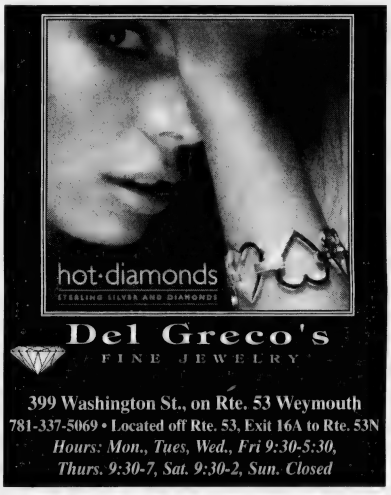
Quincy Homestead Open June 25

The Quincy Homestead will open to the public on Saturday, June 25, from 1 to 4 p.m, with tours of the house and gardens available on the hour starting at 1:10 p.m.

All tours are free, but a voluntary contribution is suggested.

Designated a National Historic Landmark in April, the Homestead dates from 1686 and represents the evolution of more than 300 years of American architecture.



During the 17th and 18th centuries, this mansion was considered the grandest estate in Quincy. Today it serves as one of the rare Massachusetts examples in which the elements of a 17th century building are still clearly visible although they have been surrounded by a later style.

It was also a childhood home of Dorothy Quincy Hancock, the first First Lady of Massachusetts, the wife of John Hancock, who was the president of the Second Continental Congress, the first signer of the Declaration of Independence, and the first governor of the Commonwealth.

For more information, visit the Homestead's website at www.nscda.org/ma/quincy_homestead.

Bill Seeking Renovations To Golf Course Finds Support

Some of Quincy's elected officials are offering their support for new legislation which gives Norfolk County the ability to borrow funds and renovate the golf course at the Wollaston Recreational Facility.

The Committee on Municipalities and Regional Government held a public hearing this week pertaining to the renovations at the golf course in North Quincy.

Sponsored by Sen. Michael Morrissey and Rep. Ron Mariano, the legislation would authorize the County Commissioners of Norfolk County to borrow money for certain renovations at the golf course at the facility.

"This is a chance for the county to provide services to people who use the golf course and increase revenue to the county," said Sen. Morrissey. "It's a win-win situation."

Rep. Bruce Ayers testified in support of the bill, saying the renovations would bring the clubhouse up to tournament standards.

"The funds raised go right back to the betterment of the community," said Ayers. "These improvements mean more revenue to the county. Our constituents enjoy this golf course by supporting this legislation we can enhance the clubhouse and provide them with a newly renovated public golf course."

Ward 3 Councillor Kevin Coughlin offered his support for the bill, saying it would ensure the long-term viability of Wollaston Recreational Facility.

"Having lived there for more than 50 years, I have vivid memories of my father's opposition to the suggested development of a large residential subdivision at this site when the Wollaston Golf Club moved to Milton, a prospect that would be devastating," said Coughlin. "Failure is not an option in securing the future of this public facility for residents of Quincy, and at no cost to Quincy residents."

The public golf course is used by the North Quincy boys and girls golf teams, the Jimmy Fund, and Quincy's fraternal organizations, such as the Morrisette American Legion Post, the Quincy Lodge of Elks, the Knights of Columbus, IBEW Local 103, Iron Workers Local 7, and for many charitable events.

Council Approves Downtown Rezoning

include Burgin Parkway, Dimmock St., Washington St., School St., Elm St., as well as areas along Coddington St. past Faxon Field. Buildings as high as 10 stories will be allowed within this district, according to the ordinance.

Within some areas of this district, however, developers will be able to erect 15-story buildings. This area is bounded by School St., Revere Rd., Washington St., Maple St., and Granite St.

There are some transition zones within this area, including the area along Mechanic and Revere Rd., Fort St. and Washington St. along the Thomas Crane Public Library.

Although the rezoned district abuts many surrounding neighborhoods, Gutro said he is confident that the revamped map will protect them along with the city's historical district.

"There is still a public process, through the planning board, where the residents can still be heard," said Gutro.

But Councillors Joe Finn and John Keenan offered some words of caution to their colleagues, saying the rezoned district would be a work in progress that may require some tinkering as time goes by.

"It's been a long time coming, but it's incumbent to go out and sell this locally, regionally and nationally" to developers, said Keenan.

Ward 2 Councillor Dan Raymondi and Ward 4 Councillor Jay Davis opted not to participate in the debate because their status regarding the downtown redistricting plan has been called into question. Davis owns property within the district and Raymondi's home on Elm St. is near but not in the district.

Quincy recently became the first city in the Commonwealth to receive approval for a financing program designed to inject millions of dollars into downtown redevelopment.

The state Economic Assistance Coordinating Council, an arm of the state Office of Business and Technology, approved the city's application to create a "district improvement financing" (DIF) zone in Quincy Center.

Such approval allows the city to borrow against anticipated taxes from any new development to borrow money to pay for public improvements downtown.

The DIF can be used to pay for public works projects, such as parking and green space, the Quincy Center Concourse and new roads, according to city officials.

The city council recently supported the Phelan administration's move to spend $150,000 toward paying urban planning consultants, traffic and parking studies, and other logistical planning serves as part of an overall move to re-ignite interest in the downtown area.

About $100,000 of that sum will be required to implement the DIF development plan for potential developers, according to city officials.

Last week, the council approved a Tax Increment Financing agreement that will be used to encourage developers to build in the downtown.

According to the plan, developers entering into a 20-year agreement with the city will receive state tax breaks on the increase of the value of their property.

Dependable Cleaners, Twin Rivers Technologies

Two Quincy Companies Cited By Business Group

Two Quincy companies, Dependable Cleaners and Twin Rivers Technologies, yesterday (Wednesday) received the 90th Anniversary Regional Achievement award from the Associated Industries of Massachusetts (AIM) during a ceremony held at Ocean Spray in Middleborough.

For its 90th anniversary, AIM, the Commonwealth's largest employer organization representing more than 7,600 members, recognized individuals and institutions in each of five regions that have contributed to the vitality of the state's economy, its business climate, and to the creation and retention of jobs.

Representatives from each company were present to accept the awards, which acknowledge their leaderships, innovation, and contributions that exhibit distinction as an employer, advancement of the goals of AIM's mission, or demonstrate excellence in the following categories.

Dependable Cleaners was recognized for providing relevant, reliable information and excellent services by assisting AIM's efforts, and by serving as an industry or regional role model.

Twin Rivers Technologies was cited for improving the Massachusetts business climate through contributions that have made an impact on the economic vitality and strength of the community, region or state.

More than 80 nominations were submitted by AIM staff, members of the Board of Directors and others. Finalists were selected by five judges representing leading employers in Massachusetts.

Samantha Chow, Scott Bausemer

Two Quincy Students Win Bikes Dependable Cleaners In Read To Ride Contest

Dependable Cleaners announces two Quincy students are among the first winners of their annual Read to Ride summer reading incentive program.

Samantha Chow and Scott Bausemer, both of Quincy, will receive new bikes thanks to Read to Ride, now in its seventh year.

Samantha won her bicycle by reading Pikachu and Pichu: Pichu's Apple Company, by Sarah Heller.

Samantha is a 10-year-old fourth grader at the Parker Elementary School.

Scott Bausemer, age 8, is a second-grader at Merrymount Elementary School.

For his winning entry form, Scott read Floods, by Tami Deedrick.

Read to Ride offers children, ages 6-15, the chance to win a bike and helmet (retail value up to $275) for every book they complete within the seven weeks of the program.

Entry forms are available at all 17 Dependable Cleaners locations and participating bike shops from May 16 to July 15. Three winners' names are drawn every Monday for seven consecutive weeks.

For more information about Read to Ride or a list of the winners, visit www.DependableCleaners.com.

Boost Your Home's Resale Value With Landscaping

(NU) - If you want to increase the value of your home, invest in landscaping. A Clemson University study found that landscaping around your home can result in more than a 100 percent return on investment.

Since the return on investment is contingent upon the quality of the landscaping job, it's important that you find the right landscaping contractor for your project and use high-quality materials like segmental retaining walls and inter-locking concrete pavers.

Homeowners should consider the following factors when choosing a landscaping contractor.

• The scope of the project. Make sure that the contractor understands your vision and will be able to implement it. You may want to ask the contractor to design your landscaping project. Many landscape contractors have in-house design services.

• Proper licensing. Your contractor should be properly licensed, bonded and insured for the work proposed. Many regions require special licenses to conduct earthwork, grading and plumbing operations. The contractor also should have liability and worker's compensation insurance.

• Solid references. Check the contractor's references and make sure he or she has experience on projects of similar size and scope.

Also inquire about certification and training with the products being installed, as well as guarantees.

At Roche Brothers Supermarket

Neighborhood Housing Services Homebuying Workshop June 25

Neighborhood Housing Services of the South Shore will hold a First-Time Homebuyer Workshop Saturday, June 25, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at Roche Brothers Supermarket, 101 Falls Blvd., Quincy.

All potential first-time homebuyers are invited to attend the workshop sponsored by Sovereign Bank. Participants will have the opportunity to be pre-qualified by a lender.

Topics covered include mortgage options, legal aspects of the homebuying process, how a home inspection works and other presentations from real estate professionals. Participants must complete the workshop to qualify for grant programs.

Prior to attending a First-Time Homebuyer Workshop, all participants must attend a free Introductory Session to evaluate credit history and determine level of mortgage readiness. It's strongly suggested attendees obtain a current copy of their credit report.

The next Introductory Session will be held Wednesday, June 22, from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. at the Thomas Crane Public Library, 40 Washington St., Quincy. Call in advance to register or discuss dates of future workshops.

There is a $15 fee per person that covers the First-Time Homebuyer Workshop, the Introductory Session and all workshop materials. Breakfast and lunch will be provided. Call 617-770-2227, ext. 31, or visit www.neighborhoodhousing.org.

Homeowners Enjoy Expanded Outdoor Space

(NAPS) — Homeowners have discovered one of the simplest ways to expand a home's square footage is to take it outside. Adding a deck also provides the best financial return on investment in a home — letting homeowners recoup between 70 and 100 percent of their deck costs when the home is sold.

When choosing decking material, consider the climate, taking into account such factors as humidity and temperature. Traditional decks consist of natural wood, which needs to be annually maintained by the homeowner. Every year, 3 million decks are replaced or repaired due to poor maintenance, with each bill exceeding $500.

Trends In Deck Design

Composite decking, which is made from a blend of recycled plastics and wood fibers, is the latest trend. Composite decking leaves homeowners with more time to enjoy their deck because they don't require annual staining and sealing plus composite decking doesn't splinter.

With recent improvements in the look of the product, more than 25 percent of homeowners are switching to composite decking. For example, Veranda decking, available at The Home Depot, has recently introduced reversible composite decking boards that feature the beauty of wood or the clean look of a textured finish. Veranda's reversible decking comes in three colors: slate gray, buff cedar and cascade redwood.

When Planning A Deck, Consider Multilevels, Best Size

Whether you are reboarding your current deck or building a new one, you should first develop the deck layout and decide on size. This includes the option of multilevels, built-in benches, wraparound decks, steps and railings. Make sure the deck you have in mind suits the size and style of your home. Outdoor rooms should measure about the same size as the largest indoor room.

Coordinated Railings Further Enhance Any Deck Design

Deck railings are the most prominent visual element in a deck. Varying the dimensions and direction can add character. Railings can be the same color as the deck, a coordinating wood color or a contrasting white color. Many homeowners prefer composite railings because components cut and install like wood but won't warp nor require extra maintenance. Veranda composite railing comes in a variety of colors and designs to meet style and design needs of any backyard.

Built-in benches can also serve as both a railing and a bench when placed along the edge of a deck.

Protecting Your Condo With Title Insurance

(NAPS) — If you plan to buy a condo, you may want to learn more about protecting your investment.

Condos, like single-family homes, carry titles. Many people do not realize there can be as many problems with the title to a condo as with other homes. That's where Owner's Title Insurance comes in.

Before you purchase the condo, your lender will require a title search. The American Land Title Association reports that problems with titles are found in one out of four title searches.

The title company works to clear any title problems before you take possession. And if a title problem arises later that should have been found, you will be covered – but only if you purchase Owner's Title Insurance.

Protect your most costly investment with a one-time fee at closing. Insist on Owner's Title Insurance.

To learn more about the importance of Owner's Title Insurance, visit www.alta.org.

A Job Well Done

By SGT. DAN MINTON

On May 30 at approximately 11 p.m., a house fire was reported on Chick Street in Wollaston. The Quincy Fire and Police Departments were dispatched, along with Fallon Ambulance.

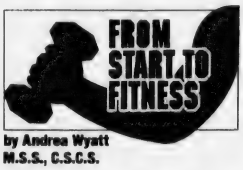
Officers William Horick, John McIsaac and Lane Watkins were the first officers on scene. They notified headquarters that heavy smoke and flames were showing from the second floor rear bedroom. As the officers attempted to alert occupants of the house, they were met by a frantic woman at the rear door. She said that her elderly parents were still in the basement of the house. She added that she did not know if her teenage son was inside.

Without hesitation, Officers McIsaac and Watkins entered the smoke filled, burning building and headed to the second floor, to the area of the blaze, yelling and searching for the son.

SGT. DAN MINTON

The officers split up to quicken the search. Officer McIsaac, who happens to be a former Quincy firefighter, said he crawled through the upstairs rooms conducting a thorough search in the smoke, but did not find anyone. Officer Watkins, who was also searching the second floor, kicked in the door of the bedroom where the blaze was at its peak. He was met by a wave of intense heat and the shock of the room's windows being blown out.

Once the officers determined that no one was on the second floor, they headed for the basement to search for the others. There, they found Sergeant Santoro and Officer Horick preparing to evacuate the elderly couple. Officers Watkins and Horick wrapped the female in blankets and carried her out, while Sergeant Santoro and Officer McIsaac awakened the male from his recliner and brought the male out.



Special recognition goes out to these officers who risked their lives to enter a burning building without hesitation (or equipment) to ensure that everyone in the building would be rescued. The officers saved two seniors from harm and alerted nearby residents to the danger.

Knowing that the Quincy Fire Department is just moments away from the scene, makes it much easier for us to enter a burning building. In the event that the situation gets out of control, we rely on the Quincy Fire Department to do everything possible to get us out quickly and safely.

Nice work!

Everybody Wants a Flat Stomach

Q. I do all types of abdominal exercises, including about 300 crunches a day, four to five days a week. I can feel the muscles of my stomach burn after I finish my crunches, but after a month my stomach is still not flat. What else can I do to get a flat stomach?

A. The quest for a flat stomach is one of the top goals of most people who exercise. There are hundreds of gimmicks throughout the media focusing on the next faster, easier and more effective way to obtain a flat stomach. Unfortunately, many of these methods fail to explain the factors that need to be considered to achieve the look most people desire.

The physical appearance of a flat stomach has become synonymous with being fit. However, this could not be further from the truth. There are several factors to remember when trying to achieve a flat stomach.

• Crunches, sit-ups and other abdominal exercises alone will not make your stomach flat. You cannot spot-train to get the midsection of your dreams. Completing abdominal exercises to strengthen the core muscles of your back and abdomen is great; however, this does not guarantee a flat stomach.

• Genetics plays a large role in how your body will develop. You cannot choose where your body will distribute fat — that's determined by your family tree. Some people do not develop body fat around their midsection, but might around their hips and thighs; others gain body fat around their midsection, which covers the abs. This is why it's important to strive to be the best that YOU can be, and not rely on looking like someone else.

• It is possible to have strong abs without having a flat stomach. A flat stomach does not mean you have strong abdominal muscles, and a stomach hidden under body fat does not mean you have weak abdominal muscles. The strength of your abdominal muscles is dependant on posture and what type of activities you participate in on a daily basis. If you are doing exercises to strengthen your abdominal muscles, they will become strong whether you can see them in the mirror or not.

Completing a consistent total-body workout and practicing proper nutrition will help you reach your fitness goals. Add cardiovascular training, strength training and flexibility exercises to your abdominal workouts, and you will get closer to seeing the results you're looking for.

Always consult a physician before beginning an exercise program. If you have a fitness or training question, e-mail Andrea at letters.kfws @hearstsc.com, or write her in care of King Features Weekly Service, P.O. Box 536475, Orlando, FL 32853-6475.

Getting A Better Night's Sleep

(NAPS)—Getting a good night's sleep doesn't have to be a pipe dream — but for many Americans, it feels like just that.

According to a survey by the National Sleep Foundation, 74 percent of Americans don't get enough sleep each night and most feel sleepy or groggy during the week. In addition, 51 percent of adults say they have problems sleeping at least a few nights a week and nearly a third have trouble sleeping every night.

Doctors say being sleep-deprived has a variety of negative effects on the body, ranging from increased levels of stress to weakened immune systems. Not sleeping can take its toll mentally as well: Studies have shown sleep-deprived people have slower reaction times and more trouble concentrating than do people who are well rested.

So what's the best way to find dreamland? Try these tips from the experts:

• Make sure your bed is comfortable and cozy. From mattress to pillows, creating the right sleep environment can help you ease into sleep. Consider splurging on some high thread count sheets or an orthopedic pillow.

• Keep the noise down. Many people feel sleeping with the television or radio on helps them get a good night's sleep, but doctors say the opposite may be true. If you need background noise to drift off, try turning on a fan or a white noise machine instead of a TV or radio.

• Be sure your nighttime routine isn't keeping you awake. For instance, many people use overnight tooth whiteners that aren't well suited for their sensitive teeth. The products can be uncomfortable and interfere with their sleep. Instead, consider a product such as Crest Night Effects Premium. The paint-on whitener is designed specifically for people with sensitive teeth.

"A good night's sleep is one of the best ways to keep your body healthy," says Jacqui Stafford, style director of Shape magazine. "Simple things like establishing a pre-bed routine or being certain your bed is comfortable can make a huge difference in the way you look and feel."

Healthy Breakfast Key To Meeting Dietary Guidelines

(NAPS)—With the U.S. Department of Agriculture's (USDA) new Food Guide Pyramid, many people are still wondering what they should eat. Experts say the focus should be on the actual dietary guidelines, including those that call for more fruits, vegetables and whole grains.

To consume the recommended three servings of whole grains and four servings (two cups) of fruit, experts also suggest consumers look to breakfast as a key to meeting the new recommendations (for a 2,000-calorie diet).

"For many, breakfast is a missed opportunity with almost one-third of Americans skipping breakfast every morning," said Debra P. DeMuth, Ph.D., R.D. "Breakfast doesn't have to be challenging — it can be as simple as a bowl of Old Fashioned Quaker Oatmeal topped with blueberries and a glass of Tropicana orange juice to get two servings of whole grains and two servings of fruit."

Research shows people who eat a balanced breakfast weigh less than those who skip it. According to the American Dietetic Association's Guide to Healthy Eating for Kids, children who eat breakfast are more likely to meet their daily nutritional needs, keep their weight under control, have lower blood cholesterol levels and attend school more frequently.

Whole Grains

Whole grains are highly recommended in the Dietary Guidelines because they link diets rich in whole grains to a reduced risk of heart disease and diabetes, and to help with weight management. In spite of these important benefits, government surveys have shown fewer than one in 10 people consume the recommended amount of whole grains.

Oatmeal is the only whole-grain food recognized by the FDA to help lower blood cholesterol and reduce the risk of heart disease. Oatmeal can also aid in maintaining a healthy weight as part of a diet rich in fiber. All Quaker Oatmeal — Old-fashioned and Instant — are whole-grain foods.

Fruits & Vegetables

Eating fruits and vegetables is associated with a reduced risk of certain types of cancer, heart disease, hypertension and stroke.

The new Guidelines suggest Americans consume four servings (two cups) of fruit a day. Currently, about half of Americans average only three-fourths of a cup a day. Fruits and fruit juices are important sources of nutrients of concern in the diet, including potassium and vitamin C. Potassium may reduce the risk of high blood pressure and stroke. Drinking a glass of Tropicana orange juice daily provides a full day's amount of vitamin C and is a good source of potassium and folate.

Pasteurized, 100-percent orange juice can be an affordable source of vitamin C, folate and potassium and even calcium in fortified juices.

DENTISTRY for the 21st Century

FIGHTING GUM DISEASE

The best way to prevent gum (periodontal) disease from destroying gum tissue, bone, and other supportive structures is to get prompt diagnosis and treatment. Many cases of gum disease respond well to an aggressive cleaning technique known as root planing and scaling. This involves sliding a special instrument down to the bottom of the pocket (the separation between teeth and gums) to remove harmful plaque and tartar. This also serves to remove a thin over-layer of root that contains toxic bacterial by-products. In conjunction with this treatment, the dentist may also recommend antibiotics that target the infection directly. This may be accomplished by inserting an antibiotic-filled hollow fiber or an antibiotic gel, granules, or paste into the periodontal pocket.

Periodontal disease can be associated with plaque buildup in coronary arteries. Call us at 617-479-6220 to schedule an appointment. We're located at 44 Greenleaf Street. We offer the services of anesthesiology with a fully trained and qualified anesthesiologist. Our web address is www.quincydentist.com.

P.S. Another therapeutic option for combating gum disease involves use of low-dose doxycycline (Periostat), an oral antibiotic medication that inhibits its production of tissue destroying enzymes without promoting resistant bacteria.

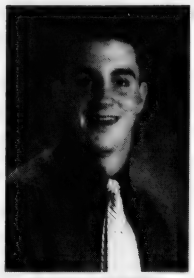
Family, Friends, Former Coaches And Teammates Pay Tribute To Former Co-Captain



Quincy Legion Retires #8 In Memory Of Dennis Thomson

THE QUINCY LEGION baseball team retired the No. 8 uniform of the late Dennis C. Thomson before Monday's game against Morrisette at Adams Field. The Quincy Post American Legion baseball team retired the late Dennis C. Thomson's No. 8 uniform before Monday night's game with city rival Morrisette at Adams Field.

Family, friends and former coaches and teammates gathered on the pitcher's mound to pay tribute to Thomson, who died last November at age 20 in Biloxi, Miss., of injuries sustained in a car accident. He played four years for Quincy, serving as co-captain in 2003.

DENNIS THOMSON

"It was a beautiful night," said Quincy head coach Mark Jaehnig. "I was in tears out there. Dennis played four seasons for Quincy Post 95 and the passion and determination and joy that he had for the game of baseball will not be forgotten. While the No. 8 will never again be worn by a Quincy Legion ballplayer, it is hoped that Dennis Thomson's spirit will live on forever at Adams Field.

"The Quincy Legion Post 95 baseball team wishes to thank master of ceremonies Doug Edgerly, photographer John Black, Quincy Access Television and the Quincy Police Color Guard for helping to make it a special night for everyone who knew and loved Dennis Thomson."

Captains Justin Thorley and John Santon gave his parents, Dennis and Maureen, flowers and a special team hat with his No. 8 stitched on the side. Captains David Jaehnig, Ian Jorgensen and Sean Sullivan presented the family with his beautifully encased No. 8 Quincy Legion baseball uniform.

An Airman with the United States Air Force, Thomson served at the Tinker Air Force Base in Oklahoma. At the time of the tragedy, he was living in Panama City, Fla., and training at nearby Tyndall Air Force Base.

He graduated in 2002 from North Quincy High School, where he was a three-sport star in baseball, basketball and football.

Thomson came up through the Quincy Youth Baseball program, playing for the Yankees in Junior Farm, Burgin Platner in Junior League and Morrisette Post in Babe Ruth before joining Quincy Legion as a 15-year-old. He also participated in the Seadogs and Spartan AAU baseball programs.

Quincy Cruises Past Morrisette, 13-5

By CHRIS POISSON

LEGION BASEBALL

The Quincy American Legion baseball team will never forget Monday night at Adams Field.

First, the team honored a former teammate, the late Dennis Thomson, in a pre-game ceremony and then it cruised to its fourth straight victory over city rival Morrisette, 13-5.

"It was a super night for us," said head coach Mark Jaehnig. "That's four in a row over them. We hit the ball well, used some small ball and played some great defense. All the captains stepped it up and set the tone.

"Not only was it a great night for Quincy Legion, but also for the city of Quincy to see the spirit of Dennis Thomson."

Quincy (3-2), which hosted Weymouth Wednesday (8 p.m.), will play Stoughton Saturday at 8:30 p.m. and Dorchester Sunday at 8 p.m. at Adams Field.

Morrisette (1-2) hosts Cohasset tonight (Thursday) at 8 and Dorchester Friday at 8 p.m. at Adams Field.

Morrisette grabbed a 2-0 lead in the first inning off pitcher Ian Jorgensen. Brandon Ranalli led off the game with a double to left-center, moved to third on a wild pitch and scored on Mike Burke's groundout. Steve Priscella blasted a home run 375 feet to left field.

Quincy answered quickly to even the score in the bottom half off pitcher Steve Sullivan. After Dave Jaehnig beat out an infield hit and Tom Conley walked, Justin Thorley lined an RBI single to right-center.

Sean Sullivan plated Conley with a single, but on the play center fielder Priscella gunned down Thorley at home plate with catcher Ray Marchand holding onto the ball during the collision to end the inning.

Quincy took a 4-2 lead in the second when John Fitzgerald scored on an error and Drew Loud crossed home on a well executed double steal.

Morrisette got a run back in the third when Joe Priscella ripped a triple into the right-center gap and scored on a passed ball. Quincy ended the inning when first baseman Sean Sullivan and Loud turned a 3-6-3 double play.

Quincy erupted for five runs in the bottom half. Conley led off with a walk and scored when Thorley crushed a double to right-center. Dean Sandonato followed with a sacrifice bunt and Sean Sullivan stroked an RBI double over the left fielder's head to make it 6-3.

Jorgensen and Tom Power were hit by pitches to load the bases before Fitzgerald singled past the first baseman to knock in two runs. Quincy pulled another double steal and Power scored when the throw to third went into left field.

Jaehnig led off the fourth inning with a towering home run over the 371-foot marker in right-center field for a 10-3 advantage.

Quincy tacked on three runs in the fifth. Jorgensen tattooed a ball nearly 400 feet to center field for a triple and scored on Power's sacrifice fly. Fitzgerald, Loud and Jaehnig singled to load the

THINKING AHEAD

Safe driving technique on the highway calls for drivers to look further down the road than just the vehicle in front of them. Looking ahead helps drivers chart a steady path, as well as anticipate potential problems down the road. Then it is usually just a matter of taking corrective measures to avoid crashes and other problems. Drivers should use the center of their intended travel path as a point of reference, taking in details from side to side to detect potentially dangerous conditions. Scanning the road ahead provides drivers with more time to make decisions and control their vehicles. Under normal conditions, expert drivers scan 20-30 seconds ahead. At highway speeds, this translates to about a half-mile.

It's important to keep aware of your environment when driving. It's also important to keep your car in good mechanical condition. For maintenance and repairs, LEO & WALT'S SUNOCO provides friendly, personal service. We also have the latest test equipment, and more important, outstanding ASE Certified technicians. You can trust your auto repairs to us at 258 Quincy Ave., E. Braintree (781-843-1550). We are "A Place Where Your Car Can Live Longer." Hours: Mon. - Fri. 6am-9pm, Sat. 7am-9pm, Sun. 9am-5pm.

HINT: Planning ahead helps highway drivers avoid such road debris as rocks and tire treads.

Cost is $40 for a family pass (two adults and two children under age 16) and $25 for an individual pass. Daily individual tickets cost $6.

Also, the Babe Ruth World Series Committee will hold a meeting for volunteers Tuesday, June 21, from 7 to 8:30 p.m. at the Quincy Park Department.

As in 2003, Quincy is hosting the 14-year-old division of the World Series. The tournament features 12 teams, including host Quincy, Italy, eastern and western Massachusetts champions and eight regional champions.

Two years ago, Youngstown (Ohio) captured the championship while the Quincy team lost all four of its games.

Quincy Cruises Past Morrisette

bases for Conley, who drove a two-run single to left field.

Morrisette added a pair of runs in the sixth to close out the scoring. Burke singled home Matt Haskins (single) and Ranalli (walk) scored on Chris Mercurio's fielder's choice.

Jared Kenny pitched a perfect seventh inning for Quincy as it emptied its bench with 17 of 18 players receiving playing time.

In previous action, Quincy pulled out an 11-10 triumph over Parkway in nine innings the night before. Pinch-hitter John Allen walked after falling behind 0-2 and advanced to second on Sean Sullivan's bunt. Power ended the three and a half hour marathon with a two-out, walk-off RBI single.

Jaehnig recorded the win in relief, allowing two hits in four innings. Conley (two hits), Jorgensen (two hits, four RBI) and Kevin Bossart (double, two RBI) powered the offense. Sandonato and Jaehnig had RBI singles.

Quincy blanked Holbrook, 3-0, last Thursday as Sandonato tossed the shutout. Bossart (two hits, two RBI) and Jaehnig (RBI single) knocked home the runs and Loud added two hits.

In its two defeats, Quincy ran into two of the league's top pitchers. It managed only four hits against Steve Connors in a rain-shortened 8-0 loss to Braintree in last Wednesday's season opener and just two hits against Canton ace Greg Lyons in a 13-0 loss last Friday. Matthew Jaehnig collected his first Legion hit off Lyons.

For Morrisette, it routed Stoughton, 15-1, in last Wednesday's season opener. Haskins picked up the win, allowing the one run on six hits while striking out six and walking one.

Steve Priscella crushed a three-run home run 410 feet. His older brother, Joe, went 4-for-4 with two doubles and five runs. Brian Sullivan went 3-for-4 with three doubles, four RBI and three runs.

The following night Morrisette suffered a 15-1 setback at Parkway. Marchand, Burke and Brian Sullivan had the only hits and Steve Sullivan scored the run.

Wollaston Sr. Babe Ruth Wins Opener

The Wollaston I Senior Babe Ruth team opened its 2005 season on a high note with a 13-5 win over Weymouth.

Joe Ceurvels pitched a three-hitter with 10 strikeouts. Joe Griffin (two hits, four RBI), Ryan Barter (three runs) and Mike Crifo (hit, two runs) led the offense.

Wollaston I fell to Milton, 2-1, in its next game. Crifo pitched well, giving up only two hits and striking out three but was hurt by seven walks. Anthony Gilbody, Jim Callahan, John Ridge and Phi Nguyen made outstanding defensive plays.

In the battle of Wollastons, Wollaston I edged Wollaston II, 4-2. Mike MacPherson went the distance, striking out eight and walking one. Wollaston I scored all four runs in the first with consecutive singles by Griffin, Barter, Crifo, Chris Mercurio and catcher Evan Harrington. John Orlando and Ceurvels played well defensively.

Jon Pelletier pitched a strong game for Wollaston II.

Corner Crew Wins Fifth Game

Babe Ruth International

Corner Crew won its fifth game of the season with a 13-6 victory over Noll Electric in Babe Ruth International league action Sunday at Pond Street Field.

Will Head notched the win, allowing four hits and striking out seven in six innings. Tom Cooper struck out two in the final inning.

Paul Reggiannini doubled, tripled and had five RBI. Center fielder Steve Santana had three hits with an RBI and run. Dan MacAuley singled and scored three runs. Sean Carey singled and scored the winning-run on Ben Sticco's single.

For Noll, Tony Pepdjonovich had three hits and a run. Bobby Yovino had two hits. Eddie Adams pitched four innings of great relief.

MBSN 14, Everlasting 13

Marina Bay Skilled Nursing scored eight runs in the fifth to open up a 14-8 lead and then hung on for the win. Diego Arredondo (double), Paul Oldham (single) and David Ray (single) all had big hits in the fifth. Shortstop Joe Page started a neat double play to end a bases-loaded threat. Brian O'Connell pitched a perfect seventh inning.

For Everlasting Engraving, Richie Shea banged out three hits and played a strong shortstop. Zach O'Hara, Brendan Cronin, Jimmy Holcomb and Chris Doyle led the offense. Alex Trojano, 12, had two hits and made a great catch in center field.

MBSN 8, SSGA 6

In an extra-inning game, Chris Mariano walked to force in the go-ahead run in the eighth for Marina Bay Skilled Nursing's win. Starting pitcher Diego Arredondo struck out six in four innings and also had two hits. Outfielder Paul Oldham had four hits and scored three runs. Mike King reached base twice and scored one.

For State Street Global Advisors, pitcher Steve Shattuck struck out 13 in seven innings and also had a two-run double. Steve Babcock and Chris McDaniel also had hits while McDaniel (shortstop), Kevin Mullarkey (second base) and Mark McCulley (outfield) played stellar defense.

Corner Crew 16, MBSN 4

Paul Reggiannini had two doubles, two singles, six RBI and four runs. Sean Aiken (two singles, triple), Dan MacAuley (three singles), Greg McDouglas (three singles, double), Tim Nogueira (two singles) led the 21-hit attack. Victoria Barney and Tom Petitti each scored three runs and Brian Kilcullen scored two runs and played a solid game at second. Reggiannini pitched five strong innings to record his first win. MacAuley tossed a scoreless inning in his debut.

For Marina Bay Skilled Nursing, Frankie Hartel doubled and had an RBI. Joe Page and David Ray drove in runs.

Corner Crew 14, Moose 10

Steve Santana doubled and singled with two RBI and Sean Aiken singled twice with three RBI to lead Corner Crew to their fourth straight win. Catcher Greg McDouglas also had two hits and threw out two runners trying to steal. Outfielder Paul Reggiannini continued his productive hitting by singling in two runs in an eight-run fifth inning. Tommy Cooper went the distance, striking out five and walking only two.

For Braintree Moose, John Rowland singled, doubled and scored two runs. Joe Benoit singled and scored two runs and Sean McDonald doubled and had two RBI. McDonald also pitched two strong innings of relief.

Corner Crew 7, SSGA 6

Dan MacAuley doubled in the last of the seventh inning, scoring Victoria Barney (single, two runs) to win the game. He also singled in Barney to tie the game in the fifth. Ben Sticco (double, RBI) and Paul Reggiannini (single, two RBI) came on in relief to retire the final six hitters. First baseman Steve Barressi, shortstop Will Head (two singles) and center fielder Steve Santana played strong defense.

For State Street Global Advisors, Steve Shattuck pitched all seven innings with eight strikeouts. Mark Sullivan smashed a towing three-run double. Chris McDaniel scored two runs and had two RBI.

SCOTT DEWARE

A Thought For The Week

In going through some notes, I found the following poem by an anonymous writer which I hope all fathers will read.

WALK A LITTLE PLAINER, DADDY

Walk a little plainer, Daddy,
Said a little boy so frail
I'm following in your footsteps
And I don't want to fail.
Sometimes your steps are very plain
So walk a little plainer, Daddy
For you are leading me.

I know that once you walked this way, many years ago!
And what you did along the way I I'd really like to know.
For sometimes when I am tempted I don't know what to do
So walk a little plainer, Daddy for I must follow you.

Someday when I'm grown up You are like I want to be
There In will have a little boy who will want to follow me
And I would want to lead him right and help him to be true
So walk a little plainer, Daddy
For we must follow you.

Salome's Stars

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Choosing to work with someone you once thought might have been disloyal is a courageous move. The logical next step is to talk things out so there'll be no reason for raising suspicions again.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Take your time making a decision about a personal or work-related relationship. New facts are still coming in, and you'll want to know the full story before you take a definitive step.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) Expect to learn something new about an old problem. This could provide some insight into how the problem began, and why it still defies efforts to find a resolution. Good luck.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) An uneasy work-related relationship can be eased with compromises by both sides. The parties might consider putting the agreed-upon changes in writing in case of a future misunderstanding.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) Oh, you lucky Felines: Your romantic aspects are in absolutely purrrfect form. Don't be surprised at how especially attentive the ladies and gentlemen in your life are going to be this week.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) Looking to prove yourself in a difficult situation is laudable. But try paying more attention to advice from experienced contacts. It could help you avoid time-wasting missteps.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) A business decision seems easy enough to make based on what you know. But this week could bring new facts to light, and you might have to do some heavy rethinking.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) Feeling sure about the steps you expect to take is great. But you may need to share a few dollops of that confidence with those who have some doubts about your plans.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) A sense of well-being dominates much of the week. A slightly depressed mood could set in on the weekend. But being with family and friends helps shoo it away.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) You appear to be walking your life's path like the sure-footed Goat you are. But someone might feel you could do better. Listen to the advice, but make up your own mind.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) With positive signs growing stronger, Aquarians could find themselves facing choices that are each too good to turn down. Best advice: Go for the one you feel most comfortable with.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) Someone you know might need your comfort and wisdom during a particularly difficult period. Your encouraging words help restore self-confidence and rebuild strength.

BORN THIS WEEK: Your kindness to all who need you is always appreciated and sets a fine example for others to follow.

HERE IS A PLEASANT LITTLE GAME that will give you a message every day. It's a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner and check one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Committee Votes Clampdown On Illegal Storm Drains

(Con't From Page 3)

The legislation is expected to receive the city council's support at Monday night's meeting.

According to the ordinance, the Department of Public Works (DPW) will be responsible for administering the law, while the DPW and Department of Inspectional Services will be charged with enforcing the code.

Gutro said there are isolated incidents of residents or business owners who hooked up illegal connections simply to save money on their water bills.

"It gives us the opportunity to detect, correct and penalize the people who knowingly and willingly violet the law for profit," he said.

According to the ordinance, anyone who knowingly violates the law would be fined up to $1,000 each day the offense occurs. Those who unknowingly violate the ordinance would be charged up to $500 for the first day, $750 for the second day and $1,000 for the third day and thereafter.

Public Hearing June 20 On Marion Manor Nursing Facility

The city council, acting as a Special Permit Granting Authority, and the Quincy Planning Board will hold a joint public hearing to consider the application from Marion Manor for the Aged and Infirm Inc. Independent Living to construct a nursing facility on eight acres off Ricciuti Drive, on Monday, June 20 at 6:30 p.m. in the council chamber, 1305 Hancock St.

The proposed facility will consist of 196 skilled nursing rooms and the independent living facility will consist of 165 units.

The proposal includes 328 parking spaces, of which 236 will be covered and the site will be accessed through Quarry Hills Drive via Ricciuti Drive.

QC Practical Nurse Program Re-Accredited

Quincy College's Practical Nurse Program was recently granted the maximum eight years accreditation status by the National League for Nursing Accreditation Commission, the school announces.

The school received a visit by the commission in October, 2004.

According to the commission, the next evaluation visit will be in the fall of 2012.

For more information about the Practical Nurse Program, call 617-984-1772.

4 Residents Graduate From Framingham State

Phelan Cool To Idea

Council Looking At Cutting College Ties

By WILLIAM TRAYNOR

A three-member subcommittee of the city council will delve into the complicated financial relationship between the city and Quincy College and make recommendations as to whether the two entities should sever their ties.

But Mayor William Phelan reacted coolly to the measure, saying the city should give the college time to iron out its own problems.

"I don't believe reacting to a scandal is necessarily the best approach," Phelan said Tuesday, "but we also have to take a close look at the future of the college as it relates to the city - but there should be no rush in that."

Before wrapping up its business for the spring session, the city council Monday night unanimously endorsed a resolve that seeks to decipher the college's financial relationship with the City of Quincy.

According to the resolve, introduced by Councillor John Keenan, the special committee will be charged with reviewing the role, mission, needs, financial structure and nature of their relationship and recommend whether it should come to an end.

JOHN KEENAN

"All these issues are legitimate and should be addressed," Keenan said as he introduced the measure. "We have an obligation to look at this by forming a committee. Things are not going well and we can't sit on our hands."

Keenan's move comes amid a tumultuous time at the college. College President Sean Barry was placed on paid administrative leave last month pending the outcome of an internal probe into his spending practices relative to the college foundation, which awards scholarships to students, among other things.

In addition, infighting at the college's board of governors has left bitter feelings among some of its more high-profile members.

Technically, Quincy College is its own city department, but its budget is set by the college's board of governors. Special legislation was approved in 1994 outlining the association, making Quincy College the only city-owned college in the state.

Keenan highlighted a number of disputes between the city and college, including pension fund contributions and a property tax cut that has been held up due to a disagreement over its funding source.

Since Keenan introduced the measure, Council President Frank McCauley said it was appropriate to appoint Keenan as chair of the subcommittee. McCauley this

$78 Million Project At Quarry Hills

Marian Manor Facility Gets Green Light

Construction could begin as early as this fall to build a 361-unit nursing home/assisted living care facility - the largest of its kind in Massachusetts - at Quarry Hills in West Quincy.

The city council Monday night unanimously approved a proposal by Marian Manor, a South Boston-based organization, to build a $78 million nursing home and senior housing complex on the site. The council's approval followed a unanimous vote by the planning board.

"It's a wonderful project for the city and for Quarry Hills development," said Ward 4 Councillor Jay Davis, who assisted in negotiating the agreement. "This has been an institution in South Boston for many years and it's a testament to Quincy that they want to relocate here."

The 8-acre parcel of land is zoned as planned unit development, which means the city council is the primary permit-granting authority.

Developers are one step away from final approval: They will need the city's conservation commission to sign on the proposal before

Retiring As Fire Chief July 8

Final License Board Meeting For O'Connell

Tuesday was the last License Board meeting attended by Fire Chief Paul O'Connell who will retire July 8.

Chairman Joseph Shea commended O'Connell and said "We salute you chief." Shea said this was the second time O'Connell had served as board member, from 1989 to 1990, and then again from 2002, following the retirement of Fire Chief Thomas Gorman.

PAUL O'CONNELL

O'Connell thanked the board and Shea and said "it was good being a part of it all."

Although the next board meeting is June 28, O'Connell will be out of town and would nit be able to attend, Shea said.

O'Connell is the fourth generation member of the Quincy Fire Department which dates back to 1898.

He has been on the department for 32 years.

A celebration will be held June 29 at he Inn At Bay Point at 5:30 p.m.

Subway Sub At Wal-Mart In August

Come August, when you shop at Wal-Mart's you' ll be able to eat a Subway Sub.

The License Board Tuesday granted Nathaniel VanCamp a common victualer license to open a Subway at Wal-Mart's on 301 Falls Blvd.

VanCamp said Subway would take over the space on the right of the store that was the store's cafeteria. He said Subway would be open from 6 a.m. to 10 p.m. the same time as Wal-Mart's. He said Subway usually closes at midnight, but would close at the same time as Wal-Mart's.

VanCamp said he hoped to open by Aug. 15.

City To Announce Plan To End Chronic Homelessness

The city's plan to end chronic homelessness over the next 10 years will be unveiled by Mayor William Phelan and the Quincy Leadership Council on Chronic Homelessness at a press conference Tuesday, June 28, at 10 a.m. in the atrium of the Thomas Crane Public Library.

"This 10-year plan is a key component which will give us the ability to examine the issues and barriers of homelessness in Quincy," Phelan said.

The 19-member Leadership Council is comprised of local community and business leaders, as well as health care and housing professionals. Chaired by Peter Forman, South Shore Chamber of Commerce president, the executive committee of the Council also includes John Boucher, president and

WILLIAM PHELAN

COO of South Shore Savings Bank and Atty. Jeffrey Graeber.

Other members of the Leadership Council include:

Norfolk County Sheriff Michael Bellotti, the Rev. Sheldon Bennett, minister, United First Parish Church; Nancy Callanan, principal planner, City of Quincy Planning Department; Police Chief Robert Crowley, Daniel Flynn, chief executive officer, Daniel J. Flynn & Co., Inc.; Bonnie Goldsmith, director of marketing and public relations, Quincy Medical Center.

Normand Grenier, executive director, Neighborhood Housing Services; Dennis E. Harrington, director, Quincy Planning Department; Jennifer Logue, executive director, Discover Quincy; Peter Racicot, vice president of marketing and business development, Fallon Ambulance Service.

Dean Rizzo, executive director, Quincy 2000 Collaborative; Kathy Rohan, vice president, State Street Corporation; Kenneth Tarabelli, executive director, Bay State Community Services; John Yazwinski, executive director, Father Bill's Place; and Ralph Yohe, president, South Shore YMCA.

Repairs Underway At Quincy Point Fire Station

Contractors have begun repairs to the Quincy Point Fire Station on Washington Street.

The scope of work will include repairing the building's gutters and fixing the roof. The project is expecting to alleviate leaks that have plagued the station for years.

"The work to the Quincy Point Fire Station will improve the condition of the building and the working environment of our firefighters," said Mayor William Phelan. "The work being completed should resolve the nagging leaking problems that our firefighters have tolerated for years."

The work is being completed with funding from a capital improvement bond proposed by Phelan and approved by the City Council. The bond will invest $2.5 million in the renovation and repair of schools and municipal buildings.

"I appreciate the City Council's support of this important investment in our city's capital assets," Phelan said. "Together, we are fixing our schools and fire stations, paving our roads and providing our citizens with municipal departments that serve efficiently and professionally. I am proud to announce we will be making substantial improvements in our city throughout the upcoming year."

$221 Million Stands For FY 2006

Council Approves Mayor's Budget Without Cuts

By WILLIAM TRAYNOR

The city council left its budget-cutting ax at home this year.

For the first time in recent history, the city council approved - without making a single cut - the mayor's municipal operating budget, in this case a $221.2 million spending plan that includes a 5 percent increase for schools, an additional firefighter and librarian jobs and moderate pay raises for police officers and firefighters.

On a unanimous vote Monday night, the council left completely intact Mayor William Phelan's Fiscal 2006 budget, a spending package that increases spending by roughly $10 million, or five percent, over the current budget.

The Fiscal 2006 budget, which begins on July 1, contains no layoffs and actually calls for the hiring of about a dozen positions that were cut over the past few years.

Phelan hailed the council's vote, saying the city has been a pillar of strength in the Commonwealth during a tough financial climate.

"We have seen schools and safety personnel being cutback in other communities, but we have increased the services we provide to our residents," said Phelan. "If our finances were not in order we wouldn't have been able to make this possible."

Fixed costs, such as pension and retirement costs, MWRA assessments and trash removal, account for a large portion of the budget increase, or about $6.5 million over last year's appropriation.

The school department's budget will increase about 5 percent, to $70 million. Phelan has made no secret that education continues to be a hallmark of his administration and he has pushed for funding increases every year of his tenure as mayor.

"We are striving to have the best school system in the state," he said Tuesday.

Police and Fire Department budgets amount to roughly $35 million, while the Department of Public Works is expected to spend about $5.2 million in Fiscal 2006.

The administration's plan restores about a dozen city positions cut over the last several years largely through attrition. One new firefighter, one civilian police position, and public works and sewer, water and drain jobs are part of the new budget.

The council also approved the hiring of two senior librarians to allow the main branch of the Thomas Crane Public Library to remain open on weekends throughout the summer. Phelan also wants to extend the hours for all branches libraries throughout the year.

"This will be the first time since World War II we have been able to extend the hours of the library branches in the city," he said.

Clearly, the council was not in the budget-cutting mood this year, at one point even reversing itself on a $2,900 cut to the mayor's budget.

This year's smooth budget deliberations were in

Phelan Honors Spy Satellite Pioneer Frank Madden

Mayor William Phelan recently honored Frank Madden, who received the Draper Prize, a prestigious engineering award for his work on the Cold War era Corona Project.

The 83-year-old Wollaston resident was among a team of engineers who developed the top-secret satellite technology used by the United States to spy on the Soviet Union from 1960 through 1972.

The top-secret Corona Project was funded by the Central Intelligence Agency and was known to the public as the Discovery Project.

Madden who was employed by Itek Optical Systems, even had to keep his wife and five children in the dark about the true nature of his work. Madden praised President Eisenhower for standing by the Corona Project after the first few missions failed.

FRANK MADDEN of Wollaston, recently presented a prestigious engineering award for his work on the Cold War era Corona Project, receives a commendation from Mayor William Phelan. Madden

Phelan, who grew up with Frank Madden's son Bill, had no idea his friend's father worked on this type of top-secret CIA spy project.

"Intelligent and brave people like Frank Madden are the reason why the United States prevailed over the Soviet Union during the Cold War," Phelan said.

THE HISTORY CHANNEL

• On June 21, 1916, the controversial U.S. military expedition against Mexican revolutionary Pancho Villa brings the United States and Mexico closer to war when Mexican government troops attack U.S. General John J. Pershing's force at Carrizal, Mexico.

• On June 24, 1928, the rocket-powered Opel RAK 3 debuted on a section of railroad track near Hanover, Germany, recording a rail-speed record of 157 mph on its first run. As the result of a rather odd experiment, the rocket car carried a caged cat as its driver.

• On June 22, 1937, in Chicago's Comiskey Park, Joe Louis wins the world heavyweight boxing title when he defeats Jim Braddock in an eighth-round knockout. During his subsequent reign, the longest in the history of the heavyweight division, Louis successfully defended his title 25 times, scoring 21 knockouts.

• On June 25, 1950, armed forces from communist North Korea smash into South Korea, setting off the Korean War. The United States, acting under the auspices of the United Nations, quickly sprang to the defense of South Korea and fought a bloody and frustrating war for the next three years.

• On June 20, 1963, to lessen the threat of an accidental nuclear war, the United States and the Soviet Union agree to establish a "hot line" communication system between the two nations. The agreement was a small step in reducing tensions between the U.S. and the USSR following the October 1962 Cuban Missile Crisis.

• On June 23, 1984, four years after he was shot and killed by a deranged fan, an auction of the late John Lennon's possessions raises $430,000. A guitar he played during his years with the Beatles sold for $19,000.

• On June 26, 1998, "Gone With the Wind," now digitally restored and with the sound remastered, is re-released by New Line Pictures. When it debuted in 1939, the film was one of the most profitable movies ever and won nine Oscars.

It's George G. Like In Generous

The "G" in George G. Burke's middle name is for Gerald.

It could also stand for Generous.

Burke again this year presented six $1,000 scholarships to graduating seniors — three from Quincy High and three from North Quincy High schools — who will be attending his alma mater, the University of Massachusetts.

BURKE

That brings his total to 79 $1,000 scholarships — $79,000 — over the past 13 years. And, six more next year will make it $85,000 — on the way to $100,000.

This year's six recipients and their University of Massachusetts destinations:

Quincy High: Robert McKeever (Amherst), Nicole O'Sullivan (Lowell) and Joseph Salvucci (Dartmouth).

North Quincy: Judy Chou and Peta Sala (Amherst) and Kris Borgendale (Dartmouth).

Burke, former district attorney, state representative and city councillor and now a prominent attorney, has maintained strong ties with his alma mater.

And, his alma mater with him.

They call him "Trigger" at U-Mass Amherst where he was a high scoring basketball star in the 1950s as was Julius Erving who was there after him.

The pair wore the same jersey No. 32 which has been retired in their honor. Two No. 32's hang from the rafters in the Mullins Center.

Burke was named to the UMass Sports Hall of Fame and later it was named for him. He has been a big benefactor to the school.

And he has been generous to his home town, too.

He gifted a fitness center at Quincy High School where he was a member of the class of 1950. Donated a basketball court at the South Shore YMCA. Paid for the installation of lights at the Fenno St. tennis and basketball courts.

He also picked up the tab for renovations to St. Ann's School which reportedly ran somewhere in the neighborhood of $150,000. And he sponsors youth basketball, hockey and soccer teams.

And, of course, he was the one who in 2001 rescued the Colonel John Quincy tankard from auction in New York City and brought it back to Quincy.

The tankard was bequeathed to now United First Parish Church by Colonel John Quincy, grandfather of Abigail Adams and great grandmother of President John Quincy Adams. And the man after whom Quincy is named.

The tankard was one of 11 pieces of silver the church reluctantly put on the auction bloc at Sotheby's in New York to pay for needed repairs to the church building.

Burke, bidding from Quincy by telephone, won the tankard for $160,000. But with the commission to Sotheby's, New York state taxes, insurance and other expenses the final price tag was close to $200,000.

The tankard is now on display, courtesy of Burke, in the atrium of new City Hall where all can see a precious link to Quincy's history.

MAYOR WILLIAM PHELAN launches his bid for a third term with a "Campaign Kick-off' fundraiser Wednesday, June 29.

PHELAN

The event will be from 6 to 10 p.m. at the Quincy Yacht Club, 1310 Sea St., Houghs Neck. Suggested donation: $20.

Phelan apparently will have an opponent but not one with a big political name.

John Rodophele of Grenwold Rd., a real estate agent, has taken out nomination papers for mayor. And will be on the ballot if he files them.

"I want to give the people a choice," he said as he picked up the papers.

Rodophele ran for school committee two years ago, finishing last in an eight candidate preliminary election run-off.

HELPFUL FRANK: City Council President Frank McCauley decided to wait at his office while he was having the air conditioning in his car serviced the other day.

McCAULEY

It was a day off for him and little to do. So, rather than just sit there, he kept busy labeling envelopes for a letter Ward 5 Councillor Doug Gutro was sending out to his constituents. The letter was to Gutro's constituents regarding a neighborhood meeting at Eastern Nazarene College about the Sachem Street Flood Control Project.

Before he got through, McCauley had labeled 699 envelopes.

McCauley, who is retiring from the political scene at the end of this year after a distinguished 32 year career, mused: "Maybe they (the councillors) will hire me part time next year to help with their mailing. I think I could get $10 or $15 an hour."

Snug Harbor School Roof Repairs Completed

Repairs to the roof of Snug Harbor School have been completed and are expected to end chronic leaking problems of past years, Mayor William Phelan announces.

Contractors completed the job last week at a cost of $180,000. The project is being funded through a capital improvement bond proposed by Phelan and approved by the City Council.

"I want to thank the City Council for their support of this effort," Phelan said. "Our schools need to be sound learning environments, free of leaky roofs and other distractions. We are systematically addressing our building needs and I am proud of what we are accomplishing."

The roof above the gym of North Quincy High School will be repaired in the coming weeks. The roof has leaked onto the gymnasium floor, causing additional damage to the floor and creating an unsafe situation during rain events for gym users. The cost of the roof repair will be approximately $190,000.

Phelan singled out the city's Director of Building and Construction, Michael Ryan, for his work on overseeing the capital improvement projects.

"I want to thank Mike Ryan and the city personnel that are overseeing the facility improvements," Phelan said. "For the first time in city history, we are addressing source problems, such as leaking roofs, which allow permanent repairs to other building problems. They are doing a great job and should be commended for all the major projects they have completed in such a short time."

Scenes From Yesterday

THIS 1911 POSTCARD view of the old steamboat landing at the end of Bay View Avenue in Houghs Neck was taken from the veranda of the Quincy Yacht Club. Steamboat service to this then popular summer resort area was available from Boston every few hours and it continued on from here to Nantasket. Notice the horse and wagon which was probably a taxi to a nearby hotel. The pier looks to have been wider than the one there now. It was built out a few hundred feet over the mudflats to reach the deepwater channel dredged there in 1901 for the steamboats. To contact Tom Galvin, e-mail tmgalvin@verizon.net.

Remembering Normand Goyette: A Great Humanitarian

I was recently informed of the death of a longtime friend and confidante, Normand Goyette. It will surely be said by many that Norm was a rare individual who positively touched the lives of those who knew him. But, more than that, Normand was a great humanitarian who exemplified the essence of lifetime public service. Not only did he fight for his country, but he never stopped giving back to his neighbors, the people of South and West Quincy, whom he so loved. Normand's legacy is one of selfless commitment to the common good.

It deeply saddens me that I could not have been there to bid him farewell, yet I am thankful I was able to write to him the week before his passing. Even though I could not be there physically, may it be known that Normand is very much in my heart and prayers. My memories of Normand run deep. We met in 1993 during my first run for the City Council. He immediately struck me as a pillar of the community, and, indeed, he was. Normand was deservingly honored as Ward 4 Person of The Year and served in many volunteer capacities. At the same time, he was always there to comfort and care for his wife who had been ill for over a decade.

Normand joined my campaign in 1995, the year I won. He took special joy in going door to door with me throughout Ward 4, forging a special bond with just about every resident he met. He would go on to be my consummate "volunteer aide" at City Hall. His presence was made so well known to my constituents that he was all but expected at every neighborhood meeting I would host. In fact, Normand recently told me that his days of campaigning and helping with neighborhood issues were some of the most gratifying of his life. For a life so rich and full, that makes me quite proud! Personally, I will always cherish the frequent local road trips I took with Normand alongside my family, friends and Normand's longtime companion, Mary Matook.

Normand was steadfastly supportive of me throughout my six years I was privileged to hold office. Notably, he remained my friend throughout my prolonged legal battle, never doubting me. I believe his unique ability to relate to people, and listen, will be missed by one and all. Certainly, I will forever miss Normand, and consider myself blessed to have known such a great, loyal and caring man.

Rest in peace old friend. May eternal happiness be yours.

Thanks Sgt. Dan Minton, Quincy Police Department For Elder Program

I want to thank Sgt. Dan Minton of the Quincy Police Department for presenting a program during the month of May to the residents of the Granite Place Elderly Housing, 125 Granite St.

He introduced interesting and pertinent topics to our residents and brought in guest speakers that spoke on elder abuse, identity theft and safety. His program was extremely well received by all that attended.

We as taxpayers and residents of Quincy should be very proud of the men and women that service our needs and protect us from those that want to harm us. The Granite Place residents know that the Quincy Police Department is there for them and that the department is one of the finest in the state of Massachusetts.

Thank you again and I hope that the program can continue for years to come.

State Subsidy Proposed For Old Colony Line

This Week
1957
48 Years Ago

Four local civic groups, including the Quincy Chamber of Commerce and the Quincy Taxpayers Association, met with officials of the New Haven Railroad and suggested the possibility of a state subsidy to enable the New Haven to maintain passenger service on the Old Colony Line.

George Alperts, president of the New Haven, reiterated at the meeting an earlier announcement that unless positive steps are taken to relieve the railroad of the Old Colony's $2.2 million annual deficit, the area served by the line would face loss of service after Oct. 1.

George A. Yarrington, executive director of the QTA, strongly opposed the proposed subsidy, calling it "a blank check to the railroad management with no control by the taxpaying public."

If such a subsidy should be granted, said Yarrington, it should be under the control of the public South Shore Transit Authority, which would contract with the New Haven to operate passenger service on a contract basis.

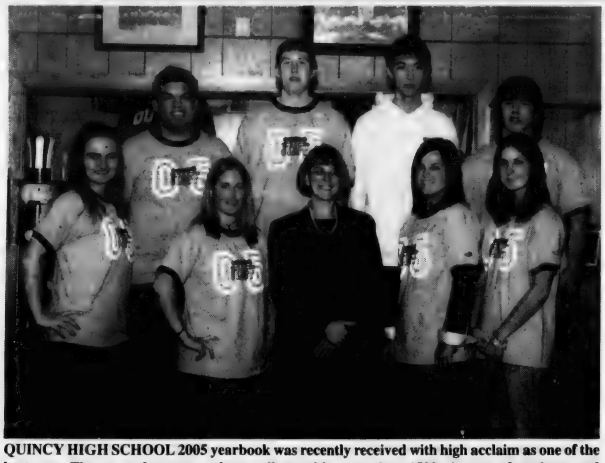
FOR URBAN RENEWAL

City Councillor Edna B. Austin became the first member of the Council to come out flatly for urban renewal when she declared herself wholeheartedly for the program she called "constructive, far-reaching and of long-range significance to the city."

"No doubt my statement will cost me a few votes in a certain section of the city," said Mrs. Austin, "but the future of Quincy as a high-class residential community is far more important than the political future of any councillor.

"I hope that the City Council has the courage – and it takes courage – to take private property for the public good."

PLAN A CANDIDATE



Former City Councillor Thomas J. Gilmartin (1945-49) announced his candidacy for one of the nine at-large seats on the Council and, at the same time, he endorsed the candidacy of Mayor Amelio Della Chiesa, who was seeking election as mayor under the new Plan A charter.

Gilmartin said that, despite the fact he was backing Della Chiesa against Laurence J. Curtin, leader of the Plan A movement, he would remain faithful to that form of government.

QUINCY HIGH SCHOOL 2005 yearbook was recently received with high acclaim as one of the best ever. The cover features a photo collage with more than 1500 pictures of students and faculty. The pictures form an image of a red, white and blue president's hat, a symbol of Quincy High School. This year's theme was Presidential Spirit which is carried out throughout the book with quotes from former presidents, and presidential portraits on every page, near the page number. A presidential portrait features a student or teacher dressed up Uncle Sam-style in red, white and blue. Mr. And Mrs. Ed Gutro Celebrate 50th Wedding Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Gutro of Quincy recently celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary.

Edward J. Gutro and Norma Gloria Tutela were married June 19, 1955 in St. Ann's Church in Dorchester. Their wedding reception was held at the Hotel Vondome in Boston.

Edward was born and raised in Quincy, and Norma was born and raised in Dorchester and East Boston. They met while working for the same insurance company in Boston. They first settled in Weymouth and moved to Quincy 42 years ago.

Edward has worked in the insurance industry for 50 years. He has also taught courses at Stonehill College, Essex Agricultural and Northeastern University and the insurance library of Boston.

Norma worked for a doctor, an engineer, lawyers and the Boston Division of the Blind.

Edward's hobbies include reading mystery and adventure novels; writing and all Boston sports including the Red Sox and Patriots.

MR. and MRS. EDWARD J. GUTRO

Norma enjoys sewing, gardening, cooking, painting, and decorating. Both enjoy bowling and have been on bowling leagues.

The couple has three sons: Stephen, who works in the insurance industry; Douglas, who works for the U.S. EPA and serves as Ward 5 city councillor in Quincy; and Robert, a meteorologist for NASA in Maryland.

Doug and his wife, Susan, have two children, Brian and Scott.

"Mom and Dad are an example for all that love also means, and are truly each other's best friend," said Rob.

Mr., Mrs. Edward Puliafico Parents Of Triplets

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Puliafico of E. Bridgewater, are parents of triplets, Ryan Edward, Aidan Joseph, and Emma Camille born May 28 at South Shore Hospital, Weymouth.

Grandparents are, Mr. and Mrs. John J. O'Brien of Quincy, and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Puliafico of Braintree.

Great-grandparents are, Mrs. Virginia Standrick of Quincy, and Mrs. Frances Puliafico of Braintree.

Point Webster Holds 2nd Annual Math And Science Fair

Ever wondered how large an apple pie really is? Or how much water sponges can really hold?

These questions and more were answered at the second annual Parent in Partnership Point Webster Middle School math and science fair held recently at Roche Brothers Supermarket.

Approximately 75 sixth-grade students, along with help from parents, supermarket staff and customers, participated in the fair. Quincy's community police officers were on hand to chaperone students and assist at education stations setup throughout the entire supermarket.

Mayor William Phelan visited the fair and participated in several activities at the learning stations.

Among the activities, students learned about volume at the Sponge Olympics station, determined if fruits and vegetables floated at the Density Tank, and measured the perimeter of the supermarket.

Students surveyed customers to determine the typical shopper on a Tuesday morning. They asked customers several questions relating to demographics and later tallied the results to create graphs in math class.

Students set up an "Estimation Station," where they used their critical thinking skills to guess the correct number of jelly beans, M&M's and pieces of popcorn in each of three jars on display. Zeba Hashimi guessed correctly on the M&M's, Patricia Andrade figured out the jelly beans, and Matthew Maharmo was closest on his guess of popcorn.

Students and customers got their first glimpse of Point Webster students' Healthy Choices commercials. With the help of Blue Cross/Blue Shield's "Jump Up and Go!" program and curriculum, teachers and administrators have commited to teaching students about the benefits of healthy eating and regular exercise.

Prior to the fair, students worked with sixth-grade teacher Cynthia Gurwitch to compose their message. Later, students auditioned for Quincy Public Schools Television Production Specialist Brian Smith about nutritious foods and snacks. Of these presentations, the top commercials were selected to be shown on a big screen television at Roche Brothers.

The three winning teams and their fruit or snack were:

• Apples created by Devin Alexander, Ryan Schultz and Asha Waterhouse;

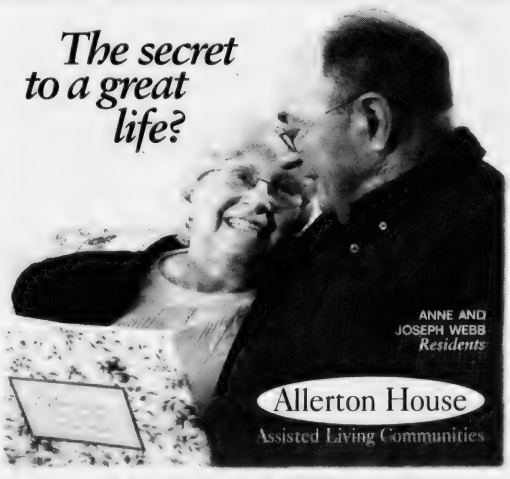
• Fruit Salad created by Cassie Foran, Diane Mendoza, Carol Onyeokoro and Alexa Riechert;

• Stir Fry created by Martin Conroy, Darien Elderfield and Peter Princiotta.

Point Webster students and Roche Brothers customers also enjoyed presentations made by the M.F. Foley Company, a supermarket partner since 1982. Students were excited to see fish, eels, and other slippery creatures during Foley's demonstration. This year, the Incredible Edible Egg proved to be a welcome addition to the math and science fair.

Roche Brothers staff also set up a custom-designed "birthday booth" where customers and members of the Point Webster community were invited to step right up and have students guess their birth date.

At the end of the day, students were rewarded for their efforts with Roche Brothers goody bags filled with healthy snacks and learning materials for their future math and science adventures.



Point Webster Middle School is able to make these events possible through the New Horizons for Youth Grant and the Twenty First Century Grant.

THE INCREDIBLE EGGMAN shows off the amazing properties of eggs during the second annual Point Webster Math and Science Fair held recently at Roche Brothers Supermarket. 'No Health Threat' Of Asbestos Found In QHA Buildings

By WILLIAM TRAYNOR

Traces of asbestos have been found in at least two of the city's public housing facilities and it is likely to be discovered in others, according to housing officials.

Its presence, however, should not pose an immediate health hazard and its removal should not disrupt the living arrangements of occupants in those units, officials said.

An environmental firm, Hub Testing Laboratories of Waltham, discovered asbestos at both O'Brien Towers in Germantown and Pagnano Towers in Quincy Point while conducting tests of the city's public housing facilities.

Drohan Apartments in West Quincy turned up negative, according to officials.

The firm is expected to perform more detailed testing on these and other buildings to determine the extent of the asbestos presence and how to address it, officials said.

"There is no indication at this point that we will have to move people out or disrupt people's living arrangements," said Quincy Housing Authority (QHA) Executive Director Jay MacRitchie.

"If we have to make repairs, it will be done appropriately," he said.

In this case, the asbestos was found after QHA decided to perform routine maintenance on some building units. Asbestos was widely used for building construction during the 1960s and 70s, so it comes as no surprise that these facilities contain asbestos, said housing officials.

"It's typical to find asbestos in buildings built during this timeframe, in the 1960s and 70s," said MacRitchie.

"Trace amounts" of asbestos have been found primarily in ceilings of bathrooms in several public housing units, he said. It was also discovered in the compounds used in the seams of drywall work, he said.

JAY MacRITCHIE

"We are still in the stages of finding the extent of the problem," he said, noting that he would not be surprised to find it in two other buildings, Tobin Towers in Wollaston and Sawyer Towers in Quincy Point.

There is a remote chance that tenants may have to be relocated if a large amount of asbestos is found in a particular area, according to QHA commissioner Kevin Cotter.

Overall, the problem appears to be manageable, but Cotter said the authority will want to evaluate a final report before making any concrete plans. The report is expected to outline the extent of the asbestos presence and how the authority should deal with it, he said.

"There is some concern, but we need to know how to handle the problem and how to inform the tenants as to what we are dealing with," he said.

Asbestos is a mineral fiber used as a fire retardent and insulation. It was widely used in building construction during the 1960s and 70s. Airborne fibers can accumulate in the lungs, and long-term exposure has been found to cause cancer and lung diseases, according to the federal Environmental Protection Agency.

Health concerns arise when asbestos is disturbed and released in the air. Usually, that means during renovation or construction work.

MacRitchie said some of the less involved work can be performed by QHA's maintenance staff if they are properly trained. Training sessions will be scheduled so staff members are certified to perform at least some minor work. More extensive work will have to be performed by a certified environmental firm, said MacRitchie.

Training and work on asbestos will most likely drive up maintenance costs for the financially-strapped QHA, which has been cited by state officials as not having adequate reserve funds.

"It's a bit frustrating at this point," said MacRitchie, who recently took over the reins at QHA and is trying to get a handle on its finances. "It's certainly going to add some costs to our maintenance operation."

FIRE SAFETY

by Captain Tom Lyons
Fire Prevention Bureau
Quincy Fire Department

What You Should Do Fueling Your Boat

Summer is upon us and for those boaters like myself, it's been a long time coming. It can be a short season for us here in New England so let's eke out what we can of it and do so safely as well.

To help you in this effort, I'd like to convey some of what code dictates a boater must do while fueling a boat on a waterway, at a fuel facility:

Before fueling, stop all engines. Shut off all electricity, open flames and heat sources. Extinguish all smoking materials. If you have a grill on board, make certain there is no flame or remaining hot embers. Galley stoves shall be extinguished. All ports, windows, doors and hatches shall be closed as well. Make certain you have a readily available fire extinguisher on board, while possessing the knowledge to use it if need be.

While fueling, maintain nozzle contact with the fill pipe. Code states that the fuel delivery nozzle shall be put into contact with the vessel fill pipe before the flow of fuel. This bonding contact must be continuously maintained until fuel flow has stopped to avoid static electricity.

Avoid overfilling. Tanks shall not be completely filled, allowing a minimum of 2 percent expansion space. Meanwhile, make certain the attendant remains within 15 feet of the dispensing controls. In the unlikely event of a malfunction, he or she must be close by to attend to emergency shutoff controls.

After fueling, the entire vessel shall remain opened and bilge blowers turned on and allowed to run for at least five minutes before starting any engines or lighting galley fires.

Although not specified within the code, here's a suggestion as well. Have guests disembark the vessel during the fueling operation and walk a little distance out of the way. In the unlikely event of a fire or emergency, the evacuation at that point is nearly complete.

Having read a clipping or two concerning fires or explosions at these facilities over the years, I've read about boaters and guests seeking safety by jumping overboard into the water. It would be an alarming scene. At least consider my suggestion to avoid that possibility.

We've done our best to maintain safe fueling facilities within the city, while we ask for your cooperation while using them as well. Prepare for and consider safety in every way while on the water, and make this the best summer yet. Enjoy!

Crane Library Summer Kids Programs To Start June 27

Summer programs will begin in earnest for youngsters next weeks at the Thomas Crane Public Library.

Beginning Monday, June 27, readers of all ages can pick up book review slips at any library, then read a book, fill out a slip, and return it to any library to be entered into weekly drawings for bookstore gift certificates.

"Reading Alive!," a high energy performance from Enchanted Circle Theater, kicks off two months of special programming Friday, July 1, at 10:30 a.m.

Two professional actors will help kids ages five and older to explore great stories in the large meeting room of the Main Library, 40 Washington St.

"No Flying, No Tights," a program especially for teens and grownups explores the world of Japanese anime and manga.

Other July events include several drop-in book discussion groups, a slide presentation on lighthouses and a visit from the authors of "The BooK Club Cookbook."

The lunchtime concert on the library lawn series will feature a wide selection of musical styles, including klezmer, Caribbean, Dixieland brass and the blues.

Concerts are held on Thursdays in July from 12:30 to 1:30 p.m.

All programs and events are free but some children's programs are limited to Quincy residents and require registration.

They are sponsored by the Friends of the Thomas Crane Public Library, the Mass Regional Library Systems, the Mass Board of Library Commissioners, the Mass Cultural Council through the Quincy Arts Lottery and the South Coastal Bank through the CARES grant program.

For more information, call 617-376-1301 or visit thomascranelibrary.org.

Phelan Can Promote Relatives On Police Dept., Ethics Panel Rules

The state Ethics Commission has ruled that Mayor William Phelan can promote his brother-in-law and two extended family members in the police department.

A lawyer for the commission issued an informal opinion last week, saying rules normally forbidding the mayor from playing a role in an immediate relative's promotion can be relaxed partly if no one else can legally make official appointments.

But commission lawyer Christopher Popov advised Phelan not to " give his immediate family member a leg up." The mayor's role in the process "should be as narrow as legally required," Popov wrote in a letter to City Solicitor Monica Conyngham.

Several weeks ago a class of 19 promotions was placed on hold after Phelan asked the commission to determine whether he could promote Sgt. Brian Tobin, his wife's brother, to lieutenant. Two other extended family members of the mayor, a cousin of his wife and a sister-in-law's husband, could also be promoted. They are not related closely enough to fall under state ethics rules.

Police Chief Robert Crowley, with the assistance of the Weymouth and Braintree Chiefs of Police, has re-started the interview process for lieutenant candidates. They are expected to make recommendations to Phelan, who will then make the appointments.

Last Landmark Craneways Fall At Fore River Shipyard

The last of the landmark craneways, eyewitnesses to the building of the ships that helped win World War II, came down with little fanfare at the old Fore River Shipyard Monday morning.

Explosives, strategically placed by Testa Corp. of Lynnfield, were touched off at 9 a.m. and took down the Braintree side of the skeletal structure. The Quincy side was demolished in November.

Parts of the craneway had collapsed Jan. 26, crushing an adjacent building that was being torn apart, killing two workers, Elvis Munoz, 44, of Lawrence, and David P. May, 36, of Manchester, N.H.

A third man, Joseph Doyle, 35, of Derry, N.H., who was removing asbestos from the building, suffered a broken back in the mishap and spent more than a month in the hospital and longer than that in rehab.

The US Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA) has promised a report on its investigation of the craneway collapse.

The shipyard, which was closed by General Dynamics in 1986, is owned by Daniel Quirk, the automobile dealer, who is using it to store cars and plans to establish a cargo-loading port.

In its heyday under Bethlehem Steel in 1943, the shipyard employed 32,000 workers, building warships like the carriers Wasp and Lexington, the battleship Massachusetts, and the heavy cruiser Quincy.

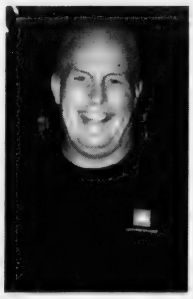
Stephen Ricciardi Graduate At Franklin & Marshall College

Quincy resident Stephen Paul Quentin Ricciardi has graduated from the Franklin & Marshall College, Lancaster, Pa., the school announces.

Ricciardi, a sociology and government double major, is a 2001 graduate of Milton Academy and is the son of Dr. Dana and Stephen Ricciardi.



A Dean's List student, he was a Public Service Summer Intern and served as executive member of the Class of 2005 as an orientation advisor.

'Get Well Party' For Patrick McKenna Friday

Friends have organized a "Get Well Party for Pat McKenna" Friday, June 24, from 7 p.m. to 12 midnight at IBEW Hall on Freeport Street in Dorchester to help defray mounting medical expenses.

McKenna, 43, a popular 1979 North Quincy High School graduate and laborer in Local 133, was diagnosed with colon and liver cancer in May, 2004.

Tickets at $20 per person can be purchased at the door. Donations can also be sent to: Pat McKenna Fund, c/o Terry Bellotti, Citizens Bank, 371 Hancock St., North Quincy, MA 02171.

PATRICK McKENNA

The fundraiser will include music, an auction and a raffle with a large array of prizes.

"Pat is one of those special people who is always helping others," said his lifelong friend, Jack Dunn. "He has done so many favors ad organized so many benefits for people. We simply wanted to help him now in his hour of need."

"Throughout this ordeal I have never heard him complain," said his brother, Michael McKenna, also of Quincy. "He has great inner strength and a capacity to face any obstacle. We are all inspired by his courage."

Writing Program To Capture Seniors' Life Experiences

Close Loopholes For Telecom Property Taxes, Mayor Urges

Legislation that would close loopholes in telecommunications property taxes is being strongly supported by Mayor William Phelan, who said the the bill would help generate more than $140 million in revenue statewide.

According to Phelan, passage of House Bill 2408 would clarify real estate tax laws, remove confusing special exemptions for telephone companies, level the playing field for utilities and provide communities with the option of generating significant tax revenue or providing tax relief to taxpayers.

Phelan urged constituents to call their elected legislators and ask them to support the bill.

"House 2408 is good for the Commonwealth and it's good for Quincy," said Phelan. "This bill is about fairness, for local taxpayers and for utilities alike. With the fiscal crisis currently facing cities and towns, it is critical that the Commonwealth examine all possibilities to close these loopholes."

Phelan said telephone companies benefit from a number of loopholes and outdated exemptions that shelter an estimated two-thirds of their property from local property taxes.

For example, he said, there are 19 separate conditions evaluated to determine whether a wire is taxable, including the industry that owns it, whether it is above or below ground, whether it is on public or private property, and whether the owner is a partnership or corporation.

The inequities have led to a confusing morass of lost revenue and arcane law, including the creation of offshore paper companies that shelter telecommunications companies from paying property tax on their equipment, said Phelan.

Similar equipment owned by cable television and Internet service providers, many of whom are now preparting to compete in the telecommunications market, is taxed.

Cahill To Award Students For Regional Essay Contest

State Treasurer Timothy Cahill today (Thursday) at noon will present citations to students at the Clifford Marshall Elementary School, 200 Moody St., as Regional winners in the "Saving Makes 'Cents'" statewide essay contest.

Launched by the treasurer's office in May, the statewide essay contest received more than 500 entries. This contest posed the question, "What would you do with one million dollars?" in hopes of getting "Saving Makes 'Cents'" participants to think about money management.

"Savings Makes 'Cents'" is a school-banking program that teaches elementary school children the ABCs of money management.

Local schools and banks work together to teach children basic monetary concepts, including how to open a savings account, the origin of money, basic budgeting concepts and what interest is.

Cahill's office provides a seasonal newsletter and an educational curriculum that is taught by classroom teachers and bank representatives. In addition, bank representatives work with teachers to give students opportunities to open savings accounts and make regular deposits at school.

Yardrock Cafe Reopens As Kilroy's

By MARIE D'OLIMPIO

The former Yard Rock Cafe on 132 East Howard St. closed for almost two years, will now be known as Kilroy's.

The License Board granted a common victualer, all alcoholic restaurant liccense to Christopher Meeley, owner of Jimarike, Inc., and doing business as Kilroy's. The vote was 5-0.

Atty. Christopher Harrington showed plans to the board which depicted a new front entrance with designated code color parking distinguishing it from the used car business in the same area.

He said some of the concerns of the abutters were problems with parking on Winter Street, and broken promises by the former owner.

George Abdallah, who lives on Winter Street said he was "fed up" with the parking and noise garnered with patrons leaving the cafe at 1 a.m. Also that he could not get in or out of his driveway.

Ward 2 Councillor Dan Raymondi said the area is a changing community with several developments planned. He said that neighbors continue to be frustrated with the 1 a.m. closing causing a disturbance.

Raymondi suggested to separate the parking area with greens and landscaping, and to limit hours of operations.

Police Chief Robert Crowley said he was not opposed to the 1 a.m. closing. Chairman Joseph Shea concurred and said that it would be tough to start a business with their "hands tied."

Tom Ford, who lives in the area, said the restaurant would be an "asset to the community" and voiced his support calling Meeley a "great role model."

Joseph Populo, Meeley's brother-in=-law said he was of an "upscale character" and would "stand by his word."

Harrington said the concept of Kilroy's is different because it is a restaurant, whereas the Yard Rock featuring Blues music was more of a bar and also had an entertainment license which Kilroy's is not seeking.

Board members asked questions about where the smoking would be and Meeley said patrons would have to smoke in the parking lot.

Abutters told of patrons parking on Winter Street and not being able to get in an out of their driveways.

Meeley promised that a doorman would be hired to check ID's as well as parking restrictions.

The doorman stationed at the corner entrance will check Ids and watch for patrons parking on Winter Street Thursday through Saturday nights.

Meeley said the parking lot stripes will be newly painted with yellow stripes for the used car sales spaces and white stripes for the restaurant spaces.

He said that Kilroy's will install signage on the building at the Winter Street entrance giving notice that customer parking is not allowed on Winter Street.

Also that a portable A-frame or pole sign will be placed on the sidewalk on the Winter Street side of the building giving notice that customer parking is not allowed on Winter Street.

Meeley also promised that signage will be installed on the restaurant side of the building directing customers to park in the parking lot.

Also that patrons will be allowed to exit the premises using the Winter Street exit after 11 p.m. All patrons will be directed on the main entrance on the parking lot side of the building.

One abutter said the neighbors had no problem with the establishment as a restaurant, but had objection to a bar.

Council Looking At Cutting College Ties

week is expected to appoint two other councillors to fill out the subcommittee.

Keenan has already made it known that he believes the city and college should part ways, at least in a financial sense. "I think we are a drag on the college," said Keenan. "I don't think it should be saddled with everything that comes with municipal government."

Along with the resolve, Keenan introduced a 17-page draft of a home rule petition that calls for the end of the city's financial relationship with the college.

Any legislation approved by the full council would need the mayor's signature, the state Legslature's endorsement and Gov. Mitt Romney's approval.

The council is expected to review the document over the summer and address it when meetings resume in the fall. The committee is charged with drafting a report to the council by the end of the year.

Councillors agreed that it is time to get involved in the process.

"If the council can help advance the dialogue, all the better," said Ward 5 Councillor Doug Gutro.

But Phelan said college officials are moving in the right direction to rectify its problems.

"I'm surprised something wasn't done sooner," Phelan said of the college board of governors' move. "But there are some well-intentioned individuals that see there is an obligation to do what's best for the college. Ultimately, the institution will be stronger, as long as everyone understands that the college's mission is its highest priority."

Phelan said the city will work with the current crop of college officials to encourage students to stay with the college.

"We will work with them to see that whatever changes occur are made in a way that maximizes the benefits to the city and the college," said Phelan. "We want to make sure the students in the summer programs will be returning in September to an environment they feel good about."

Marian Manor Facility Gets Green Light

getting a building permit. A public hearing before the committee is currently underway, and another session is scheduled for July 20.

The facility will be located at the former public landfill which has been transformed by a golf course and housing development on the Quincy/Milton border.

The council's approval followed a public hearing which saw virtually no opposition to the proposal. Only one person spoke in opposition to the project, and his concerns focused on traffic.

Marian Manor has been looking for a site to replace its aging South Boston buildings. The home is run by the Carmelite Sisters for the Aged and Infirm, Catholic nuns whose mission is to care for the elderly.

One section of the proposed facility will contain 165 independent living apartments for people aged 65 and older. Those units are expected to offset the exploding costs of paying for Marian Manor's mission of caring for seniors who require

An additional 197 units will contain assisted living facilities and housing for the memory-impaired, those individuals who suffer from such diseases as Alzheimer's and other forms of dementia.

The land is owned by Quarry Hills' developers, who will pay the city $1 million when it sells a portion of the land to Marian Manor.

Marian Manor has agreed to spend about $45,000 in mitigation funds for upgrades to traffic signalization at Brewer's Corner, according to Davis. And the organization will pay an additional $50,000 over five years as part of a partnership with the Quincy schools, Sterling Middle School and the Lincoln Hancock Community School.

Adams Shore Supermarket Gets Beer, Wine License

By MARIE D'OLIMPIO

A round of applause was heard at City Hall Chambers Tuesday as the Phillips family, well respected owners of the Adams Shore Supermarket (PGA) 486 Sea St. was granted a retail beer and wine license by the License Board with a 5-0 vote.

Ward 1 Councillor Leo Kelly began the meeting by telling the board that at neighborhood meeting held last week, there were more in favor than in opposition.

Atty. Gregory Galvin spoke highly of Nick and Evangeline Phillips who have owned the store since 1963. He said they were never cited regarding the sale of cigarettes to minors in all of those years, and would follow the same plan for the sale of alcohol.

Galvin showed plans for the renovation of the store which will include two beer coolers and a place for the sale of wine apart from the groceries. The store has a conveyer belt in the basement that will take care of deliveries.

A letter of opposition by Don Uvanitte, of Quincy, 2,000 was read by an abutter Debra Nigro. Uvanitte said the intersection at Sea Street and Albatross was a dangerous one and he also feared underage drinking.

Most abutters gathered at City Hall were in favor. Those that opposed presented petitions whose overall concerns was traffic, and underage drinking.

Jeffrey Mederios displayed a petition with 100 names in opposition, and told the board that he could gather many more names if he had the time.

Among those speaking in favor was Dave Mariano, president of the Adams Shore Community Association , and Charles Vlalassakas, retired health inspector for the City of Quincy.

Rumors that the Phillips would sell their store as soon as they got their license was denied by the family

Chairman Joseph Shea said that persons have a right to sell their property.

Shea spoke of a couple of stores in the same neighborhood that had been denied a retail beer and wine license. He said however, that every case was different and that this particular area had plenty of parking and the family was a responsible on.

LICENSE BOARD BRIEFS

The License Board took the following action at Tuesday's meeting.

•Granted a new stockholders, new officer and director and pledge of stock at Skyline Bar & Grill, 314 Victory Rd.

•Continued a hearing regarding the request of Aurora Oh, Robert Oh and Michael Condon doing business as Game Link, 11 Cottage Ave., until the board visits a similar one in Weymouth.

Granted an extension of premises to Pat Flanagan's 79 Parking Way for the anneal sidewalk sale and the 5th annual Police Athletic League boxing tournament & fundraiser.

•Granted a one day beer and wine license to South Shore Cooperative Bank, 30 Franklin St. for their fifth anniversary.

•Granted a Keno License to Mulachy's Saloon, 51 Granite St. Steven Higgins, owner.

•Granted a request of Sneem Enterprises, Inc. doing business as Paddy Barry's, 1574 Hancock St. Peter J. Nash, manager to transfer of the common victualer, all alcoholic license presently owned by Ested Inc. doing business as Patty Barry's.

•Granted a request of Fiesta Shows, for a permit to hold the annual "Mayor's Carnival July 6-19 at Faxon Field.

•Granted a extension of premises to Granite Rail, Cottage Ave., July 14, 15 and 16.

•Continued Until June 18 a request from Kristie Hendrickson, owner of Siro's for a common victualer license for a cart to be on the boardwalk.

New Sand Rake Machine

City Plans Beach Cleaning, Water Testing

The city has begun monitoring water quality at 12 separate locations in Quincy and will unveil its new sand rake this week that it will use to clean municipal beaches this bathing season.

"The City of Quincy offers some great neighborhood beaches," said Mayor William Phelan. "Our local beaches are neighborhood waterfront parks that residents should be able to enjoy without hesitation. Our water quality results are very positive and we will work to encourage people to use our beaches."

The city purchased its first ever "sand rake" machine this past winter with monies from the hotel/motel tax set aside for beach improvements. The sand rake will clean items such as glass, rocks, cans, cigarette butts and other litter from our beach sand. The rake will be deployed by the Park Department this week and will periodically clean city-owned beaches.

The city also seeks to place new sand at municipal beaches. The city has filed for permits to re-sand seven municipal beaches this year.

"We are committed to educating our residents about the wonderful natural resources that a city with 27-miles of coastline can offer," Phelan said. "There is no reason for Quincy residents to travel to Nantasket, Plymouth or points south to enjoy the waterfront. Our beach testing shows that our water quality at our municipal beaches is good and we will do our part to improve the land-side quality of our beaches to attract our residents back to the beaches."

The Mayor's Beaches and Coastal Commission is getting ready to issue its annual "Guide to Quincy's Beaches." The beach guide highlights the locations and amenities of Quincy's municipal beaches. The free guide will be available at waterfront shops and municipal offices in the coming weeks.

A Job Well Done

By SGT. DAN MINTON

(With permission from the McDonald family).

On June 5th, at approximately 1:40 p.m., Special Operations Officers Patrick Calabro, Jamie Cochrane and Don Allison were expecting a mundane day directing traffic at Keohane's Funeral Home. Over the police radio, they heard Officer Brian Coen and Fallon Ambulance being dispatched to St. Ann's Church for a call of a "man collapsed." Due to their close proximity, the three officers ran over to St. Ann's.

SGT. DAN MINTON

As they entered the church, they found a large group of parishioners gathered around Mr. McDonald, an usher at the church, who was not conscious. Officer Allison determined that Mr. McDonald had shallow breathing and monitored him. Officer Coen entered the church with an oxygen tank and Ambu bag (used to inflate lungs.)

When Officer Allison saw that Mr. McDonald was no longer breathing, the initiated CPR with chest compressions while an off-duty nurse applied the Ambu bag. They continued as Fallon Ambulance Technicians Mike Gallagher and Kelly Ryan arrived.

Since there was no response, they used the defibrillator and then transported Mr. McDonald to the hospital. Sadly, Mr. McDonald passed away.

Tim McDonald, son of Mr. McDonald, said that he and his daughter, who was in the choir, were at the celebration Mass. He wanted to publicly thank the police officers, Fallon Ambulance and the nurse for their efforts. He also appreciated the compassion exhibited to family members as well as the obvious concern for the well being of his father.

Police officers are trained to take over a situation and produce the best possible results. We recognize our responsibility to people as well as the citizen's reliance on us. We pride ourselves in correcting any call, whether it be a parking problem, a domestic dispute or making an arrest.

Unfortunately, there are calls such as this that we have no control over. We see the pain that the family is experiencing and all we can do is console, then go back and do our job – moving on to our next call and handle it with the high level of professionalism that is expected from us.

To the McDonald family, the Quincy Police Department extends our condolences.

Offers Instant Pre-Qualifications, Rate Updates

Bank Of Canton Launches New Online Mortgage System

George DeMello, senior vice president of Residential Lending for Bank of Canton, announces the bank's new Online Mortgage Application System.

Available at the website www.bocmortgage.com, the new service offers instant pre-qualifications, real time pricing and electronic rate updates for residents throughout Greater Boston and the South Shore.

GEORGE DeMELLO

The Bank of Canton's new online mortgage system is a "high tech/high touch" system. The new feature combines the convenience of online applications with individualized customer service from experienced loan officers.

"Unlike some banks or mortgage companies that utilize online services as a substitute for personalized service, we have experienced loan officers to help support this state-of-the-art offering," DeMello said. "Coupling a 24/7 online mortgage solution with knowledgeable mortgage professionals, who can advise borrowers about the mortgage process, captures the true meaning of what a community bank is all about.

"Our customers will continue to receive the exceptional service they have become accustomed to receiving our mutually held community bank."

Bank of Canton's online mortgage services offer customers:

- Instantaneous pre-approvals
- Updated information about their loan, 24-hours-a-day
- Real time pricing and rate information
- Free Rate Tracker rate watch service (request automated E-mails on a daily, weekly or monthly bases or when rates reach a specified target)
- 7-day-a-week access to loan officers.

This online mortgage system was developed to suit the various needs of all types of customers: those who prefer the convenience of applying online, as well as those who prefer the personalized attention of working directly with a loan officer. The application section provides loan descriptions and explanations, as well as contact information and biographies for each of the loan officers.

"We have created a system that provides the best of both worlds," DeMello said. "When a prospective customer begins the online application process, they are automatically assigned a loan officer who follows up with a phone call. Whether a customer provides only basic contact information or completes our entire form, they will receive a phone call from us. It's the personal service, with an added level of convenience."

For more information on Bank of Canton's online mortgage services, visit the web site at www.bocmortgage.com or call 888-828-1690.

Bank of Canton has offices in Canton, Quincy, Randolph and Brookline and lends throughout the state. Established in 1835, Bank of Canton is a Massachusetts-chartered mutual savings bank that offers its consumer, business and commercial customers access to a full array of deposit, loan, investment and convenience service options.

Tips For Watering

Keeping A Lush Green Lawn

(NAPS) — If you know how to take care of it, your lawn can give you years of enjoyment for surprisingly little effort.

For example, proper watering is a simple step, but it is one of the most important things you can do to keep your lawn healthy — and experts say a healthy lawn can raise your home's value by as much as 14 percent. Here are some tips from gardening expert Paul James to help you see to it that you're watering your lawn right:

- Keep it balanced: Put measuring cups in various places around your lawn and run the sprinklers for 15 minutes. This will give you an idea of how much water the grass is getting and where. You're looking for about one to two inches — depending on the soil — evenly distributed. An underground sprinkler system is probably the best way to be sure the lawn is evenly covered.
- Avoid runoff: Instead of watering for one long continuous session, try splitting the watering time into shorter periods and take 15-minute breaks in between each session. This will let the water soak in while minimizing runoff.
- Water early in the day: That way, less water evaporates into the air and more goes to your lawn.
- Adjust the system to the season: You can save water with an automatic sprinkler system that lets you water with an automatic sprinkler system that lets you water less when it rains more. Rain sensors can supplement this by turning the system off when it's raining.

An automatic underground sprinkler system can help you with all these things, without making you have to uncoil the hose every time you need to water your lawn. It's easy to install and even easier to operate, and can save you hours of work just in the first few months after installation.

To help homeowners get started with automatic underground irrigation, most manufacturers offer free or low-cost design services that provide a preliminary plan, a materials list and helpful installation advice. One company, Rain Bird, has a consumer-friendly approach that provides the entire irrigation solution, from a customized sprinkler design service to toll-free technical support.

Building Safety Survey Identifies Code Violations

While code officials, designers and contractors work as a team to build the safest homes and buildings possible, a new survey identifies the most commonly found code violations.

In new homes, consumers should look out for structural and framing problems, and make sure grading, foundation, footings and fire blocking passed inspection. The International Code Council 2005 Building Safety Week survey also urges paying close attention to stairs and handrails.

The most common code violations found in new homes, according to the survey, relate to structural issues and wood framing. The problems ranged from inadequate fastening to improperly sized beams, stud and floor joists.

Similar problems were identified in existing homes along with electrical and fire safety dangers, according to the more than 400 code officials across the country who participated in the survey. Potential dangers with stairs and handrails also surfaced in new and existing homes. One concern is improper construction of handrails where the spacing between spindles is so wide that infants can get their heads caught, or fall through the opening.

"We should never be satisfied when it comes to safety," said International Code Council CEO James Lee Witt, former director of the Federal Emergency Management Association. "Our objective is to improve public safety by alerting consumers to possible dangers with the hope that an educated consumer will ask their local code officials, designers and contractors the right questions that will lead to the safest structures possible."

The International Code Council, a membership association dedicated to building safety and fire prevention, develops the codes used to construct residential and commercial buildings, including homes and schools. Most U.S. cities, counties and states that adopt codes choose the International Codes developed by the International Code Council.

The Council's nationwide survey is preliminary research for a comprehensive national survey — a joint venture with the National Association of Home Builders — to examine ways to improve building safety in America.

Inspections during construction identify and require correction of building safety and fire prevention code violations.

"This survey illustrates why codes and inspections are so important to save lives and protect property," Witt said. "When a new home is built inspectors will visit the work site several times to make sure the foundation is constructed properly, the framing and other structural elements are secure, mechanical and electrical systems are installed correctly, and the home is ready for occupancy."

Dangerous, but easily corrected, code violations identified by the survey in existing homes are broken or improperly installed smoke detectors. The survey also identified electrical problems, most notably shorted or dead outlets and missing electrical junction box covers, as dangers to look for in existing homes.

"It is so important that proper precautions are taken to alert occupants, especially children, of a fire and prevent injuries from electric shock," Witt said. "Missing electrical box covers and malfunctioning outlets are fire hazards. They become even more dangerous when the home doesn't have working smoke detectors."

The survey also looked at dangers in new and existing buildings. Structural and framing problems along with permit violations topped the list of code violations in new buildings. Inadequate exit signs, obstructed exits or disconnected fire alarm systems were the most noted violations in existing buildings. According to the survey, fire sprinklers are required in most new buildings being built, but not in most new homes.

Home Security

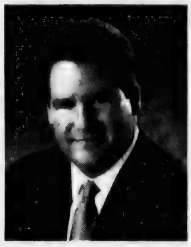
(NU) -- During the exciting time of having your house built or remodeled, make sure to consider one of the most important features that will keep you and your family safe for years to come: security.

The first step in securing your home is to dead-bolt exterior doors. For maximum protection, choose high-security locks.

For example, locks made by Medeco incorporate features that protect against drilling and picking. Keys for these locks can only be made with your authorization.

For a free home security brochure, call (800) 627-2911. To learn more, visit the National Crime Prevention Council's website at www.ncpc.org.

Tools, Equipment Fetch $100,000



Flynn & Co. Holds Liquidation Auction At Naval Air Base

Hundreds of mechanics, machinists and contractors amongst other tool and heavy equipment enthusiasts flocked to the South Weymouth Air Naval Base for a liquidation auction held by Daniel J. Flynn and Co., Inc. of Quincy.

Tri-Town Development solicited Flynn and Co. for the auction after a successful vehicle liquidation auction in 2003.

The auction raised approximately $100,000 by auctioning all the tools and equipment in a warehouse building known as Building 117. There were old rowboats, stocked tool chests, lathes, drill presses, sanders, Dodge vans, Case tractors and even dentist chairs once used at the active naval base.

"These auctions are great source of revenue for the Tri-Town Corporation," said Dan Flynn. "Without these auctions, the equipment would just waste away in an empty hangar."

DAN FLYNN

Flynn and Co. spent a month preparing for the auction, marketing the sale to make sure the right buyers were present. They were. Every item up for bid was sold. Flynn, the auctioneer, completed the 250-lot auction in about an hour.

Flynn and Co. was the scene after the auction to assist buyers in hauling their purchases out of the building where the items were stored.

Quincy Players Help Breakers Win AAU Baseball Silver Medal

Quincy 14-year-olds Mike Horgan, Mike Lebel, Joe Vialpando and Ricky Salvucci helped the East Coast Breakers capture the silver medal in the recent AAU New England finals at Tufts University, Medford.

The Breakers, the defending 2004 New England AAU Division 1 champions, went 12-1 in the tournament, bested only by the Lightening of Peabody, the defending 2004 National AAU Division 1 champions.

Horgan and Salvucci pitched in the final weekend of the three-week tournament and both were victorious.

All four play for their respective Babe Ruth teams as well as Quincy's 14-year-old Suburban travel team.

The Breakers have qualified to play in the AAU Division 1 National 14U Tournament in Sarasota, Fla., in mid-July.

Thomson graduated in 2002 from North Quincy High School, where he was a three-sport star in baseball, football and basketball. He joined the Air Force in 2003 and planned to become a police officer after his service.

He was stationed at Tinker Air Force Base in Oklahoma and training at Tyndall Air Force Base in Panama City, Fla. On Oct. 31, 2004, he was driving to see friends in Biloxi, Miss., when his Jeep was struck. He died of his injuries on Nov. 22, 2004. He was 20.

Thomson's parents, Dennis and Maureen, have established a memorial fund in his name to help those North Quincy High School graduates who best represent the qualities Dennis had academically, athletically and socially.

Swimming Instruction At Lincoln-Hancock School Pool

The Quincy Recreation Department will hold swimming instruction during July and August at the Lincoln Hancock Community School pool.

There will be two summer sessions: Session 1, July 5-27 and Session 2, July 28 to Aug. 19.

The following classes are offered for both sessions: Level I/II Water Exploration and Primary Skills; Level III Stroke Readiness; Level IV Stroke Development; Level V/VI Stroke Refinement and Proficiency.

Lessons will be taught by water safety instructors and lifeguards who are trained in accordance with standards set by the American Red Cross. Instruction is for children who are age 6 and over and are Quincy residents.

Registration for all classes will be held at the Water Street entrance of the Lincoln Hancock pool, according to the following schedule:

Session 1: Registration is Thursday, June 30, at 9 a.m.

Session 2: Registration is Wednesday, June 29, at 9 a.m.

The Recreation Department will also offer Lifeguard Training that will run for both July and August. Candidates must be 15 years old and must pass a pre-requisite swim test. For details regarding this course contact the Recreation Department.

Pre-registration or phone registration will not be accepted. Assured placement in the class, day and times of choice, should be done at the above dates and times. Post-registration is accepted on a space-available basis.

During his high school career, Wyatt rowed in Canada and also for U.S. Junior Men's competitions as well as at the Head of the Charles this past fall.

Braintree Moose, Everlasting, CB Win Babe Ruth International

Braintree Moose defeated State Street, 15-9, to finish the regular season in a tie for fifth place with a 7-7-2 record in recent Babe Ruth International league action at Pond Street field.

Sean McDonald pitched a complete game with nine strikeouts to pick up his second win of the year with two saves. He also crushed a triple with the bases loaded. Mike Benoit had four hits and two RBI and made a nice play at third, charging a slow grounder and throwing in time to first.

Joe Benoit added two hits, a stolen base and four runs and made two nice running catches in the outfield. Jared Martin also made a great outfield catch in the sixth to snuff out a rally.

For State Street, it had a lead in the first but couldn't hold on despite a nice defensive game by shortstop Steve Shattuck, who also had a hit and two runs scored. Kevin Malarkey reached base twice and scored a run. Steve Mulligan made two running putouts patrolling center field and Colin Dailey had a two-run hit in the fourth.

Everlasting 12, GDC 10

Brendan Cronin threw a complete game with 10 strikeouts to gain his first win of the year for Everlasting Engraving. Austin Simone had a double and two singles with three RBI. Brain Ash had two hits and played a great defensive game. Zach O'Hara, Chris Doyle and Zach Dwyer all had hits and reached base twice. Catcher Alex Trojano continued his great defense, gunning down three base runners.

For Graeber, Davis and Cantwell, James Sullivan slammed a double and single and Matt Guerriero had two singles. Chris Anderson, Josh Quigley and Matt Brundige also had hits.

Moose 6, CB 6

Nick Poli finished the season undefeated with four complete games, three wins and 36 strikeouts in 28 inning pitched. Braintree Moose's offense was led by Tim Alsip, who hit a monster double in the first and stroked a game-tying, two RBI single in the fourth. Pat Ryan tied the game with a long double in the top of the seventh. Anthony DiPalmo anchored the defense, recording an unassisted double play in the first and adding three more putouts and an assist.

For Commonwealth Building, shortstop Ben Leahy played a spectacular game with four assists and four putouts. Joe Madden reached base three times and scored two runs. Eric Jensen also reached base three times and played well defensively. Ryan Bulger pitched a complete game, keeping the Moose hitters off-balance.

CB 15, MBSN 5

Ben Leahy smashed two long doubles and knocked in four runs to lead Commonwealth Building. Erik Jensen, Billy Tinney and Mark O'Brien each scored three runs and outfielder Billy Ahern went 3-for-3 and made two great catches.

For Marina Bay Skilled Nursing, Dave Ray, Diego Arredondo, Joe Page and Mike King led the offense with Joe Callahan playing a solid game in the field.

CB 8, SSGA 2

Peter Lawler pitched a complete game (seven hits, four strikeouts) and also knocked in two runs with a pair of singles to lead Commonwealth Building. John Pelton had a clutch single in the fourth inning to knock in the tying and go-ahead runs. Mark Glynn and Joe Lynch also singled twice.

For State Street Global Advisors, Mark McCulley pitched six strong innings and Steve Shattuck and Mark Sullivan led the offense.

Everlasting 17, Noll 11

Brendan Cronin belted a towering three-run homer over the center field fence at Pond Street to highlight Everlasting Engraving's win. He also doubled and singled twice. Shortstop Richie Shea collected four hits with six RBI. Joe Spargo reached base all four at-bats. Anthony Picariello and Jimmy Holcomb played some solid infield defense.

For Noll Electric, Billy Constantinopolous also hit a home run out of the park and had four RBI. Brian Joyce, Joe Principato and Mike Yovino added hits.

Moose 12, Noll 11

Chris Devlin picked up his second win, striking out five in six innings in Braintree Moose's come-from-behind win. He added a double and scored a run the 10-run fifth inning. Sean McDonald pitched the seventh for the save and added three hits, three stolen bases, an RBI and a run scored. Steve Anastasi stood out at shortstop and also had two hits. Mike Forbes chipped in with an RBI double and two nice plays at third.

For Noll Electric, Billy Constantinopolous bashed a three-run homer to deep center field. Tony Pepdjonovich hit a double to deep center in the fifth. Chris Coscia had a big hit in the seventh and scored a run.

Quincy Runs Record To 6-2

Legion Baseball

The Quincy American Legion baseball team has been playing its best ball in recent memory as it has won five straight game to improve its record to 6-2.

Quincy has been on an offensive tear during its winning streak, scoring at least nine runs in every game.

Quincy, which faced undefeated Milton Wednesday, will travel to Holbrook Friday, Braintree Sunday and Stoughton next Monday. It returns home next Wednesday, June 29, to host Canton at 8 p.m.

One of the unsung heroes has been catcher Tom Conley. Conley, who made the BC High varsity baseball team this past season as a freshman, has been a defensive stalwart.

"His ability to block balls and his strong arm has been a big key to the team's 'strong up the middle' defensive improvement," said manager Mark Jaehnig. "Even more amazing is his .730 on-base percentage as he is 7-for-14 with 12 walks. Not too bad for a 15-year-old kid."

On Monday, Quincy cruised to a 9-1 win at Cohasset. David Jaehnig was the offensive catalyst as he smashed two triples and a double, scored three runs and drove in two. Going back to his previous game, he accomplished the baseball rarity of three triples in three consecutive at-bats.

Justin Thorley continued to swing a red hot bat with three hits and three RBI. He also picked up the victory in relief as he stepped in for Ian Jorgensen, who started but left the game with tightness in his shoulder after facing three batters.

Matt Jaehnig mopped up by retiring three of the four batters he faced in the seventh to close out the game. Shortstop Drew Loud and second baseman John Fitzgerald each had two hits but more importantly continued to shine defensively. Tom Power also made two running catches in center field.

Quincy defeated Dorchester, 9-2, Sunday night. Quincy jumped out to a 3-0 lead in the first inning. Loud, who had three hits and two runs, doubled, moved to third on a grounder and scored on a balk. Sean Sullivan smacked a double to left-center to score Conley (walk) and Thorley (single).

After Dorchester picked up two runs in the second, Quincy answered with a run in the third. Sullivan walked, advanced to second on Power's sacrifice bunt and scored on Jorgensen's single up the middle.

Power, the center fielder, made the defensive play of the game in the fourth when he cut off a bullet in the right-center gap and threw a strike to nail the runner at second base. In the fifth, Power walked, stole second and third and scored on a wild pitch to make it 5-2.

Quincy blew open the game with a four-run sixth, highlighted by Thorley's mammoth two-run double 380 feet off the fence in right-center field.

Sullivan struggled a bit with his control (four walks, one hit batter) but otherwise pitched a gem for his first win of the season. He struck out eight over five innings while allowing just three hits and two unearned runs.

Closer David Jaehnig shut the door by retiring the last six Dorchester batters in a row. He made his job easier when he belted a long triple just fair down the right field line to score Loud with the sixth run.

James Hutchins had another hit to raise his average to .667. Second baseman Matt Jaehnig made an over-the-shoulder running catch of a pop-up in short right-center field for the final out of the game.

Last Saturday, Quincy rolled over Stoughton, 14-2, at Adams Field. Dean Sandonato pitched six innings of four-hit ball for his second win of the season. He used excellent control, a low moving fastball and a good change-up to dominate his opposition.

David Jaehnig had three hits and scored three runs. Loud, Sullivan and Fitzgerald each had two hits and two runs scored. Jared Kenney, Kevin Bossart, Conley, Thorley, Jorgensen and Power all contributed to the offense. Hutchins received the game ball as he picked up his first career Legion hit.

QHS Boys' Volleyball Receives Interscholastic Academic Award

The Quincy High School boys' volleyball team recently received the Massachusetts Interscholastic Athletic Association's gold medal for team academic excellence.

The team's 3.49 GPA qualified them for the state's highest recognition for team academic excellence.

Led by senior tri-captains Stephen Smith, Marc Hutchins and John Hanlon, the Presidents ended their season just short of qualifying for the state tournament with a 7-9 record.

Smith averaged 22 assists as the setter, while Hutchins and Hanlon played in the middle, combining for an average of 15 kills and five blocks.

Freshman outside hitter Andrew Paine averaged 10 kills and 10 digs. Also contributing for the Presidents were junior Endri Lesha and freshmen Brendan Paine, Mort Najem and Mike Mottola.

Quincy also earned four spots on the South Alliance all-star team. All-Stars were Smith and Andrew Paine while Hutchins and Hanlon each earned honorable mention.

The Presidents hope to have a promising future with eight returning freshmen next year, including three varsity starters.

Morrisette Bows To Milton, 5-3

By CHRIS POISSON

The Morrisette American Legion baseball team dropped a 5-3 decision to undefeated Milton Monday night at Adams Field to fall back to the .500 mark through seven games this season.

"I was happy with the way we played," said manager Ray Cattaneo. "We were right with them all night long. They made all the plays. They're a great defensive team. They don't make mistakes."

"We don't have much of a bench," he added. "We just don't have the numbers. If our starting nine can't do it, we're in trouble."

Morrisette (3-3-1), which played Canton Wednesday, will host Weymouth Friday at 5 p.m., Stoughton Sunday at 7:30 p.m. and West Roxbury next Monday at 8 p.m. at Adams Field.

Against Milton, Steve Sullivan picked up the loss, allowing four earned runs on 11 hits and three walks while striking out six.

"Sully pitched a good game," Cattaneo said. "He had some tough breaks. They should've had only one run off him."

After Milton grabbed two runs in the top of the first, Morrisette responded with a run in the bottom half. Brandon Ranalli walked, moved to second on a passed ball and to third on a wild pitch, and scored on John Folino's sacrifice fly to right field.

Milton pushed across runs in the fourth and sixth innings to take a 4-1 lead. But Morrisette answered with a pair in the sixth inning to close the game to 4-3.

After Joe Priscella walked and Folino doubled, Sullivan plated Priscella with a sacrifice fly to center field and Matt Swirbalus lined an RBI single.

Milton closed out the scoring with an insurance run in the seventh.

On Sunday, Morrisette topped Holbrook, 8-4. Joe Caparotta went six innings, allowing two earned runs on seven hits. Folino pitched a scoreless seventh inning. Sullivan drove in four runs and Chris Mercurio three.

Last Friday, Morrisette pulled out an 8-5 win at Dorchester. Morrisette trailed 2-0 but tied the game in the fifth on Folino's two-run double. Dorchester quickly regained a 5-2 lead with three runs in the bottom half.

Morrisette exploded for six runs in the sixth. Swirbalus, Ray Marchand and Caparotta singled to load the bases. Swirbalus scored when Ranalli's fly ball to right field was dropped. Mike Burke, Steve Priscella and Folino each followed with two-run doubles.

Matt Haskins earned his second win of the year, yielding four earned runs on eight hits and four walks in seven innings.

Last Thursday, Morrisette played Cohasset to a 2-2 tie when the game was called due to rain. Folino gave up just one earned run on five hits with eight strikeouts and no walks over seven innings.

Cohasset reached him for a run in the first but Morrisette manufactured a run in the bottom half. Ranalli walked, stole second, moved to third on a wild pitch and scored on Burke's grounder to second base.

Cohasset took a 2-1 lead with an unearned run in the second. In the seventh, Haskins was hit by a pitch and Ranalli singled and both moved into scoring position on an error by the left fielder. Burke tied the score with a single before the game was called a tie. Joe Priscella would've been at-bat with runners on the corners with one out.

IS YOUR CAR UNDER THE WEATHER?
If you have trouble starting your vehicle on a rainy day, the problem may rest with a wet ignition. This is largely a matter of condensation forming on the ignition wires during high-humidity conditions. Normally, the insulation on the wires and coils has no trouble marshalling the ignition spark to the spark plug. Older, degraded, and dirty ignition wires, on the other hand, insulate less and leak voltage, eventually to the point at which the car will not start. The high current drain of the starter motor lowers the voltage, dropping the spark across the plug electrodes below the level needed to ignite the fuel-air mixture. The solution consists of replacing the ignition wires.
Degraded ignition wires are a fairly common problem, and one that can be easily remedied. LEO & WALT'S SUNOCO invites your inquiries about most anything connected with the care of your car. Our ASE Certified technicians are highly skilled so they can do everything necessary to keep your care in excellent running condition whether that means something simple to complex system work. We also use the AllData CD-ROM based system for the very latest in maintenance and service bulletins for all makes of cars. We're here at 258 Quincy Ave., E. Braintree (781-843-1550). We are "A Place Where Your Car Can Live Longer."
HINT: If you notice tiny blue arcs of electricity moving across your ignition wires while starting your vehicle on a wet day in a darkened area, you need new ignition wires.

Wet Weather Increases Threat Of West Nile Virus

(NAPS)—There's a new weapon in the war on disease-carrying mosquitoes—and a good thing, too.

According to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC), more than 2,400 human cases of West Nile virus were reported nationwide in 2004. This year, officials in some areas of the country are anticipating another active season due, in part, to the wet weather.

Many Americans do not take the necessary precautions even when they are in an at-risk group, such as the elderly. And the risk of developing a severe case of West Nile virus increases with age.

"Those susceptible to contracting a severe case of West Nile often don't take any precautions to guard against it," said Mark Bauman, director of marketing, Spectrum Brands. "Whether hosting a backyard barbecue or taking the dog for a walk around the block, Americans need to protect themselves every time they go outside."

When heading outdoors, the simplest form of protection is to wear insect repellent. In addition to DEET-based insect repellents, the CDC now recommends using Picaridin-based insect repellents for the best protection against mosquitoes and West Nile virus.

Picaridin provides the same long-lasting effective protection as DEET, but is virtually odorless, has a clean feel and does not need to be washed off after use. Because Picaridin is pleasant to use, it is an appealing alternative for consumers who are dissatisfied with the way DEET-based repellents smell and feel. Currently, Cutter Advanced is the only insect repellent in the United States featuring Picaridin.

Take the following precautions to avoid bites this summer:

• Protect yourself and your family by wearing insect repellent: Whether taking a hike through the woods or just firing up the grill, use insect repellent whenever time is spent outdoors. It only takes a few minutes outdoors to be bitten.

• Protect outdoor spaces: Inspect screens in doors and windows to prevent mosquitoes from entering the home. Use permethrin-based foggers and lawn sprays to kill mosquitoes where they hide.

• Reduce mosquito breeding areas: After a rainstorm, remove standing water that has collected in birdbaths, flowerpots, watering cans, buckets, pool covers, old tires and other places where water collects.

Eat Your Veggies

(NU) - According to the latest U.S. dietary guidelines, adults and children alike should have from 5 to 13 services of fruits and vegetables a day.

In general, you need to eat a wide variety of vegetables to get all the vitamins, minerals and fiber they have to offer. With the exception of soy foods, though, the protein in plant foods incomplete.

Nutrient-dense eggs provide some of the highest-quality protein available.

DENTISTRY for the 21st Century
by Steven A. Brustin, D.M.D.
GETTING ALONG SWIMMINGLY?

If you are a member of a swim team or simply a frequent swimmer, you should be aware that swimming in overly chlorinated pools can wear away tooth enamel. Adding too much chlorine lowers the pool water's pH level, making it dangerously acidic. Tooth enamel is generally eroded if the pH range falls below five. To counter this effect, those who swim in chlorinated pools are advised to visit the dentist for a check of the health of their tooth enamel. If a problem is found, fluoride treatments can be provided to help strengthen teeth. In addition, the patient may be fitted with a custom mouth guard that can minimize exposure of teeth to chlorine.

Do you or any of your family members swim in pools? Our practice is dedicated to offering the best comprehensive dental treatments available, and our focus is always on you and your needs. We provide gentle dental care for the entire family. Do you have dental problems that need professional attention? Please call 617-479-6220 to schedule an appointment. We're located at 44 Greenleaf Street. Our staff is made up of well-trained professionals who work together as a team to bring you the highest quality treatment in a warm, caring setting at 44 Greenleaf Street. We offer the services of anesthesiology with a fully trained and qualified anesthesiologist. Visit us on the web at www.quincydentist.com.

P.S. Of all the potentially erosive liquids that come in regular contact with the teeth, citric acid is the most harmful.

SCOTT DEWARE

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

Have you ever noticed how some people seldom, if ever, make premature decisions? How they do not make decisions that cannot be made effective? How, if pressured for a decision, they often say "No" because they know "No" can later be changed more easily to "Yes;" less easy to change from "Yes" to "No?" How when they make a bad decision, they blame themselves, not others?

Lincoln illustrated a good formula for making good decisions. When he was severely criticized he said, "I do the best I know how; the very best I can; and I mean to keep doing so until the end. If the end brings me all right, what is said about me won't amount to anything. If the end brings me out wrong, ten angels swearing I was right would make no difference."

On that formula there is seldom any need to hesitate, or 'hem or haw.' Base firm decisions on your best judgment, skills and abilities given you by God – and do the best you can... People who make good decisions know how true this is.

HERE IS A PLEASANT LITTLE GAME that will give you a message every day. It's a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner and check one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Salome's Stars

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) A plan you've kept on hold for a long time could finally be greenlighted. But in typical Aries form, you'll need to be sure that everything is in place before you hit the "start" button.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Others might urge you to act more quickly on your ideas. But you'd be wise to follow your Bovine instincts and get more facts to bolster your position when you finally present it.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) You might be tempted to accept the well-meaning offer of a friend to act as an intermediary in a dispute. But you know best what it's about, and you can handle the challenge. Good luck.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) Entertainment can play an important role this week. Enjoy some well-earned diversion with people you care about. Something especially wonderful might come from this well-spent time.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) Catnaps and playtime are in order for Leos and Leonas who need to take some time off from their hectic schedules to restore their energies and rebuild their mental muscles. Have fun.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) Virgos will need to keep an open mind this week about choices that seem improbable. A closer study might well reveal possibilities that might have been overlooked. Stay with it.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) A disappointing outcome of a well-intentioned effort should be seen as a lesson in how to do it right the next time. Note all your changes and have your new plan set up by week's end.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) Travel plans might need readjusting because of changes in the costs previously agreed to. Deal with the problem as quickly as possible to minimize any delays that might result.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) Your honest approach to an unsettling experience draws admiration from others. Use their positive feedback to build support for your program to introduce needed changes.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) Travel is strong in your aspect this week, and so is nostalgia! You might want to consider planning a trip to a place that holds some very special meaning for you. Bon voyage.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) A job-related situation could provide an opportunity you hadn't considered before. Look it over carefully and see where and how you can tailor it to fit your needs.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) Showing strength as well as sympathy helps you deal with a difficult personal matter. It also helps you set an example for others when it's their turn to get involved in the situation.

BORN THIS WEEK: You have a way of making people feel comfortable without losing one whit of your own dignity in the process.

Josephine V. Carpenito, 79

Retired Housekeeper

A memorial gathering for Josephine V. (Maltese) Carpenito, 79, of Quincy, a retired housekeeper, was held Wednesday at The Fours Restaurant, Quincy.

She died June 15 at Boston Medical Center.

Mrs. Carpenito worked in several nursing homes throughout Greater Boston. She worked at Marian Manor in South Boston for 25 years.

Born in Boston, she lived in Quincy for 33 years.

She is survived by her husband of 55 years, Anthony Carpenito; a son, Patrick Carpenito of Stuart, Fla.; three daughters, Toni Horton of Massachusetts, Maryann Kelly of Shrewsbury and Rose Scalia of Danvers; six grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Arrangements were made by National Cremation Services, Quincy.

Blood Pressure Screenings

Weekly blood pressure screenings for elders will be held every Monday from 10 to 11 a.m. at the Council on Aging office, 83 Saratoga St., North Quincy.

Gail Crawford, a registered nurse, will assist senior citizens in having their blood pressure taken weekly.

Appointments can be made but walk-ins also are accepted. For more information, call 617-376-1506.

Council Approves Mayor's Budget Without Cuts

stark contrast to last year's meetings, which saw the council attempt to cut roughly $2.8 million from the mayor's budget after scrutinizing it for more than 25 hours.

About $2.1 million of that was a bottom-line cut, which was ruled illegal by state budget officials. Another $700,000 in specific cuts was whittled from the budget.

After a contentious battle with the council, Phelan largely honored the legislative body's intentions by making similar cuts of his own.

Despite leaving Phelan's budget unscathed, some councillors said last year's budget battle loomed large over this year's proceedings.

"It is essentially the same budget as last year with the fixed cost increases," said Councillor John Keenan, chairman of the finance committee. "The council didn't play politics with it and both sides acknowledged the work that was done last year."

When asked why the council was inclined not to make any budget cuts in an election year, Council President Frank McCauley also suggested politics didn't play a role.

"I don't tend to buy that - I would think councillors would want to make cuts in an election year to show they are tight with the buck," he said.

Ward 3 Councillor Kevin Coughlin, a strong backer of last year's budget cuts, said residents are "crying out for city services."

"When people take a look at the city they want to know if we have good schools," said Coughlin, "and responsive police and fire departments, and if there is a pothole to be filled, it will be filled. This isn't a cavalier increase to the budget - I think it's a fairly realistic budget.

"We've made a choice that we want to maintain a certain quality of life in this city and I think that is what it comes to," he said.

Quincy 2000 Business Info Workshop

Quincy, in partnership with Quincy 2000 Collaborative, will sponsor a free monthly informational workshop for businessmen on the permitting and licensing process today (Thursday) from 8:30 to 10 a.m. at City Hall.

Representatives from city departments and the architectural, building and legal professions will be on hand to answer questions and give one-on-one assistance and professional referral information.

Topics of discussion will include such items as change of use restrictions and allowances, zoning and the appeal process, licensing and registration procedures and handicapped accessibility requirements.

To register for the free workshop or to solicit more information, call the Mayor's office at 617-376-1990 or Quincy 2000 Collaborative at 617-847-1454.

PETER FORMAN, CHAIRMAN of the Quincy Leadership Council on Chronic Homelessness, unveiled a comprehensive plan to end the problem of chronic homelessness in Quincy. Philip Mangano, the Bush administration's executive director of the U.S. Interagency Council for Homelessness, and Mayor William Phelan look on. Forman is part of an 18-member committee that drafted the ambitious plan. Mangano called it "one of the best in the country."

Quincy Plan Praised As Model To End Homelessness

By WILLIAM TRAYNOR

Quincy's ambitious new plan to end chronic homelessness in the city is at the forefront nationwide and "one of the best in the country," according to the Bush administration's top official on homelessness.

At a ceremony held Tuesday morning in the Thomas Crane Public Library, The Quincy Leadership Council on Chronic Homelessness, an 18-member committee made up of social service advocates, city officials and business leaders, presented a detailed plan to Philip Mangano, the Bush administration's point man on homelessness.

The proposal outlines plans on housing, job training and support programs aimed at ending chronic homelessness in the next decade. In unveiling the proposal, Quincy has placed itself ahead of the class in addressing the problem of homelessness, said Mangano, the Bush administration's executive director of the U.S. Interagency Council for Homelessness.

He called the blueprint "one of the best in the country" and "a model for other cities" of Quincy's size throughout the nation.

"The quality of life for everyone will be improved through this great plan put together by the leadership council," Mangano told those in attendance.

He praised Mayor William Phelan and members of the leadership council for taking the lead in trying to stamp out homelessness.

"This is a plan that says to your city, to your state, and to our nation, that the time has come for us to be tolerant of homeless people but intolerant of homelessness," he said.

As one of the largest cities on the South Shore, Quincy has struggled to deal with the chronically homeless, people who are described as those who can't find housing for a prolonged period of time and are generally in need of support services, such as substance abuse counseling and mental health care.

According to John Yazwinski, executive director of Father Bill's Place, more than 1,200 people sought help from the shelter and nearly 30 percent of those individuals would be considered chronically homeless. This year, at a given time, roughly 195 people were reported as homeless in Quincy and nearly half of those would be considered chronically homeless, he said.

The 10-year plan drafted by committee members will be paid for through existing federal, state and other fundraising sources. Housing officials said advocates plan on lobbying state and federal elected officials in an attempt to increase grant monies for the homeless.

The cornerstone of the plan involves a "Housing First" program, which provides free housing and support services to those more inclined to become chronically homeless. There are already about a dozen such units in the city, and the new plan seeks to expand that number by about 10-15 units per year over the next decade.

Approximately $1 million in funds from local, federal and private sources has already been earmarked to create roughly 33 housing units over the next year, according to committee members.

In total, the proposal calls for the creation of 120 new housing units for the chronically homeless.

Earlier this year, officials opened The Claremont House on Claremont St., a home for women that earned the city a national award.

Report Expected By Year's End

Davis, Gardner Named To College, City Panel

Ward 4 Councillor Jay Davis and Ward 6 Councillor Alicia Gardner will serve on a city council subcommittee charged with recommending whether Quincy College and the City of Quincy should end its financial association.

Davis and Gardner join Councillor John Keenan in serving on the three-member board, which was put together to probe the complex financial relationship between the city and college. Council President Frank McCauley made the appointments.

Quincy College is its own city department, but its budget is set by the college's board of governors.

Special legislation was signed into law in 1994 outlining the association, making Quincy College the only city-owned college in the state.

Several financial disputes between the city and college, as well as the current controversy involving College President Sean Barry, prompted Keenan to push for the probe.

Keenan, chair of the new subcommittee, has already come out in favor of severing ties between the two entities and Davis has been critical of the college's spending practices.

Keenan said the subcom

McGrath Leaving Post As Quincy College Attorney

This is Stephen McGrath's last day as attorney for embattled Quincy College.

"My appointment runs year-to-year," he said. "The year is up June 30. There has been a change in leadership at the college. They want their own attorney."

McGrath, who was named to the post in February, 2002, by President-on-leave Sean Barry, said he was told two weeks ago that he would not be reappointed.

STEVE McGRATH

"She (acting President Sue Harris) indicated that she would be reorganizing the leadership," he said, "and I would not be reappointed.

"I was appointed by President Barry. We remain good friends. She wanted to do a different thing. I wish her well."

Barry was placed on leave by the Board of Governors a month ago while his use of Quincy College Foundation funds to pay for travel expenses was under investigation.

Early Deadline For Next Week's Sun

Because of the Fourth of July holiday, there will be an early news and advertising deadline for next week's Quincy Sun.

News, church, organizations and youth sports releases, retail and classified advertisements and legal notices should be in The Sun office, 1372 Hancock St., by noon tomorrow (Friday) to assure publication in the July 7th issue.

The Sun will be closed Monday, July 4.

Thank you and have a nice holiday weekend.

Miss Wheelchair Massachusetts Visits Squantum School

LAUREL ELIZABETH LABDON (Miss Wheelchair Massachusetts) and State Rep. Bruce Ayers recently visited the Squantum Elementary School to speak with the second graders about the importance of understanding the values and needs of the physically limited. Labdon, who was injured in a car accident 15 years ago, will be competing next month for Miss Wheelchair USA in New York. Rep. Ayers and Labdon have been working together on legislation at the State House that would enhance the lives of the physically challenged.

AFTER SPEAKING TO the second graders at the Squantum Elementary School, Rep. Bruce Ayers and Laurel Elizabeth Labdon, "Miss Wheelchair Massachusetts" took the students on a handicap accessible trolley ride as part of the program to emphasize the transportation needs of the physically challenged. This was Labdon's last public appearance prior to her national competition next month for Miss Wheelchair USA.

Food Cart Approved On Boardwalk At Siro's

By MARIE D'OLIMPIO

If you enjoy going to the North End for a sausage, you will now be able to go to Siro's at Marina Bay.

Owner Kristie Henricksen was granted an extension of her common victualer license and operate a food cart on the boardwalk between the Waterclub and Siro's and sell sausages.

The License Board, on a 3 to 1 vote granted the license Tuesday from April 19 to Oct. 31 with a review at the end of the season on Nov. 1.

Voting against the request was Health Commissioner Drew Scheele whose concerns were that at the end of the evening, "we want to get people out of Marina Bay as quickly as possible," and with the late closing, there would be a problem with "people noise" as well as noise from cars leaving the site.

Voting in favor of the cart were Jay Duca, director of inspectional services; Deputy Timothy Pettinelli and City Clerk Joseph Shea.

Police Chief Robert Crowley, who knows Henricksen, abstained from the vote.

Henricksen said the cart would bring "character to the boardwalk" and she would be able to offer food after closing the restaurant kitchen. There would be metal railings to control any lines forming to get food for the cart, she said.

She said the cart is "top of the line" made of stainless steel with running water and a refrigerator. On a quesfion by Deputy Pettinelli as to where the electricity would be connected. Henricksen said it would be drawn from the Waterclub, which is right next store to Siro's.

The hours of operating the cart would be from 11 a.m. to 12:30 a. seven days a week.

There were no abutters in the audience. Ward 6 Councillor Alicia Gardner said she was sorry she was not able to have a meeting with other business owners in the area prior to Tuesday's meeting.

She warned the board that they may be opening a "Pandora's Box" and the potential of other business owners requesting food carts in front of their establishments.

Gardner said she had spoken to members of the Marina Bay Civic Association who wanted to know why Henricksen wanted a food cart. Henricksen said the season is short (about three months) and she was "offering something different."

Chairman Joseph Shea said the rqeust for the cart was "new territory" and that because of it being seasonal, the wanted to "go forward and get this thing going."

License Board Briefs

The License Board took the following action at Tuesday's meeting.

•Granted a permit to Margaret Mclean-LaForest of the Houghs Neck Community Council to hold a Chowderfest on the grounds of the MWRA Nut Island Plant Sept. 17 from 2 to 7 p.m.

•Continued a request until July 12 of Aurora and Robert Oh and Michael Condon doing business as Game Link, 11 Cottage Ave. for an entertainment license. Chairman Joseph Shea said he and other board members visited a similar site in Weymouth and said he was "pleasantly surprised" at how clean and well run it was. He said he would be happy to discuss the matter on July 12.

•Continued until July 12 a request of Sneem Enterprises, Inc. doing business as Paddy Barry's, 1574 Hancock St. Peter J. Nash Jr. manager for the transfer of the common victualer all alcoholic license presently held by Ested Inc., doing business as Patty Barry's. Atty. Robert Fleming cited a problem with the lease as the reason for the continuation.

•Granted a fuel storage license and permit to store gasoline in the tanks of 330 vehicles at 4 Highpoint Circle parking garage at Quarry St. Atty. Robert Fleming was counsel.

•Shea said the board reviewed 2100 licenses throughout the city for unpaid licenses. He said warnings were sent out to several who did not pay, but they all came in prior to 10 a. m. Tuesday.•Granted a general permit to Ward 1 Councillor Leo Kelly for the Houghs Neck Community Council's non-alcoholic Family Field Day on Edgewater Drive, July 3 from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.,

•Granted a one day beer and wine license to Jeanne Reardon, member of the Merrymount Associations for their July 3 celebration on Merrymount Beach from 11 a.m. to 11 p.m.

Firefighting Family Served 107 Years

Chief O'Connell's Retirement Marks End Of Era

By WILLIAM TRAYNOR

It will truly be the end of an era.

When Fire Chief Paul O'Connell retires on July 8, it will mark the end of four generations of a family that dedicated more than a century to battling blazes and saving lives in the City of Quincy.

"It's been a great job and I have no regrets," said O'Connell, who will step down as chief after serving 32 years on the Quincy Fire Department. "But it's my time - there are other things out there."

O'Connell's retirement closes another chapter in a book that actually began in the 19th century.

His great-grandfather, Cornelius O'Connell, began working as a firefighter for the City of Quincy in 1898. He was followed by his grandfather, Capt. Timothy O'Connell, great uncles Capt. Edward O'Connell and firefighter John O'Connell. All are deceased.

His father is retired Lt. Cornelius "Bud" O'Connell and retired Lt. Thomas O'Connell is his cousin.

Although the family line has ended its service in Quincy, a relative, nephew Scott Rogers, is a firefighter in Randolph. O'Connell's brother-in-law, Robert Rogers, recently retired as Deputy Chief in Randolph.

O'Connell said his son, Brian, has no desire to be a firefighter, so the family tradition will end on July 8.

Mayor William Phelan held high praise for O'Connell, calling his retirement "the end of an era."

"There is an element of experience there that we will be hard pressed to replace," said Phelan. "I wish him all the luck in the world, and a peaceful retirement for him and his wife."

O'Connell, 55, plans to finish his Vietnam War memoir, tentatively titled "Between The Lines," a story based on 80 letters he wrote to his father and late mother, Shirley, during his one-year stint as a Marine in Vietnam. In 1969, he received a Purple Heart after suffering minor injuries while in action.

"My father kept every letter I sent to him while I was in Vietnam," said O'Connell. "He had them in a shoebox. They tell an incomplete story so I wanted to fill in the blanks."

While serving his country in Vietnam, O'Connell said he and his fellow soldiers would read anything they could get their hands on. His mother even got him a subscription to The Quincy Sun so he could read about his hometown.

"I think I got one of the first issues of The Quincy Sun," he said. "We wanted to read anything and everything," he said, "and that Quincy Sun would float around everywhere. Most of the other guys never even heard of Quincy, but they read about it."

O'Connell said he plans to stay active after his retirement, enjoying his summer home in Wareham and staying fit with cycling, kayaking and sailing. He has lived in Stoughton for 30 years with his wife, Judith.

And don't be surprised if you spy O'Connell digging for clams on the beach. "I enjoy clamdigging as a recreational activity," he said.

As for future work plans, O'Connell's asks, "Who knows - who wants me? I haven't received any offers yet, but we'll see."

O'Connell's retirement marks the end of his second stint as chief. In 1989, he was appointed to lead the fire department by then-Mayor Frank McCauley.

But O'Connell served only a year-and-a-half before stepping down. At 38 years old, O'Connell believed he was too young and had moved up through the ranks too quickly.

Hefty budget cuts in 1990 partly contributed to his departure, he said.

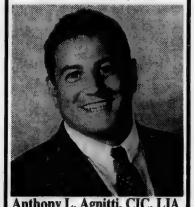
"Some people say it (budget cuts) comes with the territory," said O'Connell. "But if that's what it takes I didn't want the territory at that time.

"When I look back on it, I realize there are times you can move too fast," he said.

O'Connell returned to regular duty as a deputy chief in 1990. He was named acting chief in 2002 after Thomas F. Gorman Jr. retired. In January, 2003, Mayor William Phelan appointed him as permanent chief.

He joined the Quincy Fire Department in June, 1973 and quickly rose through the ranks.

O'Connell was promoted to lieutenant in 1978, captain in 1984 and deputy chief in 1987.



"We prided ourselves on being firefighters - smoke eaters," O'Connell said of himself and family members. "It was the art of fighting fires - getting in there and doing it. Fire is a part of life and we prided ourselves on fighting it."

QUINCY FIRE CHIEF Paul O'Connell, scheduled to retire on July 8, stands in front of Engine 1 at fire headquarters in Quincy Center. O'Connell's departure marks the end of a era, as he and his family have served as firefighters in the City of Quincy for 107 years.

Do you have an adjustable rate mortgage or home equity loan?

Will you be able to afford your payment when rates start going up? Lots of people have gone with adjustable rate loans because they could "buy more house" or just because the rates were so low. But rates are starting to move up now. In fact, short-term rates went up more than a point over the past few months. Fed watchers say they'll be going up again soon. Did you always plan to switch to a fixed-rate loan before rates went up? Then we should talk. At Colonial Federal Savings Bank, we can make it very easy for you to convert to a fixed-rate loan. And fixed rates are still hovering near 50-year lows. Is that adjustable rate loan starting to make you nervous? Come see us. Or call 617-471-0750.

THE HISTORY CHANNEL

• On June 27, 1844, Joseph Smith, the founder and leader of the Mormon religion, is murdered along with his brother Hyrum when an anti-Mormon mob breaks into a jail where they are being held in Carthage, Ill.

• On June 30, 1859, Jean-Francois Gravelet, a Frenchman known as "The Great Blondin," becomes the first daredevil to walk across Niagara Falls on a tightrope. He later did tightrope walks across the falls blindfolded, with his manager on his back, sitting down midway to cook an omelet, and pushing a wheelbarrow across while dressed as an ape.

• On July 2, 1881, just months into his administration, President James Garfield is shot and mortally wounded by a disgruntled office-seeker as he walks through a railroad waiting room in Washington, D.C. Garfield died 80 days later of blood poisoning.

• On July 3, 1957, Nikita Khrushchev takes control in the Soviet Union by orchestrating the ouster of key opponents from positions of authority in the Soviet government. Khrushchev's power began to wane after the 1962 Cuban missile crisis, and he was forced out in 1964.

• On June 28, 1975, television writer Rod Serling dies at age 50 after open-heart surgery. Born in Syracuse, N.Y., Serling became one of early television's most successful writers, and was best known for the anthology series "The Twilight Zone," which he created, wrote and hosted.

• On June 29, 1989, the U.S. House of Representatives unanimously passes sanctions against the People's Republic of China following the brutal massacre of protesters in Tiananmen Square in Beijing. American indignation, however, was relatively short-lived, and most of the sanctions died out after a brief period.

• On July 1, 1995, legendary radio disc jockey Wolfman Jack, born Robert Smith, dies. The Brooklyn-born Smith became famous in the 1960s while broadcasting nightly from powerful radio stations in Mexico, which could be heard in many parts of the U.S.

Mayoral Issues And Challenges

Quincy's mayors down through the years have had their share of issues, challenges and decisions to wrestle with.

For Bill Phelan you might say one is the site for the proposed new Quincy High School which was a big issue in 2001 when he defeated six-term incumbent James Sheets in that historic mayoral upset.

PHELAN

Today, the proposed new site on Faxon Field is a new issue. And right now no one is even sure what the school is actually going to look like.

There's the plan to revitalize the downtown area — something other mayors have taken a shot at. Phelan could be the one to do it.

And, there's the Quincy College controversy. Should the city unplug its connection to the college?

Then there are day-to-day routine and not-so-routine matters that are par for the mayoral course. Every mayor has faced them. They go with the territory.

Today's issues are as important to the city as those in the past.

But, perhaps the mayor who faced the most momentous times in the city's history was Tom Burgin who served from 1935 to 1942 as Plan A mayor.

Burgin, who died in 1986 at age 83, had to deal with the Great Depression, the Hurricane of 1938 and the days just after the attack on Pearl Harbor.

BURGIN

Burgin recalled some of those events and his feelings about them in an interview here in 1984.

The Depression: Some 10,000 people in Quincy were on relief rolls and another 1,800 on federal WPA and PWA projects.

"It was pathetic and I will never forget it."

Hurricane Of 1938: "There were 3,800 trees down and all the fire alarm boxes and police call boxes were out of commission. There was no electricity."

Pearl Harbor Attack: Burgin rushed back from Cape Cod and worked 72 hours without sleep readying the city for the war's demands.

A day later, 1,700 troops arrived in Quincy and had to be billeted by that night.

"We had to commandeer Masonic halls, Knights of Columbus halls, church halls . . . but we did it," he said.

Burgin touched on other topics:

Biggest Change In The City: "The advent of the MBTA. It completely changed Quincy Sq., Wollaston, Norfolk Downs, Atlantic and Quincy Adams."

His Favorite Achievement: Surprisingly it was not political but the new South Shore YMCA building. He was president of the YMCA when over $1 million was raised, the biggest fundraiser at the time in the city's history.

"I think that would stand as the greatest memorial anyone would want to leave — it's dedicated to youth."

Personal Honor: The renaming of Upland Rd. to Honorable Thomas S. Burgin Parkway. "I was humbled. It was awfully nice of them to do it. How nice it is to give someone a pat on the back while he is here rather than send the flowers later."

His Favorite Mayors: He was reluctant to name them but after some thought and a little prodding, said:

"Of the recent ones, Jim McIntyre, I was close with him. I thought the world of him.

McINTYRE

"In the early days, I looked up to Perley Barbour and Joseph Whiton and had the highest regard for Charles Francis Adams."

Quincy Of The Future: "Quincy will go through a great change. It has been a residential city of houses but the apartments are coming.

"There will be a great growth in the business community — a substantial change in residential. But our zoning will help. There will be no skyscrapers."

Burgin was on target about the apartments. They have been coming for sometime. But about no skyscrapers. New zoning will allow 15-story structures in the downtown area. To many people those are skyscrapers — or close to it.

No Quincy mayor served during more interesting and challenging times than Tom Burgin.

Burgin in 1940 was the first of Quincy's mayors to run unopposed for re-election. Two years later, he left they mayor's office to serve in the Navy during World War II.

Burgin returned to the political arena in 1949 as Quincy began a stormy marriage with the Plan E city manager form of government.

Seven at-large councillors were to be elected. And there were — get this — 59 candidates for those seven seats. (No ward councillors).

It took 130 counters six days under the PR — or preferential voting representation system — to determine which seven of the 59 candidates were elected.

Burgin hadn't lost his political touch. He topped the field and in January, 1950 his city council colleagues elected him Quincy's first Plan E mayor.

Under Plan E, the mayor was like the City Council president and ceremonial head of the city. The chief executive was the city manager and the council picked William Deegan of Wisconsin at the first one.

There was a lot of hope for Plan E but it didn't work out. After eight years — most of them turbulent — Quincy returned to the present Plan A strong mayor form of government.

How strong a Plan A mayor can be may have been recently illustrated by the $221.2 million budget Phelan sent to the city council for approval.

The council unanimously passed it — without a single cut. The budget represents an increased spending of $10 million — or five percent — over the previous one.

There's more money in there for the schools, expansion of the Early Literacy Programs, summer Saturday and Sunday library hours, rehiring some employees whose jobs had been cut, and some pay raises. And, no layoffs.

No one can remember when — of if — any mayor before Phelan ever got a budget through the council without someone taking a single swipe at it.

That may go down as an interesting footnote in Quincy's political history.

Scenes From Yesterday

THIS IS A 1920 postcard reproduction showing the Miller Stile Inn, now the home of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce on Miller Stile Road in Quincy Center. Built in 1822, this was the home of the Miller and Bigelow families who between them owned much of the property in this area. The Millers allowed neighbors to cross their property on a footpath with a "stile," hence the Inn's name. The last owner/resident to live here was Edward Everett who was the headmaster of the Adams Academy. When Everett died in 1912, Quincy's real estate mogul Henry M. Faxon purchased the property and converted the house to an Inn. He also built seven large cottages on the grounds of the estate to accommodate additional inn guests. The Inn operated for almost 50 years. This postcard view is from one of five cottages Faxon built along Elm Street. Across the foreground of the picture is the Town Brook. Guests in the cottages used the bridge to get to the Inn for meals; they had no kitchens. These cottages are now private homes. The Faxon family sold the Inn and two of the other cottages on the Bigelow Street side of the building in 1959 to what was then the Quincy Chamber of Commerce. Drop-In Book Discussions At Library

Drop-in book discussions will be held in July at the Thomas Crane Public Library, 40 Washington St., Quincy Center.

On Wednesday, July 6, at 10 a.m., the drop-in discussion will be of "Four Letters of Love" by Niall Williams. In a literary debut selected as a New York Times Notable Book of the Year, Williams has crafted a novel of love and loss, madness and miracles, magic and reality. Set in Ireland, it is the story of Nicholas and Isabel, whose hearts were drawn by the winds of destiny.

On Thursday, July 14, at 7 p.m., the discussion will be of "Pastwatch: the Redemption of Christopher Columbus" by Orson Scott Card. Card interweaves a compelling portrait of Christopher Columbus with the story of a future scientist who believes she can alter human history from a tragedy of bloodshed and brutality to a world filled with hope and healing.

On Monday, July 18, at 7 p.m., the discussion will be of "Bangkok 8" by John Burdett. When a U.S. Marine is killed in Bangkok, the task of finding the murderer falls to Detective Sonchai Jitpleecheep, seemingly the only member of the Royal Thai Police Force whose idea of justice precludes his fellow officers' customary system of bribery.

Multiple copies of each title are now available to check out at the Main Library. Pick up a copy of the book that appeals to you and then drop in for an informal discussion. Discussions will be facilitated by library staff and light refreshments will be served. No registration is required. For more information, call 617-376-1301 or visit thomascranelibrary.org.

Life Is A Classroom

By NANCY ZAGRODNY

As our sons and daughters graduate from the "real world," let us remind them that 12 years of schooling, renting a cap and gown and receiving a scroll of paper does not mean they are through learning.

They were taught how to read and write but not how to forgive.

They know who Abraham Lincoln was but do not know themselves.

As adults, we know that they are sadly mistaken if they think they taken their last test.

Some they will pass and some they will fail.

What they choose to do on a daily basis contributes to the final grade.

When my children go out at night, I do not tell them to be good - they already are good.

I tell them, "Be careful of your choices."

Although we are proud of their accomplishments, let us not forget to tell them that for the rest of their lives, school is always in session.

Free Blood Pressure Clinics For Seniors

Weekly blood pressure screenings for elders will be held every Monday from 10 to 11 a.m. at the Council on Aging office, 83 Saratoga St., North Quincy.

Gail Crawford, a registered nurse, will donate her time and talents to assisting senior citizens in having their blood pressure taken weekly.

Appointments can be made but walk-ins also are accepted. For more information, call 617-376-1506.

Merrymount Honor Roll Dedicated

This Week
1945
60 Years Ago

Two Gold Star mothers, Mrs. Alfred Furniss and Mrs. John Kelly, unveiled the honor roll as thousands of Merrymount residents turned out on Independence Day morning for the ceremonies at the corner of Sea St. and Narragansett Rd.

The honored dead from Merrymount whose names appeared with a gold star on the honor roll included Roger F. Furniss, Theodore M. Jackson, Paul Kelly, Frederick Martin, Alexander McQueen, Frederick C. Murphy and John A. Stanton.

City Solicitor John P. Flavin was the principle speaker at the dedicatory exercises that highlighted Merrymount's 23rd annual observance of the Fourth of July.

Elsewhere on the Fourth in Quincy, the Davis St. Associates held a gala block dance the night before with about 300 dancing to the latest recordings, Edith Nicholl and Charles Corey won the elimination dance.

The Squantum Women's Club float, with costumes designed by Mrs. Albert D. Young, won first prize in the Fourth of July parade in Squantum. The day started with the flag-raising ceremony supervised by George O. Dixon.

Milk and ice cream were distributed to children at the Montclair Improvement Association celebration, which also featured movies in the Montclair School and a model air-plane show presented by John Ghiorse and Arthur Muldoon.

GAS STATION OPPOSED

A petition with 123 names of nearby residents was presented to the License Board in opposition to plans for a gasoline station at 632-636 Adams St. It was presented by Kenneth McIsaac, Mrs. Matthew Gindorf, Mario Ferrazzi and John Mitchel.

Mrs. Gindorf told the License Board that there already were eight filling stations within less than a quarter of a mile on Adams St.

Volunteers Sought For August Moon Festival

Quincy Asian Resources, Inc. (QARI) is looking for volunteers to assist in the planning of the 18th annual August Moon Festival, which is scheduled for Aug. 21 from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. at President's Plaza, Quincy Ave.

Last week, QARI members met to create working groups to assist in logistics, entertainment, marketing and other volunteer activities. Organizers hope more people will come forward and volunteer their time and input.

"The August Moon Festival is a wonderful event which brings together the community to celebrate Asian cultures," said John Brother, executive director of QARI. "We invite representatives of all of the cultures living on the South Shore to take part."

Approximately 50 North Quincy High School students have already agreed to volunteer their services for the festival, said Brothers.

More than 100 local businesses, government and social service agencies and individuals are expected to participate in the festival.

Grand Sponsors of this year's event are Kam Man Supermarket, Mohegan Sun and Sunshine Travel.

For more information, to sign up as a volunteer, sponsor or vendor, contact Brothers or Carmen Mei at 617-472-2200 or visit www.qari.info.

Summer Programs Begin At Thomas Crane Library

Summer programs continue at the Thomas Crane Public Library, 40 Washington St., Quincy Center.

This summer enter the Read and Review Raffle. Beginning June 27, readers of all ages can pick up book review slips at the Main Library or any branch library. Read - or listen - to a book, fill out a slip and return it to any library location to be entered into weekly drawings for bookstore gift certificates.

Travel the world this summer without leaving town as the Thomas Crane Library presents "Going Places @ your library," a summer library adventure for all ages. Our travels begin Friday, July 1 at 10:30 a.m. with Reading Alive!, a high-energy performance from Enchanted Circle Theater. Interact with two professional actors as you explore great stories through theater games, character exploration, rhythmic reading and more. This program is for children ages 5 and older and will take place in the large meeting room at the Main Library, 40 Washington St., Quincy. This program is sponsored by the South Coastal Bank through a CARES grant and the Friends of the Thomas Crane Public Library.

Art-To-Go is a series of weekly art activities that travel throughout Quincy. Projects are open-ended to accommodate a wide age group. Each week brings a new project that will travel to each branch of the library.

STORYTELLER DEBBIE O'CARROLL presents a special program called "Magic Railroad" for children ages 3 and up at the Thomas Crane Public Library.

Drop in any time from 2 to 4 p.m. to create a project. Supplies are available at the Main Library Children's Room on Monday, Adams Shore on Tuesdays, Wollaston on Wednesdays and North Quincy on Thursdays. Train picture frames are the craft for the week of July 4th. The library will be closed on Monday for the holiday.

Registration begins on Tuesday, July 5 for the first of four Monday Night Craft programs. Decorate a miniature cardboard suitcase with decoupage to keep your summer treasures in. This program is for children ages 8 and older and will take place at 7 p.m. on Monday, July 11 in the Main Library Children's Room. Registration is required and limited to Quincy residents. To register, stop by the library or call the Children's Room at 617-376-2411.

On Wednesday, July 6 at 2 p.m. at the North Quincy Branch, 381 Hancock St., jump aboard the Magic Railroad as storyteller Debbie O'Carroll presents a special program for children ages 3 and accompanied by an adult. Debbie O'Carroll, in the role of engineer Alice Kazoo, takes you across the United States on the Magic Railroad.

For more information about summer events, call 617-376-2411 or visit us online at thomascranelibrary.org.

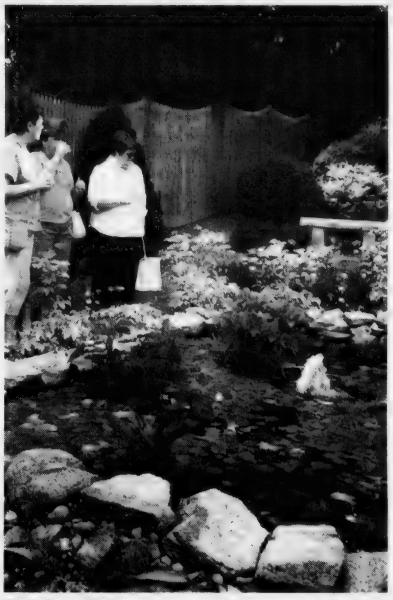
Wollaston Garden Club Tours Members' Gardens

Some 55 members of the Wollaston Garden Club recently enjoyed tours of private gardens of four members and sampled one course of a four-course dinner at each home visited.

The four gardens were those of Lynn Petitti of Milton, Joan Donovan of Barham Avenue, Wollaston; Florence Clifford of Shore Avenue, Merrymount; and Linda Fitzgerald of Chickatabot Road, Merrymount.



Ms. Petitti's hillside garden, on which she and her husband, Richard, have worked for almost 13 years, featured multiple ponds and provided an inviting place for birds with feeders and granite bird baths.

Ms. Donovan's garden had a Japanese flavor with a pond within a carefully raked sand garden, connected by a small bridge and bamboo steps. A series of large yews across the back fence have been trimmed to resemble a dragon.

Ms. Clifford's seaside garden was carefully landscaped with traditional shrubs connected with brick walkways. Spectacular flowering annuals and a side patio with awning provided a cool, restful spot.

Mr. Fitzgerald's south facing seaside garden was awash in color. Much of the plant material has come from members' gardens and club plant sales and demonstrate her fearlessness in trying new plants.

The tour of the gardens was arranged by Linda DellaCroce, the club's horticulture chair, with the assistance of Marie Blanchard and Jo Costello.

TRIO OF VISITORS, left to right, Kay Borek, Linda Fitzgerald and Nancy Nickerson, from the Wollaston Garden Club admire the flowers in Lynn Petitti's garden in Milton.

Marie's Kitchen

BY MARIE D'OLIMPIO

Delma's Shrimp And Corn Chowder

We are a family of dozens of cousins, and a good amount have moved out of state. And it probably is a genetic thing, because so many of them love to cook. Every once in awhile I receive a recipe which happened last week when my cousin Delma sent me one from the big apple state. Most of us love chowders. Wait until you see how easy this one is to prepare.

Shrimp and Corn Chowder

1 jar corn and black bean salsa, mild or medium

15 ounce can corn kernels (or frozen equivalent)

1/2 teaspoon of favorite Italian herbs

1 pound medium sized shrimp peeled and cleaned

3 tablespoons instant mashed potato flakes

In a large pot, combine the salsa, corn, chicken stock and herbs, and cover and cook until blended. Stir in the shrimp and potato flakes and simmer until shrimp are pink. It only takes a couple of minutes for something that looks and tastes like it took much longer. Enjoy!

Declaration Of Independence To Be Reenacted July 4 At Adams National Park

The carriage house at the Adams National Historic Park will become Independence Hall for a day next week during the annual reenactment of the passage of the Declaration of Independence.

For two performances on Monday, July 4, at 2 p.m. and 7 p.m. members of the audience will assume the roles of delegates to the Continental Congress where they will represent their colonies.

Led by "the Atlas of Independence," John Adams, the delegates will engage in a debate that becomes more and more heated as the time for a final vote on the future of the nation draws near.

After the debate, each delegate will sign his or her name to the document, ring the liberty bell, receive a copy of the Declaration to keep as a souvenir and savor their victory by eating a Liberty cookie.

A candlelight parade following the evening performance will be led by the Middlesex County 4-H Fife and Drum Corps, ending at the statue of John Adams in Quincy Square where the Declaration will be read.

Park Dept. Requests Residents Water Planted Street Trees

The Quincy Park Department is urging residents who received a new street tree under the city's fall planting contract to assist in watering the trees to ensure healthy growth.

"With this consistent heat that doesn't want to quit that we've been experiencing, our trees are in need of some refreshing and it would be helpful if able residents can assist with watering once or twice a week to afford better long-term health and growth benefits," said Tom Koch, executive director of the Park, Forestry and Cemetery Departments.

The contract was awarded to M.O.N. Landscaping of North Dartmouth and saw the addition of more than 400 trees to the city's streets. Princeton Elm, Chanticleer Callery Pear, Japanese Silk Ivory Tree Lilac and Green Mountain Sugar Maple were among the species selected for planting as they exhibit the wherewithal to sustain the urban conditions of our environment while adding aesthetic value.

As stipulated in the contract, M.O.N. is responsible for providing the trees with healthy growing conditions by performing maintenance such as removing dead material, resetting leaning trees and caring for the plant saucer for their first year.

Residents who feel that their newly planted tree may require attention can contact the Park Department at 617-376-1251 with questions or concerns.

FIRE SAFETY

by Captain Tom Lyons
Fire Prevention Bureau
Quincy Fire Department

Don't Play With Fireworks, Leave Them To The Professionals

All across this state there are many professional fireworks displays supervised by local fire departments. Unfortunately, too many children and adult amateurs still continue to set off fireworks on their own that start fires, and cause serious injuries to themselves and others.

So here are some facts about fireworks:

All fireworks are illegal in Massachusetts. The possession and use of all fireworks by private citizens is illegal. This includes Class C fireworks which are sometimes falsely called "safe and sane" such as sparklers, party poppers, snappers, firecrackers, spinners and cherry bombs, to name a few.

It is illegal to purchase fireworks in another state and transport them into Massachusetts.

Here are some statistics compiled by experience by a hospital's emergency staff:

• Every year more than 12,000 Americans, half of them children, are treated in emergency rooms for injuries caused by fireworks — mostly around the 4th of July.

• Percentage of injured children who were under adult supervision when injured: 54 percent.

• Percentage who were bystanders: 26 percent.

• Percentage who suffered permanent damage: 10 percent.

• Most common injuries: burns, 72 percent.

• Most common injured body parts: eyes, 29 percent; hands, 22 percent.

• Leading culprits: firecrackers, 42 percent; bottle rockets, 12 percent; roman candles, 11 percent; sparklers, 7 percent; other, 7 percent.

Unfortunately for most, the regrets occur after the damage is done. Illegal, unsupervised, possibly used in a congested outing-like atmosphere, fireworks can lead to circumstances no one can anticipate, while they can be avoided.

I recall hearing of one incident when a powerful firecracker was thrown, and a young child picked it up off of the ground as it exploded. I won't convey the outcome of the incident; suffice it say, however, that the consequences were permanent. That outcome wasn't anticipated when someone decided to display fireworks illegally.

The precautions associated with a professional display alone are extensive. I know where year after year I am involved with much of the permitting process for those displays within this city. Even then, considering the crowds and nature of explosives, I must trust in wisdom of state code and the professionalism of those certified to conduct the display. I am always relieved when a display is successful, but particularly when it is over.

Don't take a chance with illegal fireworks. Enjoy your holiday while celebrating it without a regrettable outcome. Leave fireworks to the professionals.

Thank you!

WJDA, MMA Announce New 'Physician Focus' Topics

Radio station 1300 WJDA in Quincy and the Massachusetts Medical Society announce the second half of topics to be featured on "Physician Focus with the Massachusetts Medical Society," a collaborative public information effort between WJDA and the medical society and produced in association with the South Shore Hospital and the Norfolk South District Medical Society.

"Physician Focus" is a monthly program about selected healthcare and medical issues broadcast as one of WJDA's "Party Line" programs, the station's Monday-through-Friday call-in show hosted by Joe Catalano, WJDA program director.

Each show airs live on the first Tuesday of the month from 11 a.m. to noon and focuses on a specific subject, with physicians and other healthcare experts as guests.

The 2005 second-half schedule, with the dates, guests and topics:

• July 5 - "Lend me your ears. Before it's too late." James FX Kenealy, M.D., a practicing ear, nose and throat specialist, will discuss how noise affects our health and what we can do to protect our sense of hearing.

• Aug. 2 - "Patient Safety: Who's Responsible?" Alan M. Harvey, M.D., president of the Mass. Medical Society, and Marvin Lipschutz, M.D., Senior VP for Clinical Affairs, South Shore Hospital, will examine today's efforts in patient safety and what hospitals, physicians and patients are and can do to make healthcare safer.

• Sept. 6 - "The Environment and Our Health." William B. Patterson, M.D., Chief Medical Officer of Occupational Health and Rehabilitation in Hingham and Chairperson of the Medical Society's Committee on Occupational and Environmental Health, will talk about how our environment affects our health and what we need to know and do to stay healthy.

• Oct. 4 - "The New Medicare." Charlotte Yeh, M.D., Regional Administrator for Medicare and Medicaid, will comment on the recent changes and new benefits in the nation's largest health insurance program.

• Nov. 1 - "The Necessity of a Good Night's Sleep." Sanford H. Auerbach, M.D., director of the Sleep Center at Boston University Medical Center, will examine the importance of sleep and what we can do to get the rest we need to improve our health.

• Dec. 6 - "Managing Pain." Mark Canning, M.D., director of the Outpatient Pain Clinic at South Shore Hospital, will talk about the growing medical field of pain management and its implications for patient care in the treatment of acute and chronic pain.

WJDA, privately owned and operated by the Asher family since 1947, is a 1000-watt station at 1300 on the AM dial broadcasting from Quincy. The station serves 900,000 adults throughout the South Shore with news, information and musical format.

The Massachusetts Medical Society, with some 18,400 physicians and student members, is dedicated to educating and advocating for the patients and physicians of Massachusetts. The Society publishes The New England Journal of Medicine, one of the world's leading medical journals; the Journal Watch family of professional newsletters covering 11 specialties; and AIDS Clinical Care. The Society is also a leader in continuing medical education for health care professionals throughout Massachusetts. Founded in 1781, MMS is the oldest continuously operating medical society in the country.

Recreation Summer Program Starts July 5

The Quincy Recreation Department's summer playground program will begin Tuesday, July 5, at 19 locations with supervised activities for boys and girls ages 6-16.

The playgrounds are open from 8:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m., Monday through Friday, weather permitting.

The free program includes active games and sports as well as arts and crafts and weekly sports competitions. There are special events and weekly field trips to local attractions.

In addition to the high school and college staff who are assigned to each playground, a sports specialist and arts and crafts specialist visit each location in a regular rotation.

Registration is done at the playground and continues throughout the summer to accommodate youngsters who may return from vacation or summer school programs. Participants must be Quincy residents and may attend the program of their choice.

The locations are: Faxon Park, Kincaide, Adams Park/ Bradford Street, O'Rourke, Forbes Hill, Wollaston School grounds, Perkins Field, Heron Road/Boyson Park, Palmer Park, LaBrecque, Fore River Field, Great Hill/Chapel, Squantum, Montclair/ Bishop, Fenno Street, Cavanaugh Field, MA Fields, Welcome Young, Beechwood Knoll School grounds.

The playgrounds will be staffed until Tuesday, Aug. 16. For more information, call the Quincy Recreation Department at 617-376-1394.

QUINCY STUDENT POLICE Academy from Quincy High School and the Center For Technical Education recently participated in a traffic control measure with the Quincy Police Department, monitoring radar and observing Officers Paul Pieper and Dan Flaherty issue warnings and citations. Quincy Police Sgt. Dan Minton and Director Jim Flahive from QHS/CTE organized the event. Students with Officer Paul Pieper (from left) include Dan Krazenski, Christi Silcox, Cindia Fentel, Kathleen Morgan, Joe Keefe, Vinnie Grinnell, Andrew Gillen, Kaitlin Kolson, Matt McLaughlin, Dan Neenan, Jen Berfield and Pat Malone.

White Ribbon Campaign Holds Father's Day Walk

The Quincy Campaign Against Family Violence/ White Ribbon Campaign held its second annual Father's Day Walk at Pageant Field.

The walk is held to honor fathers making a difference through their commitment to fathering and their commitment in their pledges never to commit, condone or remain silent about violence toward women.

The purpose of the QCAFV is to collectively encourage a city free from violence. They are striving to educate city residents and professionals alike about the prevalence of family violence in our communities, at home, school and in the workplace.

A White Ribbon Campaign Ceremony and Pledge Signing was facilitated at the end of the two-mile walk. Thomas Clasby, director of the Quincy Council on Aging and the men's leader of the White Ribbon Campaign, led the men in their pledge. Peter Waisgerber of the South Shore YMCA was the keynote speaker and he shared his beliefs in community and how community efforts can prevent violence.

Mayor William Phelan, Norfolk District Atty. William Keating and Norfolk County Sheriff Michael Bellotti are honorary co-chairmen, taking the lead three years ago when they took their White Ribbon Campaign pledge.

The QCAFV has adjourned its monthly meetings until the fall, but continues to recruit new members, men and women, to join them in the endeavor to stop family violence in the City of Quincy.

Those interested in obtaining more information regarding this campaign may contact Cynthia Sierra, co-chairwoman, at 617-471-4715 or Dorothy Anne Vitale, co-chairwoman, at 781-830-4800, ext. 287.

To Quincy Parents:
ARE YOU AWARE OF THE SOCIAL HOST LIABILITY LAW IN MASSACHUSETTS?
According to this law, you can be held financially responsible if your child or guest injures or kills another person after you allow your child or guest to drink alcohol in your home or other property you control.
• If you serve or provide alcohol to underage guests or to allow them to drink alcohol in your home or on other property you control, you may be prosecuted criminally. The penalty is a fine up to $2000, imprisonment for up to a year, or both (Massachusetts General Law, Ch. 138, Section 34).
• You could be prosecuted criminally or sued civilly if you knowingly allow an underage guest to drink at your home, and he becomes very ill or dies from alcohol poisoning or other injuries, or kills another person after having consumer alcohol in your home.
Here are some tips to help keep your children safe:
• Supervise teenage parties at your home
• Store alcohol in a secure storage area
• Talk to your child about consequences of consuming too much alcohol
• Set house rules and guidelines
• Be clear about your expectations
• Use caution whenever you provide alcoholic beverages to your guest

Neighborhood Housing Homebuyer Workshop July 9 At Rockland Trust

Neighborhood Housing Services of the South Shore will host a First-Time Homebuyer Workshop Saturday, July 9, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at Rockland Trust, 100 Belmont St., Brockton.

All potential first-time homebuyers are encouraged to attend. Participants will have the opportunity to be pre-qualified by a lender.

Topics covered include mortgage options, legal aspects of the homebuying process, how a home inspection works, and other presentations from real estate professionals. Participants must complete the workshop to qualify for grant programs.

Prior to attending a First-Time Homebuyer Workshop, all participants must attend a free Introductory Session to evaluate credit history and determine level of mortgage readiness. It's strongly suggested attendees obtain a current copy of their credit report.

The next Introductory Session will be held July 6 from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. at Rockland Trust, 100 Belmont St., Brockton. Call in advance to register or discuss dates of future workshops.

There is a $15 fee per person that covers the First-Time Homebuyer Workshop, the Introductory Session and all workshop materials. Breakfast and lunch will be provided. Call 617-770-2227, ext. 31.

My Century 21 Annex Realty agent helped me find much more than a place to live. She located a new home complete with a rooftop pool and views of Boston and beyond. She found a condo within my budget that's also close to the "T." Thanks to her, I can sit back, relax and enjoy my "place in the sun."

A Job Well Done

By SGT. DAN MINTON

On June 5th, at approximately 4:30 a.m., the Quincy Police Department received a call from a citizen stating that a "Breaking and Entering" was in progress at the apartment complex of 150 Quincy Shore Dr. Officers Patrick Folan, David Levine, Matthew Miller, William Monteith, Patrick McDermott and Sgt. Patrick Faherty responded to the area. Dispatched information indicated that two women had positioned a ladder up a window and were attempting to get into an apartment.

SGT. DAN MINTON

Officer Folan discovered the ladder and damage to a second floor window screen where the ladder rested, then notified headquarters that a break may have occurred. Officer Levine arrived on scene and came upon a suspicious, out-of-state registered pick-up truck, parked at the entrance of the complex. As he was inspecting the truck, a woman came out from between parked cars, stating that the truck was hers and wanted to know if there was a problem. When Officer Levine inquired why the woman was there, she said that her friend was there to see her child. The woman then turned to look at another woman in the distance who began running away.

Officer Levine radioed to the other units that the woman was fleeing across Quincy Shore Drive to the residential area. Officer Folan jumped into his cruiser and drove to the area where the woman was last seen, then began a yard search with Officers Miller, Monteith and McDermott. After a brief search, Officer Folan found the woman in a fetal position hiding under a stairway. Since Officer Folan could not see the woman's hands (for possible weapons), and she refused his orders to come out with her hands up, he drew his handgun for his protection.

After repeating his commands, the woman slowly emerged from her hiding place and opened her hands, which were free of weapons. She then said to Officer Folan, "Take it easy, I'm a girl." The woman said that she did nothing wrong and that she was just visiting her daughter.

Officer Folan interviewed the owner of the apartment and learned that one of the women was the mother of a child residing there, but rarely came to visit. He also determined that the women never lived in the apartment, which is important to the case, to show that she had no right to access. Officer Folan stated that he inquired if she was invited to the apartment and learned that she had not, especially at 4:30 a.m.

Officer Monteith interviewed the witness during this time. The witness stated that he saw the two females attempt to reach the balcony with the ladder after tearing the screen but could not climb on to it, so they climbed back down.

Both women were arrested. The woman by the pick-up truck is a 24-year-old Braintree woman and the woman who fled (the mother) is a 31-year-old Quincy woman. Both were charged with "Attempt to Commit a Crime - Breaking and Entering" and "Wanton Destruction of Property." The woman who fled after trying to see her daughter also had two warrants.

The officers quick response combined with witness information resulted in the arrest of two suspects, even though the mother alleges that they were there just to see her daughter. The combination at the time, 4:30 a.m. and the attempt to break into the apartment makes one think that they were up to more than just a visit. What were they really doing there? Although it is unknown at this time, their intent could have been to kidnap the child or injure the father and/or daughter.

Nice work!

Brazilian Restaurant To Move To Pacini's

By MARIE D'OLIMPIO

The Brazilian restaurant Terra Brasilis in Quincy Center will move two doors up and take over Pacini's Restaurant at 1506-1508 Hancock St.

The License Board voted unanimously for the move whose owner Charles R. Santos said he was looking to expand his restaurant to a more "upscale and a better environment" for the 70 seat eatery.

The manager Margarita Bregas, who has managed Pacini's for theh past two years, will be the manager at the new restaurant and work 25 hours a week she said.

Santos told the board that he will become an American citizen in October and at that time, he will hire a new manager, at which time he would return to the board for a change of managers.

Chairman Joseph Shea read a letter from Maralin Manning, executive director of the Quincy Business Association. Manning praised Santos for his "well managed impeccably clean restaurant" and said he was offering a dining Mecca with a multi - cultural list of offerings.

Shea also said he had heard from Ward 5 Councillor Doug Gutro who said he was in support of the move.

Health Commissioner Drew Scheele said several other businesses that opened on the same site as Terra Brasilis had to leave within two years, but he said he was "amazed at how busy you are" and what a good job he had done. He told Santos to make sure the dumpster in the rear of the building was policed daily and that the covers and gates be closed.

Police Chief Robert Crowley said he had concerns over parking for take out being in the pedestrians and handicapped areas. Santos said that the rear entrance would now be used for take out.

Shea said that Santos ooperation of the restaurant was a "success story in the square." He said their "record is good, and ready for a bigger operation."

The board also voted for a cabaret license. Shea said the entertainment group could be three pieces or less.

Santos said he hoped to be open in September.

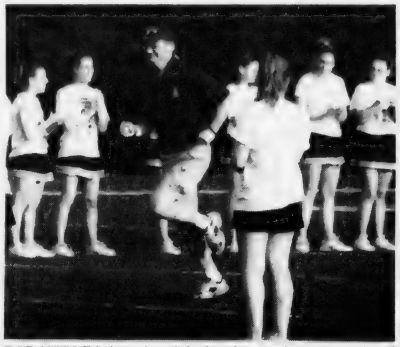
Noble Assistant Coach At Shriners Football Game



Bob Noble participated in last Friday's 27th annual Massachusetts Shriners Football Classic at Bentley College in Waltham.

The Quincy High School head coach served as an assistant coach on the South team, which lost, 22-20, to the North squad.

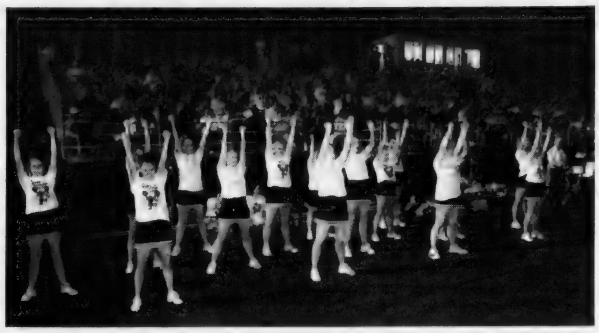
He became the first Quincy High coach to make an appearance in the all-star game. Ken McPhee of North Quincy High School coached in the 1993 contest.

"It was a tremendous experience and I was glad to be involved with it," Noble said. "It was a wonderful two weeks and I'm very appreciative. It was a very exciting game.

"Shriners selects the best players in eastern Massachusetts and to have an opportunity to coach those kids was a great privilege. I'm very lucky. It wasn't too long ago I was coach of the West Quincy Elks and now to coach in the Shriners game is special."

BOB NOBLE is introduced during the opening ceremonies of last Friday's 27th annual Massachusetts Shriners Football Classic at Bentley College in Waltham. The Quincy High School head coach served as an assistant on the South team.

Noble also said he was flattered that head coach Jim Sullivan of Norwell incorporated his no-huddle offense and a number of passing plays from his Presidents play book.



As for the game, the South team trailed 22-6 before mounting a fourth-quarter comeback. Quarterback Zach Asack of Xaverian scored a 1-yard touchdown early in the frame and fired a 50-yard TD strike to Ron Conway of Bishop Feenan with 59 seconds left.

South recovered the onside kick and was near the North 40-yard line before running out of time.

"It was a great time," Noble said. "They're great kids. I was impressed the most with not their athletic talent — that's why they are there — but with their attitudes and the way they approached things."

Noble may have been the first Quincy High coach to participate in the Shriners game but 13 athletes have played in the game in the past, including his son, Chris, in 1989.

They are: Ralph Pickering (1979), Tom Brennan ('80), Fran Duggan ('81), Jamie Gravalese ('83), Kevin Riggs ('83), Chris Noble ('89), Tom Morrell ('90), Mark Bogan ('91), Chris Walker ('92), Mike Kavanaugh ('93), Michael Bartlett ('94), Butch Palaza ('95) and J.J. Niamkey ('04).

Wollaston I Defeats South Boston, Cedar Grove

SENIOR BABE RUTH

The Wollaston I Senior Babe Ruth team improved to 5-1 with recent victories over South Boston and Cedar Grove.

In the 7-1 win over South Boston, Joe Ceurvels (2-0) tossed a three-hitter with four strikeouts. Chris Mercurio had two hits and three RBI and Evan Harrington had a two-run hit. John Ridge and Dan O'Connell played well defensively.

Against Cedar Grove, Mike MacPherson (2-0) struck out eight and Matt Giordani three in a combined two-hit shutout in the 11-0 win.

Wollaston scored a pair of runs in the second with Harrington (two hits, two runs, three RBI) plating Mercurio (hit, run) and Ceurvels (two hits, two runs, two RBI).

Wollaston broke the game open in the fourth with five straight hits by Ryan Barter, Phi Nguyen, Ceurvels, Harrington and MacPherson. Dom Poli singled home Harrington and Giordani doubled in O'Connell and Poli to close out the scoring in the sixth. John Orlando made five outstanding defensive plays early.

Will Head Leads Corner Crew Over Marina Bay Nursing

BABE RUTH INTERNATIONAL

Corner Crew defeated Marina Bay Skilled Nursing, 13-8, in recent Babe Ruth International league action at Pond Street Field.

Will Head pitched five strong innings, scattering five hits and striking out five for his fifth win of the season. Paul Reggiannini (two doubles, single) drove in four runs, including the winning run.

Center fielder Steve Santana made two great catches and scored three runs. Tommy Cooper had two singles and three runs. Right fielder Owen Kilcullen played a solid defensive game, throwing out a base runner trying to stretch a single into a double.

For Marina Bay Skilled Nursing, Brian O'Connell pitched two scoreless innings of relief, mixing a slow curveball for a change of pace. Diego Arredondo slammed a double and two singles and played a smart game at shortstop. David Ray had three singles and Eddie Oldham reached base three times.

Cerebral Palsy Golf Tournament Aug. 8 At Granite Links

Cerebral Palsy of Massachusetts will hold its annual Golf Classic Monday, Aug. 8, at Granite Links Golf Club, Quincy.

The tourney will begin with a 1 p.m. shotgun start and end with a dinner at the Outdoor Pavilion.

Proceeds raised will support programs at the Children's Developmental Center at Cerebral Palsy of Massachusetts, 43 Old Colony Ave., Quincy.

The center serves children who have a variety of disabilities from the eastern Massachusetts area. The services include intensive therapy program with physical, occupational and speech therapy, as well as an educational and integrated daycare program.

In addition, support will help prepare children who graduate from the center to go onto either a public or private school in an integrated setting with children their own age group.

Folino Leads Morrisette Past Parkway

LEGION BASEBALL

By CHRIS POISSON

The Morrisette American Legion baseball team had the perfect remedy to soothe its three-game, weekend losing streak: ace right-hander John Folino.

Folino, who is headed to the University of Connecticut in the fall, silenced Parkway Monday night at Adams Field to lead his team to an 11-1 victory. He gave up the one run on four hits and two walks and struck out 10 against the same team that routed Morrisette, 15-1, June 9.

"Any time John pitches you know you're going to be in the ball game," said manager Ray Cattaneo. "For a team that beat us 15-1, it was nice to get some payback. Those losses over the weekend hurt. We were in all the games and we should've won two of them. A lot of teams are still in the playoff hunt. We need to keep winning."

Morrisette (5-6-1) hosts Weymouth tonight (Thursday) at 8 and will clash with city rival Quincy Saturday at 7:30 p.m. at Adams Field.

Shorthanded this year with only 14 players on the roster, Morrisette dressed only 11 against Parkway. Second baseman Matt Swirbalus is on vacation and Steve Priscella and Matt Tobin are injured. Fifteen-year-old Joe Lousararian filled in for Swirbalus and collected his first Legion hit with a fifth-inning single to right field.

Morrisette jumped out to a 3-0 lead in the first inning. Brandon Ranalli reached on an error and Ray Marchand ripped an RBI double down the first base line. After Mike Burke and Joe Priscella walked to load the bases, Folino and Brian Sullivan followed with sacrifice flies to knock in two more runs.

Parkway touched Folino for its lone run in the third. The leadoff hitter walked, stole second and came around to score on a single up the middle.

Morrisette answered with three more runs in the bottom half. Burke singled to right-center and Priscella and Brian Sullivan walked to load the bases again. Burke scored on a wild pitch, Steve Sullivan knocked home Priscella with a groundout and Chris Mercurio lined an RBI single to center field.

Folino locked in after the third inning, punching out the side in the fourth and retiring 13 of the final 14 hitters.

Morrisette grabbed a commanding 8-1 lead in the fourth. Ranalli led off with a walk and scored when Burke reached third base on an infield throwing error. Burke scored on a wild pitch.

Ray Marchand plated Steve Sullivan (single) with a sacrifice fly in the fifth and Morrisette added two runs in the sixth to close out the scoring. Mercurio drove in a Priscella (single) with a sacrifice fly and Folino (single) scored on a balk.

On Sunday, Morrisette managed only three hits in a 5-0 loss to Stoughton, a team it crushed in the season opener, 15-1. Burke had a pair of hits and Mercurio the other.

Joe Caparotta went the distance, allowing four earned runs on nine hits and five walks with five strikeouts.

Last Saturday, Morrisette dropped a 5-4 decision to Weymouth, which was unbeaten at the time. Steve Sullivan gave up four runs in the second inning, but settled down to allow one more run in six innings of work.

Morrisette cut the deficit in half with a pair of runs in the second. Marchand tripled and scored on Caparotta's double. After a sacrifice, Caparotta scored on Mercurio's grounder to first base.

In the third Morrisette made it 4-3 when Ranalli (walk) scored on Folino's groundout.

Weymouth added an insurance run in the fourth and Morrisette closed out the scoring with a run in the fifth when Priscella singled home Ranalli (fielder's choice).

Last Friday, Morrisette blew a 3-2 lead when Braintree scored three runs in the seventh to pull out a 5-3 win. Matt Haskins gave up two earned runs on eight hits and four walks in seven innings.

Braintree led 2-0 before Morrisette pushed across three runs in the fourth inning. Priscella tripled and scored on Marchand's single and Brian Sullivan smashed a two-out, two-run homer.

In the seventh Braintree scored three runs on just one hit, an error, three walks and a hit batter.

Last Wednesday, Morrisette prevailed over Canton, 1-0, in extra innings. Folino tossed all nine innings, yielding just three hits and a walk while fanning 12 in the shutout.

Swirbalus provided the heroics, knocking home Marchand (single) with two outs for the winning run.

Quincy Legion In Playoff Hunt

There are only two weeks remaining in the regular season and the Quincy American Legion baseball team is poised to make its first playoff appearance in four years.

Quincy (8-4) split four recent games and now controls its own destiny as the top five of 11 Zone 6 East teams qualify for the postseaon.

Quincy, which played Canton Wednesday, will travel to Parkway Friday at 5:45 p.m., square off against city rival Morrisette Saturday night at 7:30 at Adams Field and head to Weymouth next Tuesday.

On Monday night, Quincy pulled out a wild 11-8 win at Stoughton, pounding out 16 hits and several long balls. It jumped out to a 5-0 lead in the first inning when Drew Loud and David Jaehnig singled. Tom Conley drove in one run with an infield grounder before Justin Thorley unloaded a triple.

Sean Sullivan (3-for-3) stroked a double, Tom Power slapped a single and Sullivan scored on a well-executed double steal.

Thorley struggled with his control early as Stoughton put up six runs in the second inning, aided by four walks and a wild pitch on a strikeout.

Quincy answered when 15-year-old third baseman John Alexander blasted a triple and scored on Jaehnig's RBI groundout.

Quincy took the lead back in the third when Thorley doubled and Sullivan and Ian Jorgensen singled. John Fitzgerald singled, advanced to third on Alexander's ground-rule double and scored on Jaehnig's sacrifice fly.

Quincy tacked on three insurance runs in the sixth. Sullivan and Power each singled and crossed home when Jorgensen smashed a tremendous 450-foot homer to center field. Thorley (seven strikeouts) regained his control and composure to earn his second victory of the season.

On Sunday, Quincy dropped a gut-wrenching, walkoff 7-6 loss at Braintree. Jorgensen pitched well but sloppy defense and some timely hitting sparked Braintree to an early 4-0 lead.

Quincy responded with a two-out rally in the fifth inning. Two walks, a hit batter, a wild pitch and a clutch RBI single by Thorley cut the lead to 4-3.

Quincy seemed to seize the momentum as it scored three more runs in the sixth for a 6-5 lead. Power singled, went to second on an infield out and scored on Kevin Bossart's RBI single. Loud singled and smartly advanced to second on a throw to third base. David Jaehnig bounced a two-out, two-strike single up the middle.

In the last of the seventh, Braintree led off with a walk and a poor throw on a sacrifice bunt put runners on second and third with no outs. After a wild pitch tied the game, relief pitcher David Jaehnig got two outs on an infield pop-up and a strikeout.

Pinch-hitter Steve Connors stuck his bat out and dropped an opposite-field, game-winning hit. Sullivan made a great try in right field but the ball bounced in and out of his outstretched glove.

Last Friday, Quincy cruised to an 11-2 win at Holbrook despite missing three starters. Quincy trailed 2-1 going into the fifth before the bats came alive.

Conley walked, Sullivan (4-for-4) singled and Alexander drove in one run with an opposite-field single. Jorgensen blasted a 400-foot ground-rule double to break the tie.

Power (3-for-4, two stolen bases) handed Quincy a three-run cushion with a single to right-center. Matt Jaehnig kept the inning alive when he dropped a perfectly executive squeeze bunt.

Thorley led off the sixth with a mammoth home run to right field to spark a four-run inning. Jorgensen, Power and Matt Jaehnig had the RBIs. John Allen took advantage of his first start of the season with two hits.

Ace Dean Sandonato scattered nine hits and recorded the big strikeouts when needed for his third win of the season.

Last Wednesday, Quincy lost a close 3-1 ballgame to undefeated league power Milton. Quincy took a first-inning lead when Loud singled and David Jaehnig walked. After both moved into scoring position on a wild pitch, Loud scored on Thorley's infield out.

John Santon was the star of the night for Quincy as he pitched his best game of the season. He held Milton to five hits and more importantly only allowed one walk while striking out six.

Milton tied the game in the third with two hits, a double steal and a sacrifice fly.

Quincy threatened in the third and fifth innings but its inability to execute a sacrifice bunt and two runners picked off first base were killers.

Santon hit the leadoff man in the sixth and it came back to cost him as the runner stole second, went to third on an infield single and scored on another sacrifice fly. A single to center plated an insurance run for Milton.

Quincy put together a last-inning rally. Bossart singled and Power walked and they moved into scoring position with a double steal. Allen drew a pinch-hit walk to load the bases, but unfortunately closer Ryan Stoller threw a nasty 3-2 curveball for a called third strike to end the game.

Public Address Announcer Sought For Football Games

The Quincy public schools athletic department is seeking a public address announcer for the upcoming football season.

The person will announce all home varsity games for North Quincy and Quincy high schools.

Those interested are asked to contact Athletic Director Ed Miller at 617-984-8858.

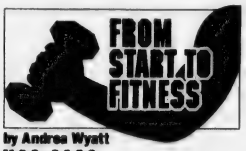
Squantum Road Race Tonight Benefits Dana-Farber

The fifth annual Squantum 5 road race will be held today (Thursday) beginning and ending at Waterworks, Marina Bay.

The five-mile race, featuring approximately 250 runners, will start at 6:45 p.m. with a ceremony and awards following at 7:30 p.m.

The event benefits the Dana-Farber Marathon Challenge in memory of Quincy resident John Larner.

TRANSMISSION FLUID CHECK



When you consider how much work the transmission does, it makes good sense to change the automatic transmission fluid on your vehicle about every three years or 50,000 miles – more frequently if you tow or carry heavy loads. Inspection of the fluid may show a certain amount of sediment in the transmission pan due to organic friction material from the clutches and bands, which is normal. A certain amount of metal flaking from metal-to-metal wear is also acceptable. On the other hand, metal flakes from spalling bearings and chips from gear teeth should raise concerns. An experienced auto technician will be able to get a lot of information from the content, color, and smell of drained automatic transmission fluid.

All your car's fluids should be changed on a regular basis. Check your owner's manual for the correct interval. LEO & WALT'S SUNOCO should be your full service auto care center for most every system in your car. If you need us to look at any system in your car or truck, our ASE Certified service technicians have the skills to handle it. You'll find us located at 258 Quincy Ave., E. Braintree (781-843-1550). We are "A Place Where Your Car Can Live Longer." Hours: Mon.-Fri. 6am-9pm, Sat. 7am-9pm, Sun. 9am-5pm. Sunoco and most major credit cards honored.

HINT: As a precaution, check your transmission fluid at the time of each oil change. If the fluid has a brown color and/or carries a burnt smell, an inspection is warranted.

Is Your Body Ready for an Active Vacation?

Q. My family and I have planned a vacation this summer that includes hiking and cycling for a week. Although I exercise regularly at the gym, I am not sure if I'm in good enough shape for these specific activities. The trip is in four weeks. What exercises can I do to prepare myself for our trip?

A. Hiking and cycling are fun activities that can be shared by families. Preparing your body to withstand the demands of hiking and cycling can make your trip even more enjoyable. You can use equipment at your gym or at home to help strengthen your muscles, bones and joints to ensure a safe and enjoyable vacation.

Begin adding cardiovascular exercises to your workout routine that require you to adapt to a variety of stresses. For example, begin using the incline on the treadmill to help your heart, legs and other muscles simulate walking uphill.

Interval training is another activity that can help you to prepare. Use different intensities during your cardiovascular routine to help teach your heart to recover effectively from short bouts of high-intensity exercise.

Cross-training can also get your heart and other muscles ready for action. Instead of doing just one type of cardiovascular exercise to increase your heart rate, use several. For example, you could begin on the treadmill for 10 minutes, then move to the bike for 10 more, then on to the elliptical machine, followed by an arm bike. This will keep your heart rate elevated for an allotted time while using different methods of training. Ask a fitness professional at your gym for an interval and cross-training program that is right for you.

Strength training will be important to keep your muscles and joints strong throughout your trip. Perform total-body exercise routines that require you to control your body weight. Chest, back, shoulders, glutes, legs, calf and arm exercises should also be a part of your training. Push-ups, squats, lunges and pull-ups are also great exercises to add to your current routine.

It is extremely important to strengthen the muscles of your abdomen, lower back and hips. The weaker these muscles are, the more difficult your hiking and cycling activities will be. And don't forget flexibility and balance exercises.

Finally, walk and cycle outdoors before your trip get your body accustomed to performing these activities in the appropriate environment.

Always consult a physician before beginning an exercise program. If you have a fitness or training question, e-mail Andrea at letters.kfws @hearstsc.com, or write her in care of King Features Weekly Service, P.O. Box 536475, Orlando, FL 32853-6475.

Ask Dr. Gilbert:

'What Is A Tummy Tuck?'

By DR. KENNETH GILBERT

If you have become unhappy with the appearance of your abdomen, plastic surgery may be able to help you improve the appearance of this area. This can also help with fitting into certain types of clothing and give you a boost of self-confidence.

There are three procedures that can be used to improve the abdominal area. If the problem is extra fat that just doesn't seem to go away with exercise and dieting and there is not a lot of loose skin, liposuction can help. The extra fat is commonly located around the area of the bellybutton, or umbilicus, and can extend both below and above the umbilicus. It can also be found on the lateral hip rolls.

Liposuction is carried out through small incisions and breaks up and removes the deeper fat, creating a "sponge-like" effect in the deeper tissues. If the skin tone is good, this area will then shrink down over the next six to nine months to give a permanent contour change.

If the problem is some extra fat and limited loose skin in the lower abdomen, a "mini" tummy tuck, or abdominoplasty, can help. This is a procedure that combines liposuction with a limited excision of loose skin in the lower abdomen. The scar from the excision would be located transversely just above the pubic area. There is no re-positioning of the umbilicus.

Most commonly, as a result of pregnancy, weight gain and loss, or previous surgery, there is a significant amount of loose skin and fat in the lower abdomen. Often skin that has been stretched will show signs of breakage of the elastic fibers in the skin. These are what "stretch marks" are. The procedure that can remove this extra loose skin and fat is called an abdominoplasty. It may, or may not, be combined with some liposuction. The procedure can remove all the skin between the umbilicus and the pubic area. The umbilicus is then repositioned on the abdominal wall.

The operation is carried out under a general anesthetic and takes approximately three to six hours. An incision is fashioned on the lower abdomen, just above the pubic area, and is made as inconspicuous as possible. Your surgeon will discuss the exact placement of this incision with you pre-operatively.

An incision is also fashioned around the umbilicus. The umbilicus is then left attached to the underlying muscular wall of the abdomen, while all the skin and fat is then lifted up off of this layer, usually up to the level of the ribs.

Then the muscular abdominal wall is repaired if muscles have separated or if there is a hernia. The skin and fat is then pulled down, trimmed and carefully sewn back into place along the lower incision. The umbilicus is then brought out onto the abdominal wall, at its same level, but through skin that had been previously located on the upper abdomen. It is sutured into place. Usually drains are left under the skin and fat and these will be removed in the next few days to weeks when the drainage abates.

After the operation, you may or may not be advised by your surgeon to stay in the hospital, or extended care facility, overnight. You can expect to be in a somewhat "flexed" position in bed and you most likely will be walking around somewhat bent over for the next few days.

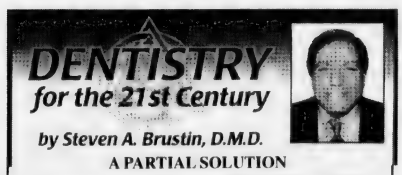
Usually you will be gotten out of bed the next morning, wearing an abdominal binder or garment for support and comfort. You will be discharged when you can walk, tolerate an oral diet, able to urinate and have any discomfort controlled with oral pain medications.

Follow-up office visits with your surgeon will be arranged. You can expect that it will take four to six weeks to be able to return to normal activities.

Potential risks and complications of this type of surgery would be those associated with any surgical procedure, such as bleeding, infection, poor scarring, poor healing, numbness and, rarely, severe complications such as the formation of blood clots, pulmonary embolus and death.

To help minimize the risk of these adverse events occurring, your surgeon will want you to avoid medications that affect blood-clotting, like aspirin, motrin, naprosyn, coumadin, etc., for a period of time before surgery. If you are a smoker, you will be asked to stop smoking to improve your circulation and healing. You will also want any other major health problems to be addressed before surgery. You should discuss these potential risks and complications with your surgeon at some point during the consultation process.

The best results are obtained in patients that, if overweight, have reached their target weight through dieting and exercise. This procedure is not a substitute for weight loss through dieting and exercise. This allows the abdominal skin to shrink naturally as much as possible before contouring this area surgically. If you were to have the procedure before weight loss, the newly tightened skin of the abdomen would become looser with any subsequent weight loss and you would lose some of the cosmetic gains achieved with surgery.



It is always advisable to create and maintain good abdominal muscular tone with exercises such as sit-ups and leg lifts and general conditioning. This will add to the cosmetic results.

Usually, abdominoplasty is considered cosmetic surgery and is not paid for by medical insurance. However, if you have experienced a significant amount of weight gain and then a significant amount of weight loss, you may have developed a large apron of redundant skin and fat of the lower abdomen.

When this is severe, it is called a "pannus" or "panniculus." If the pannus is large enough, it may actually interfere with walking and the skin can breakdown under the hanging tissues as a result of constant moisture and skin-to-skin contact. The procedure to remove this apron of tissue is similar to an abdominoplasty and is called a panniculectomy.

When such functional impairments are involved, your insurance company may provide coverage for the surgery. Insurance guidelines for providing coverage will vary and it is advisable to obtain prior authorization for this type of surgery.

A PARTIAL SOLUTION

If you are missing some of your teeth, you can replace them with either a fixed bridge (supported by the remaining teeth), an implant-supported bridge, or a removable partial denture that is supported with clasps or attachments. Because a fixed bridge cannot be used where the gap is too large, and implants are not always within a patient's budgetary constraints, partials often offer the best solution. Removable partial dentures usually consist of replacement teeth attached to pink or gum-colored plastic bases, which are connected by metal framework. While metal clasps are often used to form attachments to remaining teeth, precision attachments are generally more esthetic than metal clasps, and they are nearly invisible.

This column on tooth replacement options has been brought to you in the interest of better oral health. We discuss all the treatment options available, and our recommendations are always in the best interest of our patients. We feel a deep responsibility and commitment to provide you the very best care with state-of-the-art technology at 44 Greenleaf Street. Please call 617-479-6220 to schedule an appointment for high quality dental care. Let us help you keep your teeth for a lifetime. We offer the services of anesthesiology with a fully trained and qualified anesthesiologist. Visit us on the web at www.quincydentist.com.

P.S. Because the mouth naturally changes with age, it may be necessary to adjust your denture over time.

Boston Catholic TV Kids Game Show To Appear On Comcast Cable In Quincy

Boston Catholic Television will produce a kids' game show called "WOW" during the first two weeks of July (the afternoons of July 5-7 and 12-14).

"WOW" is a simple, fun, educational, game show for kids of all ages. If features Catholic school second graders from all over the Archdiocese of Boston. Each episode of "WOW" will be divided into two segments with four students from a particular school competing against each other in the two parts of the show.

The students will sit on stools in a unique set with their parents, family members, teachers and other school staff in the studio audience.

Fr. Robert Reed, director of Boston Catholic Television, will host the show and ask the children about their backgrounds and then reveal the "WUDABOUT" or the theme of the show. He will then speak with each of the children about the theme, words and concepts that have special meaning in Catholic life. Each time a child responds with a captivating or profound answer, the crowd will let out a collective WOW! to signal the awarding of a "wowser." The winner of each round is the student with the most wowsers at the end.

By involving children in BCTV's ministry, their parents and families are also involved, as are their schools, and the goal of the show is to be exciting, entertaining, and fund.

Fr. Reed, who served as a parish priest for 19 years, said, "The church is the local parish. I hope our programming will help bring people back to the church and into their local parishes."

Boston Catholic TV offers a variety of religious, prayerful and educational programs 24 hours a day. Locally, it can be seen on Comcast Cable channel 56. For more information, call (617) 965-0050.

She is survived by her husband of 57 years, Arthur A. Erickson; two sons, Arthur J. Erickson of Dunedin, Fla. and Kenneth R. Erickson of Weymouth; a daughter, Marcia A. Clark of Brockton; four sisters, Theresa Wilkie of San Diego, Calif., Barbara Mokler of South Boston, Lillian Townsen of Ocala, Fla., and Katherine Cameron of Plymouth; seven grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

Burial will be in Blue Hill Cemetery, Braintree.

Arrangements were made by the Sweeney Brothers Home for Funerals, 1 Independence Ave., Quincy.

SCOTT DEWARE

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

No funeral director in the country would dispute the right of a family to specify "No visitation" – if that is the way the family desires it. But, if asked, we are sure every funeral director would suggest visitation in most cases.

It has been proved through the years that visitation at the funeral home HELPS the family face the reality of death. It has been proved a family's grief is lessened by the visit of friends who show concern for the family at a time of death. It is only human to want to express feelings. And this applies to most people. It has been proved that shock and surprise, emotional release, loneliness, distress and anxiety are emotional moods that can be HELPED by the appearance of friends. Words are not necessary. Personal appearance is sufficient. Visitation is an act of kindness... There are only a few of the reasons why funeral directors welcome visitation prior to and during a funeral service.

Lian Roach, 71

Homemaker And Former Dietitian

A funeral Mass for Lian "Lee" (Keating) Roach, 71, of Scituate, a homemaker and former dietician, will be celebrated today (Thursday) at 10 a.m. at St. Mary of the Nativity Church, 1 Kent St., Scituate.

She died June 25 at home after a long illness.

Mrs. Roach's son, Stephen, 36, was killed on Sept. 11, 2001. He was a partner with Cantor Fitzgerald, an investment firm that lost nearly 700 employees when the north tower of the World Trade Center collapsed after a terrorist attack.

Before she married, Mrs. Roach worked as a registered dietitian at the Bronx Veterans Administration Hospital for two years.

She volunteered at the Sunlight House School for the Blind and at Cushing Hall, a school for troubled boys.

Mrs. Roach was a daily communicant at St. Mary of the Nativity Parish in Scituate Harbor and was a lector and Eucharistic minister and prayed the Rosary with residents of local nursing homes. In 1998, she made a pilgrimage to Medjugorje with her prayer group from Holy Trinity Parish in Rockland.

She was an original co-owner of the Front Street Book Shop.

Born and raised in the Merrymount section of Quincy, Mrs. Roach graduated from Regis College in Weston, where she was president of her senior class. She and her family settled in Scituate in 1971.

She is survived by her husband of 47 years, Richard F. Roach Sr.; four daughters, MJ Roach of Quincy, Catherine Millen of Milton, Gery Frey of Shrewsbury and Patti Sullivan of Andover; a son, Richard F. Roach Jr. of Scituate; two sisters, Maura Conley of Mendon and Paula Murphy of Williamstown; two brothers, Brian Keating of Warren, R.I., and Geoff Keating of Timonium, Md.; 16 grandchildren; and many nieces and nephews.

She was the mother of the late Eileen Roach and the late Stephen Roach.

Burial will be in St. Mary's Cemetery.

Arrangements were made by the Richardson-Gaffey Funeral Home, Scituate.

Salome's Stars

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Making things more complicated than they need to be can be a problem for the typically orderly Lamb. Try to look for a less intricate way to accomplish the same goals.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Avoiding personal involvement in a troubling situation might be advisable at this time, especially since you probably don't have all the facts. The weekend brings a surprise.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) A problem with a colleague you thought had been resolved could recur. However, this time you'll be able to rely on your record to get a quick resolution in your favor. Good luck.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) Giving your self-esteem a boost could be a good idea for the Moon Child, who might feel a bit daunted by the week's occurrences. Just focus on all your positive accomplishments.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) The "mane" attraction for the Lovable Lion this week is — what else? — love. New relationships move to new levels, while long-standing partnerships are strengthened.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) A recent workplace problem will prove to be one of miscommunication, and once the matter is settled, you should have a better chance of getting your proposals approved.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) Good news! After dealing pretty much in the dark with a matter that seemed to be taking forever to resolve, you should soon be seeing the light at the end of the tunnel.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) A positive message should help lift that energy-draining sense of anxiety, and you should soon be able to deal with even the peskiest matter, whether at work or personal.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) Try to control that heated Sagittarian temperament while dealing with what you believe to be an unfair matter. A cool approach is the best way to handle things.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) Nursing hurt feelings could keep you from learning what went wrong. Ask your partner, a family member or a trusted friend to help you reassess your actions in the matter.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) Nature is dominant this week. Try to spend time outdoors with someone special. An act of kindness in the past might be recalled by a person you believed was out of your life.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) An upcoming career decision could be based on how well you might be able to apply your artistic talents. Be sure to use the finest samples of your work to make a strong impression.

BORN THIS WEEK: Doing good things for others comes easily to you. You are considered a good friend, even by those you might hardly know.

HERE IS A PLEASANT LITTLE GAME that will give you a message every day. It's a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner and check one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Quincy Plan Praised As Model To End Homelessness

(Cont'd From Page 1)

The "Housing First" program makes housing a first priority, with access to healthcare, mental health and substance abuse programs also part of the plan. According to officials, the new plan goes against the grain of traditional programs, which have required that homeless people seek treatment before entering a housing unit.

Mangano and committee members stressed that this plan will not fall by the wayside; instead, the plan will be re-evaluated on a quarterly basis to ensure its achievement.

"There is an assurance that implementation will happen - this is not a plan that will sit on a shelf and gather dust or gather cobwebs," said Mangano. "There is an implementation strategy to get the job done."

Several committee members expressed optimism that the plan could be accomplished and would have a positive impact on Quincy.

"I was skeptical at first, but having seen the models out there and having done the research with the committee, I think it's do-able," said Jennifer Logue, executive director of Discover Quincy and a committee member. "We have the key stakeholders at the table to make this work. This program should be able to provide the homeless with a safe and stable environment while addressing those issues that led them to become homeless in the first place."

Among the other key points of the 10-year plan:

• New job training programs that will provide employment and training services for roughly 50 people every year.

• A "zero tolerance" policy against allowing individuals who come out of state agencies, such as the Department of Youth Services, Department of Corrections and Bureau of Substance Abuse Services, to fall into an immediate state of homelessness.

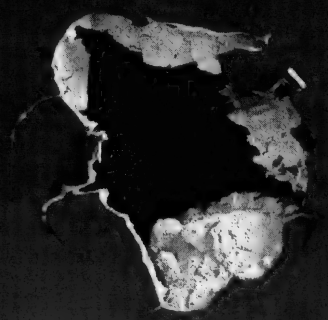
• A comprehensive data gathering process where officials can get a firm grasp on the number of homeless people, determine what services are needed, and come up with a cost analysis for such health-related services, such as hospitals and ambulances for the city's homeless.

• Provide on-site support services, such as substance abuse programs and other healthcare services, for housing residents.

Dean Rizzo, executive director of Quincy 2000 and a committee member, said the strategy of spending funds initially to deal with the problem rather than paying for its consequences later is a sound one.

"Allocating your resources to get people out of the current system is money well spent," said Rizzo. "In the long run, it will cost the community much less and use less resources."

Rizzo said the chronically homeless utilize resources which tax the community as a whole.



"The costs get soaked into the community, whether it be by businesses or the city, but the costs really add up over the long term," said Rizzo. "This is an aggressive plan but it should help the community in general."

A Special Supplement The Quincy Sun Thursday, June 30, 2005

City of Quincy, Massachusetts
Office of the Mayor

Welcome to Historic Quincy!

Quincy has played a unique role in the formation of our great country–and we continue to play that role today! The Massachusetts Declaration of Rights, the model for the United States Constitution, was drafted in our historic city by John Adams, the second president of the United States and father to John Quincy Adams, our country's sixth president. Patriots, statesmen and women of science and of letters–Quincy has nurtured many of the seminal figures that brought our nation to greatness.

I encourage you to use this fine publication as a guide to historic Quincy. Visit the Adams National Historical Park and the presidential homesteads. Stop by the "Old House" and experience the colonial lifestyle. Tour United First Parish Church, which serves as the final resting place for John, John Quincy, Abigail, and Louisa Catherine Adams. Live the history of our City and of our nation.

Don't neglect to enjoy what Quincy has to offer today. Quincy is nestled between the Blue Hills Reservation and the Atlantic Ocean. Enjoy our twenty-seven miles of coastland, natural salt marshes and magnificent parklands. Explore our downtown, watch our outdoor concerts, play golf, or enjoy Quincy's booming restaurant scene. There is something for everyone to enjoy.

We are proud of Quincy and hope that you have the opportunity to experience all that our historical and cosmopolitan City has to offer.

Sincerely,

WILLIAM J. PHELAN
MAYOR

First Father And Son Presidents

'City Of Presidents': John, John Quincy Adams

By TOM HENSHAW

It was the North Precinct of Braintree then, a sprawling tract of woods and farmlands on the gently rolling hills some 10 miles south of the Boston Stone along the winding Coast Road to Plymouth.

Something less than 1,500 people lived in the North, Middle and South Precincts of Braintree in the year 1735 and two of them were Deacon John Adams, 44, farmer and cordwainer, and his wife, Susanna, 26.

Their home was a weathered gray farmhouse with a high peaked roof and attached lean-to kitchen set on seven acres of farmland at roughly Milepost 11 of the Coast Road, just where it turned up the wooded slopes of Penn's Hill toward the Monatiquot River ford.

He was a pillar of his rural community. Mr. Adams was a deacon in the First Parish Church, a lieutenant in the Braintree militia and a town constable with a forceful personality and tact that enabled him to collect taxes from his neighbors.

He was a hard-working farmer whose cider was acknowledged best in town, he worked in leather during the winter months, and he had an eye on an adjoining piece of farmland, 9 1/2 acres owned by the Billings brothers, complete with a farmhouse similar to his own.

Susanna Adams was a Boylston of Brookline, socially a cut above her husband, and perhaps there were moments in the simple house at the foot of Penn's Hill when she thought of the home of her uncle, the noted Dr. Zabiel Boylston of Brookline, whose furniture came all the way from London.

Their first child, a son who was named John for his father, was born in the southeast bedroom of the farmhouse on Oct. 19, 1735. (Old Style). He would become the second president of the United States.

Deacon John purchased the house next door for 500 pounds in 1744 and it was ready 20 years later when young John moved in with his brand new bride, the former Abigail Smith, the preacher's sparkling daughter from the next town of Weymouth.

Their second child, a son who was named John Quincy Adams after his great-grandfather, Col. John Quincy, was born there on July 11, 1767. He would become the sixth president of the United States.

Until George W. Bush was sworn in as the 43rd president in 2001, John Adams and John Quincy Adams were the only father and son combination to achieve that office. George H. W. Bush was the 41st. The Harrisons, William Henry and Benjamin, were grandfather and grandson.

THE ADAMS BIRTHPLACES, where John Adams and his son, John Quincy Adams, the second and sixth Presidents of the United States, were born, is the only location in the country where two presidential birthplaces stand side-by-side. It is a National Historical Site under the supervision of the U.S. National Park Service. (Quincy Sun Photo Robert Noble)

The precise age of the two cottages at 133 and 141 Franklin St. at the foot of Penn's Hill is not known.

When the John Adams Birthplace was restored by the Daughters of the Revolution in 1897, a brick bearing the date 1661 was discovered under the southeast corner, and the house was known to have been occupied by one Joseph Penniman in that year.

And a man named Samuel Belcher was living in the John Quincy Adams Birthplace as early as 1663, when it was little more than a one-room shack with fireplace. It was built to its present size in 1716, as evidenced by a date brick found in the new fireplace.

According to Henry Adams, grandson of President John Quincy Adams, no member of the family lived in the cottages after 1818, although ownership remained in the Adams family until 1940.

Both houses were restored by the Adams Realty Trust, the John Quincy Adams Birthplace in 1896 at a cost of $1,650 and the John Adams Birthplace a year later at an expense of $515.49.

They were presented to the city of Quincy in 1940 and supervised by the Quincy Historical Society until they were turned over to the U.S. National Park Service in 1979.

The Adams Birthplaces at 133 and 141 Franklin St. are open daily, including Sundays and holidays, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. from April 19 to Nov. 10 with guided tours. Admission is $5 for adults and children over 16, which also includes admission to the Adams Mansion within seven days. Park passes are available. Tours must be arranged at the Visitors' Center, 1250 Hancock St. The last full tour leaves the Visitors' Center at 3:15 p.m. Tours are on a first come, first serve basis.

Free Trolley Service

A free trolley service is available from the Visitors Center, 1250 Hancock St., Quincy Sq., to the Presidents John and John Quincy Adams Birthplaces, 133 and 141 Franklin St. and the "Old House", Adams National Historic Site, 135 Adams St., from 9:15 to 3:15 p.m. when the last tour is conducted.

After Faithful Rehabilitation

Both Adams Birthplaces 'As They Were'

The birthplace of John Adams, second president of the United States, looks like it did when he and his parents, Deacon John and Susanna lived there.

It took on that "as it was" look after a painstaking six-year reconstruction project in the 1980s.

Visitors to the John Adams Birthplace, which peers over the shoulder of the John Quincy Adams Birthplace on Franklin St., South Quincy, can now see more completely how the house looked.

The house is well-furnished and looks like it did when John and Abigail lived in it.

The final renovation touches were to the room where Deacon John Adams made shoes.

The rooms are furnished from the period of Deacon John and his wife and probably reflected her taste. They are furnished, not elaborately, but sufficiently to have a lived-in look.

The birthplace was probably built in the late 17th or early 18th Century for less than $1,000 in the pounds of the day and the clapboards were hand-hewn from trees that grew in its fields.

The pine clapboards of the John Adams Birthplace are unpainted and the U.S. National Park Service, which restored the house, insists that based on research the house will remain that way, despite the fact that John Adams was known to have preferred it white.

For more than 80 years they were the little red farmhouses at the foot of Penn's Hill. But research turned up the fact that Abigail Adams, the wife of the second president, wanted them "stone" and white in color.

Since what Abigail wanted, Abigail usually got, in the summer of 1980, the John Quincy Adams Birthplace was repainted to Abigail's taste, the "stone" color determined to be a sort of off-white, mixed especially for the occasion from a late 18th Century formula.

The John Adams Birthplace was painted white so that both houses would look as they did in 1807, the year the last Adams lived in them, but later research indicated it was unpainted.

The birthplaces, parts of which date back to the 17th Century, were taken over by the National Park Service on May 1, 1979 after years of semi-neglect due to lack of restoration and maintenance funds.

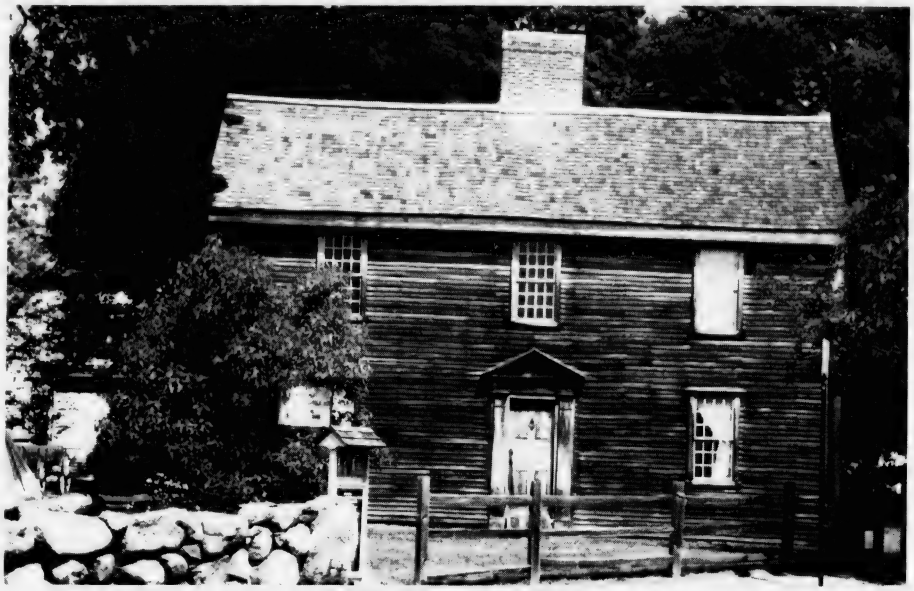
The John Quincy Adams Birthplace reopened in 1982 for the first time in three years after undergoing a $175,000 rehabilitation faithful to the lives of the prominent family that lived there.

If you close your eyes and give your imagination full rein you can see them now as they were more than 200 years ago.

There is Abigail Adams in the new pink gingham dress. There is the curly-haired infant, Thomas Boylston Adams, bouncing on his father's knee. And there is John Adams, home from the Continental Congress in Philadelphia for the first time in a year, sitting at the table and drinking a cup of tea.

The setting, right down to the pewter plates and candlesticks, is reproduced faithfully in the corner room of the John Quincy Adams Birthplace.

The furnishings of the John Quincy Adams Birthplace are precise reproductions of those that were in the house when the second president lived there. The originals are at the Old House, the Adams National Historic Site, from which they cannot be removed under the ownership agreement with the Adams family.



The most interesting room in the John Quincy Adams Birthplace is John Adams' old law office, in which the elder Adams, James Bowdoin and Samuel Adams drafted the Massachusetts State Constitution, on which the U.S. Constitution was modeled.

The law office is furnished pretty much as John Adams had it.

There is the hutch table on which he wrote the State Constitution; the bookcase filled with books that probably were there in John Adams' day, judging by an inventory of his law library; his old writing desk and two chairs that were copied from those in his second law office in Boston.

Pastels of Abigail and John, originally done in Salem, were photographically reproduced by photographer George Dow and now hang in Abigail's sitting room. The originals are in the possession of the Massachusetts Historical Society.

Abigail's old kitchen cabinet was discovered serving as a bookcase in the Old House.

JOHN ADAMS BIRTHPLACE (Quincy Sun Photo/Robert Noble)

The cabinet was reproduced and installed in the kitchen of the John Quincy Adams Birthplace along with copies of the blue china that John purchased when he was emissary to Holland.

The Adams Birthplaces are at 133 and 141 Franklin St. They are open daily, including Sundays and holidays, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. from April 19 to Nov. 10 with guided tours. Admission is $5 for adults and children over age 16, which also includes admission to the Adams Mansion within seven days. Park passes are available. Tours must be arranged at the Visitors' Center, 1250 Hancock St. Last full tour leaves Visitors' Center at 3:15 p.m. Tours are on a first come, first serve basis.

Adams's Crucial Nominations

John Adams, the farmer's son from Old Braintree, not only had a hand in writing the U. S. Constitution, but he made two nominations to posts that proved to be critical to the future of the new republic.

As a member of the Continental Congress, he eschewed intercolonial rivalries and nominated George Washington, a Virginia planter, as commander in chief of the Continental army.

As president, he nominated John Marshall as chief justice of the Supreme Court, where he served 34 years and established the basic principle that the court can invalidate an act of Congress.

Descent from John & Priscilla

John Adams, the second president, can trace his ancestry back to John Alden and Priscilla Mullins of "Why don't you speak for yourself, John?" fame.

His grandfather, Joseph Adams, married Hannah Bass, daughter of John and Ruth (Alden) Bass and granddaughter of the Pilgrim couple John and Priscilla.

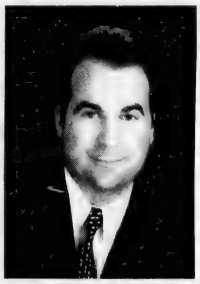
Quincy has been called the Birthplace of the American Dream. From its beginning in 1625 as one of the earliest settlements in the New World, it would grow to embrace the cause of freedom in the American Revolution. Patriots such as John and Abigail Adams and John Hancock and Dorothy Hancock were proud to call Quincy home. Although Quincy has long been known as the City of Presidents with the distinction of having the first father/son Presidents John Adams and John Quincy Adams as its native sons, Quincy has given so much more to our nation.

The sons and daughters of Quincy have distinguished themselves by fighting and sometimes dying in every conflict from Bunker Hill to Iraq. Others have bolstered our country's defenses as they built the ships that contributed to our victories on every sea. Internationally known businesses such as Dunkin Donuts, Howard Johnson's and Grossman's have had their humble beginnings in Quincy. Nature has endowed us with such resources as a spectacular bay and shoreline for recreation and as a source of plentiful seafood.



While Quincy's rich historical heritage has made us unique, our future is bright, for our greatest promise comes from our people. We have a hardworking, educated workforce of many diverse origins but all making their contributions to the quality of life and success of our city, state and nation.

Welcome to Quincy!

'The Old House'

Summer White House And Home Of 2 Presidents

Josiah Quincy, the one who built railroads around New England and founded the cooperative bank movement in Massachusetts, was in his boyhood a frequent visitor to the mansion where John Adams, the second president of the United States, lived in retirement.

Later, he wrote with wry amusement about Sunday dinner with the aging patriarch of the Adams clan and his wife, Abigail, a dinner that inevitably began with a thick pudding made from boiled corn meal.

"...it being thought desirable to take the edge off one's hunger before reaching the joint," wrote Quincy.

"Indeed, it was considered wise to stimulate the young to fill themselves with pudding, by the assurance that the boy who managed to eat the most of it should be helped most abundantly to the meat, which was to follow.

"It need not be said that neither the winner nor his competitors found much room for meat at the close of their contest; and so the domestic economy of the arrangement was very apparent."

Quincy, as a young Harvard law student, stopped by several times a week in summer to talk and read to the former President. He found the visits delightful. Indeed, the Adams of the cold and austere public mien was never more relaxed than he was at his country home in Quincy.

The original house, a small part of the present building, was built probably in 1731 by Major Leonard Vassall, a wealthy West Indian sugar planter who lived in Cambridge and apparently used it for a summer place.

His daughter, Mrs. Anna Borland, who was a Loyalist during the Revolution, abandoned the house to leave with the British forces when they evacuated Boston in 1776. For a while it was used as a haven for rebel refugees fleeing the war zones.

Mrs. Borland returned to reclaim the house after the Revolution and John Adams, then in Europe as the first American ambassador to London, purchased it for 600 pounds through the good offices of the Cotton Tuffs of Weymouth, his wife Abigail's cousin.

The Adamses were about to return to the United States after seven years abroad and Abigail was concerned that John's books and papers and the furnishings they had acquired in Europe would not fit into their old farmhouse at the foot of Penn's Hill where they lived before.

The deal was closed on Sept. 26, 1787, and the deed is still on file in the Suffolk County Registry of Deeds in which the Adams purchase is specified as a house, barn and other buildings on seven acres of land with some 76 acres more scattered around the North Precinct if Braintree.

There are indications that Abigail was first disappointed with her purchase. It was a lot smaller than she remembered it.

"In height and breadth it feels like a wren's house," she wrote to her daughter, Abigail, the wife of Col. William S. Smith. "Let Col. Smith come without heels to his shoes or he will not be able to walk upright."

Abigail and John Adams moved into the house, which they named "Peacefield," after his retirement from the presidency in 1801 and lived there until they died.

It was from the "Old House," as the family called it, that John Adams carried on his long and increasingly warm correspondence with his old rival, Thomas Jefferson of Virginia, who had succeeded him in the presidency. In retirement, they became firm friends as they outlasted their contemporaries.

"Thomas Jefferson lives," whispered John Adams as he lay dying in the Old House. He was wrong. Jefferson, in far away Monticello, Va., had preceded him in death by a few hours on the same day.

It was July 4, 1826, the 50th anniversary of the Declaration of Independence.

The Old House which served as summer White House for two presidents, was home to four generations of the Adams family, the last, Brooks Adams, dying in February, 1927. It was taken over by the U.S. National Park Service in 1946 to become the Adams Mansion National Historic Site.

The site at 135 Adams St. is open from April 19 to Nov. 10 daily from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. The last full tour is at 4 p.m. Admission is $5 for adults and children over 16, and includes admission to the Adams Birthplaces within seven days. Tours must be arranged at the Visitors' Center, 1250 Hancock St. The last full tour leaves the Visitors' Center at 3:15 p.m. Tours are on a first come, first serve basis.

The Adams Family

1. HENRY ADAMS (1583-1646) emigrated from England in 1638 and was granted 40 acres in Mount Wollaston (later Quincy).

2. JOSEPH ADAMS (1626-1694), son of Henry, farmer and maltster of Old Braintree.

3. JOSEPH ADAMS (1654-1737), son of Joseph, who married Hannah Bass, a granddaughter of John Alden and Priscilla Mullins.

4. JOHN ADAMS (1691-1761), son of Joseph, farmer and selectman of Old Braintree, known as Deacon John.

5. JOHN ADAMS (1735-1826), son of Deacon John and second President of the United States.

5a. SAMUEL ADAMS (1722-1803), revolutionary firebrand; great-great-grandson of Henry and cousin of President John.

6. JOHN QUINCY ADAMS (1767-1848), son of John, sixth President of the United States.

7. CHARLES FRANCIS ADAMS (1807-1886), son of John Quincy, minister to Great Britain during the Civil War.

8. JOHN QUINCY ADAMS II (1833-1894), son of Charles Francis, state legislator and thrice candidate for governor of Massachusetts.

8a. CHARLES FRANCIS ADAMS II (1835-1915), son of Charles Francis, historian and founder of the Quincy school system.

8b. HENRY ADAMS (1838-1918), son of Charles Francis, author of "The Education of Henry Adams."

8c. BROOKS ADAMS (1848-1927), son of Charles Francis, the last Adams to live in the Old House in Quincy.

9. CHARLES FRANCIS ADAMS III (1866-1954), son of John Quincy II, mayor of Quincy and Secretary of the Navy under President Hoover.

FIRST PARISH CHURCH looking across Hancock Street from McIntyre Mall adjacent to City Hall. (Quincy Sun Photo/Robert Noble

TOMBS OF PRESIDENTS John and John Quincy Adams and their wives, Abigial and Louisa in First Parish Church.

United First Parish Church

Only Church Where Two Presidents Entombed

In 1949, when the present First Parish Church building, the Old Stone Temple, was 121 years old, it was ruled officially that the church is older than the city itself and the town before it.

It was then that the late historian William Churchill Edwards was called upon to resolve a minor dispute that involved the rounding of the corners of the church lot in downtown Quincy.

"Almost the first subject to which the minds of the early settlers of our country were turned after they landed here was the formation of a church," said Edwards.

The first church in these parts was established as a branch of the Church of Boston in 1636. It became a church in its own right in 1639. The Mount Wollaston section of Boston was incorporated as the town of Braintree on May 23, 1640. Ergo, the church came first!

Quincy's first house of worship, the branch of the Church of Boston, was called the "Chapel of Ease," and if it was neglected by early historians it was because its first pastor, the Rev. John Wheelwright, his sister-in-law, Anne Hutchinson, and others were banished from the Massachusetts Bay Colony for heresy.

The new church, the one that lasted, was gathered by covenant on Sept. 26, 1639, and it was holding services in its third meeting house in 1732 when its pastor was the Rev. John Hancock, father of the bold first signer of the Declaration of Independence. Son John also was a member.

The affairs of the church and the town of Quincy were one and the same until 1824 when church and state were separated in Massachusetts and the Congregational Society was established to handle parochial matters.

The old Hancock meeting house was still standing, although a little run down, on the south lawn of the present church lot in 1822 when former President John Adams deeded the interest from certain of his lands and granite from his pastures to build a stone temple.

It was completed in Greek revival style at a cost of $30,488.56-which was some $3,000 less than architect Alexander Parrish's estimate-and dedicated Nov. 12, 1828, with John Quincy Adams, the sixth President of the United States holding Pew No. 1.

Even before the church was dedicated, the mortal remains of his benefactors, John and Abigail Adams, were transferred to tombs in the crypt of the church and, in 1852, the bodies of John Quincy Adams and his wife, Louisa, joined them.

It is the only church in the United States in which two Presidents are buried. The only other church in which a President is buried is the Episcopal Cathedral in Washington, D.C., where President Woodrow Wilson is entombed.

The church is open to the public for tours daily from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Saturday, Sunday from 12 noon to 5 p.m., mid-April to mid-November. Admission is $4 for adults, $3 for students and senior citizens, and free for children 12 and under. For further information, call 617-773-0062.

Why We Pronounce It 'Quin-zee'

Why do we pronounce Quincy "Quin-zee" when just about everyone else in the country refers to it as "Quin-see?"

There are 19 other Quincys in the U.S., but they pronounce it "Quin-see."

Can they be right and we be wrong?

Not according to Quincy's late city historian, William C. Edwards, who never budged an inch whenever the argument ever came up. And it still comes up.

The reason we pronounce it "Quin-zee" is very simple.

"That's the way the Quincy family pronounced it," he used to explain.

"The original Quincy family which settled here at Mount Wollaston pronounced it 'Quin-zee,' including Col. John Quincy after whom Quincy, Mass.—the first Quincy—was named in 1792."

Colonel Quincy was the great grandfather of sixth President John Quincy Adams.

Apparently, all 19 other Quincys in the U.S. were named after John Quincy Adams.

And, apparently the early settlers of those communities thought John Quincy pronounced it John "Quin-see."

Anyway, that is how Edwards explained it.

Seems like a sound argument.

First Wife, Mother Of Two Presidents

Abigail Adams Early Women's Rights Advocate

What do Barbara Bush and Abigail Adams have in common?

Both are noted for being the wife of one president and the mother of another.

Barbara's husband, George H. W., was the 41st president from 1989 to 1993 and her son, George W., is the 43rd president who moved into the White House in 2001 and is still there.

Abigail's husband, John, was the second president from 1797 to 1801 and her son, John Quincy, the sixth president from 1825 to 1829.

And her grandson, Charles Francis Adams, ran unsuccessfully for vice president on the Free Soil ticket in 1848.

Their husbands share another distinction, too. John was born in the section of Braintree now known as Quincy. George H. W. was born in Milton, the next town over.

But this is Abigail's story . . .

ABIGAIL ADAMS

An early advocate of women's rights, the former Abigail Smith wrote to her husband, John, who was in Philadelphia helping his fellow Founding Fathers hammer out a Constitution for the new republic:

"In the new code of laws which I suppose it will be necessary for you to make, I desire you would remember the ladies and be more generous and favorable to them than your ancestors.

"Do not put such unlimited power into the hands of the husbands. Remember, all men would be tyrants if they could."

Sadly, unlike Barbara Bush, Abigail Adams did not live to see her son become president. She died in her 74th year, Oct. 28, 1818, seven years before he entered the White House.

Although she is traditionally remembered as the wife of one president and the mother of another, Abigail was more than that.

She was a remarkable woman in her own right and one ahead of her time.

Born in neighboring Weymouth Nov. 11, 1744, the daughter of the Rev. William Smith, a Congregational minister, and his wife, Elizabeth Quincy Smith, she had no formal schooling.

But through tutoring by her father and mother and reading, she became a well-known writer of letters that have served to chronicle American history.

She was a brave and resourceful woman, too. She was often left alone for long periods of time to care for her children and run the farm at the foot of Penn's Hill while her husband was away in the service of their fledgling country.

Early in their marriage, he was in France trying to develop strong ties with that country and she sailed to meet him in Paris. They had not seen one another in five years.

ABIGAIL ADAMS and her son, John Quincy Adams -- the future sixth President of the United States – look out over Quincy Square from beside historic First Parish Church. The handsome bronze statue depicts her at about age 32 and him as a 10-year-old boy. It was commissioned by the Quincy Partnership and created by noted sculptor Lloyd Lillie. (Quincy Sun Photo/Robert Bosworth)

John and Abigail Adams were the first president and first lady to occupy the White House. When Adams took office, succeeding George Washington on March 4, 1797, Philadelphia was the nation's capital. John and Abigail moved into the White House in November, 1800. It was called the President's Palace at the time.

No fancy airs about her. She won a special spot in White House folklore by hanging her laundry in the East Room. She was just being practical. Many of the rooms had not been finished when they moved in and the East Room was one of the warmer ones, better for drying wet clothing.

John Adams and Thomas Jefferson, the man who succeeded him as president, were close friends who worked together to produce the precious Declaration of Independence. But they had a falling out and became political enemies.

When Jefferson defeated Adams in his bid for reelection to a second term, Adams was so bitter that he refused to stay in Washington for Jefferson's inauguration in 1801 and came home to Quincy.

Abigail became a peacemaker through letters to Jefferson and, thanks to her efforts, the two former presidents reconciled in their later years.

Both succumbed July 4, 1826, the 50th anniversary of the Declaration of Independence. Jefferson a few hours before Adams.

John and Abigail were married 54 years and it was a happy union despite frequent and long separations in the early years.

Abigail was the woman behind two men — a husband and son — who encouraged and helped them in their distinguished service to their country on their way to the Presidency.

She and her husband, son and daughter-in-law, Louisa Catherine, are entombed in the crypt in the United First Parish Church.

A bronze statue depicting Abigail at about age 32 and John Quincy at age 10 with her hand on his shoulder in a motherly touch, was erected in 1997 just a few feet away.

The very spot from which she now looks out onto Quincy Square is where she walked when the area was an open field.

A Mother's Advice

Abigail Adams had this motherly advice for her son, John Quincy Adams, the future sixth prresident, in a letter written to him when he was 10 years old and in Europe with his father, John Adams, who was on a diplomatic mission:

"Improve your understanding for acquiring usefull (sic) knowledge and virtue, such as will render you an ornament to society, an Honour to your Country, and a Blessing to Your parents.

Your affectionate Mother

Dorothy Quincy Homestead

John Hancock Signed Declaration Of His Love

An aura of romance surrounds the stately old house that is set back in the trees from the corner of Hancock Street and Butler Road, on the banks of Furnace Brook.

There is the wallpaper with its blue cupids and pink flowers that was imported from France for the wedding of Dorothy Quincy, the vivacious daughter of the house, to Quincy-born John Hancock, a patriot on the run with a price on his head.

There are the words "You I Love and You alone," addressed by Hancock to his beloved Dorothy and scratched on a window pane with his diamond ring just before he fled to Lexington on the eve of the Revolution.

And there are the secret chambers and passageways, used, it was said, to hide fugitive patriots during the Revolution and, at an earlier date, even certain Englishmen fleeing a charge of regicide in the death of King Charles I.

Parts of the house were built in 1685 by Col. Edmund Quincy, the second of the name, on land that was granted to an earlier Edmund in 1638. The major part was built in 1706 by Edmund the third. (There were six Edmunds in all, four in a direct line; two nephews.)

The house was the social center of old Braintree during the regime of the fourth Edmund, largely because he sired five beautiful daughters around whom swirled a whole future generation of judges, generals and merchant kings.

The undisputed belle of the household was Dorothy, the coquettish youngest of the eight Quincy children, whose troth was soon plighted to John Hancock, the wealthy young businessman from Boston who was already becoming known as a leader of the rebels.

Tradition has it that they were to have been married in the north parlor of the Quincy homestead with its French cupid wallpaper when Revolution intervened and John had to flee with the British regulars on his heels.

Eventually, they were wed Aug. 28, 1775, at the home of Thaddeus Burr, uncle of Aaron Burr (later Vice President of the United States) in Fairfield, Conn.

After the Revolution and the death of Edmund the fourth in 1788 the old house passed from the Quincy family. The Hancocks wanted nothing to do with it. Their only son, John George Washington Hancock, was killed in a skating accident at age 9 while on a visit in 1787.

The house was acquired in 1904 by the Massachusetts Society of Colonial Dames, who restored it with vintage furniture, utensils and clothing, and gave it to the state with the proviso that the Dames continue to run it.

A solid tradition of building strong kids, strong families, strong communities.

Bean suppers in the Auditorium after Family Swim. A circus featuring volunteer ringmaster, Delevare King, and the talents of young local gymnasts. The very popular Hi-Y Leaders Club. Elmer "Mike" Fagerlund remembers it all, spanning youth, teen years, and married life with a family.

He joined the Y in 1928 at the age of ten, when our building was located on Washington Street. Back then, the Y was for men and boys only. "You never heard of a bathing suit," he chuckles, remembering uninhibited early years in the old pint-sized pool. Mike's father was a Y member back then, too.

"Elmer wasn't a popular name at that time," he recalls. "In fact, it had some negative connotations. So when I came to the Y, some of the boys said, 'Hey, we'll call you Mike'." Elmer laughs, "and it's been Mike ever since."

Later, in the mid-1950s when Mike returned to the newly-built Y on Coddington Street with his wife, Norma, and children Deedee, Martha, and John, all three kids joined the swim team. They competed in Portland, Maine; Pawtucket, Rhode Island; and even Yale University, winning many awards.

"I think the greatest contribution that the Y has made is that it brought people from all over the area together," Mike says. Some examples include family swim times with past regular attendees Edward Rowe Snow (historian, writer, and Francis X. Bellotti (former Lieutenant Governor of Massachusetts).

We're still on that mission. Bringing people from all over the area together to build strong kids, strong families, strong communities. Ask Mike's grandson, Eric, age 32. He's a member and Y staffer here, carrying on the family tradition. He shares that tradition with sisters Amy and Justine.

We'd like to thank Mike and thousands of other Y families who keep the YMCA spirit alive every day. Together we're making history while building a better South Shore community.

Hancock Cemetery

Patriots, Early Settlers, Intrigue Buried Here

Henry, the first Adams in Quincy, is buried there. So is the Rev. John Hancock, father of the first signer of the Declaration of Independence. And Colonel John Quincy, for whom the city is named.

But of all the 800 graves in the Hancock Cemetery, the Old Burying Ground of Colonial Quincy, most intriguing is one marked by a tombstone bearing this cryptic epitaph:

"Erected to the memory of John R. Grieve: Died Nov. 12, 1850, age 22 years, and Hannah Banks, his wife, died Nov. 12, 1850, age 15 years. Both of Zanesville, Ohio. Deluded by the writings of A.J. Davis."

The mystery of John and Hannah has never been fully solved.

They came to Quincy in 1850, not as man and wife, but as male cousins, John Green and George Sands. They obtained work in a shoe factory but rarely left their lodgings on Elm St., spending long hours reading books on spiritualism.

Co-Workers thought that George Sands looked frail, almost effeminate. It was widely suspected that "he" was a girl. A scheme was devised to test the theory.

One day at lunch one of the shoe workers tossed George an apple. A man would catch it by closing his legs; a woman by spreading her skirt. Guess what "George" did!

HANCOCK CEMETERY

Humiliated, John and Hannah never went back to the factory. Nor did they ever return to the house on Elm St. Their frozen bodies were found next spring by rabbit hunters on Penn's Hill, locked in a loving embrace.

Several months later, the father of John Grieve arrived from Ohio to bury the young couple. It was he who directed the words to be chiselled on the headstone. He explained no further.

A.J. Davis was never identified for sure. But Andrew Jackson Davis, a spiritualist, hypnotist and faith healer, was then practicing in Boston.

Among the belongings found in the Elm. St. lodgings were these words, written by 15-year-old Hannah Banks:

"To the oppressed and downtrodden, to the suffering and afflicted, I would cry out...Death is only an event, only a circumstance in the eternal life experience of the human soul. Death is simply a birth into a new and perfect state of existence."

Not far from the grave of John and Hannah is a tomb bearing words that cry out of an earlier injustice:

"Three precious friends under this tombstone lie

"Patterns to aged, youth and infancy.

"A great mother, her learned son, with child.

"The first and least went free. He was exiled.

"In love to Christ, this country, and dear friends.

"He left his own, cross'd seas and for amends

"Was here extoll'd, and envy'd all in a breath.

"His noble consort leaves, is drawn to death.

"Stranger changes may befall us ere we die.

"Blest they who will arrive eternity.

"God grant some names, O thou New England's friend.

"Don't sooner fade than thine, if times don't mend."

The tomb with its hidden message contains the family of the Rev. Leonard Hoar, third president of Harvard College, a man too liberal for his times.

He was forced by the General Court of the Massachusetts Bay Colony to resign at the instigation of religious opponents and jealous colleagues for permitting Harvard to "languish and decay." Eight months later, in November 1675, he was dead at 45.

In 1975, the same General Court, now of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, righted the 300-year-old wrong done to the Rev. Mr. Hoar by "proclaiming and confirming his innocence of any misdeeds while president of Harvard College."

The cemetery, on Hancock St., Quincy Sq., next to City Hall, is open to the public. There is no admission charge.

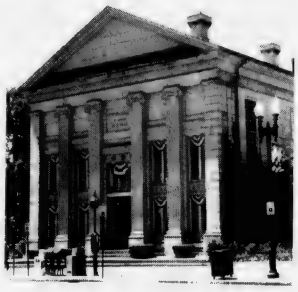
City Hall

Seat Of Government For 161 Years



Daniel and Hannah French deeded the land to the town of Quincy for $1,000 with the stipulation that it "shall not be used for any other purpose than as a place for a Town House and for the said Inhabitants."

And, with a few minor transgressions of that vow, the solid structure of Quincy granite on Quincy Square has been just that for the past 161 years, the nerve center of government for the town and then the city.

It was the great hall on the second floor that the popular John Quincy Adams II, grandson of a President of the United States, held forth as town moderator for many years and, with his brother, Charles Francis Adams Jr., gave informal direction to town affairs.

One of the earliest ordinances passed by the first City Council on March 8, 1889 was the adoption of the City Seal emblazoned with the four most significant dates in Quincy's history:

1625, for the first settlement on Mount Wollaston; 1640, for its separation from Boston as the town of Braintree; 1792, for its separation from Braintree as the town of Quincy; and 1888, for its incorporation as a city.

CITY HALL

Designed by the architect Solomon Willard — who received $280 for drawing up the plans and superintending construction for five months — the City Hall was completed and occupied for the first time on Nov. 1, 1844.

It cost exactly $19,115.93 to build, including 88 cents to John Briesler for lead to seal the chimney.

In 1979, when a three and a half story reflective glass addition was built behind the old City Hall, the cost was $1.9 million.

Designed By Henry Hobson Richardson

Thomas Crane Library Architectural Beauty

He came to Quincy as a boy of 7, grew to young manhood on a farm in Quincy Point, learned the granite-cutters' trade, and left at the age of 26 to win fame and fortune in stone in New York City.

That was the last Quincy heard of Thomas Crane for half a century until one February day in 1880, five years after his death, when his son, Albert, appeared with $20,000 with which to build a memorial — preferably a library — to his father.

"My father always retained a strong feeling for the town of Quincy," was his only explanation.

Albert Crane himself chose the man to design the building, Henry Hobson Richardson, grandson of the English scientist Dr. Joseph Priestly and the foremost architect of the day.

His reputation was so formidable that he was able to tell Crane, "I cannot guarantee that the building, when completed, shall conform to (your) ideas of beauty and taste," and still get the job.

Richardson's Romanesque building, which now houses the reference section of the library, was dedicated on May 30, 1882, with the principal oration delivered by Charles Francis Adams, Jr., chairman of the Board of Trustees.

It was Adams who gave the library its name. Albert Crane wanted it to be "The Quincy Free Public Library." Adams insisted on "The Thomas Crane Public Library."

"Who's giving the building?" asked Albert Crane.

"You are, but you wouldn't have if it hadn't been for me," said Adams, who was used to having his way around Quincy, and that was that.

President John Adams' modest collection of books was housed in the library until 1893, when it was discovered that in 11 years only two persons, one of them Charles Francis Adams, Jr., had asked to see them. They were then transferred to the Boston Public Library.

At the start, Richardson's magnificent building was all but hidden behind a grain store, a hotel, an office building and four homes that lined Washington St.

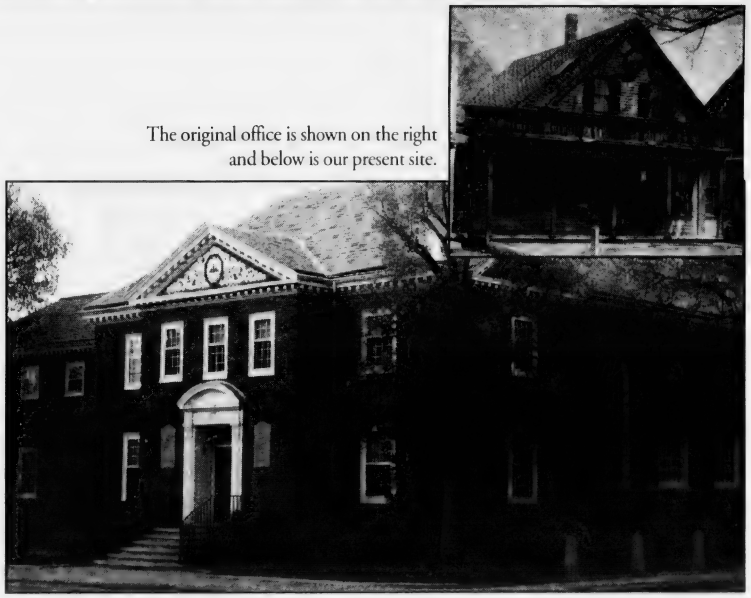
Albert Crane, however, was a persistent man and, by the time he died in 1917, he had purchased and torn down all the buildings, leaving a broad expanse of open space to enhance the library.

But before the lawn could be seeded, World War I intervened and, in a burst of patriotism — "Food will win the war," they said — the area was planted with potatoes, tended by an expert brought in from Maine. The experiment failed.

"There wasn't a potato in the lot that was anywhere near as large as a golf ball," said Mayor Joseph L. Whiton. The harvest was donated to the poor farm.

Albert Crane also put up $64,000 to build the Spear St. wing of the library in 1907-08 and the Crane family gave yet another $164,000 for the free standing addition, built in 1938.

THOMAS CRANE PUBLIC LIBRARY



A new $18 million addition that almost doubled the size of the existing library was completed in the spring of 2001 with money from the Crane endowment used to purchase the property and the rest paid for with a city bond issue.

The new wing was dedicated this year as the Mayor James A. Sheets Building.

The Thomas Crane Public Library, 40 Washington St., is open to the public, free of charge, Monday through Thursday, 9 a.m. to 9 p.m., Friday and Saturday, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Sunday, 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. Closed on July 4th and Labor Day Weekends.

John Quincy Adams:

The Old Flame Still Burned

The old man's bitterness glowed from every word as he penned them in his diary on June 17, 1843, the day the Bunker Hill Monument was dedicated.

"What a name in the annals of mankind is Bunker Hill! What a day was the 17th of June, 1775! And what a burlesque upon them both is an oration upon them by Daniel Webster!"

The old man despised Webster as a turncoat to his own heritage, one whose compromises had sold out to slavery.

"The ideal associations thundering cannon, which I heard, and the smoke of burning Charlestown, which I saw, on that awful day .. How could I have witnessed all this at once, without an unbecoming burst of indignation.

"Daniel Webster is a heartless traitor to the cause of freedom; John Tyler [the President] is a slave-monger. What have these to do with the Quincy granite pyramid on the brow of Bunker Hill?

"I stayed home .. "

The old flame still burned in John Quincy Adams at 75.

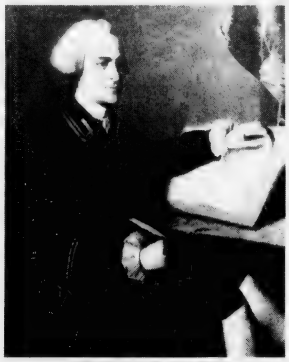
Quincy Was Almost Hancock

By HENRY BOSWORTH

If some of the early settlers had their way, it would be the city of Hancock today instead of Quincy.

Quincy, like George Washington, was born on Feb. 22.

On Feb. 22, 1792, the General Court of Massachusetts passed an act incorporating the North Precinct of Old Braintree as the separate town of Quincy.



But, just before that, quite a few of the residents wanted the new town named after native-son John Hancock instead of Boston-born Colonel John Quincy.

Colonel Quincy, who had represented Old Braintree in the General Court, was the great-grandfather of President John Quincy Adams.

Many people today think Quincy was named after the sixth President but the honor actually goes to his great-grandfather.

John Hancock, who was born in the North Precinct, was governor of Massachusetts when the General Court passed the act incorporating the new town as Quincy. He signed the act the following day.

But at the first town meeting of the new town in May, a petition was presented to change the name from Quincy to Hancock in honor of the patriot and first signer of the Declaration of Independence. The move was finally defeated after a stormy verbal battle.

JOHN HANCOCK

Opponents argued that Hancock was still alive and that the honor should go to a distinguished-but-deceased-person.

Colonel Quincy met those requirements. He was both distinguished and deceased.

He had represented Old Braintree in the General Court from 1717 to 1741, 12 of those years as Speaker of the House. He died in 1767 at age 77, two days after John Quincy Adams was born.

Quincy became a city June 11, 1888.

But a lot of people will go right on thinking Quincy was named after John Quincy Adams.

USS Quincy Took FDR To Yalta Conference

Quincy Ships Played Major Role In WWII

By TOM HENSHAW

The President and the Prime Minister met on the ship's deck and went on from there to the conference that would decide the future of a world at war.

The President was Franklin D. Roosevelt and the Prime Minister was Winston Churchill and the ship was the Quincy-built heavy cruiser USS Quincy, the second of that name to perform heroically in World War II.

The time was 60 years ago, Feb. 2, 1945, and the place was the island of Malta in the Mediterranean, where the President met the Prime Minister and together they flew on to the Yalta Conference in the Russian Crimea.

After dropping off FDR at Malta, USS Quincy met him again at the Great Bitter Lake in the Suez Canal where they entertained King Farouk of Egypt, Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia and King Ibn Saud of Saudi Arabia.

Quincy was specially outfitted to carry FDR across the UBoat-infested Atlantic to confer with Churchill and Russian Premier Joseph Stalin after she participated in the bombardment of Normandy on D-Day.

She was part of a naval group that stood off the Allied beachhead and shelled the German defenses to soften them up for the landing party and, when that was done, joined another force in bombarding the French port of Cherbourg into submission.

Her performance off Utah Beach drew praise from Admiral E. L. Cochrane, chief of the Bureau of Ships, who wrote to the Bethlehem Steel Co., owners of the Fore River Shipyard at the time:

"The Bethlehem-built cruiser Quincy has been giving a splendid account of herself in support of the Allied invasion of Western Europe.

"The performance of Quincy is in keeping with the quality of workmanship which characterizes the Navy vessels constructed at your yard."

After that brief respite for diplomacy at Yalta, it was back to war for Quincy, lending support to carrier strikes on Okinawa and the Japanese home islands, finally entering Tokyo Bay on Sept. 1 in time to be there when the Japanese surrendered aboard the battleship Missouri ending World War II 60 years ago.

The second Quincy, launched June 23, 1943, with great fanfare, was one of scores of warships built by Bethlehem's Fore River Shipyard, which employed 32,000 men and women in its Quincy and Hingham locations at their peak Jan. 15, 1943.

The first Quincy, launched June 19, 1935, was on peacetime convoy duty between Capetown, South Africa, and the Caribbean island of Trinidad, when the Japanese attacked Pearl Harbor and virtually destroyed America's Pacific fleet.

She was dispatched to the South Pacific in the summer of 1942 to shell Japanese installations on the Solomon Island of Guadalcanal and offer protection to the Marines who landed there in the first American offensive of World War II in August.

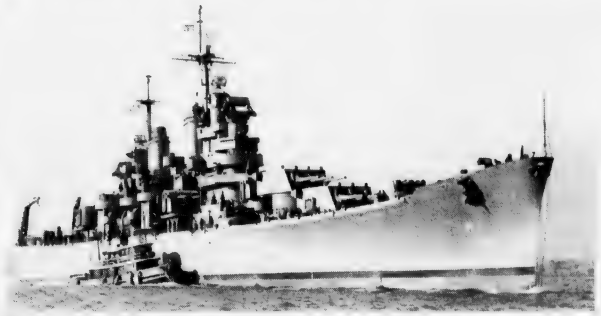
She was on patrol in the channel off Guadalcanal in the early morning hours of Aug. 9 when she was attacked by a large enemy naval force and sunk after taking many direct hits in what became known as the Battle of Savo Island.

The final message from the stricken ship was one of defiance:

"We're going down between them — give 'em hell!"

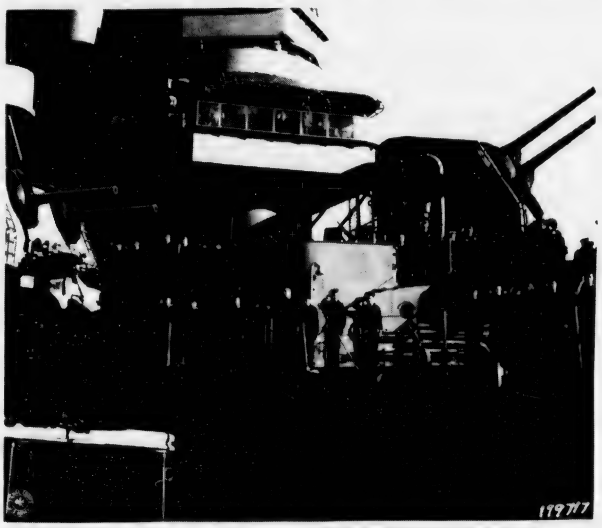
News of the sinking struck hard at the men and women of the Fore River Shipyard, who had just begun work on a heavy cruiser to be called St. Paul. They petitioned Washington to change the name to Quincy and it was done.



She was christened by Mrs. Henry S. Morgan, daughter of Charles Francis Adams, former Secretary of the Navy and Mayor of Quincy, and daughter-in-law of the late J. Pierpont Morgan, the international financier. It was she who had christened the first Quincy.

The historic shipyard in Quincy Point was founded two miles upriver in Braintree in 1884 as the Fore River Engine Company by Thomas A. Watson, the same man who heard Alexander Graham Bell's first words on the first telephone — "Watson, come here; I want you."

The company was formed to make marine engines but the demand for private yachts was so strong that Watson was forced to move downriver in 1900 to Quincy where the river was wider, the channel deeper and more suited to launch ships.



As early as 1898, the yard began building ships for the U. S. Navy, with keels laid for the destroyers Lawrence and MacDonough, a contract in hand for the cruiser Des Moines and two more pending for the battleships Rhode Island and New Jersey.

Another one of those early ships was Nevada, delivered in 1916, which fought its way through two world wars, survived Pearl Harbor and the A-Bomb test at Bikini Atoll, and finally had to be sunk by a friendly torpedo.

THE USS QUINCY, built in 1943, the second heavy cruiser to bear the name, had a prominent role in World War II, including shelling the Normandy coast during D-Day in 1944 and bombarding the Japanese homeland. In between, she took President Franklin D. Roosevelt to the Yalta Conference in 1945. The first USS Quincy was sunk in the Battle of Savo Island in 1942.

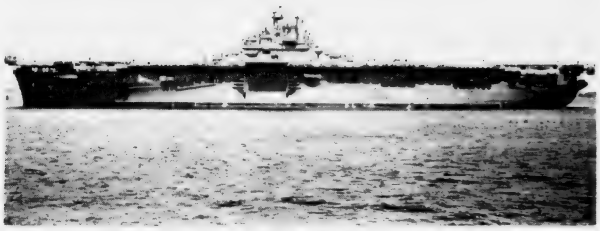
Also Quincy-built were the battleship Rivadavia for the Argentine Navy, five submarines for the Japanese Navy for the Russo-Japanese War of 1904-5, and the world's only seven-masted schooner, Thomas W. Lawson. (FYI - They were called fore, main, mizzen, rusher, driver, jigger and spanker.)

An adjunct facility called the Victory Plant had to be built to handle the US Navy's overflow during World War I and together the yards turned out 35 destroyers in 27 months, more than all the other shipyards in the country combined, including USS Reid, built in a record 41 1/2 days from keel-laying to delivery.

A Naval officer named Chester Nimitz was briefly a resident of Quincy in 1913 while waiting for his submarine to be fitted at the yard. He remained long enough to marry a Wollaston girl, Catherine Vance Freeman, daughter of a former City Council president.



When, shortly after Pearl Harbor, Nimitz was named commander of all American naval forces in the Pacific, Catherine congratulated him on taking over the fleet.

"But, my dear," he replied, "The fleet's at the bottom of the sea."

That was the Quincy shipyard's cue once again to roll up its collective sleeves and get busy. Starting on Dec. 7, 1941,

Quincy Ships Played Major Role In World War II

USS LEXINGTON, the second Quincy-built aircraft carrier to bear that name, fought its way through the central Pacific and dispatched its planes into the famed Great Marianas Turkey Shoot in 1944. Continued from Page 21A for the next three years, its workers turned out 88 ships, ranging from LSTs (landing ships tanks) to CVs (aircraft carriers), an average of one every 12 1/2 days.

It was in a shipyard annex in Hingham, five miles away down the coast, that workers set world's records by building the destroyer HMS Reynolds in 24 1/2 working days and delivering five ships to the Navy in 50 hours.

The battleship USS Massachusetts, "Big Mamie," delivered May 12, 1942, took part in some 35 engagements during the war, including the sinking of the mighty Vichy-French battleship Jean Bart at Casablanca before she could be turned over to the Germans.

Today she is a featured exhibit, along with the Quincy-built destroyer Joseph P. Kennedy Jr., at the naval museum in Fall River.

The aircraft carrier Wasp, launched from the Fore River ways April 4, 1939, was escorting transports of Marine reinforcements to Guadalcanal on Sept. 16, 1942, when two torpedoes from the Japanese submarine I-19 struck her in the vicinity of her gas tanks and magazines.

Another carrier, already abuilding at the Quincy yard and designated USS Oriskany, was renamed Wasp and sent off to war Nov. 24, 1943, taking part in the Battle of Leyte Gulf and the assaults on the Marianas, Iwo Jima, Okinawa and the Japanese home islands.

The carrier Lexington, laid down as a battle cruiser but completed as the US Navy's second aircraft carrier in 1925, was at sea when the Japanese attacked Pearl Harbor but, less than six months later, she fell to an enemy torpedo in the Battle of the Coral Sea.

As with Wasp, a carrier already on the ways in Quincy and ready to be dubbed USS Cabot, was renamed Lexington and commissioned Feb. 17, 1943, in time to fight through the central Pacific and launch its planes into the action that became known as "the Great Marianas Turkey Shoot."

From the heights in World War II, the once busy Fore River Shipyard fell on post-war hard times, building mostly tankers and freighters with an occasional Navy contract for a submarine, destroyer or frigate. But every now and then it was called on to construct something new and interesting.

Like the world's heaviest ship, the 106,500-ton tanker Manhattan, launched in 1962, the fastest and most powerful supertanker, which was later converted into the world's largest icebreaker for a trip through the Canadian Arctic with one barrel of oil to prove that oil from Alaska's North Slope could be transported by sea.

Or the fleet oilers Redstone, Vanguard and Mercury, converted into instrumentation ships in 1966 to track missiles on the firing range, but also used to follow the progress of the Apollo spacecraft as they circled the earth in orbit and raced to the moon.

Or the world's first nuclear-powered surface combat ship, the cruiser Long Beach, launched in 1961, and the world's second, the frigate Bainbridge, in 1962. They were among the last ships built by Bethlehem at the shipyard before it was sold to General Dynamics.

The most notable ship construction contracts under taken during the 13 years General Dynamics operated the shipyard were the ten 436-foot liquefied natural gas (LNG) tankers with their great bulbous tanks that were built elsewhere and hoisted aboard the ship by the Goliath Crane that became a landmark at the yard.

For the record, the last ship built by General Dynamics at the 86-year-old Quincy shipyard was the maritime prepositioning ship Sgt. William R. Button. That was in 1986. Then General Dynamics shut the door.

Abigail Adams Cairn

The Smoke Could Be Seen Over Bunker Hill

ABIGAIL ADAMS CAIRN

Abigail Adams was awakened at dawn in the farmhouse at the foot of Penn's Hill by the sound of far-off guns. All through the sweltering morning of June 17, 1775, as she hustled about with the chores, the dull boom of cannon intruded on her consciousness.

Riders on the Coast Road to Plymouth, stopping at the farmhouse for a drink of water, told her of a great battle underway on Breed's Hill in Charlestown.

One of them brought word that Dr. Joseph Warren had been killed in the fighting and little Abby, age 10, burst into tears, and John Quincy, nearly 8, felt bewildered and sad, for Dr. Warren was the Adams family doctor in Boston.

In the afternoon, Abigail could stand it no longer. Taking Abby and John Quincy by the hand, she walked up the Coast Road to the top of Penn's Hill and climbed up on the rocks for a better view.

The panorama of the Bay, a shimmering blue in the sunshine, spread out before them, the tiny houses on the three hills of Boston and, beyond, the black smoke rising in billows.

"Good God," exclaimed Abigail, "they are burning Charlestown!"

The scene etched itself forever in John Quincy's memory.

The early days of the Revolution were times of turmoil in Old Braintree and its North Precinct, which was later called Quincy.

Abigail's husband, John, was away most of the time at the Continental Congress in Philadelphia, leaving 31-year-old Abigail to manage the farm and look to the needs of four small children: Abigail, John Quincy, Charles, 5, and Thomas Boylston, 3.

There were days of alarm as the British, penned up in Boston by the brand new Continental Army, foraged up and down the coast for supplies. Refugees from occupied Boston and the inner towns of Dorchester and Roxbury sometimes slept in the kitchen and in the fields.

As the wife of a member of Congress, Abigail was a center of attention. The house on the Coast Road was a favorite stopping place for travelers to Plymouth. Politicians up from Philadelphia made it a point to stop by for a visit with John Adams' wife.

Abigail was invited to visit Gen. George Washington's headquarters at Winter Hill. The aristocratic Washington was suspect among New Englanders. He was a Virginian; he was an Anglican; and, it was said, he held slaves. But John Adams liked him and Abigail was soon charmed.

One day, young John Quincy came home to find his Uncle Elihu melting down Abigail's pewter spoons in the kitchen to make bullet molds. He looked at his mother and she looked back at him and something indefinable passed between them.

"Do you wonder," wrote the sixth President of the United States some 68 years later, "that a boy of 7 who witnessed this scene should be a patriot."

In 1896, where the old Coast Road (now Franklin Street) meets Viden Road atop Penn's Hill, a stone cairn was built to mark the spot where Abigail and young John Quincy watched the Battle of Bunker Hill. It is open to the public and free of charge.

John Adams 'Father'

U.S., State Constitution Both Born Here

By TOM HENSHAW

Quincy, birthplace of John Adams, John Quincy Adams and John Hancock, also has claim to the birth of the U.S. Constitution.

The seed for this precious document was planted here.

The U.S. Constitution was modeled after the Massachusetts Constitution which was written by John Adams, Samuel Adams and James Bowdoin in Adams' law office of the John Quincy Adams birthplace in Quincy.

There is every reason to believe that John Adams did not want to go the Massachusetts Constitution Convention in Cambridge in 1779.

He missed his wife, Abigail, terribly, and she him.

The American colonies, newly reborn as the United States of America, were going through the most dismal period of the War for Independence. Inflation was rampant: butcher's meat, a dollar to eight shillings a pound; flour, fifty dollars a hundredweight. The news from the fighting front was of death, privation and horror.

Like many Braintree wives whose husbands were away at war. Abigail Adams was forced into the unaccustomed role of head of the household, a function she filled with determination.

John Adams attended the opening session of the Constitutional Convention in Cambridge on Wednesday, June 1, 1779. On Saturday, he was named to a committee of 30 to prepare the declaration of rights and the constitution. On Monday, the committee delegated the task to a subcommittee of three, John and Samuel Adams; and James Bowdoin.

Thus it was that John Adams wound up in the law office of his home at the foot of Penn's Hill, paired with his firebrand cousin, Sam, and his ailing friend, James Bowdoin, to write a Constitution for Massachusetts.

The patient, hard-working John Adams, of course, did most of the work.

"I was by the Convention put upon the Committee—by the Committee upon the subcommittee—and by the subcommittee appointed a sub subcommittee—so that I had the honor to be principal Engineer," he wrote to his friend, Edmund Jennings. Payroll records indicate that he was paid 90 pounds for his work.

The so-called "Adams draft" of the Massachusetts Constitution was accepted by the Convention with a few alterations but by that time John Adams was long gone back to Europe, this time to help negotiate a treaty of peace with Britain and serve as America's first minister to London. He did not see the farm at the foot of Penn's Hill again for another eight years.

But he was immensely heartened by these words from the pen of his ever-loving Abigail, written on Oct. 15, 1780:

"Our Massachusetts Constitution is read with admission in New York and pronounced by the Royal Governor as the best republican form he ever saw."

Quincy Historical Society
At Adams Academy

On Site Of Hancock's Birthplace

ADAMS ACADEMY is at John Hancock Square, and now home of the Quincy Historical Society. Quincy Sun Photo/Robert Noble

By modern standards, the boarding house at the corner of Hancock and Depot Sts. had all the aspects of a genteel prison.

Residents were forbidden to leave between 7 p.m. and 7 a.m. They could not enter or leave at any time exept by the hall door. They were banned from pool halls and bars. Smoking materials also were forbidden to them.

In exchange for good behavior, plus tuition ranging from $75 to $150 a year, they were given the best prep school education of the day, for they were students at Adams Academy, which flourished from 1872 to 1907 in Quincy.

The academy was a gift of John Adams, the second President of the United States, who always had his checkbook ready to fill the spiritual and educational needs of the citizens of his beloved Quincy.

The trust fund, nourished by "rents, profits and emoluments" from certain Adams-owned properties, was set up in the Adams will of 1822, but it was not until 1869 that the fund was deemed larege enough to start construction.

The location was specified by Adams himself as the corner of Adams and Hancock Streets., site of the birthplace of his childhood friend, John Hancock, the first signer of the Declaration of Independence.

The doors opened to the first students, 24 of them, on Sept. 4, 1872. Five years later, the academy reached a peak enrollment of 154 with an international student body—25 from Quincy, four from Washington, D.C., 125 from14 states, two from England and one from Chile.

It had one of the earliest prep school football teams, too, recording a tie with the Resolutes of Boston on Oct. 21, 1876, a scant seven years after Princeton and Rutgers played the first college game. It whipped Andover three times from 1877-79.

The admissions catalogue specified that applicants be "well prepared in the usual studies of good grammar school" and warned that "no pupils are desired to give them a collegiate education."

The best known headmaster was Dr. William Everett, once acclaimed as one of the seven smartest men in the world. He ran the academy with a firm hand from 1878 to 1893 and again from 1897 to 1907. From 1893 to 1897, he was a U.S. congressman from Lynn.

Dr. Everett, an amiable if sometimes waspish eccentric, was widely known as the man who hated Abraham Lincoln. He had reason. His father was Edward Everett, whose masterful oration at Gettysburg was over-shadowed by Lincoln's notes scribbled on the back of an envelope.

It was Dr. Everett, who signaled the passing of Adams Academy—and many other 19th Century classical prep schools—at graduation exercises in 1907 when he said that "unless someone comes forward and planks down $50,000, the academy will be closed."

Nobody did. On June 22, 1907, the Adams Academy officially closed its doors.

The building today is occupied by the Quincy Historical Society, which maintains a museum and research library in the old classrooms as well as an expanded gift shop.

The museum and gift shop are open all year, Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Call 617-773-1144 for more information. The library is open Monday and Wednesday from 9 a.m. to noon, Friday from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. Other times by appointment. It is closed on weekends and holidays.

Josiah Quincy House

Lookout For Spying On British Ships

Abigail Adams stood with her great-uncle, Col. Josiah Quincy, in a window of his mansion overlooking Wollaston Beach and watched the tall masts of 170 ships stand slowly out to sea. It was March 17, 1776. The British were evacuating Boston.

But even in triumph there was tragedy.

Aboard the departing ships were more than 1,000 Loyalists, Americans who had chosen King above country, and one of them was Abigail's cousin, Samuel Quincy, the Colonel's only remaining son, an avowed Tory.

"I take a long farewell," his sister, Hannah, wrote to him for one last time. "Let it not be published that a brother of such brothers fled from his country. Can you expect to walk uprightly now? Can you take fire in your bosom and not be burned?"

Two of Col. Josiah Quincy's sons had died young. Now he had no more.

But there was no time for regrets. The work of revolution had begun. The second floor of the house at what is now 20 Muirhead St., Wollaston, was a lookout from which the 66-year-old Colonel spied on British ship movements for his friend, Gen. George Washington.

A few months before, Col. Quincy watched the Royal Governor, Gen. Thomas Gage depart and he scratched on a pane of window glass the reminder: "Oct. 10, 1775, General Gage sailed for England with a fair wind."

This time he remained in the window for three days as the British tall ships moved restlessly about the Harbor as if reluctant to leave. Finally, on March 20, the last of them passed through the roadstead and out to sea.

The mansion in Wollaston reached full social flower under the aegis of the Colonel's grandson, the third Josiah, the "Great Mayor" of Boston, president of Harvard and Congressman, who called it "Tranquillia" and used it as his summer home.

It was there that the Marquis de Lafayette visited one Sunday afternoon after dinner with his friend, ex-President John Adams at the Adams Mansion. He carried flowers from the Adams garden for Mrs. Eliza Susan Quincy and her five attractive daughters.

The house was built in 1770 by the old Colonel himself, the first in a line of six Josiahs. It was said that, while most families passed their line from sire to son, the Quincys went from 'Siah to 'Siah.

But, while there were six Josiahs and innumerable Edmunds, the city was named for yet another member of the prolific family — Col. John Quincy, the great-grandfather of John Quincy Adams, sixth president of the United States.

The house, which was painted yellow for many years, recently underwent a conversion to beige to more accurately reflect how it looked in the 1880s when another Eliza Susan Quincy, a historian, began to chronicle information pertaining to the house and family.

Eliza Susan kept journals, inventoried the contents of the house and persuaded relatives to return heirlooms so that the house could becomne a museum of Quincy family history. Her work initiated the process that led to the preservation of the house by the Society for the Society for the Preservation of New England Antiquities (SPNEA).

JOSIAH QUINCY HOUSE in Wollaston recently underwent a paint change from yellow to beige to reflect more accurately how the house, a National Historic Landmark, looked in the 1880s when historian Eliza Susan Quincy began to organize historical information on the house.

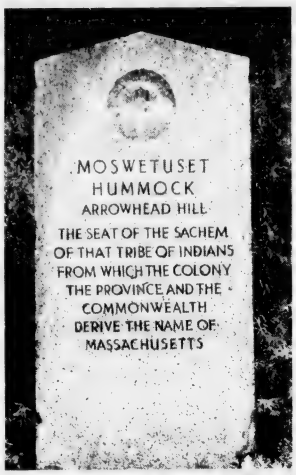
Moswetuset Hummock

'Birthplace Of Massachusetts'

The Indians saw it as a hill (wetuset) shaped like an arrow head (mos) so they called it "Moswetuset" and when English tongues got through mangling the word it came out "Massachusetts," which became the name of the bay and then the state.

The little wooded hillock near the junction of East Squantum Street and Quincy Shore Drive was once the seat of the sachem Chickatabot, who comes down through the pages of Quincy history as a rather pathetic figure.



He was the chief of the Moswetuset Indians, a once great tribe that occupied the coast north of Plymouth.

A few years before, under the great sachem Nanepashemet, the Moswetuset had been able to field some 3,000 warriors for a war with a neighboring tribe. Nanepashemet was killed.

Then came the plague.

In two years the mighty Moswetuset were all but wiped out. No more than 60 of them were left to till their fields on the banks of the Neponset River. Sachem Chickatabot fled his home on the hill in Wollaston and took refuge on Moswetuset Hummock.

That was the situation in 1621 when Capt. Myles Standish landed from a shallop with an exploring party of Plymouth Pilgrims that included the Indian guide Squanto (or Tsquantum), whose name was given to the peninsula that stuck out in the bay. They called it Squantum.

The tragic Chickatabot died not long after the Pilgrims' visit and he was succeeded as sachem by his son, Josiah Wampatuck, a boy who knew a good deal when he saw one.

Wampatuck sold what was left of his virtually deserted tribal lands to a group of whites for 12 pounds, 10 shillings. The lands included most of what is today the city of Quincy and the towns of Braintree, Randolph and Holbrook.

Moswetuset Hummock, identified by a marker stone and maintained in its natural state, is open to the public.

The Granite Railway

First Commerical Railroad In U.S.

It was the darndest looking contraption that many among the distinguished gathering had ever seen.

Each of the three wagons had four wheels, six and one half feet in diameter, surmounted by a smaller gear wheel which was used to raise and lower the cargo platform that was slung low between the wheels.

It rode on foot-high wooden rails, topped by iron plate, which rested on stone sleepers or cross ties, placed eight feet apart and firmly supported on crushed granite to a depth beyond the frost line.

On Saturday, Oct. 7, 1826, the wagons were laden with 16 tons of the finest Quincy granite and the opening day guests were properly amazed when a single horse moved the whole thing with ease more than three miles to a special wharf on the Neponset River.

The granite blocks, a particularly hard and weather-resistant stone capable of taking a brilliant polish, were en route to Charlestown, where they were building a monument to the Battle of Bunker Hill.

The Granite Railway, the first such commercial venture in the United States, was built specifically to transport stone for the Bunker Hill Monument.

That it became successful, and a model for others around the country, is a tribute to three vastly dissimilar men, the engineer Gridley Bryant, the architect Solomon Willard and the financier, Colonel Thomas Handasyd Perkins.

Bryant was 27 at the time but already an engineer of note. He invented the eight wheeled railroad car and, when a fellow named Ross Winans of Baltimore sued to establish a patent on it, Bryant was able to prove his claim to the satisfaction of the U.S. Supreme Court.

Willard, then 43, was a great bear of a man, gentle, obliging, industrious. Frivolity, it was said, was alien to him and he was never known to run. He could be crotchety, too. He was a carpenter turned woodcarver, turned stone-carver and, finally architect.

Perkins was the autocratic, 52-year-old merchant king of Boston who was said to have been offered the post of Secretary of the Navy by President Washington and turned it down with the observation that he owned more ships than the Navy.

It was Perkins who lobbied the Railway's charter through a puzzled and obstinate State Legislature, which had never been called upon to incorporate a commercial railroad before. It was Perkins who financed it, too, largely with his own money.

THE GRANITE RAILWAY

Even in its early days, the Granite Railway was a tourist attraction of some magnitude.

Daniel Webster, who used to stop off for a pick-me-up in Quincy en route from Boston and Washington to his home in Marshfield, viewed it and decided that it would never succeed because of the frost that would form on the rails in the winter.

The President of the United States, a local boy named John Quincy Adams, visited in August, 1827, got caught in a thunderstorm and took shelter in a shed where Willard's stone-cutters were hacking away at monument granite.

A group of visitors were riding up the Railway's incline in an empty car on July 25, 1832, when the chain broke and catapulted them over a 40-foot cliff. One was killed in what may have been the first railroad fatality in the United States.

The Granite Railway Co. survived until 1870, some 27 years after the Bunker Hill Monument was finished, when most of its track was taken over by the Old Colony Railroad, which in turn became a division of the New York, New Haven and Hartford.

Today much of the roadbed, over which freight moved commercially on rails for the first time in America, is buried under the macadam of the Southeast Expressway.

The incline of the old Railway has been restored and is located at the dead end of Mullin Ave. in West Quincy. It is open to the public year around, 24 hours a day. There is no admission charge.

Teachers dubbed the Class of 1914 the "worst class" ever at Quincy High School because no one made the honor roll. Too bad they couldn't have looked ahead to the future of Ruth G. Jones.

A year later, armed with a new name, Ruth Gordon, she was on a train bound for New York with a year's tuition to the American Academy of Dramatic Arts and $50 in spending money pinned to her corset.

Ruth Gordon went on to fame and fortune as an actress on the Broadway stage and the Hollywood movie studios and as a writer of short stories and plays with her husband, Garson Kanin.

She won an Academy Award as best supporting actress in 1969 for her role as a Satanist in "Rosemary's Baby," and an Emmy in 1979 for her one-time role in the sitcom "Taxi."

Ruth Gordon never forgot her roots in Quincy, returning frequently to attend class reunions. Her last visit was in 1984 for the dedication of the Ruth Gordon Amphitheater in Merrymount Park.

She died in 1985 at the age of 88.

His name too was Jones. William Andrew Jones, and, as a teen-aged usher in the old Quincy Theater, where vaudeville persisted into the 1920s, he used to dream of performing himself.

But Billy Jones was such a common name, he thought, so he borrowed the name of the Quincy Theater manager and as Billy DeWolfe he became a dancer and comic in movies on TV.

He visited his old home town almost yearly and when he died in 1974 at the age of 67, he was buried in the Jones family plot in Mount Wollaston Cemetery.

The year was 1925 when 27-year-old Howard Johnson, a failure as a cigar salesman, took over a rundown drug store with a newspaper franchise and a marble soda fountain on Beale Street in Wollaston.

Soon he began making his own ice cream — 28 flavors eventually — and then he had a seaside snack shack on Wollaston Beach Boulevard and a restaurant in the tallest building in downtown Quincy.

Just then, by coincidence, Eugene O'Neill's latest play, "Strange Interlude," was banned in Boston so the producers moved it to the Quincy Theater, just up Hancock Street from the Howard Johnson restaurant in the then Granite Trust Bank.

It was a long play, so the sellout audiences were given an hour and a half dinner break at intermission so the place to go was Johnson's restaurant where the special, chicken pies, were $1 apiece.

Eventually, Howard Johnson-franchised restaurants and motels, with their familiar orange roofs, spanned the continent, truly, in their own words, "a landmark for hungry Americans."

Bill Rosenberg was just shy of his 30th birthday when he bought a used delivery truck, invested $5,000 in a modest kitchen in an old butcher shop and opened the Industrial Luncheon Service.

He stocked the truck with coffee, sandwiches and doughnuts and made his first stop at the Boston Gear Works in North Quincy, where he sold his first cup of coffee for a nickel.

He had 144 canteen trucks by 1950 when he decided a retail store would be more profitable so he started a shop called the "Open Kettle" on Southern Artery in Quincy.

That name didn't catch on so Rosenberg called a brainstorming session. "What do you do with a doughnut?" asked the architect, Bernard Healy, rhetorically. "You dunk it."

And the name "Dunkin' Donuts" was born.

For years, her father, Frank, ran an upscale men's clothing store in downtown Quincy but it remained for his daughter, Lee Remick, to spread the family name far and wide.

She burst into Hollywood as the nubile drum majorette with Andy Griffith in "A Face in the Crowd," and followed it up as the alcoholic wife with Jack Lemmon in "Days of Wine and Roses."

She died in 1991 at the age of 55.

His real name was William Szathmary but he changed it to an easier-to-remember Bill Dana when he appeared on the scene as a writer and sometime performer on the old Steve Allen Show.

The 1942 graduate of Quincy High School later gained a measure of fame in the entertainment world as the comic with the thick Spanish accent, 'Jose Jimenez.'

At Squantum Airfield

Women Pioneers Advanced Aviation Here

By SHARRON BEALS

Quincy plunged into the new and challenging world of aviation less than seven years after the Wright brothers proved, on a windy Carolina beach, that heavier-than-air craft could fly.

The site was a 500-acre tract of former farmland called "New Squantum," leased by the Harvard-Boston Aero Association and opened Aug. 8, 1910, as the Harvard Aviation Field.

Most of the great ones of the early days of flying showed up at Squantum at one time or another, including the Wright brothers themselves, Claude Graham-White, Richard E. Byrd and the First Ladies of the Air, Harriet Quimby and Amelia Earhart.

Quimby was the first American woman to qualify for a pilot's license in 1911 and the second in the world (Helene Dutrieu of France was the first) and the first woman to fly across the English Channel.

Earhart, who once had a financial interest in a private airport at Squantum, was the first woman to solo across the Atlantic and was trying to be the first around the world when she vanished over the Pacific in 1937.

The first competitive air show in the United States was organized by the Harvard Aero Society Sept. 3-10, 1910, and it drew 22 flyers and 17 aircraft as competitors and President William Howard Taft as one of 150,000 spectators.

Star of the meet was the Brit, Graham-White, who brought two airplanes, a Bleriot monoplane and a Farman biplane, and won $10,000 offered by the Boston Globe for a hazardous double round trip to Boston Light. He also sweetened the pot by taking passengers on short flights for $500 each.

The 1913 Harvard Meet was to have featured a competition between Quimby and Blanche Scott, the first American woman to fly a plane, for the honor of flying the first air mail flight to New York. Instead, it ended tragically.

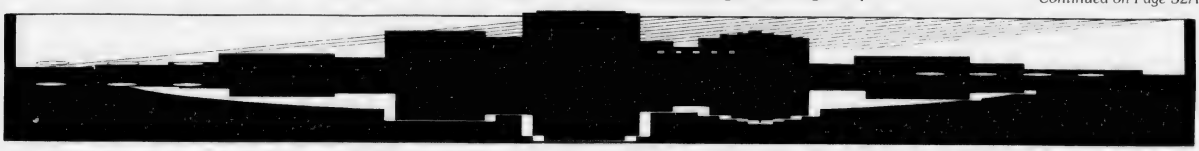
Quimby, showing off her new two-seat Bleriot monoplane, took Meet Director William A.F. Willard for a flight around Boston Light. Returning, the plane suddenly nosed over and Quimby and Willard fell out, dropping to their deaths in Dorchester Bay 1,000 feet below.

Only then was it revealed that Quimby had already been chosen to fly the mail to New York for the first time.

The Navy took over the field in Squantum in 1917 and established the US Naval Training School, with Lt. (jg) Earl Spencer in command, to train young men in the fast developing art of flying airplanes.

Spencer and his wife, the former Wallis Warfield, the Belle of Baltimore, lived on Davis Street in Wollaston, where neighbors thought she was a bit stuck up and snobbish and nicknamed her "the Duchess."

HARRIET QUIMBY



AMELIA EARHART

Twenty years later, twice divorced, she gained a real title, the Duchness of Windsor, when she married the former King Edward VIII of England, who gave up his throne "for the woman I love."

Squantum's first reign as a training field didn't last long once the Navy discovered that the best use of the land was as a shipyard for the building of destroyers to break the German U-Boat blockade of the Atlantic during World War I.

It wasn't until 1923 that the Squantum

Germantown Glass Works

The Germantown section of Quincy was named for the German workers who were imported to work in a glass factory founded by Joseph Crellius in 1750 and operated by Joseph Palmer.

The glass works was struck by lightning and destroyed five years later after turning out light green, dark green and black bottles as well as the window glass for King's Chapel in Boston.

Only two complete bottles made of Quincy glass are known to survive in the possession of the Quincy Historical Society.

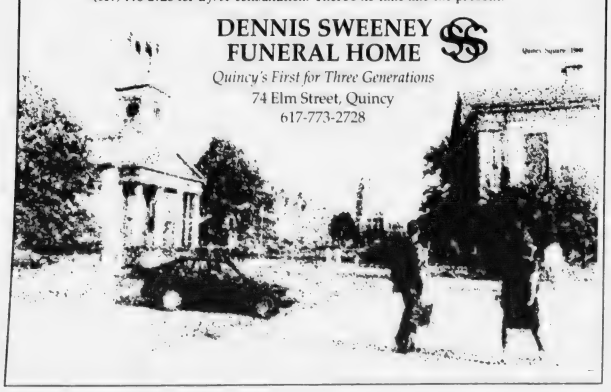
A Third Generation Continues Our Traditions.

Quincy has changed a great deal since Sweeney Funeral Home was established in 1917. But, it's nice to know some things will never change. Like the observance of traditional values and customs.

At Sweeney Funeral Homes, older residents are quick to notice the subtle reminders of yesteryear, such as the grey gloves our funeral director still wears. Like the characteristic top hat and tails that our founder, Dennis Sweeney, wore over 30 years ago, they reflect our Tradition. One that has been built on a dignified and instinctive concern for the city's bereaved families for three generations.

Today, our founder's grand-nephew, Dennis S. Sweeney has continued the family's philosophy of maintaining a beautiful, home-like atmosphere.

And like his namesake, who started pre-arrangements in the 1940s, Dennis believes in helping residents to plan for the future. Pre-planning means that this financial decision is not left for a family to decide while they are attempting to cope with a major personal loss. It's a difficult time, a time when family members are least able to make the wisest choice.



Sweeney Funeral Homes has been helping South Shore residents with difficult decisions for over 70 years. Call Dennis Sweeney at (617) 773-2728 for a free consultation. There's no time like the present.

Naval Reserve Station was established, commanded by Lt. Richard E. Byrd, with one old weather-beaten hangar and one ancient seaplane, held together, they said "by wire, curses and prayers."

Thus, Naval Reserve Aviation was born.

Later, as Admiral Byrd, the young lieutenant became renowned for his flights over the North and South Poles and the establishment of the Little America research station on the Antarctic continent.

Of the many officers who served at Squantum, none stand out more than Commander John J. Shea, executive officer from 1931 to 1940, when he went to war as air operations officer aboard the aircraft carrier Wasp.

Wasp was sunk Sept. 15, 1942, and Jack Shea was last seen "fighting the fire on the flight deck displaying great courage and devotion to duty, and disregarding the danger of exploding ammunition and debris filling the air and rapidly spreading the fire."

His last letter to his 5-year-old son, Jack Jr., written just before he was lost, became a classic in wartime literature, read in part:

"When you are a little bigger you will know why your daddy is not home so much anymore. You know we have a big country and we have ideals as to how people should live and enjoy the riches of it and how each is born with equal rights to life, freedom and the pursuit of happiness.

"Unfortunately, there are some countries in this world where they do not have these ideals, where a boy cannot grow up to be what he wants to be with no limit on his opportuniuties to be a great man such as a great priest, statesman, doctor, soldier, business man, etc.

"Because there are people in countries who want to change our nation, its ideals, its form of government and way of life we must leave our homes and families to fight. Fighting for the defense of our country, ideals, homes and honor is an honor and a duty which your daddy has to do before he can come home and settle down with you and mother.

"When it is done he is coming home to be with you always and forever. So wait just a little while longer. I'm afraid it will be more than the two weeks you told me on the phone.

" . . . Last of all don't ever forget your daddy. Pray for him to come back and if it is God's will that he does not, be the kind of a boy and man your daddy wants you to be."

Shea received the Navy Cross for his action aboard the dying Wasp. The field at Squantum NAS was named Shea Field. And his name is memorialized in the Quincy street called Commander Shea Boulevard.

The Depression brought hard times to flyers at Squantum as well as the country at large.

Fifteen officers and men and 10 civilian employees were discharged in July, 1933, leaving the base with Lt. Felix Baker, the commander, two reserve officers and 10 enlisted men.

Even while the Navy was training its reserve flyers, it leased a portion of its property to Quincy architect Harold T. Dennison to open a commercial airport in 1927 with Amelia Earhart as one of his five backers.

Earhart was one of the passengers on the first official flight out of Dennison Airport and, as a resident of Medford and a social worker in Boston, she visited the field in Squantum frequently to hone her own flying skills for aviation feats yet to come.

Instructors at Dennison taught flying during the week and took passengers joy riding on Sundays. It wasn't unusual for 1,000 persons to show up for a short hop at 50 cents and a longer one at $2.50 to $5 on a good weekend. But even that wasn't enough.

Dennison, as president of the Dennison Airport Kennel Club Inc., tried to open a dog track on the site in 1935 but it was turned down. Said City Councillor John R. Shaughnessy: "There is nothing lower than a dog track. Three of the six operated in Illinois were controlled by Al Capone."

The coming of World War II meant a revival of training at the Squantum Naval Air Station and the demise of commercial aviation at Dennison Airport as the Navy cancelled its lease and added a concrete surface to the runways and extended them until they were a half a mile long.

Trainees put in 10 hours of flight time with an instructor in the back seat of a two-seater trainer, then got one solo flight before being shipped on to advanced training bases at Pensacola, Jacksonville or Corpus Christi. Between flights they received elementary classroom instruction.

After the war, on July 1, 1946, the Squantum Naval Air Station became a Naval Reserve Training Base where for the next seven years thousands of officers and enlisted men and women — the Weekend Warriors — came each weekend for training.

Squantum's glorious aviation history came to an end in 1953 due to the rapid expansion of Logan Airport which placed Quincy in the path of jetliners approaching the East Boston field for a landing. Clearly, one of them had to go and, just as clearly, it was Squantum.

The national ensign was hauled down for the last time on the morning of Dec. 23, 1953, and the training of Weekend Warriors moved to the South Weymouth Naval Air Facility, home base of anti-submarine blimp patrols since 1942.

Reserve Capt. Harry Sartoris, the last commander of NAS Squantum, flew the last plane out of the old base and landed the first plane at the new NAS South Weymouth, where he was to become the first commander.

Today, Squantum's pioneer flying days of Harriet Quimby, Amelia Earhart, Commander John J. Shea and Captain Harry Sartoris live on in the Aviation History Information Center at the Beechwood Community Life Center where the old Dennison Airport once held sway.

Quincy's Granite Was Famed The World Over

SWINGLE'S QUARRY in West Quincy, which eventually reached a depth of 345 feet below ground, was one of more than 30 in operation at the height of the Quincy granite boom some100 years ago.

(From the Collection of Tom Galvin)

They're just holes in the ground now, attractive and perilous nuisances that, over the years, have filled with water and lured swimmers to their dooms, unaware of the dangers that lie in the cool green depths.

But there was a time, more than 100 years ago, when the Quincy granite quarries swarmed with workmen hacking out stone that was sought as prime building material around the world.

Like Topsy, the granite industry in Quincy "just growed."

The earliest settlers used the surface boulders found on the North and South Commons to build the foundations of their homes and the fences that separated them from their neighbors.

At the industry's height in the late 1800s, there were more than 30 operating quarries and in one of them, Jonathan Swingle's quarry, men dug for granite at a depth of 345 feet below the surface.

The first known use of Quincy granite as a building material was the town's second meeting house in 1666, a scant 41 years after the first settlement at Mount Wollaston.

The stone building served a dual purposes. Sometimes it was a church where the community worshipped; other times it served as a fort in case of an Indian attack.

Quarrying in general was in its infancy, an inexact science in those days.

The process of cutting a rock to size was simple — build a fire around it, then drop an iron ball or cold water on the rock, which would break at approximately the desired spot.

Later, the quarrymen used wooden wedges which expanded when wet to split the stone, then sledges and hammers introduced by German immigrants, finally iron wedges.

These were the methods used to obtain granite to build King's Chapel in Boston (1753), the State Prison in Charlestown (1815), the Dedham jail (1817) and St. Paul's Church in Boston (1820).

That was the situation when Solomon Willard decided to commemorate the Battle of Bunker Hill (actually Breed's Hill) by building a monument out of Quincy granite.

The problem was that no one had ever built with such large pieces of stone before and no one knew how to quarry it or work it or transport it to the building location.

Willard, who quit his job as an architect and moved to Quincy to direct quarrying operations for the Bunker Hill Monument, had to devise new methods for obtaining and working the stone.

The new method of transportation, devised by Gridley Bryant, involved the construction of the first commercial railroad in the United States to carry stone from the quarry to the Neponset River.

Willard's inventions and new methods inaugurated what is known as "the Stone Age" of American architecture and the Quincy granite industry flourished along with it.

Quincy granite, known for its durability and its ability to take a high polish, was shipped all over the world under the trade names "Quincy Light," "Quincy Dark," and "Quincy Extra Dark."

The demise of the granite industry started after World War I when lighter and more malleable building materials were developed with which to construct stronger and less costly buildings.

The last operating quarry, Swingle's, went out of business in 1963.

To Honor WWII Famed Figure

Campaign Underway For Kilroy Ship, Stamp

Even after 60-plus years, it's still not too late to honor the man whose words, "Kilroy was here!", first written in anger on the bulkhead of a ship abuilding at a shipyard in Quincy, helped win World War II.

A grass roots campaign is afoot to have the US Navy name a ship the USS Kilroy Was Here and to have the US Postal Service issue a stamp bearing the familiar Kilroy design, a long-nosed chap peering over a wall.

It seemed like the words were everywhere 60 years ago. They greeted the first American GIs to arrive at the Imperial Palace in war-torn Tokyo in the late summer of 1945 and Stalin in the men's room at Yalta.

"Kilroy was here!" He really wasn't but in a way he was.

It began in 1942 in Bethlehem Steel's Fore River Shipyard in Quincy where James J. Kilroy was employed as a checker whose job was to count the number of holes filled by a riveter.

Kilroy's job was important to the riveters since they were paid by the number of rivets they drove. Kilroy would go around and count them and check each with a chalk mark.

Some riveters would wait until the checker had gone and then erase the last chalk mark. Another checker would count the rivet a second time and the riveter would get paid twice for the same work.

One day, Kilroy overheard his boss ask a riveter if Kilroy had checked a certain rivet. No, said the riveter. That made Kilroy mad because he knew he had checked that particular rivet.

He grabbed a piece of chalk, went over to where the two men were standing and scribbled "Kilroy was here!" in large, bold letters right next to the check mark. It soon became his standard practice.

Ordinarily, the chalk mark would be covered up by paint. But this was wartime and some ships left the Yard too fast to be fully painted. The enigmatic "Kilroy was here!" began appearing all over the world.

The mysterious message fascinated GIs. Soon they began writing it themselves on walls in the most unlikely places, like the Imperial Palace in Tokyo and the men's room at Yalta.

"Who is Kilroy?" asked Stalin as he came out wiping his hands.

Eventually, as "Remember Pearl Harbor" stood for America's fighting men in World War II and the men and women who built the war machines for them, so did "Kilroy was here!" come to stand for them too.

And the name "Kilroy" is still alive in Quincy, perpetuated in Kilroy's Pub at the Boston Marietta Quincy hotel.

Anyone can join the campaign to have a ship named and a stamp issued to honor Kilroy. Just pick up a free preaddressed postcard and drop it in the mail to the Navy or the Postal Service.

Cards are available at the Quincy Sun office, 1372 Hancock St.; City Hall lobby, 1305 Hancock St.; Discover Quincy office, 1250 Hancock St.; and aboard the USS Salem, 739 Washington St.

USS Lexington Led Search For Amelia

When Amelia Earhart, once the part owner of Dennison Airport in North Quincy, vanished over the Pacific on an around-the-world flight in 1937, it was the Quincy-built aircraft carrier Lexington (the first) and its 90 planes that led the three week search for her.

She has never been found.

USS Salem: Newest Tourist Attraction

The heavy cruiser USS Salem, ordered during World War II but built after hostilities had ceased at Bethlehem's Fore River Shipyard, is Quincy's newest attraction for visitors and residents alike.

Launched in 1947 and commissioned two years later, she became the flagship of the U.S. Navy's Sixth Fleet in the Mediterranean during the Cold War years in the 1950s.

At more than 700 feet in length and carrying the heaviest automatic main battery guns in any warship of any navy, she was a bulwark of democracy in the Mediterranean and the Caribbean Seas.

Although she never faced enemy action, Salem earned the praise of the king and queen of Greece for its work as the first ship on the scene after an earthquake ravaged the Greek islands.

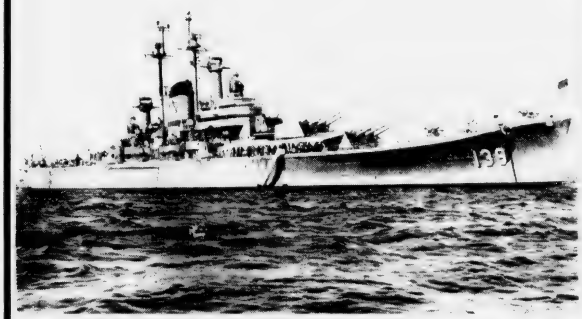
And she was on hand at the Suez Canal when fighting broke out between Israel and Egypt to assure the safe passage of American and other ships through the canal.

She carried a crew of more than 1,600 men and moved at a cruising speed of 35 knots. She was on active duty for 10 years from commissioning May 14, 1949 to decommissioning Jan. 30, 1959.

Today, visitors can tour the Main Deck, Number 3 Turret, the Admiral's and Captain's Bridges, and other sources of interest.

Guided and self-guided tours will take guests through the Second Deck where they can see how the Salem's crew lived and worked.

The Salem is home to the Cruiser Sailor Museum as well as the USS Newport News Museum. She also has an extensive model ship collection and hosts the region's only Navy SEAL display.



Real sailors will want to see the CIC (Combat Information Center), the nerve center of the ship and her berthing compartments, where sailors and Marines lived their lives.

A Museum Shop is on board in the ship's store where souvenirs and gifts can be purchased.

The museum's archives are open for research and viewing its extensive collection of armaments, uniforms, and memorabilia.

The USS Salem and its Naval Shipbuilding Museum are located at the Fore River Shipyard in Quincy Point. (Access is the same as the Harbor Express boat). Hours of operation (escorted and self-guided tours): Summer: Open daily June through September, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Winter: Saturday and Sunday, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Admission is just $5 per person. Active military adults with ID cards are also admitted free. Flat-heeled shoes or sneakers are recommended. Parking is free. The museum features a military archive, model shop and exhibits on the USS Salem, the USS St. Paul, the USS Newport News and the US Navy SEALS.

DUNKIN' DONUTS

and the Carvalho Family are proud to be a part of Quincy's History. The first Dunkin' Donuts shop opened in 1950 on Southern Artery and thus began the tradition continued today: to sell fresh, delicious coffee and baked goods. Over the years, our products have grown to build the breakfast and lunch trade. What began in Quincy is now the largest coffee and donut chain in the world.

Constitution Day Celebration - Carriage House at Adams National Historical Park, 135 Adams Street, Quincy, 1:30 p.m. The public is invited to play a part in one of our nation's greatest dramas, the passage of the United States Constitution by the Constitutional Convention on September 17, 1787. Members of the audience assume the roles of delegates to the Convention and represent their state in a debate that will determine the fate of a nation! After the debate each delegate signs the document, rings the Liberty Bell, receives a copy of the United States Constitution, and the Massachusetts Constitution to keep as a memento to their great efforts in the service of their nation.

OCTOBER

Friday, October 28

Spirits of Quincy's Past - Hancock Cemetery, next to City Hall. Adams National Historical Park will host a candlelight tour of one of New England's oldest burying grounds, the Hancock Cemetery. Three centuries of historic figures briefly come back to life to share stories and little known facts about Quincy's past. If you dare to enter the old graveyard on Hancock Street next to Quincy City Hall between 7 and 9 p.m. on the appointed evening, you will witness the return of members of some of Quincy's first families including the Adamses, Quincys, and Hancocks. Morticia Addams, your ghoulish hostess for the evening, will treat you to a "spirited" good time as she prepares you for a "ghost encounter of the historic kind." After haunting the cemetery, all souls will be summoned to the Adams National Historical Park Visitor Center for refreshments of spirits and angel's or devil's food cake following the program. All activities will take place at the Hancock Cemetery and Adams National Historical Park Visitor Center located at 1250 Hancock St., in Quincy on Friday, Oct. 28. The program will take place between 7 and 9 p.m. and is free of charge. For information contact Adams National Historical Park Visitor Center at (617) 770-1175.
